At their club house on West Main street Friday evening 45 members of the Colonial Club Inc., enjoyed a delicious harvest supper, after which a program of entertainment was provided. This included pinochle, whist, pool and several numbers by the Happiness Boys string quartet, which was augmented by music from the orthophonic victrola furnished through the courtesy of the Plaut-Cadden company.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH ON UNION SQUARE

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH HOLDS DEDICATION EXERCISES FOR REMODELED BUSHNELL CHAPEL

Friday evening at the Central Baptist church a congregation that filled the auditorium of the church united with happy hearts in dedication services for the remodeled Bushnell chapel which is part of the work in which the church has been expending $75,000 in additions and improvements which give it one of the most complete church equipments in the state. One half of the amount is the contribution of Charles F. Noyes of New York in conjunction with his father, Charles D. Noyes, and his brothers, Frederick K. Noyes and Harrison C. Noyes of this city, for the erection of the Carrie Crane Noyes parish house as a memorial to his mother. The other half is furnished by the contributions of the church members.

The dedication services opened with the hymn, Our God, Our Help in Ages Past, after which prayer was offered by Rev. E. C. Dunbar of the First Baptist church and the church quartette rendered the anthem, Sing Alleluia Forth (Buck).

Rev. David A. Pitt, the pastor, made a brief historical statement in which he referred to the present completed building as the consummation and the goal for which the church has been reaching ever since it left the former location on Broadway.

Deacon C. Edward Smith expressed words of welcome and appreciation, in which he spoke of the pleasure of having all the members of the Noyes family present at the dedication. He referred feelingly to the love of "Charlie" Noyes for his mother which had prompted the gift to the church and he welcomed especially the young people who will be the church of the future in the use of the new church equipment.

James L. Case, chairman of the building committee, officially turned over the keys to Charles D. Noyes, chairman of the board of managers. In doing so he spoke especially of three members of the church, William S. Spencer, Shepard B. Palmer and Benjamin H. Palmer, Jr., whose technical knowledge had been of the greatest value in the work that had been done, and he acknowledged the help that the building committee had received in advice from the pastor, the board of deacons, the Sunday school superintendent and the teachers.

The love of a son for his mother, Mr. Case said, was the crowning feature in it all and as he handed the keys to the chairman of the board of managers he said they were to unlock the door to all that was good, to close it against all that was bad, and to open the door to knowledge, service and Christian living.

Accepting the keys, Mr. Noyes said that he received them as a sacred trust and he went on to mention that it was 59 years ago since he first entered the church, at that time on Broadway. He recalled the laying of the cornerstone of the present building in November, 1891, by Lucius W. Carroll, the preaching of the dedication sermon in October, 1892, by Rev. Dr. J. D. Herr and the building of Bushnell chapel in 1899. Since then, he said, there had always been a realization that better accommodations were needed for the Sunday school and now that these had been attained he predicted an era of better work than ever before for the church.

Following this Rev. Dr. Pitt declared in a few earnest words that the church was indebted more than it would ever know to Mr. Noyes for the happy consummation of these plans, for he had been unfailing in his faith that the work could be accomplished.

The address of the evening was by Rev. Dr. John Newton Lackey of the Central Baptist church of Hartford, in which he spoke impressively of the work of the church in building manhood and womanhood out of the boys and girls who come into its fold. He stressed the thought of building the boys and girls into loyalty to their best selves, to friends, to home, to country, to church and to God.

After the address, the congregation united in a responsive service of dedication and the exercises closed with the hymn, I Love Thy Kingdom Lord.

Informal Reception Held

Following the close of the exercises in the church auditorium, an informal reception was held in the assembly hall at which Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Noyes and Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Noyes were the guests of honor, Rev. Dr. Pitt and Mrs. Pitt receiving with them. During the reception hour the Sunday school orchestra rendered selections.

Light refreshments were served in the young people's assembly hall and the entire building was open for inspection of the new equipment in the Bushnell chapel, the Carrie Crane Noyes parish house and the church office building.

DESCRIPTION OF NEW EQUIPMENT FOR CHURCH

The remodeled Bushnell chapel which was dedicated Friday evening, adjoins and connects with the southerly side of the main church building. On the first floor it contains the assembly hall, a room seating about 400, and provided with a stage with footlights and overhead lights under switchboard control. There are two outside entrances from the street to the hall. At the rear on this floor are lavatories and toilets as well as a janitor's room.

On the front of the building on the second floor is the ladies' parlor, 28x30, most attractively furnished, and adjoining this is the girls' room, making a suitable place for their meetings. This floor also provides the young people's assembly room, 20x50, off which, on either side, are six class rooms, 10 feet square, furnished with a table and chairs and blackboards on the walls.

At the end of the building on this floor is the large kitchen, where the equipment includes gas range, plate warmer, frigidaire, large copper sink for washing dishes and smaller enamel sink for washing glasses, tables and abundant closet room. There is also an electrically operated dumb waiter running down to the assembly hall on the floor below. Between the kitchen and the young people's assembly hall are windows with sashes that raise and counters that provide facilities for service from the kitchen to the assembly room. All floors are covered with Brown-Jaspe linoleum, which is noiseless to the tread. There is an outside entrance to the kitchen.

The Carrie Crane Noyes parish house stands at the northerly end of the property and is a four-story brick building, the former Gilbert property, which has been completely remodeled in its interior, making it a fireproof structure with all floors of concrete, the construction being by columns and beams which provide support independently of the outside walls. All stairways are of steel with slate treads.

The parish house provides accommodations for four different departments of the church school, so located that the rooms for smallest children are on the first floor.

On the wall in the hall on the first floor is a beautiful bronze tablet, electrically lighted, and bearing the inscription:

THE
PARISH HOUSE
1927

On the first floor at the front of the building is the room for the beginner's department, furnished with small table and chairs of suitable size. In the rear of this floor is a mothers' room and there is also a small kitchenette.

Each of the three floors above the first contains an assembly room about

FLETCHER POST RECEIVES MEMBERSHIP APPLICATIONS

The regular meeting of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, was held at the post rooms Friday evening. Commander Charles Coit presided. The committee which had charge of the arrangements for the annual banquet reported that the banquet held at Cinderella Inn was the most successful in the history of the post. The committee in charge of the annual dance and mardi gras held at the armory on Armistice night reported a great success, both socially and financially. The committee that worked in conjunction with the Breed theatre management in the showin- of "What Price Glory," reported a successful production. Through the cooperation of the Breed management a prize was offered to the legion member and auxiliary member selling the most tickets for the duration of the production. The auxiliary member winning the prize was Miss Evon Broadhurst and the legion member, Charles Namer. The post was well represented at the Armistice day parade held at Montville, November 11th.

A past commander's badge was presented to the retiring past commander, Joseph Bellefleur. Several applications for membership were read and accepted. The attention of the members and all ex-service men was called to the fact that all applications for adjusted service certificates must be in before the end of the year. This is definite, absolute and final—no more grace, no more extensions. The legion is ready at all times to assist any ex-service man to make application for this certificate. The local post has the blanks to be filled out and will welcome the chance to be of assistance to the ex-service man, whether a member of the organization or not. It was also brought to the attention of the members that the new year had started, the state department reporting that the year 1927 came to a close with the largest membership in the history of the department, 9825 members. Four posts in the state have already passed their 1927 membership in the drive for new members for 1928.

In response to the many offers to the state department of money and supplies from the various posts of the state for the aid of the flood sufferers, State Commander Richards has issued a bulletin stating that after a thorough investigation he has found that no immediate necessity has arisen for the posts to take such action but has requested each post in the state to hold themselves in readiness for a prompt response if such a call should come. It was voted to take out a contributing membership in the Red Cross annual roll call.

HENS AT STORRS ARE MERRILY ON THEIR WAY

This is the second down for the hens in the Storrs laying contest, but it is too early in the game for anyone to say just yet how many eggs they have to go. Meanwhile they are merrily on their way. In the second week the 1400 pullets in the test laid a total of 4,534 eggs or a yield of 46 per cent. This is 895 eggs better than for last week, 761 eggs ahead of the corresponding week a year ago, and way above the average for the last five years. Leghorns as a class lead the list by doing a little better than 50 per cent. White Rocks and Rhode Island Reds practically tied at right around 45 per cent., and Barred Rocks followed about five points behind.

The best pens for the week were scattered all the way from Maine to Michigan. Broadview Farm's pen of White Leghorns from Winsted, Conn., was an easy first with a total of 62 eggs, but after that there were no walkovers. Barred Rocks entered by R. W. Davis & Sons of Rockland, Me., held down second place with a tally of 57 eggs. White Rocks bred by E. A. Hirt of South Weymouth, Mass., and Rhode Island Reds owned by Zephirm La Belle of Ballouville, Conn., tied for third place with 56 eggs each. Fourth place on the weekly honor roll goes to Harry Burns of Millington, Mich., whose Leghorns laid 55 eggs. A pen of Reds from Massachusetts and two pens of Leghorns from Connecticut and New York state all tied with 54 eggs each. In all 19 pens did 50 eggs each or better which means laying at the rate of 77 per cent. as compared with 46 per cent. for the general average, and of course far ahead of the 19 poorest pens.

FIVE KNOCK OUTS FEATURE SIZZLING CARD AT OLYMPIC

Less than a half minute after the opening gong, Jack Hulburt, 200 pound marine of the submarine, laid down and quit cold after taking a few from "Big Boy Burlap", colored heavyweight of Westerly, in the first round of the main attraction of a sizzling ten bout card, staged at the Olympic hall, last night, by the Pastime A. C. Hulburt announced as champion of some patrol, proved to the fans that he was a champ of the cheese type, by curling up in the rosin dust, hardly before the echo of the first bell had left the air. Whether Burlap scared him or hit him a blow unbeknown to the 600 fans present will always be a secret, except to the marine himself.

The remainder of the card, dotted with quick knock-outs, and several real slugging bees, kept the crowd on its feet practically every minute from the time that the two Westerly boys, Young Reta and Young Jackson slugged their way through the curtain raiser to the scene of Hulburt's dive.

In the opening bout advertised as a title match for the bantamweight championship of Westerly, Reta outslugged his colored opponent to win a close decision, and that so-called crown.

Young Touraine of Putnam, 145 pounds, won by a technical knockout over Chick Southerland, same weight, of the U. S. S. Camden in the next bout when Danny Doyle raised his hand and waved the sailor to his corner, near the end of the third round. The sailor, weak from a severe body attack staged by the Putnam man, slipped to the canvas several times before the bout was stopped.

Another victim of the technical kayo route was Young McClure, of New London, who although out on his feet, fought through the second round of his bout with Young Harow of Danielson, from the U. S. Camden, crowded with Wilson, who was alternating with Doyle as referee, showed rare judgement in stopping the bout, as the New London lad was in a bad state. The boxers both weighed in at 124 pounds.

The most interesting match of the evening, the bout between Joe Bruno, 145 pounds, of Westerly, and Jimmy Hale, a 145 pound fighting marine from the U. S. Camden, crowed with slugging, drew applause that rocked the house, as the two welters drove each other from corner to corner. Bruno the more aggressive of the two was awarded a close decision.

The inexperienced and lack of condition of Young Savage, Norwich flyweight fighting his first fight together with poor judgment on the part of the matchmaker in bracketing him with the seasoned Young Laurence of Westerly, resulted in a quick finish in the fifth bout. A hard blow to the stomach shortly after the opening of the first round sent Savage to his corner in agony.

The next bout which produced the evening's most scientific demonstration of the manly art, found Young Anthony of Norwich, winning a close decision over Young Polanski of Colchester. Polanski, a veteran, who has been fighting steady up around Hartford, although a sweet defensive fighter found the local youngster, (who improves with every bout), a natural born boxer, quick to take advantage of every opportunity.

Al Koziol, the Barney Keenan protege, whom the old timers claim fights a la arney Keenan style, smothered his Norwich opponent, Frankie Adams, with a flock of rights and lefts in the opening round of their bout and won by a technical knockout. Koziol who in his last appearance received a razzing which was uncalled ror, left the ring last night again a local favorite. The scrappy youngster deserves every bit of support that local fandom can gve him.

Far being a pocket edition of his brother, Stanley Koziol, who made his initial appearance in the next bout, took a sweet three round lacing from Young Roubliard of Putnam. Weights 136 pounds.

Young Goulas, a fairly good scrapper, but a very poor comedian from Jewett City, won a decision from Young Martin in the bout before the Burlap-Hulburt fiasco. Goulas spent most of his time clowning during the three rounds, much to the disgust of many of the fans. Weights 129 pounds.

Jackie Wilson and Danny Doyle did a good job of the refereeing, while Mike Kelly and Jack Sweeney as judges, and Jack Carney as timer also performed with credit. Jab Callahan and Angelo Maranno, did the announcing.

For a half hour before the first bout went on the Moose orchestra put on a well arranged musical program.

DORVAL GETS VERDICT OVER BENNY TOUCHSTONE

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Jack Dorval, New York heavyweight, battled his way to a judges' decision over Benny Touchstone of Miami in a feature ten round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. Dorval and Touchstone tangled in several furious mixups with the New Yorker holding an edge. Dorval scaled 205 pounds against 187 for his opponent.

The bout supplanted an original go between Jack Sharkey and Tom Heeney which was postponed because of Sharkey's injured finger.

Jack Dempsey, at the ringside, received an ovation when introduced from the arena.

Joe Monte of Boston was awarded a judge's decision over George La Rocco of New York in a ten round bout of an all heavyweight show at Madison Square Garden tonight. Monte weighed 175, LaRocco, 189.

In another ten rounder, Jimmy Byrne of Louisville, weighing 192 pounds, fought a draw with Joe Sekyra of Dayton, O., 179.

Ralph Smith of Philadelphia, 221 pounds, knocked out Phil Knight of Cartaret, N. J., 204 in the third round of a four-round preliminary battle. In another bout of the same distance, Phil Mercuolo, of New Rochelle, 188 1-2, outpointed Lou Washaw of Brooklyn, 178.

ARMOUR LEADS IN OREGON OPEN TOURNEY

PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Tommy Armour of Washington, D. C., National open champion, with a score of 142 for 36 holes, led the field at the end of the second day's play in the Oregon open golf championship tournament.

Neil Christian, Portland, professional of the Waverly Country club, where the tournament is being held, was second with 145.

Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland amateur, followed with 147; Johnny Jones, Seattle, with 148; Bobby Cruickshank, White Plains, N. Y., 150; Frank Dolp, Portland, 151; Gwyn Bowen, Lake Oswego Country club, Portland, 152. Bart Wigle, 1926 Oregon champion, was disqualified on a technical point because by mistake, he shot his opponent's ball twice.

YALE FAVORITE WIN OVER HARVARD TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The traditional battle between Yale and Harvard tomorrow at Cambridge with the Elis confident of a victory that will keep them at the top of the eastern championship heap, overshadows the rest of the gridiron activity along the Atlantic seaboard.

The team that conquered Dartmouth and Army with Bruce Caldwell and Princeton without him is a top-heavy favorite to defeat the erratic Crimson eleven. Nevertheless, in a game where so much ancient rivalry is involved, Harvard is conceded at least a fighting chance of scoring an upset that would tumble the Elis down the scale.

Both the Blue and Crimson have been handicapped by injuries to stars but Yale appears to have the stronger reserves, in the line as well as the backfield.

Victory for Yale will clinch a major claim to mythical eastern team honors although Pittsburgh's great eleven and the team that held it to a scoreless tie, Washington & Jefferson, also are in the picture. The panthers and presidents are idle tomorrow, preparing for Thanksgiving day finales when they meet Penn State and West Virginia respectively.

Except for another traditional battle, the sixty-first clash between Lafayette and Lehigh at Bethlehem, Pa., other leading eastern elevens have breathing spells, either in the form of minor opposition or a complete day of rest. Neither the Army or Navy, working toward their climax classic on Nov. 26, look for more than good exercise, with the Cadets meeting Ursinus and the Midshipmen opposing Loyola.

Syracuse, pointing for the game with Columbia in New York Thanksgiving day, takes on a rugged little upstate college, Niagara. Cornell and Pennsylvania, two other Thanksgiving day opponents, take a day off tomorrow.

After losing six in a row, Brown will make an effort to come back against New Hampshire while Georgetown hopes to clinch its claims to the Catholic college championship of the east with a decisive victory over Fordham here.

New York university's undefeated team isn't likely to have its record menaced by Allegheny while Tufts, boasting a clean slate of neither defeat nor tie, is favored to make it eight victories in a row in meeting Massachusetts Aggies. Canisius of Buffalo, N. Y., another small college with a clean record, runs into the powerful Villanova team with slight chance of escaping defeat.

Other games of scetional interest in the eastern slate include Temple-Bucknell, Hobart-Rochester, Boston college-Connecticut Aggies, Carnegie-Detroit, and Swarthmore-Rutgers.

TIGERS TO PLAY BRADFORD A. A. SUNDAY

The Grenneville Tigers seem to have singled out a tough one for Sunday afternoon with the announcement of the rugged Bradford A. A. of Bradford, (R. I.) as their opposition on that date. This club comes with a very respectable reputation and that they should make the northenders travel a bit to win comes as a foregone conclusion.

The Tigers have also been doing quite well themselves this season winning three out of four. There are but a few more week ends left to this 1927 grid season and the locals intend to make the best of them, meeting the best obtainable in this neck of the woods.

The boys from little Rhody come as the first edition of this final drive for bigger and better things and the fighting Rose City crew intends to make this affair one of success.

Last Sunday, the Tigers showed power after a poor start and whitewashed a heavier Polish A. C. team from New London, 12 to 0. The week before they downed the Blackstones of Worcester, 13 to 0. The week before that they lost, for the only time this year, to the Italian American A. C. of Westerly, a much more experienced club. The week before that the season opened and the Tigers shut out the Majestics of Westerly.

Another game will probably be scheduled with the Italian-Americans later in the season, especially if the Tigers can hurdle this obstacle tomorrow.

The game will start at 2:45 with Tommy Vitliano, Mace Goldblatt and Pete Labenski handling the game in their usual satisfactory manner. Trolleys run to the grounds every half hour and with favorable weather a large crowd is looked for as this is the only grid attraction for some distance around over the week end. The Academy plays in Stonington today, leaving this game the only one for Norwich until Thanksgiving.

The Greeneville lineup as announced Friday night by Manager Boyd includes practically the same men that have been performed all season with Jim Fenton, Bubbles and Jim Gay at ends; Copp, Jones and Butts at tackles; Christy and Rokosky at guards with Mileski at center, F. McGrath or Parkhurst at quarter, Hudson, Lupinacci, Boyd, Tennant and Herberts at halves with C. McGrath at fullback.

DUNDEE AND SHARKEY SUSPENDED BY COMMISSION

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Two prominent pugilists, Joe Dundee of Baltimore, world's welterweight champion, and Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, were put under suspension today by the New York State athletic commission, but the sting was extracted from Sharkey's ban by approval of his excuse of an injured finger for not fighting Tom Heeney at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Dundee is suspended for his part in the recent fiasco at Los Angeles, where the welter king refused to go into the ring for a match with Ace Hudkins at the last minute because his entire purse was not forthcoming. Although the New York commission does not have a working agreement with California boxing authorities. It took the position that the participation of Dundee and his manager, Max Waxman, in a dual contract arrangement violated New York rules and thereby subjected them to suspension here.

Although Sharkey had been declared in condition to meet Heeney by Boston examiners, two physicians of the New York commission found the Boston heavy weight suffering from a finger injury which they considered sufficient to keep him out of the ring for the present. The commission, accepting this verdict, announced that its suspension of Sharkey was automatic under the rules governing fight cancellations but explained that he will be re-instated upon accepting a new date for a bout with Heeney.

Later in the day Sharkey's manager, Johnny Buckley, agreed to Jan. 13 as a new date for the Heeney match so that the Bostonian's suspension probably will be lifted at the next session of the boxing solons.

WESTERN CONFERENCE TITLE SETTLED TODAY

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—(AP)—Two of the most desperate gridiron combats in Western conference history are promised for the closing chapter of the 1927, "Big Ten" season tomorrow with three of the four teams involved fighting for a portion of the glory of the conference football championship.

Minnesota and Michigan wind up, temporarily, the historic annual meeting, before an indicated throng of 86,000 in Michigan's new stadium at Ann Arbor.

For four years out of the last five, Michigan was held or shared the conference championship, and they can throw the title into a three way tie again, by downing Minnesota—if Illinois finally skids into defeat the same time at Columbus.

Snow tonight covered all the battlefields of tomorrow, but protective coverings promised good turf.

Many times destined to go down in "Big Ten" history will pass from the scoreboard tomorrow, including Captain Bennie Oosterbaan, Michigan's All-American end, Captain Herb Joesting, Minnesota's line wrecking fullback, Harold Almquist, of Minnesota, leading scorer of the "Big Ten" and one of the year's outstanding halfbacks; Capt. Bob Reitsch of Illinois, and many others.

The other three conference games close the schedule. Northwestern and Iowa are two of the three tied for last place in the "Big Ten". Coach Hanley of Northwestern has always received a victory on his birthday and tomorrow is the day.

Purdue and Indiana are fairly evenly matched for the annual Hoosier duel, though Indiana lacks two such broken-field runners as Wilcox and Welch of Purdue.

Wisconsin is ready for the last of its long series of trips to Chicago to close the football year. Home-and-home games will continue the rivalry hereafter.

Diver Wins

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Diver, which paid $18.90 for a $2 play, nodded out the favorite, Hot Toddy, at the wire today to win the $1,300 advance purse for the two-year-olds over the seven furlong distance at the Bowie race track. Sun Fire was third. The time was 1:27 2-5.

At Lexington, Dr. Maxon was home first in the fourth race, a futurity course dash of about six furlongs for three year olds and up. Red Grange took the place with Apoplka next. The time was 1:15 1-5.

ACADEMY FACES HARDEST OPPONENT OF SEASON AT STONINGTON TODAY

Stonington figures strongly on beating the Academy in the annual tilt at Owen Field, Stonington, this afternoon. The Brown and White is the favorite today for she enters a strong team with all regulars ready while the Red and White takes the field with two of the main cogs of the machine, the Harry McGlone-to-Johnny Greene combination, on the sidelines. McGlone is out with a broken collarbone while Greene has not attended practice all week because of sickness.

Stonington places much confidence in her practically all-veteran backfield. "Cowboy" Cowan, 200 pounder at fullback, Cronin and Cragan at the halves and Bryer at quarterback, will, according to Brown and White well-wishers, dazzle the N. F. A. outfit completely. Cowan specializes in smacking the line while the remaining ball-carriers do everything else. Cragan is reported to be a consistently good punter and as that department of play proved a real thorn in the locals side against Bulkeley it seems that the locals are in for a busy session. The locals have no booter who can do good work consistently.

The Academy presents Bill Tirrell at quarter, Jim Kelly and Tommy Vitliano at the halves and Capt. Jack Marks at fullback to carry the pigskin this afternoon in her last scholastic tilt of the season. Marks has shown some fine defense work all season and also has shown at smashing the line. In the Bulkeley game he was tried on end runs but somehow things didn't click. Kelly is bothered with a bad ankle and no doubt that will slow him up considerably. When in shape the basketball captain is a good high school grid performer and it may be that he will reach his best form today. Vitliano has shown plenty of real defense gems but fumbling has detracted some from this virtue. Tirrell has not shown the form expected so far this year but in this, his last scholastic grid appearance for the Red and White, he is expected to show a fine game.

Stonington appears to have the edge in the backfield, and, with Greene off the Academy line, also seems to have a slight advantage up front.

The season's records, however, favor the Academy. The locals have won 5, lost one and tied one while the Brown and White has won 4 and lost 3. Stonington's strong points come with a 12 to 0 win over Westerly, which the Academy beat 19 to 6, 31 to 6 and 14 to 0 wins over Chapman Tech and a decision over Plainfield, 12 to 0. She has been defeated by Alumni, Bulkeley of Hartford and Windham. The Academy's victories have come over Chapman Tech, Westerly, Torrington, Wilby and Windham with a loss to Warren Harding and a tie with New London Bulkeley. However, the Academy won with McGlone and Greene present and it was this forward passing combination that settled definitely at least two of the victories, Wilby and Windham.

The game is being carded as for the eastern Connecticut championship. Stonington has lost one game and won four from teams of this section, the Academy has three wins and a tie with teams of this part of the country. Stonington has been rather easy pickings for the Academy for quite a few seasons now. Today the worm may turn.

The probable Academy lineup: le, LaCroix; lt, Shea; lg, Fox; c, Ingalls; rg, Mish; rt, Kahn; re, Berghinzo; qb, Tirrell; lhb, Vitliano; rhb, Kelly; fb, Marks (C.).

The Academy and Stonington engage in a cross country run between the halves of the game with the locals, at least, the favorite, here. Coach Matthew Sheridan seems to have quite a capable bunch of harriers on hand this year and if things go right they should add Stonington to their victory list. The Academy will leave the school at 12:30.

TWO LOCAL BOYS TO PLAY AGAINST BOSTON COLLEGE TODAY WITH AGGIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Nov. 18—The Connecticut Aggies will close their 1927 football season in meeting the strong Boston college eleven on Clarkin field, Hartford tomorrow. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 p. m.

For the first time this season, the state college eleven is not favored to win, which to those who have followed the Storrs team this year is a good indication. The Eagles of Boston college, with a team which on paper is several touchdowns stronger than the Aggies, is expected by many to have things easy with the Connecticut eleven. If the Aggies play the game they are capable of, they should battle Boston on even terms; if they play as they did against Rhode Island a week ago the contest will be a cinch for the Hub outfit. Coach Sumner Dole of Connecticut thinks his team is in good shape, both mentally and physically, and ready for anything Boston has to offer.

On the eve of the Boston college game, Dole has made several radical changes in his starting lineup. To begin with, he expects to withhold both Captain Eddy and Pop Williams, Connecticut's two star triple threats, until the Connecticut eleven penetrates Boston territory and the Aggie offense can be uncovered.

Bill Knaut has been shifted from full to quarterback, and Ray Ryan from quarter to halfback. Bob Graut is moved up from the second team to play a halfback position, and Rhoar Flydal comes up from the same group to play fullback. Dole considers this his strongest defensive backfield, and these men will have their work cut out for them to stop long gains by Captain Al Weston of B. C., and other star backs who are just returning to the Eagles' lineup.

Dole is also making a few changes in the line. Andy Sayres is being moved from center to his old position at tackle, displacing Hawkins. Stangle will start his first varsity game at center. Otherwise the line remains about the same with Kennedy and Tombari on the ends; Wilson teaming up with Sayers at tackle; Colacurcio and Gilman in the guards; and Stangle at center. This is the starting lineup Dole announced after practice tonight, but he expects to make many substitutions. Lamoreaux, who has started several games at quarterback will probably be unable to play tomorrow because of an ankle injury received in the Rhode Island game.

Officials for tomorrow's game include James Keegan, Pittsfield, referee; J. H. Madden, Springfield, umpire; C. C. McCarthy, Georgetown, head linesman; and Will Fraser, Colby, field judge.

THANKSGIVING WITH THE OLD FOLKS.

Thanksgivin' with the old folks on the farm!
O, that's what gives the day a subtle charm!
Just to watch old mother sittin'
In the chimney seat a-kittin'—
Allus knittin' socks to keep the babies warm.

Knittin' socks an' darnin' stockin's all the day,
Just as if we still were children out at play!
With her kind old eyes a-blinkin',
'N' not ever even thinkin'
That her babies, too, are growin' old and gray.

Then to meetin' at the warnin' of the bell,
From the little old white church down in the dell;
Tho' the settin's far from easy,
An' the organ's weak and wheezy,
Yet there's somethin' seems to tell ye all is well!

Ah, 'tis thoughts of home that keeps us safe from harm,
An' gives Thanksgivin' Day a subtle charm.
For so long as mother's livin',
There's a reason for Thanksgivin',
An' we'll spend it with the old folks on the farm!

THE LIVING SONG.

He knews the thoughts the poets sing.
In him the hero heart beats high;
For him, the far horizon-ring
Was but a step toward the sky.
Each singing bird a message brought
From summer's shyest, rarest hours;
Within each flower he saw the thought
Which shaped a million worlds like ours.

Yet from his youth the daily needs
Of those he loved, filled hands and heart;
By night, he mused on noble deeds—
By day, he sought the toiler's mart.
Yet say not the soul denied
Expression, paths ignoble trod;
His hopes and longings, crucified
Made up a way that led to God.

—NINETTE M. LOWATER.

GRATITUDE.

There is no hearth so bleak and bare
But Heaven hath sent some blessing there;
No table e'ere so sparsely spread
But that a grace should there be said;
No life but knows some moment blest
Of sweet contentment and of rest;
No heart so cold but Heaven above
Hath touched it with the warmth of love.
So count your blessings, one by one,
At early morn and set of sun.
And like an incense, to the skies
Your prayers of thankfulness shall rise
Look for the love that Heaven sends,
The good that every soul intends;
Thus you will learn the only way
To keep a true Thanksgiving Day.

A HAPPY TOWN.

There's a town called Don't You Worry
On the banks of River Smile,
Where the Cheer-Up and Be-Merry
Blossom sweetly all the while.
Where the Never-Grumble flower.
Blooms beside the fragrant Try
And the Ne'er Give Up and Patience
Point their faces to the sky.

In the Valley of Contentment,
In the Province of I Will,
You will find this lovely city
At the foot of No-Fret-Hill.
There are thoroughfares delightful
In this charming little town,
And on every hand are shade-trees
Named the Very-Seldom Frown.
Rustic benches quite enticing
You'll find scattered here and there,
And to each a vine is clinging
Called the Frequent-Earnest Prayer.
Everybody there is happy
And singing all the while In the town of Dont-You-Worry
On the banks of River Smile.

A NURSE IN TRAINING.

The world grows better, year by year,
Because some nurse in her little sphere
Puts on her apron and grins and sings,
And keeps on doing the same old things.

Taking temperatures, giving pills
To remedy mankind's numberless ills,
Feeding the baby, answering bells,
Being polite with a heart that rebels.

Longing for home and all the while
Wearing the same old professional smile,
Blessing the newborn babe's first breath,
Closing the eyes that are closed in death.

Taking the blame for the doctor's mistakes,
"O, dear," what a lot of patience it takes.
Going off duty at 7 o'clock,
Tired, discouraged and ready to drop.

But called back to special at 7:15,
With woe in her heart, but it must not be seen;
Morning and evening, noon and night,
Doing it over, and hoping it's right.

When we lay down our caps and cross the Bar,
O, God, will you give us just one little star
To wear in our crown, with our uniforms new
In that city above, where the head nurse is You?

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES.

BEERS: Your name has been added to the Social Corner.

JOHNNY CAKE AND OTHER RECIPES.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to send mother Preston my recipe for Johnnycake.

Johnnycake: One cup each of meal and flour (yellow granulated meal in bulk), 3 teaspoons of baking powder, 1-2 cup of sugar, 3 tablespoons of butter or cream, 1 egg, 1 cup of milk, 3 tablespoons of honey, 1-teaspoon of salt; stir well, bake in hot oven 20 minutes.

Hot gingerbread with date sauce: Gingerbread, 1-2 cup each of sugar, lard and hot coffee, 1 cup of molasses with 2 tablespoons of soda sifted in, beat until it foams, add flour, I think about 3 cups, with one dessert spoon of cream tartar, 1-2 teaspoon of cream tartar, 1-4 teaspoon of cloves, 1-2 teaspoon each of ginger and mace and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Stir well and if there isn't quite enough flour add a little more. Date Sauce: Cream together 1 tablespoon of peanut butter and 3 tablespoons cream. When well blended, add one small cream cheese and enough more of either cream or milk to make the mixture like whipped cream. Beat it hard to make it smooth and fluffy. Then beat in 1 cup of finely chopped dates and serve on hot gingerbread for dessert. If you wish more double the recipe. This is excellent on apple desserts.

Peanut Butter Biscuit: These are the latest and simply delicious. Two cups of flour, 4 tablespoons baking powder, 1 level table spoon of sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Work in one level tablespoon of shortening and 3 tablespoons of peanut butter until the mixture feels like coarse corn meal. Add about 3-4 cup milk to make a stiff dough. Roll out quite thin, and cut out with a round cookie cutter. Lay 1-2 slice of uncooked bacon on one, cover with another round, and press the edge all round tightly together. Bake in a hot oven. Serve hot for luncheon or supper. The flavor of peanut butter and bacon is simply delicious. I like your mother Preston's recipes and I have just made a white pork cake.

ROUND ROBBIN.

LONG A WRITER IN THE CORNER.

Dear Editor and Writers: Ma of Greene Gables must have been somewhat surprised on Saturday to find my letter as well as her own. In fact that was the third in the past five weeks. As far as I know my poor old brain is still active, but have been otherwise engaged so don't even get a chance to answer "Joan's" personal letter, like many others which lie here unanswered. We have had a most perfect fall, and among the many places I planned to visit was the Devil's Hopyard, but I will have to wait until another season.

Double Fuschia: I am glad you found the Bulletin of 1913 where one of my letters appeared. You may go back three years more and then find some of mine, which you notice are like Ma of Greene Gables', all original and if the good Lord permits, I hope I may be able to answer the roll call again. Etta Barber, like some of our first writers, has passed on to her reward. She rests in the old Gallup cemetery on the road leading into Plainfield, from Pero's four corners. A fine head stone has been erected to mark her last resting place.

Phuller Phun: I see you are much alive after entertaining several of your relatives, and serving them a rabbit supper. Oh, boy! Good for you, tell hubby to pile on the wood, and keep those home fires burning, for here is one who is coming over soon to see what is trumps. Never mind who gets the game.

Country Sister: What's wrong? Months have gone and not a line from you. Trust you are as usual.

Stranger in the City: Another one who must have forgotten that she did once upon a time write. But perhaps home duties and teaching occupies most of her spare moments.

Nonesopretty: How I regret that "Job's afflictions" prevented you from coming to make me that planned visit, for I am in a position to entertain company, better than I can go and visit.

Closing with joyful Thanksgiving to you all.

KOCHIA.

SOME QUESTIONS BY HISTORIAN

Editor and Members of the Social Corner: I notice that there is an occasional call for Historian and I will answer present. Can Nonesopretty tell me where the Bloody brook of one of her letters is located? I am somewhat familiar with the territory of her childhood home and no brook is now known by that name. Is it on the road between Ekonk and Wyite school house, the north one and now known as Sweetened water brook? I have tried to think of where your deserted village was. Kochia has told us where it is in his letter of last week.

Kochia: I am surprised that you have awakened from your Rip Van Winkle sleep. As you say you have a pretty and well laid out town and the cause, is not that of Mrs. Branch but that it has been a "One Man Town." Why didn't you finish the tale of the "Lindley bank" and tell of the tragic deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Lindley? One of the blows that your town got was when some years ago town management of schools was advocated and you were told that by closing the outlying schools and transporting the children to two schools that enough would be saved to pay the town's indebtedness, then around $500, exclusive of the town deposit fund, in ten years. It was so voted and in about five years the town was bonded for $10,000, exclusive of the deposit fund. Neglect of the highways has driven many of your people out of the town.

There is a god farm with a good set of buildings for sale in the north part of the town. The former owner told me last summer that he stayed there as long as he could and then got out as the roads were so bad. You speak of the stately pines that are being cut and marketed. Did that ten acre lot that has been cut near the old Gallup school house pay any more tax per acre than the sprouts that you own near the beautiful cement bridge that the state erected last summer?

Well the orange has been squeezed dry and the new officers have got the rind to work with.

Rural Delivery has my sympathy in his bereavement. I did not think when I saw her at the October town meeting that it was for the last time.

Rural Aunty: Have you got the scarf finished yet?

HISTORIAN.

GREETINGS FROM NONESOPRETTY.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Well, we sure did have an old-fashioned rain. What an awful lot of damage it did! We were very fortunate down here as it only washed some of the roads badly, but no lives were lost. Many of the cellars had lots of water in them. I see the Norwich bus going by my house. I do hope we don't get another storm like it.

Kochia: Did you get drowned? I have not heard from you in a long time. I do hope you have not gone to sleep for the winter. I want to see your letters. Kansas Lily asks where you are. She cannot write but hopes she will be able to soon. She looks for your letters.

Peggy Alder: How did you like the gentle shower? I had a nice little river each side of my house. It looked awful pretty.

Rural Aunty: I suppose you will soon be going down among the sweet magnolias and orange blossoms. I hope you can and get out of the cold.

Ma of Greene Gables: How many of those squash pies have you made this fall?

Erica: How are you and Adams? Well, I hope.

Nely Grey: Have you heard from Lo and Johnny on the Spot since the rain?

Ann Tenna: Have you had any night concerts this fall? I haven't heard one yet but I suppose I will later on?

Skipper: I have not heard anything from you in the papers in a long time.

Hope all of the sick ones and the shut-ins are better.

Rural Delivery: I have just heard of your great loss and I extend my heartfelt sympathy for she will be greatly missed.

I just heard about Lydia. So sorry and lots of sympathy to those she has left. It is so hard to part with our dear ones.

Aries: I have been told why the old Ramstall mill was haunted. A man once hung himself or someone hung him to the bell ropes. At a certain hour of the night the old bell would ring and when they tried to start the mill, whe wheel would turn backward. They had a hard time in trying to run the mill after that so they let it go to decay.

Kochia: Poor child, you and I do have such hard times, but cheer up, maybe the worst is yet to come; who knows?

NONESOPRETTY.

GREETINGS FROM BLACK EYED SUSIE.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Suppose every one had a nice time at the meeting Wednesday.

Thought I would go but had little Susie home sick since Sunday. So duty comes before pleasure. She feels better now, but is subject to those spells.

Well, Aries, received your letter and will attend to that matter just as soon as I possibly can.

You know the old saying, "Man proposes but God disposes."

I plan and plan to do things and every day brings its own duties, so very often my plans go away.

Kitty Lou: Enjoyed your letter on how to make Christmas gifts very much. Cut it out for future reference.

Crimson Rambler: The Mr. and I are pretty well but little Susie has been down again. Feeling better at this writing.

E. L. M.: You guessed right. Tafts is a good cook. Have known that for ages. Hope to meet with ou again sometime at North Stonington.

We have had a wonderful fall but some poor souls have not been so fortunate. In Vermont especially there is lots of suffering, now that they have freezing weather on top of the flood.

Truly we have much to be thankful for.

I do wish our meeting day had been left the way it was. It is a very inconvenient day (the third Wednesday) for a great many. I have been wondering if they took action on it at the meeting Wednesday. But suppose Calla Lily will tell us all about it.

Wishing the editor and all Corner folks a very happy Thanksgiving.

BLACK EYED SUSIE.

CLUB 6'S FINE DINNER AND PROGRAMME.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I attended the meeting of Club No. 6 Nov. 15 and had a fine dinner for which we must thank Topsy and Tish. The programme we all enjoyed. Everyone seemed to have a good time.

I want to thank the sisters who remembered me with cards on my birthday. I certainly appreciated them.

Clarinda: We missed you at the meeting. Sorry to hear of your trouble.

Skipper: Hope you are feeling better.

Tatting: Hope you will be able to be with us Dec. 13th.

Milksham: Have missed you. Hope you are not sick.

Eleanor and Evelyn: Am enjoying the pink rose.

Best wishes to all.

REBE.

PRESENTS FOR INVALIDS.

Dear Sisters: Here are suggestions for a few Christmas presents for invalids:

Crepe paper dolly shades for boudoir lamps.

An autograph album is nice if any one is sick for each friend coming in can write a cheery line to be read on stormy days when things look gloomy.

A writing pad is made with an odd piece of cretonne, some cardboard and glue. This keeps writing paper, envelops and pen easy to get at.

Some bulbs that have been started at home or a plant in blossom would be nice. Cover the pot with a pretty piece of wall paper.

Also there is a sunshine box, a gift to be opened each day for a week. A nice jar of jelly or preserves. A box of home-made fudge, a cheerful little vase in a frame to be hung near the bed, are some of the things that could be contained in the box.

A little book of charming questions and short verses.

DEATH OF A CORNER MEMBER.

Dear Social Corner Editor: This is a month of thankfulness all over the land, and Thanksgiving will soon be here. Like Ma of Greene Gables, I can truly say I, too, have many things to be thankful for, but I will not use time or space to write it all out. I am glad to know so many new members are sending in letters for the Corner page. I was greatly shocked last week to read in the morning paper of the sudden death of Mrs. Willis Covell, another one of my best neighbors, and another Social Corner member, gone to that "Mysterious Beyond." My sympathetic heart goes out to the entire family for they have lost a kind and loving wife and mother.

"A silent heart, a secret tear
Will keep her memory ever dear."

Calla Lily: I was glad to know that your son made the badges that were ordered last March at the meeting in Danielson in Grand Army hall. I ordered one of Bay State, but as yet have never received it. Now I will send him an addressed envelope and stamp if he will send mine to me with his correct address, but I do not want to pay for it twice.

THANKFUL FOR ASSISTANCE.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Club No. 6 was favored with delightful weather on their meeting day, November 15.

I want to thank every one that assisted in any way to make the dinner a success, also the ones that prepared or took part in the program.

It is a pleasure to work with those that are so willing. Am very glad that Neighbor Eveready has emerged from her long sleep. Began to think that she was a descendant of Rip Van Winkle. Hope now to hear more from her.

Best wishes to all that are sick or in trouble.

REGRETS DEATH OF GADABOUT.

Dear Corner Members. It was with much regret I read of the passing away of our Social Corner sister "Gadabout." I am taking this means of expressing my sympathy to the loved ones she leaves behind.

She was the wife of our Corner Brother Rural Delivery, and has been an invalid for quite some time, and has borne her troubles uncomplainingly.

We trust she has gone to a happier home where there will be no more troubles to bear.

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

CLUB 2 AGAIN CHANGES MEETING DATE

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I want to thank all those attending Club No. 2 meeting Wednesday, Nov. 16 for their generous supply of nice food for the club dinner. We surely had a nice dinner and for once we did not have to go out and buy any food. Each sister and her company brought it with them so let's all resolve that we will keep it up for it does the hostess and my self good on bidding good bye to hear them say I had a plenty and it was a lovely dinner. Such were the parting words of several this time.

To those who were busy at church work Wednesday, I want to say that it was decided to go back to the second Tuesday in each month, beginning Dec. 13. We missed several who had church work on and couldn't be with us any more on those days, so we went back to Tuesday as we want to please all as far as possible and have our old members present as much as possible, so hope those that weren't present will welcome this change of day.

Some of the club members attended the whist given by the Relief corps and others left shortly after dinner to go to movies or shopping which created a few remarks from those attending to the effect that it isn't much like it used to be. We used to have a program of dancing, reading, music, singing, etc., and exchange of fancy work and ideas. Now it seems to be just a place (not only at this club but all of them) to come, get a good dinner and leave. It does not seem right to the hostess and helpers when they are through and can visit to have three-quarters of the company leave. We pay for use of hall throughout the day. Why not make a New Year's resolution for 1928 that we will remain at the Buckingham through the afternoon and help make it a day of happiness and so sociable that we will look forward through out the rest of the month for a renewal of those meetings. Several of us sit, rest, exchange ideas, talk on old times and customs and we few enjoy ourselves until 4 or 4:30.

You all responded well with the food. Now think this over and if each one makes it a Social Corner day and leaves the movies and other places for another day, see what a big difference it will make.

If I write many more of these kind of letters for Club No. 2, I'll have to get a new pen name or be put down as a crank or something else, but as I have said before, these things are said to me and I try to call attention to them and give each and every one a chance to think about it.

Later in the afternoon Dairy Dean of Danielson came in and said: "Is this where the Social Corner meets?" I said, "Yes, what there is left. The rest have gone." Well we enjoyed her visit and she is coming again so we few must have been entertaining to her. Best Thanksgiving wishes.

CALLA LILY.

ARGUMENTS

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner and Editor: How often have you been able to convince others by argument that you were right? Not once in a hundred times. I'll wager, Hilda says. Argument is the least convincing method you can use to prove you are right.

Why? Just because no two of us think exactly alike. To expect others to think just as we do is like expecting each of the Himalayan peaks (provided they could talk) to describe exactly the same view that every other peak saw. We often make mistakes. Our mistakes would fill a bucket and sometimes we might be in the right and sometimes in the wrong.

Every day, in every way, we make them over and over and go right on with more of the same.

But why count it all loss? Can't you learn from mistakes of the past the lessons of the future? That quotation, "Forgetting those things that are past, press forward," is better than some of the "wise" proverbs when you try to make them do an honest day's work. "And when you are looking ahead you haven't time to look behind," is good, too; only improve it by admitting "time" enough but little inclination.

Use your intelligence says Janette, and if you have none, cultivate it. Put any argument up before yourself and examine it in the cold light of common sense, both sides, remember, and inside, too—and you'll lose some of that "faith" you think you have acquired, and subtle arguments will appear as so much bosh.

It takes patience to let time work things out, but what other choice have we? If we "agree to disagree" there need be no friction in our relationships with others.

The advice of the Good Book to "agree with thine adversary quickly" is surely common sense. It means, of course, to "come to an understanding with him, and not necessarily consent to his ideas or actions as they affect you. The important thing is, agree either to agree or disagree, but do it quickly.

Why waste time talking and talking around in circles, getting nowhere? Make up your mind quickly how you really feel about it; don't string it along; life is too important to waste on matters which, by and large, are very insignificant trifles.

Hilda says peace of mind is much more important than attempting to force one's opinion down another's throat, and using a lot of nervous energy to see it stays down his throat. So why not choose the greater end—peace of mind—and hang onto it at the expense of the unimportant trifles?

Scrambled eggs with oat-meal is quite a dish. Put a little butter or fat in a pan, and, when it is hot, add one cup of cold oat meal. Stir for a few minutes, then add one-half dozen eggs, some salt and pepper and a little butter. Scramble thoroughly, and serve. No one could possibly tell that oat-meal had been added, and the six eggs, cooked in this way, will not only be far more nourishing than without oat-meal, but will go as far as 12.

Oat meal croquettes: Having saved the oat-meal left over from breakfast, warm one cup of it in one tablespoon of milk; add the beaten yolk of one egg, a salt-spoon of salt. When cool, shape into small ovals, roll in crumbs, dip in beaten eggs, roll in clumbs again, and fry in very hot fat. Another delightful way of including oat-meal in the daily fare is to put it in batter-cakes, in muffins, or in waffles. A small quantity can even be added to biscuits, without its presence being detected and with the full benefit of its nourishing qualities secured.

"BEHAVIOR PATTERNS"

Dear Social Corner Friends: My friend, "I would give a great deal if I had the lively, charming personality of Madge, but she spoils it all and always irritates me everytime I see her, for she always says something hateful too." Why does she always have to say something aggravating and hateful?

Because her charming ways and her habit of making hateful remarks are both "behavior patterns" forced upon her by wrong conditions in her home when she was a child.

Madge grew up in one of those large old-fashioned families where the older children received all the teaching and development and chance to go to everything, the youngest received all the petting and little treats, the middle ones like Madge were ignored in every way possible, so as she had to in some way forcibly demand what little attention she did receive she just naturally developed the ability of exaggerated demands for attention, sometimes by temper tantrums and hateful words and sometimes by sweet, lovely ways, and she formed the habit of expecting everyone to be selfish because she found selfishness the only condition used toward herself in the home, and now that she has everything that anyone could expect to have she cannot get over the mental habits she formed in childhood.

You and I were the oldest children in small families and were the ones who had all the advantages and so cannot expect to understand how things seem to one brought up like Madge.

If Madge were crippled or deformed you would not be so rude or foolish as to notice it or let it annoy you. It is just as rude and foolish to notice or be annoyed by her mental deformity for which her parents were to blame.

As a child I had more outings and good times than I was physically able to do and so as I never had to do anything to force or demand attention, but was always too tired out by what I could and was expected to enjoy I just naturally formed the habit of being too quiet and undemonstrative.

I too would give much for Madge's cheer and life and vivacity. It would have been a great help to me in my work. I have always realized that my cold, quiet way repelled people when at heart I am not that kind at all.

Madge has unconsciously helped me to realize more than anything else how much teachers and parents need to wake up and give the right training and development of all the capabilities of all the children.

If you are familiar with the natural ways of young children you will know how much time and effort it is to teach an older child to be gentle and careful of a younger one. If the mother does not teach this and make him do it or if there is no younger child for him to play with, he will probably grow up more or less of a bully, rough and dangerous, with little or no regard or respect for the rights of others.

This is the real reason for many accidents and much trouble—the child or man never learned in his home to be gentle and thoughtful of others and of course does not think now, and so is careless and some one gets hurt.

We have the physical care of children well organized, but need to make it compulsory just as school attendance is compulsory for all and we need to include also the mental and social training for every child both in the home and in the school.

THE FALLING OF THE LEAVES.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: We have been passing through the season, commonly called the "falling of the leaves," and to some people it brings a tinge of sadness, a feeling of the loss of summer's beauty. True as it is, the wonderful trees have mostly now disposed of their shade element, and appear somewhat in a lonesome attitude. But if we consider all that we have enjoyed from early spring time up till now, by nature's gift, then surely we ought not regret a few months of absence, till we shall see the tiny buds open again. I think we have had a beautiful autumn, the various colorings of leaves, some golden, some bright red, over their deep green, all mingled so closely on wooded hillsides, were a delightful picture of the season. The falling of the leaves from lofty branch, or lower shrubs, means they have fulfilled their mission for this year, and unless prevented by some tragic force of nature, or will of man, the barren limbs will receive another supply in due time. It appears to me, there is no real cause for a sad thought as we watch the leaves fall, one by one, and scatter here and there on the surface of mother earth, but it is a lesson of life. A few weeks ago, one beautiful October Sunday I had the opportunity of being in the cemetery where rests one who was near and dear to me. It was during the hour of the setting sun and as the falling rays of light shone over and above the many yellow leafed maples some that stood by the pathways, others outside the limits, it cast the most beautiful golden glow almost like a mist, and the reflection on the white marble memorials seemed but to speak in the silence of the unseen and gone! I should have been glad to linger longer, till the last gleam of the setting sun, but had to hasten away. However, the mental vision of those golden leaves amid atmosphere of brilliant light, is wonderful to retain. If I were to go there now, I should find the trees still standing erect and strong, but the leaves, they have fallen, far and near. During the period just ahead, we can still enjoy the evergreens which do not change their mantles the whole year round. And when the snowflakes begin to fall, they will be received, as a welcome in the outstretched arms of the evergreen leafy boughs, and this shall be their mission, while the oak, the maple and elm stand aside, with little or no part. The evergreens will bring their Christmas cheer, and many little children will be made happy in the home, for nothing brings greater delight than the illuminated Christmas tree. Therefore, we should not despair at the falling of the leaves, at the present time, but take a different view. Some of us may have the privilege of waiting to see the branches refilled, while others may not.

I trust each and all sisters and friends may enjoy a happy Thanksgiving day. May we all feel the spirit for which the celebration is intended, thankful and grateful for what we have.

JOAN RESPONDS.

Dear Social Corner Friends: Suppose I'm called a slacker by this time. Some have inquired for me so thought it about time to write. If not too late I wish to thank all who sent me cards and gifts on my birthday, including my friends who are not members of the Corner.

I was so glad to see a letter from Ma of Greene Gables, for I had often thought of her. I wish to thank Shirley for the poetry about the "Bug."

Theoda: I fully appreciated your kind words about my life long friend "Amy." How much she will be missed—but the poor sufferer is at rest.

Rural Delivery: You have my sympathy. Hope you are able to say "Thy will be done."

E. L. M.: How is the new house progressing? In 1895 I went through it all and boarded the carpenter and mason.

O. D.: I read good news about you and am glad you have a home of your own for it's some job to move.

Am pleased to know that Club No. 8, has awakened from its long slumber. To all who are ill or in sorrow I extend sympathy.

Best wishes to all,

JOAN.

LATE FLOWERS.

Dear Social Corner Editor. I should like to become a member of the Social Corner and Club No. 6.

Theoda: Today (Nov. 16) I picked in my garden a bouquet of stock, bachelor button, calendulas, scaboscia, Johnny Jump Up and dandelion. Last Sunday while out to ride at Weekapaug I picked a spray of beach golden rod in full blown. It was one fine day to be at the beach. I do enjoy the water, winter or summer. I will take for my pennane

URGES CLUB NO. 1. MEMBERS TO WRITE.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Just back from my morning walk and feel now's the time to drop the line that gets put off. How many sisters have tried to get that early walk? I know there are a number of things to do, but just start out for a short walk and then when you get back see how much easier you start at the house work! Our sewing circle on Thursday misses Amy and I do the rest of the week for that phone ring and the cheerie chats.

Mary Frances: Was going to say that I didn't stop to see that one you knew on the Hudson, an old friend of mine, but I could not say much that day as I was seated in Amy's chair and as I had visited so many times in that spot, I keep bubbling over the top.

Bonie: I am sorry and think of you often.

Double Fuschia: You also have had a great loss.

Yesterday I rode up to the flooded country and truly we are thankful to live away from the big rivers. Friday night I attended the Hartford Capitol that had 15 acts of vaudeville for the flood funds. I would liked to have had all the sisters see the show.

We read so many good letters, but not so many from Club No. 1. Wh.? Try as I did, take an early walk and then write.

GATHER YOUR CLIPPINGS.

Dear Editor and Friends: We often read a good poem or interesting article and we think it would be good to send into the Social Corner page. We lay the article down and it becomes lost, or we forget where we read it. I find a good idea is to have several large envelopes in a certain drawer or box by themselves, each envelope marked with what it contains and person for whom it is intended. I then drop in any piece of poetry, clipping or item of interest. Then when I wish to write the page or friend there is usually some clipping of interest to enclose. Today I happened to read these "Twelve Things to Remember."

The value of time.
The success of perseverance.
The pleasure of working.
The dignity of simplicity.
The worth of character.
The power of kindness.
The influence of example.
The obligation of duty.
The wisdom of economy.
The value of patience.
The improvement of talent.
The joy of originating.

REMARKS ON CARVING.

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: Thanksgiving is soon to be here and I do hope all will have a bountiful feast and hope the sick are on the gain. What lovely weather we are having just now for November! Only wish we could have a good deal of it in December then the winter wouldn't seem so long, but we will have to take it just as it comes. I am sending in a few remarks on carving.

Carving is now so generally practiced by men that women may in a great measure be considered exempt. It is, however, a very desirable accomplishment. Every woman should be competent to preside at her own table, and as expertness is best gained by experience, it would be advantageous to young women that they, before leaving the parental roof, should be permitted to occasionally do the carving and serving at table. By acquiring properly early habits of this kind under a mother's direction they will be prepared to operate with confidence at their own table. To carve with ease and elegance it is essential to be furnished with a good and suitable carving knife. These vary in size and form according to the purposes for which they are intended; for carving a large and fleshy joint, as a round of beef, etc., a long blade will be necessary. For lamb, etc., a smaller size will answer; and for poultry and game, a still shorter blade, sharp-pointed and somewhat curved. A new carving knife for poultry is now in the market, which can be used as shears, and is a great help in nipping off small bones, tendons, etc. The knife should be as light as is compatible with the size and strength required, the edge very keen and a good steel or knife sharpener always at hand. A guard-fork is generally used for carving which requires strength, as it is a necessary security; but for light cutting it is a needless and rather cumbersome appendage.

It is the business of the cook to see that the butcher properly divides the joint of neck and loins in all kinds of meats, as this materially facilitates the operation of carving. The seat should be sufficiently high to command the table, and render rising unnecessary. Although carving with ease and elegance is a necessary accomplishment, most people are inmentably deficient, not only in the art of dissecting winged game and poultry, but also in the important point of knowing the parts most esteemed. Each person, as far as possible should be served with a portion of the best parts.

May one and all have a very happy Thanksgiving, is the wish of

MOTHER PRESTON.

CHATTY LETTER FROM L. T. H.

Kind Editor and Social Corner Members: What nice letters we are having, and such nice recipes for the good thing to eat. What a lovely autumn we have had so far, wild flowers still blooming and only one week to Thanksgiving. But to me every day is thanksgiving, for the blessings God bestows on me. I do not have to wait a year for thanksgiving day.

Joan: I hope your health is much better. The slips you gave me look fine, and I hope they don't freeze. The man has not fixed the chimney yet, so have some fireless days and nights, but expect it done soon. I would hate to have my Social Corner collection of plants freeze. Suppose your plants are all blooming nice. You do have lovely ones. They are so much cheer to one I think.

Crimson Rambler: Glad to see your letter.

Red Rose: Why don't you write? Would be glad to get a letter from you. Was glad to see you, and what a nice service that was? Would like to hear more of them.

Aries: Your poem was fine. Have you heard from the tourists yet? Have they arrived? I thought of them during the flood and gale. The slips you sent me look fine. I do love all kinds of flowers. About as well as you, I guess, so try to have some in winter. A friend sent me some more the other day which are new to me—Cinnamon palm, spider plant and winter iris. How are your turkeys?

Violet: Am sorry you are so sick but hope you are better soon. Would come and see you if I could get there. Airplanes pass daily, but not stopping for passengers yet. Ha! ha! Have the promise of a ride in one so you may see me fly over. I think I have learned the secret of the searchlight flashes we saw when you were here that night. A friend told me they thought it was at Manchester to pilot the airplanes. See it every night. Some nights see Newport, R. I., but not every night. Hope the colds are all better.

Photographer: Where are you and your camera? You do not take pictures of the turkeys and cute little pigs now getting big fast.

Drs. Wife: Are you not going to give us some interesting letters, or are you too busy with the sick, now? Would be glad to see a letter from you about your nice rides carrying cheer and sunshine to the sick with your hubby. He must be busy there is so much sickness.

Golden Glow: How are you? A long time since I saw you. Absent but not forgotten.

J. E. T.: Where are you, gathering the fruit from the tree seed you planted? Cheer up and write.

Shasta Daisy: Saw in paper where you rendered first aid in accident. Nothing like a good nurse at such times.

Cecil Brunner: Would like to see more of your Corner letters. They are interesting. Hope you are all well. With all good wishes for the sick and shut ins I will wish you all a happy Thanksgiving.

L. T. H. (Clubs No. 2).

A FEW HELPS

Dear Cornerites: Anoint your hot water bottle with glycerine occasionally and the rubber will not crack.

A large ordinary glass bottle makes a good hot water bottle if you heat the bottle before putting the boiling water in it and wrap it with flannel.

A cup of boiled rice is a better filler to a meat loaf than the usual bread crumbs.

Sometimes, when a gas mantle is not properly lighted, it will become blackened. You can remove the black. Sprinkle a little salt on mantle and let it burn off. The mantle will be left white again.

If cooked in an uncovered vessel, green vegetables will retain their natural color, and, by using only enough water to cover and add mineral salt, the flavor of vegetables will not be lost. The flavor of shrimps is improved if boiling water is poured over them a short time before they are served.

An economical floor polish is made by mixing kerosene and melted paraffine to a creamy substance. Put in can and use same as wax. Polish with old flannel.

POETRY

Dan McGann and Uncle Sam

Said Dan McGann to a foreign man,
Who worked at the self-same bench;
"Let me tell you this," and for emphasis
He flourished a monkey wrench.
"Don't talk to me of this Bourjoisie,
Don't open your mouth to speak
Of your Socialists and your Anarchists,
Don't mention the Bolsheveek,
For I've had enough of this foreign stuff,
I'm as sick as a man can be
Of the speech of hate, and I'm tellin you straight
That this is the land for me!

"If you want to brag, just take that flag
An' boast of its field of blue!
An' praise the dead and the blood they shed
For the peace of the likes o' you.
I'll hear no more," and he waved once more
His wrench in a forceful way,
"O' the cunning creed of some Russian breed;
I stand for the U. S. A.
I'm done with your fads, and your wild-eyed lads,
Don't flourish your flag o' red
Where I can see, or at night there'll be Tall candles around your bed!

"So tip your hat to a flag like that!
Thank God for its Stripes an' Stars!
Thank God you're here where roads are clear,
Away from kings and czars.
I can't just say what I feel today,
For I'm not a talkin' man—
But first an' last, I am standin' fast
For all that's American.
So don't you speak of the Bolsheveek,
It's sick of that stuff I am,
One God, one Flag, is the creed I brag!
I'm boostin' for Uncle Sam!"

Does the Road Wind Uphill?

Does the road wind uphill all the way?
Yes, to the very end.
Will the day's journey take the whole long day?
From morn to night, my friend.

But is there for the night a resting place?
A roof for when the slow, dark hours begin.
May not the darkness hide it from my face?
You cannot miss that inn.

Shall I meet other wayfarers at night?
Those who have gone before.
Then must I knock or call when just in sight?
They will not keep you standing at that door.

Shall I find comfort, travel-sore and weak?
Of labor you shall find the sum.
Will there be beds for me and all who seek?
Yea, beds for all who come.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the then little known "Bell speaking telephone," was the topic of discussion among the people of Norwich. An announcement was made in The Bulletin of that week that it would be placed on exhibition the following week. Admission price was announced as 35 cents and reserved seats were 75 cents. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of November 1877, are as follows:

Monday, Nov. 12, 1877—The highway down the east side of the Thames is now in splendid condition, which of course accounts for the fact that some of our young men are fond of taking that direction when they drive out for pleasure.

The Rev. L. P. Blackford gave a doctrinal discourse at the Universalist church, last evening, on "Universalism, a System of Faith and Not Unbelief."

Mr. Dewitt Day of Chapell Hill, Montville, over whose head fifty summers have passed, took his first railroad ride, Friday afternoon on the Northern road, from Montville station to New London and was greatly delighted with the novel sensations experienced. Mr. Day in describing the ride, says that before he had a chance to look around "she lit" meaning that the train stopped. He intends to repeat the ride soon.

Tuesday, Nov. 13, 1877—Miss Irene Backus of the Amaranth Dramatic society, Brooklyn, has volunteered to take the part of Claire Ffolliott, in the play of Shaugraun, to be brought out by Sedgwick post the latter part of the month.

Next Monday evening Frank Mayo appears at Breed hall as Davy Crockett, supported by the same company that has appeared with him in every state in the Union. New scenery will be used.

The somewhat noted case of Julia Babcock's appeal from probate, being an attempt to break the will of the late Samuel C. Morgan, of this city, which was assigned for trial in the superior court for today, has been postponed and will not be tried at present.

The Rev. Mr. Seymour of Trinity church, officiated at St. James' church, New London, Sunday evening.

Wednesday, Nov. 14, 1877—Bell's speaking telephone.—Next Tuesday evening the distinguished electrician, Prof. Robinson, will exhibit in this city that remarkable invention the speaking telephone. The professor has made it a close study and has himself discovered its power to transmit duets, and quartettes, as well as solos. Messrs. Andrew and Harris are arranging for a vocal and instrumental concert by telegraph to be received during the evening.

The Rev. James L. Smith, who for 20 years was pastor of the original colored church, whose house of worship stood a little off from Franklin street, sets out today for a visit to his native place at Heathsville, Va. The railroad is washed away so we can't get to Springfield from here and it will not be open for three weeks. Home Once More.

Of all the words that we hold dear
'Tis home that we most love to hear.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit and Mrs. Peter had left Little Pete and Mrs. Pete in the bramble-tangle which they had chosen for their home up in the Old Pasture. It wouldn't have been polite for Peter and Mrs. Peter to have stayed any longer.

"Where are we going now?" asked Mrs. Peter as she hopped along at Peter's heels, lipperty-lipperty-lip. He was leading the way along one of the old cowpaths down toward the edge of the Old Pasture.

"Home," replied Peter briefly.

For a few minutes Mrs. Peter said nothing. Then she ventured, rather timidly, "Where is home?"

Peter stopped so suddenly that little Mrs. Peter almost bumped into him.

"Fuzzy, my dear," said he, "what is wrong with you?"

"Then why do you ask where home is?" demanded Peter.

"Why, because you have come up here to the Old Pasture to live and I don't know just where it is you are living," replied little Mrs. Peter.

"Don't be silly!" snapped Peter. "You know well enough that home is in the dear Old Briar-patch, and that is zzy, my dear," said he, "what is wrong with you?"

re we are going as fast as our can take us. I hope we shall have difficulty in getting across to the Old Briar-patch. Be sure you right at my heels, my dear."

at last they came to the edge of Old Pasture, where they could out across the Green Meadows to ear Old Briar-patch. Jolly, round, Mr. Sun had not yet gone to bed the purple hills. Peter wanted t back to the dear Old Briar- He didn't want to wait until lack shadows came. But there ways a risk in crossing the Meadows in broad daylight.

ink we had better wait, don't y dear?" asked little Mrs. Peter was just about to say he d they would have to when ould come sniffling and snuffing through the Green Meadows be- them and the Old Briar-patch lowser the Hound. Peter's eyes tened. He looked all around up the blue, blue sky. Nowhere was a member of the hawk family to be seen. There was nothing to fear from that quarter. He hopped right out onto the Green Meadows.

"You follow me, Fuzzy!" command-ed Peter, "and do just what I tell you to. Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote will only keep away as long as Bowser the Hound is around. You follow me until Bowser sees me. When he starts to chase me you run for the dear Old Briar-patch as fast as your legs can take you. Bowser never could catch me, can't catch me now, and never will catch me. Come on!"

With this Peter went hopping, lipperty-lipperty lip, straight toward Bowser the Hound. Little Mrs. Peter followed, but at a distance, and she felt as if her heart were in her mouth. Bowser was back to them. Presently Peter darted right past Bowser, and Peter was running as only Peter can, lipperty-lipperty-lip, in long jumps.

"Bow-wow!" roared Bowser, and away he went after Peter.

Then little Mrs. Peter scampered for the dear Old Briar-patch and, quite out of breath, plunged into one of the private little paths there. A moment later Peter joined her. Then together they grinned at Bowser as he whimpered and whined because the brambles pricked his nose when he tried to crawl in where they were. They were home at last and, oh, so glad to be there!

"I'll never, never say another word about leaving the dear Old Briar-patch," promised Peter.

"they'll make it right . . . . ."

Women say that to each other with an air of assurance. They say it with confidence born of hearsay and experience. At first glance it would appear strange that they should say it when they are talking about purchases that have disappointed them in some way—

Because it is perfectly natural for people to complain about such things! When merchandise doesn't suit your purpose, or looks a bit different at home than it did in the store, it is natural enough to be displeased.

But when women say "They'll make it right" in a pleased tone of voice, they are talking about Reid & Hughes. And the knowledge that our liberal adjustments will make it right, gives them confidence and takes away the sting of temporary disappointment.

We don't like to make mistakes. But we do like to correct them. We want to serve you to the best of our ability. Our liberal adjustment must give you satisfaction before we are satisfied.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Completion by the community service committee of Norwich grange, No. 172, has now been accomplished in the plan to set out four maple trees on Lake street playgrounds and one on Centennial square. The trees have all been planted and have been given protection against wilful damage by putting a six foot wire guard around each one. The committee is now of the opinion that a good piece of community service on the part of parents in this locality would be to teach their children a proper respect for and appreciation of public property.

In doing the work the committee has received material assistance through the cooperation of the street commissioner and the tree warden while the Turner-Stanton company did its part by lending its fire hose through which the trees could be given a good wetting down when they were planted.

Bozrah grange has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Master, Charles B. Davis; overseer, Mrs. Lena Bishop; assistant steward, Charles Malli; chaplain, Mrs. Charles Davis; treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Parker; secretary, Miss Alice Bishop; gate keeper, J. Wilcox; Ceres, Mrs. Alice Abel; Pomona, Miss Lucy Wilcox; Miss Blanche Lathrop; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Ethel Lathrop; executive committee, Frank Lathrop; social committee, Miss Ruth Lathrop, Charles Main and Miss Blanche Lathrop; insurance committee, Lloyd Abel, Nathan Gilman and E. A. Bishop.

The auxiliary of the Norwich grange held a successful whist and pinochle Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Marie Lavalle in charge. The prizes were awarded as follows: Pinochle, first, Mrs. Tuttle, 7330, china tea pot; second, Mrs. Wholey, 7080, set of mixing bowls and third, Mrs. Wuff, 6020, handkerchief. Whist, first, Mrs. Sherman, 58, second, Mrs. Kane, 42 and third, Mrs. Laturner, 18. Their rises on whist were the same as those on pinochle. Mrs. Teresa Waters scored on pinochle and Mrs. Marie Lavalle on whist. The auxiliary plans to hold another whist and pinochle soon.

The auxiliary is to hold its next meeting Tuesday for an all-day meeting with Mrs. Robert Woodmansee of Penobscot street.

Norwich Grange had 35 of its members go to Pachaug Grange Thursday for Neighbors' night, putting on the play, Mad as a March Hare, under direction of Mrs. Charles Marsh. Those in the cast were Mrs. Anna Woods, Mrs. Esther Smith, Mrs. Victoria St. Martin, Miss June Woods, Miss Thelma Marsh. There were also several selections by the grange orchestra.

The grange is asking all members to bring either fruit or jelly to the next meet. These contributions will make up the grange's Thanksgiving gifts to the Rock Nook home or the Sheltering Arms.

The executive committee is to meet Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20, at the home of Mr. Richardson, 625 Main street.

An invitation has been received for Neighbors' night at Groton Grange in December.

BALTIC

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Homer Racine, Thursday, when about fifty friends gave him a surprise on his 42nd birthday. Whist was played until ten, the prize being won by Mrs. Rosanna Petelle, consolation to Mrs. P. Dubreuil; A. Blanchard, consolation to Joseph Petelle. After the whist, refreshments were served and songs were sung. There were violin solos by Lorenzo Dubreuil. Guests were present from Central Village, Moosup, Norwich and Baltic. Several handsome gifts were presented him, with wishes for many more years of success and prosperity.

The third meeting of the G. A. C. girls was held at the home of Miss Lea LaBelle. After a brief business meeting, the girls had a most enjoyable hour of musical selections. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Peter LaBelle. The club was organized and these officers selected—Miss Jennette Cote, president; Miss Blanch Lucier, secretary; Miss Blanche Fournier, treasurer. The two previous meetings were held at the homes of Miss Blanche Lucier and Miss Jennette Cote. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Blanche Charron.

Ten thousand Ukrainian Communist girls have joined Red Cross detachments recently, it is reported, and 200 more have finished special sanitary courses and are now "red nurses." This is in response to the government's call for "militarization" of the Soviet population in preparation for the expected attack by "capitalism."

HANOVER

The flowers on the center table at the Congregational church Sunday came from the garden of the late Miss Susan Tinkham. One of her last requests was that they should be picked, that they might be enjoyed by a larger circle than those in the immediate neighborhood.

A special meeting of the trustees of the Congregational church was held in the parish house Wednesday evening.

An interesting talk was given at the session of the church school by the missionary superintendent, Miss Helen Eadie.

Mrs. Asenath and Miss Caroline Allen attended the Six-Church conference at Westminster Tuesday in company with Mr. and Mrs. Stone.

The Story Hour circle meets this week as usual, but the Daughters of the Covenant will hold their meeting this (Saturday) evening in order that more might attend the annual meeting of the Norwich Y. P. S. C. E. union held with the M. E. church of Norwich Town Friday evening.

Members Sprague League of Women Voters are active of late. A number attended a meeting at Waterburj, notwithstanding the condition of the roads upon the direct route between here and there. Their membership was increased quite materially at the monthly meeting held at Baltic Monday evening and Mrs. William G. Park took several to a county meeting at Lighthouse Inn, New London, Wednesday.

Miss Caroline A. Gallup has been making a visit at Pawtucket, R. I., renewing acquaintances at the church to which she formerly belonged, and meeting members of the city's teaching staff of which she was for several years an efficient member.

The scarlet fever quarantine has been removed from the Alexander home at Fullertown, with no new cases having developed in this vicinity.

The state highway force has been dressing the road through the village and making improvements by enlarging the culverts and adding more blind ditches in the gutters, thus widening the travelled area of the road.

Next Sunday will be observed as Thanksgiving Sunday at the Congregational church, by regular preaching service in the morning and at 7 p. m., a union service with the Baltic and Versailles M. E. churches, under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E., with their pastor, Rev. Harvey H. Coakley as speaker. As a new furnace is being installed in the church all of the services will be held in the parish house.

With the near completion of the outer walls and roof of the new Catholic church edifice, it is rapidly taking on shape, indicating its symmetrical proportions and fine appearance. The corner stone was laid last Tuesday morning with most impressive ceremonies.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR STOCKS CARRIED MANY ISSUES UP FROM 1 TO 3 POINTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—The line of least resistance in today's stock market was again upward, despite sporadic bear attacks aimed at key issues by the record-breaking volume of trading, gains and the usual weekend selling were held to a minimum. Steels led the general list upward, with United States Steel common and preferred, Bethlehem Steel, Republic Iron and Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Inland Steel, Vanadium, Crucible, Allegheny, Colorado Fuel and Wheelwright participating in the movement. Motors were firm throughout the session, General Motors, which declared the dividend, being prominently bid for on the upside. Rails were in good demand, railroad shares generally showing fractional advances. Public utilities were firm, with Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Detroit Edison, Philadelphia Company, Pacific Gas and Electric, Southern California Edison, Commonwealth Edison, Laclede Gas, American Water Works and Western Union among the more active issues. Chemicals were in good demand, Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, Commercial Solvents, Union Carbide and Dupont being among the issues in this group. Tobacco issues were in good demand, American Tobacco, Tobacco Products, Liggett & Myers, Reynolds and Universal Leaf being in demand. Sugars were in good demand, American Sugar Refining, National Sugar Refining, Cuban American Sugar, Federal Sugar, Jacobs Sugar, Savannah Sugar and Punta Alegre Sugar being in demand. Motors were in good demand, Chrysler, Hudson, Hupmobile, Jordan, Mack, Nash, Packard, Reo, Stutz, Willys-Overland and Yellow Coach being in demand. Oils were in good demand, Atlantic Refining, Barnsdall, Continental, Cosden, Houston, Mexican Seaboard, Pan American B, Phillips, Pure, Richfield, Simms, Skelly, Texas, Tidewater, Vacuum, Wyoming Oil and Ohio Oil being in demand. Coppers were in good demand, Anaconda, Chile, Inspiration, Kennecott, Miami, Nevada, Phelps Dodge and Utah being in demand. Leathers were in good demand, Allied Leather, Central Leather, Corn Products, Hide and Leather A. Despite lack of any official confirmation of recent rumors that a large independent motor company would be acquired by William C. Durant, important accumulation was noted in the stocks of several companies mentioned, Packard and Hupp Motors both reached new 1927 highs. Mack Trucks was run up $ 5-8 points to 200 1-2 on reports of buying by General Motors. Issues in the Rubber group, Goodyear, Goodrich, Fisk and Kelly-Springfield, selling ex-dividends 2 3-4, was firm up to 3 1-4 on a net gain of 1 3-4. Resumption of the upward movement in Gabriel Snubbers was inspired by expectations that the dividend, previously rumored in danger, would be authorized at next Tuesday's meeting of the board.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe was one of the most spectacular of the individual performers, soaring 32 points to 220 3-4 and closing within a fraction of the top. Commercial Solvents, which initiated an extreme break of 15 points yesterday, part of which was recovered, rallied another 7 points today. Heavy buying of Fair-American issues followed the announcement of a Mexican supreme court decision in favor of its subsidiary, Mexican Petroleum.

Except for the conspicuous lack of new highs by Norfolk & Western and New Haven preferred and the weakness of Reading, there was little interest in the rail group. Erie preferred issues were firm on reports that plans were pending for their retirement through the issuance of a new 6 per cent cumulative preferred.

Call money ruled steady at 3 1-2 per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Commodity markets were mixed. Cotton advanced slightly and wheat futures yielded a fraction of a cent a bushel. Sugar held steady and coffee quotations fell back about 25 points.

Foreign exchanges were slightly easier. Demand sterling ruled around $4.87 1-8 and French francs around 3.93 cents. Japanese yen, which have been weak during the past 10 days, rallied about 10 points.

JOY RIDE BEGINS FAVORABLY BUT DRIVERS END IN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18.—Anthony Turello, 41 Orchard street, drove his automobile to Bank street last night and there parked it. Turello was absent from the car a long time and when he returned, it had been stolen. Turello reported the theft to the state police, Groton, and a request was also made of the Centerbrook state police to be on the lookout for the auto. Between 5 and 6 o'clock this morning, Sergeant Thomas Keery, Centerbrook barracks, was on the Saybrook bridge when he observed an auto approaching which carried the markers of the stolen car. Henry halted the car and in it were Mario Montelbano and Nicholas Fragilini. When the young men were questioned it came out that they had stolen the auto and they were arrested. Montelbano and Fragilini were taken to the Centerbrook barracks and held until an officer from the Groton barracks took charge of the prisoners. They were brought to New London and presented in the police court. They were held for trial before the January term of the superior court and in default of $1500 bail, each, were sent to jail to await trial.

BUS COMPANY LEASES THE FITZGERALD BLOCK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18.—The Connecticut Motor Transportation company has leased the three story brick block on State street owned by Jeremiah F. Fitzgerald, the lease being for five years. The lease is now being prepared by New London attorneys and will be filed for record at the municipal building within a few days. The building is located on the north side of State street, between Water and Atlantic streets. The building has three stores on the ground floor and four tenements comprise the upper floors. It is understood that the company will cause radical changes to be made to the interior of that part of the building which will be used as a bus station or waiting room, but such changes will not be made until spring. Included among the changes contemplated is the installation of a restaurant, which will be open all night to accommodate the patrons of the bus line that passes through New London during the early morning hours. The bus company had contemplated purchasing the building, but a few days ago officials of the company decided not to take title in the building, but to lease it.

The police have been unable to arrest the degenerate who persists in annoying women and young girls in the vicinity of Connecticut and Garfield avenues, although the female sex is still receiving the undesirable and annoying attentions of the brute. The police went to the vicinity of Connecticut and Garfield avenues several nights ago when they received information that the fellow had annoyed a young girl. A search was made for the fellow, but he was not found. Since then it is known that he attempted to seize a young woman, a resident of Colver street, but she got away from his attention by running to her home. The same night the annoyer exposed himself to another young woman.

Andrew Austin, colored cook and member of the crew of the U. S. S. Trippe, coast guard destroyer, was in the police court this morning charged with arson. He demurred to the complaint, but probable cause was found and Austin was held for trial at the next term of the superior court. His bail was fixed at $2,000. He could not obtain a surety so went to jail. Austin has made a signed confession, stating that he started a fire among refuse in the cellar of the home of Martha Bankton, 14 John street a week ago last Wednesday night because he entertained ill-feeling for a member of her household.

Daniel White, 22, of 24 Fraser street, was presented on a charge of breach of the peace and was sentenced to 10 days in jail. White was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman Carlos Selenitsky and after he had beaten his wife.

Mrs. Theophila Dmoch, wife of Edward Dmoch, 964 Bank street, died last night at her home after a lingering illness.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret M. MacLachlen was held at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Crespeau, 12 Summer street this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The service was read by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mrs. John Ferguson and infant daughter and Mrs. Margaret Tucker, of Niantic, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18. — The steam yacht Ara, owned by William K. Vanderbilt, 3rd, of New York, left port today, with Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt its sole passengers, excepting members of the crew. The yacht will proceed to Miami, Fla., where Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt will remain until next January when it will start on a several weeks' cruise in southern waters. The Ara has been at the Thames Towboat company's yard several weeks undergoing a general overhauling, including renovating of the boilers. The yacht is one of the finest types of pleasure craft, being elaborately furnished. The decks are of teakwood, highly polished. She is a British-built craft and only a few weeks ago brought her owner and his bride from Paris to New York, after their sensational marriage. Mrs. Vanderbilt is the former Rosamund Lancaster Warburton, only granddaughter of the late David Hale Fanning, corset millionaire, from whose estate Connecticut college, New London, recently received a bequest of about $150,000. She is the only daughter of Mrs. John H. Lancaster, of Worcester, New York and Paris, and less than ten years ago eloped with Barclay Warburton, Jr., of Philadelphia, grandson of John Wanamaker. The Warburtons had two children, daughter and son, and apparently were ideally happy until "Willie" K. Vanderbilt became infatuated with the young matron. He invited the Warburtons to take a South American cruise on his yacht and after that Mrs. Warburton's love for her young husband grew cold. In Paris the past summer, she divorced Warburton, later sending their two children back to Philadelphia in the care of a nurse. Her marriage with Vanderbilt, who is a grandfather, followed the latter's success in compelling his wife, the former Virginia Fair, beauty and heiress, to grant him a divorce under the French law. The present Mrs. Vanderbilt's grandfather was born in Jewett City and made a name for his benevolence and philanthropy.

The fine of $200 and costs, meted out to Alfredo Zuccarelli, Fire street, Waterford, in the Waterford town court Monday, when Zuccarelli was convicted on two counts of violation of the liquor law, was paid yesterday by Zuccarelli's brother-in-law, a resident of Boston. The fine and costs amounted to $435.11. Besides the fine Zuccarelli received a jail sentence of 60 days, but the execution of the sentence was suspended. When Zuccarelli was presented in the Waterford court, a check for the fine and costs was tendered by a New London business man, but its negotiation was withheld until the check from Boston arrived. With the arrival of the check, Zuccarelli's appeal to the court of common pleas was vacated. Zuccarelli was arrested a week ago when his home was raided by a force of state police officers in charge of Lieut. Roy Streman, of Groton barracks. A 60-gallon still, a quantity of alcohol, a large amount of mash and paraphernalia used in disposing and manufacturing of liquor was seized. The still and equipment was not the property of Zuccarelli, but was owned by a New London bootlegger.

Alex Westerlin, of Hollis, L. I., former prohibition enforcement agent, one of a gang of 11 arrested here several months ago charged with transporting liquor, and who was sentenced to 15 months in jail, was released yesterday from the county house of correction at New Bedford, Mass., after having served nine months of the sentence. Westerlind was arrested on the Thames River highway bridge, together with another prohibition officer, Clarence Lovett, when the state police held up two five-ton Fall River trucks containing liquor of the estimated value of $200,000. The state police received a tip that the liquor was coming through this city and had two officers on the bridge to get it. The liquor was stolen from a warehouse in Somerset, Mass., and Lovett and Westerlin were parties to its being taken to New York or New Jersey.

Two sound liners were compelled to seek shelter in New London harbor this morning after having been lashed on Long Island sound by the fury of the storm. The steamers were of the Fall River and Providence line. When the gale subsided this forenoon, the steamers continued to their destinations.

Last night at the residence of William E. Shea, 260 Connecticut avenue, another employe of the firm, Mr. Brennan was tendered a farewell at which were present employes of the firm. A chicken dinner was served following which Thomas Caffrey, of Norwich, was toastmaster. Mr. Brennan was presented a silk umbrella. Those present, besides Messrs. Brennan and Shea, were Willard Harris, Albert Saxton and George Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray, 107 Main street, have returned, having spent several days in Boston.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad operated several special trains to Boston late this afternoon and tonight because of the big crowd of football fans that will witness the annual Yale-Harvard gridiron contest in Cambride tomorrow afternoon. All of the trains were crowded and other special trains will be run tomorrow. Saturday night and Sunday, several special trains will be run to convey the fans back to New Haven and New York. Many also came through New London by automobile tonight, hundreds of cars being en route through the city between 5 and 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Carrie Drummond Perry, 64, wife of Frank P. Perry, died this morning at her residence, in Cliftondale, Mass., after illness since last July. Mr. Perry is a son of the late Isaac Perry, formerly senior member of the jewelry firm of Perry & Stone, this city. Mr. and Mrs. Perry visited in New London on numerous occasions. Besides her husband, Mrs. Perry is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Brady and a granddaughter, Miss Ruth Brady, both of Cliftondale; a brother, in Great Barrington, Mass., and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Perry, of this city.

An automobile driven by Howard Wortham, 49 Berkley avenue, collided with a motionless car on Brewer street this afternoon and damaged it. Worthem was unable to find the owner of the auto, which was an Essex. He reported the accident at police headquarters.

Palace Theater.

The final performances of Adolph Menjou in "A Gentleman of Paris" are being shown at the Palace theater today in conjunction with a splendid vaudeville show.

Tomorrow night's double feature attraction includes "The College Hero," which stars Robert Agnew, Pauline Garon and Ben Turpin. As the name implies the story concerns activities around the college campus and the football field. Ben Turpin is said to be at his funniest as the janitor of the college. The companion feature is a story of the early western days, starring Hoot Gibson in "Painted Ponies."

Bebe Daniels, Paramount star, will be the chief contributor of laughs next Monday, when she will be seen in "She's a Sheik," a comedy of desert love and warfare, which opens at the Palace for a three days' run.

The vaudeville program for the first three days boasts of an unusual stage offering in the Cooke, Mortimer and Harvey act which features a game of basketball on bicycles. Other acts on the bill include a comedy based around a movie studio, presented by Barbier Simms and Company, entitled "Action Camera." Thompson and Kemp are said to be very funny with their colored dialect and actions. McDonald and Oakes have a very fine dance offering and Allen and Kent evoke much laughter in their comedy skit.

"Old Gold on Broadway" to Broadcast

The entire first act of Lew Fields' and Lyle D. Andrews' production of the musical adaptation of Mark Twain's famous novel, "A Connecticut Yankee," will be broadcast direct from the stage of the Vanderbilt theatre in New York city, through WEAF and a large chain of associated stations next Saturday night (November 19) from nine to ten o'clock, eastern standard time. This radio presentation will mark the twelfth of the "Old Gold on Broadway" hours which are sponsored by the P. Lorillard company, makers of Old Gold cigarettes.

The story opens in Hartford, Conn., and chiefly concerns a chap who has a quarrel with his fiancee, is struck on the head during a scuffle, and who, during ten minutes of unconsciousness, imagines himself in the court of King Arthur in the year 528 A. D. Mr. Twain's remarkable narrative is familiar to millions of persons who read his novel and who saw the motion picture version of the story.

A thirty minute prologue, just before the first act, is centered in the ball room of a hotel in Hartford, in 1927. The first act, all of which will be broadcast, is laid in two scenes, the first on a road to Camelot in the year 528, and the second in the courtyard of the castle of King Arthur.

Bread Theater.

Lon Chaney comes to the Bread theater Sunday in "The Unknown," the peerless melodrama of the screen. "The Unknown" brings back that unbeatable combination, Lon Chaney as star and Tod Browning as director, the two responsible for "The Unholy Three."

"The Unknown" is a compelling mystery story in which Chaney plays the strangest role in his entire career, a queer half-demon who hides his identity as leader of the underworld in the disguise of a sideshow freak, an armless wonder. He hurls knives with his feet, shoots with a deadly aim and is in love with one of the circus girl. Joan Crawford plays the girl. For her he makes a supreme sacrifice which marks the most original and audacious climax ever filmed. "The Unknown" is a thrillingly weird romance, creepy and strange and unforgettable.

Strand Theater.

A large cast of well known favorites are being featured in the "Price of Success." This picture has its first local showing at the Strand on Sunday night. Lovely Alice Lake has the role of a determined wife, who struggles to retain the love of her erratic husband, portrayed by Lee Shumway. Florence Turner has a wonderful mother role. Alma Bennett is the other woman, who battles vampishly to steal a husband. Gaston Glass, Tom Ricketts and Speck O'Donnell also have interesting roles.

"Born to Battle," our other feature picture is a real exciting western thriller. Jack Padjon plays the leading role and is supported by a brilliant cast of popular players.

On Monday we have an entirely new double feature bill.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Moving Picture Feature At Y. M. C. A.

At 4 o'clock Sunday at the Norwich Y. M. C. A. gymnasium the public, 14 and over, will have the privilege of seeing screened an interesting and inspiring feature moving picture of eight reels.

The picture is titled "The Fire Brigade," with Charles Ray and May McAvoy among the principal characters of the production.

It is the Big Parade of peace time, sponsored by every fireman in the country.

This is a graphic life story of the American fire hero, revealing the trials and humors; the true thrilling life of the unsung heroes. The whole picture portrays that which is fine in humanity.

A brief talk in line with the picture and suitable music will be furnished. Children under 14 are not expected, though parents may bring one child each 14 and over.

Broadway Theater.

Today will be the last opportunity to see the big double feature program which has been playing at the Broadway theater the last half of the week. Madame Pompadour, with Dorothy Gish as the woman who played with nations and wrecked havoc with the hearts of men, was made in London by British Nationals and tells a colorful tale of the days of Louis the XV when the court at old Versailles was ruled by one beautiful woman.

The line of dancing girls, waving palms and red-blooded men in action has attracted many to the Broadway during the last two days, where Conway Tearle is making new friends in "Isle of Forgotten Women." It is a story of the tropics with all the romance and lure of the clime where man is a law unto himself and women are either fought for or bought.

On Sunday and Monday Pola Negri will be seen in "The Woman On Trial," in which Miss Negri for the first time in her long and brilliant career plays a mother role. While the picture is one of essential drama in the romantic scale, the fashion element will also be of interest to the ladies.

Jordan Auto.

There is a great future for the American motor car manufacturer in Europe, if he follows a sane and conservative course, according to Paul Zens, vice president of the Jordan Motor company, who has just returned from an extensive business tour of Europe.

While abroad, Mr. Zens attended both the Paris and London shows and interviewed scores of dealers, bankers and business men.

American cars have made a profound impression and are in strange demand because of their ruggedness and unusual performance.

This is strikingly indicated by the fact that European production in 1926 totaled 550,000 units while exports from this country reached approximately the same figure.

Of course all of these American cars did not go to Europe but on the other hand 142,000 of the European built cars were exported to other points.

A careful survey at the Paris Salon, where 24 American makes were exhibited, showed a very marked tendency toward American chassis and body design on the part of European manufacturers.

European dealers have the same problems with used cars and time payments that are faced by dealers in this country and over production or an undue forcing of the market is apt to cause a slump in the export field just as it does here when manufacturers go beyond the dealer's ability to finance and trade.

England already has 2,000,000 cars registered against 800,000 in France and approximately 250,000 in Germany. Jordan exhibited a complete line of cars at both Paris and London and is now represented in all of the important European markets.

Slater Hall Concert Series.

To be written of editorially is as high an honor in the journalistic world to which anyone can aspire and Mary Lewis, the prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, who sings here on Friday evening, Dec. 2nd, at Slater Memorial hall, has been dignified in this manner many times.

The New York Sun of November the 25th, 1925, commending on the engagement of Mary Lewis, the Little Arkansas choir singer who made the ranks of the Metropolitan Opera company, the mecca of every singer, in a surprisingly short time, published the following editorial:

"It is highly gratifying to their compatriots to see American girls win their way to the top of any profession they enter. Now, Mary Lewis, an American soprano, has been engaged to sing at the Metropolitan Opera House and in January will be heard there, for the first time in "La Boheme." No American girl has to fight to get into the company at our opera house if she is entitled to that honor. With the memory of Emma Eames, Geraldine Farrar, Lillian Nordica, and Louise Homer fresh in the minds of operagoers, it may readily be seen that our lyric theatre will be hospitable to our own people. Queena Mario is one of the members of the company at present who impels the management of the Metropolitan to think kindly of native American singers.

"Behind Mary Lewis are eight years of steady ascent toward the goal she set for herself, which was not in the first place membership in the Metropolitan's forces. When, in 1917, she ran away from her home in the southwest, it was to sing in the chorus of an itinerant musical comedy which came to grief in San Francisco. This was discouraging but not disheartening, to the young woman who had sung in church choirs in Dallas and Little Rock, and was determined to keep on the path she had selected for herself. Singing in a cabaret helped her to carry on and eventually to reach New York.

"A chorus position in the Greenwich Village Follies, followed by a leading role, and then a season in the Ziegfeld Follies, with study and experience in Europe, which ranged from singing Marguerite in "Faust" in Vienna, to Sonia in "The Merry Widow" in Paris, followed by appearances in English opera in London—all these were the stages by which Mary Lewis ascended, through the hardships of her beginnings to a place among the stars of the Lyric world. It is not alone the American girl with a voice who seeks to be enrolled with the other celebrities at the Metropolitan. It is the ambition of every noted opera singer the world over."

Of course Mary Lewis' debut at the Metropolitan with its subsequent success not only in opera but in recital everywhere she is heard, is too well known to require repetition. And Mary Lewis is working and striving as hard today for further success and she never before worked and strove, and that is wherein lies the secret of her fantastical rise in the fairy story of her life.

OBITUARY
John F. Barry

Word was received Friday morning by Miss Mary J. Barry of the sudden death of her brother, John F. Barry, 36, of New York city. He was the son of the late Patrick and Catherine Connelly Barry and was born in Norwich, Sept. 26, 1891. He was a graduate of St. Patrick's school. Mr. Barry is survived by two sisters, Mary J. and Mrs. William J. Delaney, both of 92 Oakridge street and one brother, Joseph T. Barry, also of Oakridge street He spent most of his life in New York city and as a laborer he answered the call of mechanical engineer, being employed for several years by the Booth and Flynn Construction Co. of New York city. A member of the family has left for New York to make arrangements for bringing his body to Norwich where it will be waked at the home of Miss Mary J. Barry of 92 Oakridge street.

SHIP MODELS MAKE INSTRUCTIVE DISPLAY AT CONVERSE ART GALLERY

Under the auspices of the Women's City club and in collaboration with the Slater Museum an exhibit of ship models is being made at Converse Art gallery, that is full of interest, entertainment and instruction for those who visit it. The exhibit is open to the public without charge and is to be open on Saturday and Sunday afternoon from 3 to 5 and on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Two special developments in American shipping which are illustrated at length are whaling and the clipper ships.

Well chosen captions bring these subjects into prominence. Of the whaling industry it is said: "The records of these vessels comprise a brilliant chapter of American history. Their crews braved the continual risks of sea, of uncharted, unlighted coasts, of pirates and privateers, and carried the American flag throughout the world." Another caption says: "The whale ships were the pioneers. They cleared the way for the merchant and the missionary."

Making an appropriate introduction for the beginning of the history of whaling are two pictures, one of Thomas Y. Winship, grandfather of Raymond Case and the other of William Winn, grandfather of Rev. Alexander H. Abbott. Pictures of their ships are shown with them and the series is continued by showing the harpoon used by Capt. Winship, the Brand bomb lance which replaced the harpoon, and a small model of a sperm whale, which is loaned by the Mariners Savings bank of New London.

Actual scenes in hunting the whale at sea are shown by a model loaned by P. Leroy Harwood of New London and there are pictures of whaling ships loaned by Miss Helen Marshall, a square rigged whale ship model by James Davidson, and a beautiful picture of the whaler Ann Alexander, out of New Bedford in 1806, which was sunk by a whale in 1850. This is exhibited by Richard B. Snow.

The clipper ships are introduced by the caption: "The Yankee clipper ship was evolved only by 200 years of battling against desperate odds and seven generations of seafaring stock.

"They helped in winning the Revolution. Privately armed these vessels dealt British maritime prestige the deadliest and most humiliating blows it had ever suffered."

The development of the clipper from the old lumbering bluff-bowed ship to the trim model of the swift clippers is shown by models loaned by Capt. William White of New London, Flint Brayton of this city, P. Leroy Harwood and F. Valentine Chappell, both of New London and A. Bruckner of this city.

An exhibit that acquired unusual interest when it was learned that these ship models had all been whittled out by hand with jack knife and pen knife was that of Pasquale Montessi of West Thames street. He had a complete model of a three masted schooner, seven feet long, an Italian fishing boat almost as large, a bark and a tug.

One exquisite bit in the exhibition is a Viking ship made by Henry Bill Selden and loaned by the class of 1924, Connecticut college.

Other models displayed are those of a Chinese junk, loaned by Mrs. D. H. Leavens; Spanish galleon, loaned by Fred Crowell; tug, loaned by A. Bruckner; model of the "Constitution," loaned by Robert Billings.

There is also a case containing interesting examples of scrimshaw work, the name given to articles fashioned by sailors in their spare moments on shipboard, using wood, whalebone or other material. Included in this are articles loaned by Miss Marshall, Charles Dyer, Mrs. Charles H. Haskell and Maurice Taylor.

WILL SHIP CLOTHING TO VERMONT NEXT WEEK

The local Vermont flood committee held another meeting Friday evening at the relief headquarters, No. 145 Main street. The drive practically closed Friday night. The meeting was well attended. C. W. Taggart and H. D. Larrabee have been appointed a committee to take charge of the shipping of the clothing donated into the flood regions in Vermont. Anyone who wishes to make any more cash contributions may do so by giving the contributions to H. D. Laird at the Boston store or to Francis T. Diggins, chairman of the committee, at the Porteous-Mitchell Co. store.

The following resolution was passed:

In consideration of the great success of the relief movement for the flood sufferers of Vermont, we declare to extend our sincere and heartfelt thanks to the people of Norwich and nearby sections for the splendid response which they made to the appeal of the loyal sons and daughters of Vermont for assistance in their work of relief.

A great many contributions of money were received from individuals, firms and corporations, while the donations of clothing and bedding from the sympathetic people of the town were most gratifying. In most instances the clothing and bedding was warm and serviceable and particularly suitable for service in the devastated areas.

While we are intensely interested in the welfare of our native state, we are also proud of the city of our adoption, which has never failed to respond generously to every appeal made in a worthy cause. Our thanks are likewise due to the press of Norwich, which gave us splendid support, thereby enabling us to present to the public the urgent needs of the flood sufferers, also to the owners of the store who so generously donated the use of the headquarters at 145 Main street, and the local theatres. It has been most gratifying to us to find such a fine feeling and sympathy and cooperation amongst our fellow townspeople. We again thank you.

Signed,
Loyal Sons and Daughters of Vermont,
FRANCIS T. DIGGINS,
Chairman.

The clothing contributions will be shipped early next week.

ALIMONY HEARING AWAITS CRIMINAL CASE TRIAL

The claim against Ella S. Bryant of New London, for alimony pending the trial of the divorce action she has brought against Jesse Bryant of New London, was continued when it came up at the short calendar session of the superior court in this city. Jesse Bryant is the New London Negro, who ran amuck there in Hill street, Tuesday night shooting at two boys and attempting to shoot Officer George McCaskey. He is now in jail awaiting trial on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Mrs. Bryant testified Friday morning that her husband had been earning between $35 and $40 a week. Defense counsel informed the court that the reason Bryant ran amuck with a revolver was largely due to brooding over the fact that his wife will not live with him. Realizing that Bryant could not now meet any alimony payments if they were ordered, continued the matter, pending the result of the criminal trial against him.

Will Omit Short Calendar Session

There will be no short calendar session of the superior court next Friday, according to an announcement made Friday by Judge John R. Booth, at the short calendar session in this city. Judge Booth announced that cases postponed on Friday's list, would be continued for two weeks. Following adjournment next Wednesday the court will recess for the remainder of the week.

The case was heard following the disposal of the short calendar matters.

NORWICH TOWN

The 5:30 o'clock trolley out of Yantic going toward the city, in charge of Conductor Charles Roessler, was derailed at Wightman's switch Friday afternoon. The gear-pan dropped, throwing the forward truck off the rails. The wrecking crew of the Connecticut company was notified and had the tracks cleared for traffic at 7:15. Meantime there was no car out of Yantic at six, six-thirty, or seven o'clock, through passengers from Norwich, being obliged to walk from Wightman's switch until work was completed by the wrecking crew. This caused inconvenience to people in the upper part of the town, who were returning home from work.

Mrs. Harold Rose, of No. 1 Huntington avenue, has been passing several days in Lowell, Mass., called there by the death Tuesday, of her mother, Mrs. Ellen McGee. The funeral was held Thursday at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Rose will return home this week-end.

ASPERSIONS ON VALOR OF REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIERS

Rupert Hughes Writes That George Washingon Became Infuriated at the Cowardice of His Troops—Pictures the Washington Household With Card Tables Crowded, Dancing Bouts and Drinking Feasts—Asserts Washington Constantly Attended Questionable Playhouses.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The household of George Washington at Mount Vernon before the revolution is described in Rupert Hughes' second volume on the first president as just such a home as is now denounced as the origin of all vice.

Hughes, whose first Washington volume called forth widespread criticism, describes the Washington home as he finds it pictured in public and private documents, "with its card tables crowded, dancing bouts, drinking feasts, and excursions to horse races, balls and playhouses."

In Washington himself at this period Hughes finds little to distinguish him from the average successful business man of his day, and ours.

Protesting that there can be no sacrilege in representing Washington as a man "before, and while he became a God," the author remarks that of late "there has been an impatience to seek out the face behind the white mask, and the actual man is still in progress of reconstruction."

The first part of the book, which is to be published Wednesday by William Morrow and Company, deals at length with Washington's life as a country gentlemen after marrying Martha Custis, and as a member of the Virginia house of burgesses.

"He took his political duties," says Hughes, "apparently as lightly as the average modern member of the lower house of a state legislature. He said nothing in the assembly and spent his evenings playing cards or attending the theatre."

In a chapter on this period entitled "High Life at Williamsburg," Hughes says that Washington constantly patronized the playhouses, "where the young ladies of the town witnessed comedies that would startle Broadway of the twentieth century and bring the police patrol wagons to the stage door for the players."

Entries in the diary of 1760 are quoted by Hughes as "pleasant glimpses of him cheerfully going his way." These include sums spent for bets on horse races, for cards, for wine, for tickets to dances and "by treating the ladies."

Hughes' picture of the Continental army, based on letters, diaries and other manuscriptions many of them in Washington's own hand, differs widely from the accounts in what he calls "those fairy tales called schoolbooks." He quotes Washington as writing in 1777 that unless the people gave him aid in returning deserters "we shall be obliged to detach one half the army to bring back the other."

The American soldiers at the battle of Long Island, Hughes describes as "a mixed force of cowards and heroes."

"In a mad chaos of individual bravery, valor's better part, discretion and downright poltroonery," he writes, "the Americans were killed, wounded, captured or routed by English, Highlanders, Hessians and Loyalists.

"One of the British generals alleged that the very camp women hilariously joined in the holiday and actually captured prisoners."

Of the subsequent engagement at the place where the Grand Central terminal now stands in Manhattan, Hughes writes that an "anguish of fear" made a judgment day of the whole American force, while the Hessian peasants ran after them laughing and wondering that they should have been fetched so far to defend England from such cattle."

Washington was so overcome by the cowardice of his men, the author says, that after lashing at them with his whip, striking a brigadier general as well as private soldiers, he suffered a "paralysis of ire" within 30 yards of the enemy.

"It was then that it was left to his staff to save him," Hughes writes. "One of them rode up, caught his bridle, and led his horse away while Washington sat in the saddle, a dead man breathing."

The next day the Americans were successful in a counter attack and of this Hughes says that Washington "could hardly believe his eyes; his men were fighting, and in the open; they were driving the British back."

UNEMPLOYED WELSH MINERS COMPLETE 200 MILE HIKE

LONDON, Nov. 20—(AP)—The 200-mile hike of "Cozey's Army," begun 10 days ago in the Rhonda valley, came to an end today when A. J. Cook, secretary of the miners federation led his band of unemployed Welsh coal miners into Trafalgar square to listen to a stinging address condemning the Baldwin government.

Mounting the base of Lord Nelson's statue, Cook told his "army" and a great crowd of spectators that included many policemen, that the battle of Trafalgar is past—"we are fighting a battle for bread."

"It is not bolshevism," he went on, "but Baldwinism that we workers must contend with. We came to Lonodn to give Baldwin notice to quit. We claim the right to live."

Despite a heavy rain which started during the address, the crowd remained intact, and as darkness came on the miners lighted the lanterns which they brought with them. Cook, with a lantern in his hand, continued speaking for an hour after dark.

Contingents from labor and communist organizations in London attended with bands and banners. Irish pipes led the march into Trafalgar square and passed the monument to George Washington looking down upon Whitehall, where the unlucky Charles I met his fate.

The little army of hikers came into the center of London from the west, and the mass meeting at the base of Nelson's column ended the trek. The miners had plodded in from Chiswick, with A. J. Cook heading the procession. Swinging past the national gallery facing the square, alongside which stands Washington, the marchers waved their red flag at the bronze figure.

RULES OF HITCH HIKER WHO HAS TRAVELED 18,000 MILES

BOSTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—Eight rules for hitch-hikers have been prescribed by William C. Woolfson, a Boston university senior, who claims the intercollegiate hitch-hiking title. Woolfson boasts that he has traveled 18,000 miles without spending a penny for railroad fares during his college career. He has hich-hiked 6,000 miles following the Boston university football team on its trips.

His rules for free travel are simple. Dress simply and neatly. Do not carry more than can be packed in a brief case. Stand beside the road, under a light if at night. Do not wave wildly at passing machines, but give the driver a chance to look you over. Try for rides in the larger machines—they are usually going farther and will take you there in quicker time. Study a road map of the district through which you plan to travel. Learn something about automobiles so that you can assist in repairing and driving if necessary. Be a good conversationalist.

Woolfson's travels have taken him through the White Mountains and Green Mountains, into southern Canada and through New York state.

SALT'S TEXTILE MILLS STRIKE IS SETTLED

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A settlement of the strike of 250 weavers at the Salt's Textile mills has been made, and the weavers will go back to work tomorrow morning, Christian Frosch, chairman of the strike committee of the Salt's textile employes' association and Donald A. Mackey, general manager of the plant said today.

The strike partially tied up the services of 340 workers, including the group that went out. Neither Mackey nor Frosch would divulge the terms of the settlement, but each said that "an agreement had been reached which is satisfactory to all. The strike was called because of a dispute as to the number of "seconds" that were being called. A "second" is a poor piece of work and the pay for a product of the loom designated a "second" is less than that for a piece designated a "first." The management admitted at the time the strike was called that the frequency of "seconds" had increased prior to the strike but said it was because of the quality of the work of the weavers had deteriorated. The walkout took place October 28.

PYROMANIAC SPECIALIZES ON BABY CARRIAGES

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A charred baby carriage in the ruins of a stairway that had been liberally sprinkled with kerosene and gasoline and then set afire today struck terror through the lower east side where "the baby-carriage pyromaniac" had apparently resumed his incendiary operations.

Nearly one hundred occupants of a five-story tenement in Avenue "B" found safety on the roof today when the flaming stairs and hallway on the ground floor blocked their egress to the street. Two patrolmen, seeing the blaze, ran to the roof of the tenement and after smashing the skylight, led the frightened tenants to safety. No one was injured.

Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy, who recently issued a warning against incendiarists, investigated the fire and expressed the belief that the "baby-carriage pyromaniac," who has baffled police for five years, started it.

"FLIVVER" PLANE TO BE PLACED ON THE MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A "flivver" monoplane having a flying speed of 100 miles an hour and a landing speed of 10 miles an hour will be placed in quantity production after the first of the year, Clarence D. Chamberlin announced today.

Chamberlin's "flivver" will be a two-seater, powered with a small air-cooled motor temporarily to be imported from Europe and eventually to be manufactured in this country. He said he believed his secret of lightwing loading would assure the success of his plane.

The "air flivver" will have a body about 20 feet long and a 30-foot wing spread.

Chamberlin, who is said to have invested the prize money from his transatlantic flight in a $500,000 corporation to make the new planes, announced that the first models would cost about $2,500. The price will be reduced to $1,200 or $1,500 as production increased, he said.

TILSON ADDRESSED SPANISH WAR VETERANS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20—(AP)—Colonel John Q. Tilson, floor leader of the house of representatives and himself a veteran of the Spanish-American war, paid tribute to the outstanding heroes of that war and the late General Leonard Wood in particular, at a banquet held here by the Connecticut veterans Saturday night.

Colonel Tilson, a warm friend of General Wood for many years, sketched for the veterans, his trip to the Philippines last year to go over the work of the islands with the general, then governor. He declared that even at that time, which was several months before the general died, he was in very poor health and in fact despaired of ever making another trip to the states.

However, the colonel said, General Wood mustered enough strength to sail for the United States and together, they visited President Coolidge at the summer white house in the Black Hills, where the general made, what proved to be his last report, in person. Three weeks later, he died.

Colonel Tilson, who is a past commander of the department of Connecticut, told of other great men who took part in the conflict, his topic being "outstanding men of the Spanish war."

FAVORS REFERENDUM ON PROHIBITION QUESTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—Insertion into the political platform of at least one of the political parties in the 1928 presidential election of a plank for a national referendum on the prohibition question, will be striven for by the association against the prohibition amendment.

"Such an event," the association said today in a statement, "will give the people an opportunity to declare themselves on the most vital issue facing the nation since the slavery controversy which led up to the Civil war. Incidentally, the event may convince even the most ardent professional 'dry' that the huge majority of the nation's citizenry in favor of prohibition' exists only in their distorted imaginations."

"COXEY'S ARMY" WAS BARRED FROM RUNNIMEDE MEADOW

WINDSOR, Eng., Nov. 20—(AP)—The carefully laid plans of the leaders of "Cozey's Army" to visit Runnimede Meadow where the barons nagged King John into signing the magna charta, went askew today when the police authorities sent word in advance that it would be better not to do.

Runnimede Meadow is a part of the crown lands near Windsor castle and the police are extremely particular about whom they admit to those parts. Leaders of the marching unemployed miners had planned an elaborate ceremony at Runnimede Meadow and had prepared to have the nine points setting forth their grievance against the government signed on parchment on the very spot where King John signed the 48 articles of the barons.

Slaughter of Maine Moose is Predicted

Ten Years of Protection Have Made Them an Easy Prey For Hunters.

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 20—(AP)—A slaughter of Maine moose was predicted by Willis E. Parsons, commissioner of inland fisheries and game, in announcing the open season, which starts tomorrow at daylight and continues through November 26. [illegible] counties of Washington, Aroostook, Penobscot, [illegible], Somerset, Waldo [illegible]

The moose are [illegible] Washington, Hancock and [illegible], where most of them are located, that they wander into the villages he said. Ten years of protection have made them easy prey for hunters.

The moose, the state official said, are numerous in Washington county as hundreds of these animals have come down from New Brunswick, where there has been an open season on them for many years. They are comparatively scare in the so-called game counties where plenty of deer abound.

Non-resident hunters may hunt moose by paying $25 for a license. Non-resident licenses for deer cost $15.

SAYS THE U. S. MUST SPEND MONEY IN FOREIGN MARKETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—The United States must spend at least one ninth of its annual income in foreign markets to avert a world credit crisis, said George Paish, noted British economist, in an article in the tariff review.

"The United States ought to spend $1,000,000,000 or better, $2,000,000,000, out of its annual income of $9,000,000,000 in foreign countries, to permit these countries to purchase American produce in return and to enable them to meet their obligations to this country for the capital supplied them since the war," said Sir Paish.

"The present situation is a serious one," he continued. "The amount of credit granted both at home and abroad by the United States in the thirteen-year period since the beginning of the war has been so vast that the great reservoir of new credit which alterations of the bank reserve law and the immense gold imports created has been largely utilized.

"There is no present indication of monetary stringency in the United States. Figures show that there was $4,000,000,000 worth of new capital issued during the first half of 1927. Nevertheless should new credit continue to be created after the manner of recent years, it is evident that the available supplies will be exhausted in the not disant future."

COURSES FOR YALE LAW SCHOOL SUMMER SESSION

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Honors courses for individual and group research work in the summer session of the Yale Law school, were announced today in the inauguration of a new experiment in legal education by Professor Robert M. Hutchins, acting dean of the law school. Dean Hutchins also announced that entrance requirements would be stiffened for members of the senior class of Yale college who wished to combine last year academic with their first year in law. An increase would be made in tuition at the law school, he said.

The honors plan will be instituted with the entering class of the next session, and when those who are now saving a year by attending three summer sessions are graduated, the entire summer session will be on the honors basis. If this experiment proves successful, the plan might be extended to the regular law sessions, where now only a high-stand third year men are allowed to do honors work.

Honors work is not carried on in any law school in the United States below the third year, and it was felt that if the Yale experiment should prove successful district contribution to American legal education will have been made.

DENIES REPORTS ABOUT REPUBLIC IN RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 20—(AP)—Premier Bratianu left a sick bed today to characterize as ridiculous and fantastic recent reports that he intends to establish a republic in Rumania.

"The liberal party," he said, "has affirmed constantly that Rumania can prosper and develop only with the hereditary monarch, which is the foundation of its constitution. The monarchy must be kept aloof from political dissension.

"I represent a party, which for 70 years has striven for an absolute constitutional regime. How can I do otherwise than be faithful? It is sheer nonsense to refer to me as an absolute dictator, for I did not come into power by force, but at the wish of a man whose competence has never been questioned—King Ferdinand who, realizing he was dying, believed the government would be safer in my hands than any other. A certificate of that kind from the late sovereign is the highest compliment that can come to any man."

SPAIN MIGHT CREATE AN INSURANCE MONOPOLY

MADRID, Nov. 20—(AP)—The economic program of the Spanish government to secure an even trade balance has already placed great difficulties in the path of foreign traders in Spain, and if the nationalist spirit now so strikingly in evidence continues to grow, the future holds little hope for improvement.

Government monopolies on tobacco, matches, oil and telephones are now in existence, and it is understood that legislation to create an insurance monopoly is being drafted. The sole object of monopolizing these industries, according to a government spokesman, is to retain trade profits in Spanish hands that has heretofore gone abroad. As an added measure of safety to insure the fulfillment of this objective, clauses are being inserted in all concession granted foreigners restricting the number of foreign employes to technicians and organizers.

Says Work is the Only Panacea For Mankind

Henry Ford Opines That Only Through Work May World Peace Be Established.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—Only through work may world peace be established, because unemployment and idleness breed wars and revolutions, Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, said in an interview with Herman Bernstein, an author, to be published tomorrow.

Terming work "the only salvation of the world today," Ford discussed war and peace, the future of nations, American politics and prosperity, the news, aviation and the new model of his automobile. The theme, "work" ran through the entire interview.

"The nations that apply themselves to hard work must succeed and make progress. Germany is one of the best examples of a nation getting on its feet again after such a dreadful catastrophe. I believe that Russia will also come into her own. China will also adjust herself.

"I am not working merely for today or only for myself. I believe that we should do all we can, not only for ourselves, but also for posterity.

"In ten years, perhaps even in five years, the large airplanes carrying 200 passengers will be in general use. People will not hesitate to travel in large planes as they now hesitate to get into a small plane."

He believed that Herbert Hoover would make an excellent president of the United States.

APPEAL FOR THE STRIKING MINERS OF PENNSYLVANIA

Plea Made by the American Federation of Labor to More Than 30,000 Local Unions in the United States and Canada—Thousands of Miners Have Been Evicted and Thousands Are Facing Eviction—They Must Have Help to Endure the Hardships of Winter.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—An appeal to contribute money and supplies to the cause of the striking miners in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia to enable them to endure the "almost unbearable" hardships which winter will entail, was addressed today by the American Federation of Labor to more than 30,000 local unions in the United States and Canada.

The appeal, which also was sent to 107 national and international labor organizations, 48 state federations and 1,000 city central bodies, stated that in addition to enduring "suffering, sacrifice and starvation" in Pennsylvania, "these heroic miners and their families x xx are the victims of brutal and inhuman treatment accorded them by coal and iron police, the state constabulary and deputy sheriffs.

"Thousands have been evicted from their homes," the apeal added, and are living in barracks built for them by the United Mine Workers of America. Thousands are facing eviction. With the approach of winter their hardships will be almost unbearable and they must have help in order to endure them.

"In these desperate straits they look to us, their brothers and sisters in the trade union movement, for sustenance and support. The long-continued struggle during the summer and fall has exhausted their resources. Without funds, clothing, food or shelter they battle on with a grim determination and with an unconquerable spirit.

"The intensity and duration of the struggle constitute a test of the courage and purpose of the miners. Each day makes new demands upon their fortitude and each hour they are called upon to make new sacrifices."

Saying that 150,000 miners are on strike with 600,000 women and children dependent upon them, the appeal, signed by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, "appeals to the membership of our great organized labor movement and to their friends asking for money, food, clothing, shoes and blankets.

"The voice of the sturdy miner whose head is bowed with grief, as he daily witnesses the suffering of his wife and offspring is in this appeal. The voice of the wife and mother begs of you to help her feed her young. The cries of the little children, huddled in barracks and temporary shacks, resound in this appeal."

WARRANT ISSUED FOR RUSSIAN NOTES FORGERS

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The forgery of Russian Chervonets notes to the face value of many million rubles, involves a plot with wide ramifications throughout most of the capitals of Europe. The forgeries are said to have been first discovered by the spurious currency department of the Berlin police, which, according to one report, may thereby have saved the Soviet treasury from collapse. By the cooperation of French and German police five persons suspected of being implicated have been brought to Berlin and warrants have been issued for others.

The idea of the plot seems to have been conceived by the so-called committee for the liberation of the Caucasus in Paris to smash the Soviet currency system by swamping Europe with counterfeit Russian notes. The origin of the plot dates back a year or more. It is alleged that in the summer of 1926, two Caucasian representatives went to London for the purpose of obtaining British compensation in the liberation movement through the Royal Dutch company, whose oil interests in the event free rein were given the president to name the farm board proposed in all farm relief measures.

Under terms of the McNary-Haugen bill this board would have been named by the president from selections made by the various farm organizations. This was objected to by Mr. Coolidge in vetoing the bill.

Some sentiment has arisen for a change in this provision of the bill to grant full power of appointment to the president, subject to senate confirmation.

FEUD BETWEEN NARCOTIC PEDDLERS IN THE BRONX

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—A score of shots, fired so rapidly as to give police impression of a machine gun battle, led detectives investigating the shooting of two men in the Bronx early today to the discovery of what they said appeared to be a feud between narcotic peddlers.

One of the victims of the spray of bullets fired from a speeding automobile said he was Nathan Brooks, 30, of Philadelphia. His wife, walking with him, was uninjured. Police found in his wife's handbag a photograph and license as a chauffeur that identified the wounded man as Benjamin Weinstein, 30, of a lower east side address in New York city. He was shot in the hip.

Police found a .38 calibre police special revolver under his body when he was picked up and upon examining his clothing found a small quantity of opium sewed in the seam of a trouser leg. He was arrested in the hospital, charged with violation of the Harrison narcotic act and the Sullivan anti-gun law.

A pedestrian, Joseph Herman, 30, walking behind Weinstein, was shot in the arm.

Weinstein, who has been convicted previously under the Sullivan law, said that he and his wife were on their way from a neighborhood theatre to meet a man known to them only as "Jack" when the shooting took place. While they waited, the car, containing several men whom Weinstein said he did not recognize, whirled into the street and a fusilade of .45 calibre bullets was fired.

CONFIRMATION OF EUGENE MEYER MAY BE CONTESTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—A contest over the confirmation of Eugene Meyer, who was appointed chairman of the federal farm loan bureau by President Coolidge last spring, is brewing in the senate with members of the farm block leading the opposition.

Opponents declare Meyer is unfriendly to agriculture and base their contentions on his administration of the war finance corporation.

Senator Nye, of North Dakota, one of the group of western independent republicans, declared today that the farm block of the senate would oppose Meyer's confirmation and would consider the result a showdown on the nature of appointees the senate would consider in the event free rein were given the president to name the farm board proposed in all farm relief measures.

Under terms of the McNary-Haugen bill this board would have been named by the president from selections made by the various farm organizations. This was objected to by Mr. Coolidge in vetoing the bill.

Some sentiment has arisen for a change in this provision of the bill to grant full power of appointment to the president, subject to senate confirmation.

DANIELSON

SEARCH OF POND FAILS TO REVEAL BODY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 20—The week end observation and search of the mill pond at Wilsonville and stretches of the river below that failed to locate the body of the young woman who may have gone to her death when the automobile of Jerome V. Sheldon plunged through a guard rail and into Keegan's mill pond on the eve of Armistice day. Incidentally, so many days have elapsed since the accident occurred that, unless it is entangled in something at the bottom of the pond or stretches of the river below, it should have risen to the surface by today.

Failure to recover the body, not through lack of effort to locate it, by any means, has strengthened the conviction of a great many people that there is no body in the water, and that Sheldon was alone when he met death. That viewpoint, and those who still believe a girl went to death with Sheldon and was swept out of his closed car through an open window when it plunged into a mill pond, will have to await the passage of time for decision. As a matter of fact, no one, insofar has been learned, knows anything about it, and everyon has an opinion.

Even after the mills were closed Saturday noon and the water drawn down to the possible minimum there was so much water and such a swift current that state officers from the Danielson barracks were unable to make as detailed a search as they desired. If there is a body in the mill pond or in the reaches of the river below and it is not entangled on the bottom of the stream, it should rise to the surface. The time is up for such a noccurrence.

Red Cross workers were resting on their arms here this afternoon, awaiting the coming of Monday and the final day's effort to put the annual enrollment campaign over the top with a rush. It is forecasted that they will do that. Saturday's efforts were productive of a very considerable success toward that end. Something more was done today when Tri-Y girls were on duty at some of the churches in the borough. Today's work is to be followed up with special activity on Monday. That's the last day of the campaign, which is well organized and which has brought commendable results.

William Boulay was at his home in Putnam today, nursing cuts and bruises he received last night while roaming around the crowded state highway near the state police barracks without such lights as the motor vehicle department requires of those who drive cars. A machine driven by Jesse Burgess of this town knocked Boulay out of the traffic picture. It did not appear today that his injuries are of a serious nature.

Saturday morning the funeral of Adelard Ducharme was held from his home in Plainfield with services at St. John's church in that place at 9 o'clock, many relatives and friends attending the solemn high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. John's cemetery. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

At the end of the month Men's clubs of various churches in the town of Killingly are to assemble for a Fellowship banquet to be held at the Westfield Congregational church. Plans for the event are well advanced, and it is expected to bring together more members of the various interested churches in town than have been assembled on one occasion of the sort in years.

A motor truck that was wrecked weeks ago and that belongs to a Yantic concern has been left to block a roadway near the tracks of the New Haven road leading north from Franklin street near St. James' school. The truck was struck by a train when wrecked. It blockades a convenient way, and there really seems an excuse to inquire just why it is allowed to remain where it is to be a nuisance to everyone who happens to want to pass that way with a motor car.

Young America, including some members of the Danielson organization of Boy Scouts, went over to Providence Saturday to watch the Brown-New Hampshire state football game, the arrangements for which outing involves honorable mention of Danielson's Rotary club in making the arrangements.

The northeast and northwest corners of Main and Academy streets are destined for a development, that will greatly enhance the appearance of Danielson during the coming year, with operations to the end mentioned starting in the spring. The Brooklyn Savings bank is to build a fine structure on one corner and Nathan Blumenthal has plans for an attractive new structure to go on the corner just across the street. The investment and construction cost of the two new buildings will represent between $150,000 and $200,000.

This is one month that has confounded the long distance weather prophets—plenty. It should ruin them, but why hope? Floods, summer temperatures, shifting to winter this morning—and not a word about it. Make your own forecasts. You can't lose. There's nothing to loose.

There is the promise that the Service battery will have a basketball team the coming winter, playing games at the state armory.

All of the manufacturing plants of this town are to close Wednesday night next for the observance of Thanksgiving day.

Electricity continues to displace all other sources of power for the operation of mills and other concerns using power of one kind or another in Danielson, and the water power of the town, in a degree, is being employed to help in the generation of the strange force.

George A. Sarazen of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston A. Maindon were visitors in Providence on Sunday, with guests.

The fact that building costs are falling need not be taken too seriously in Danielson. As a matter of fact, it may serve to revive the local building boom and induce those to come in who have been holding out for lower construction costs.

More or less enthusiastic, if worn out, contingents of Yale students, used the route through Danielson today to motor back to New Haven after their football teams had chewed up John Harvard at Cambridge Saturday.

GREENEVILLE-MOOSUP CARS IN EARLY MORNING CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 20—A Ford coupe and Studebaker sedan came together at six o'clock Sunday morning near the entrance to F. L. Kanahan's farm. The coupe went up the bank and came back landing on one side, injuring two of the occupants. The Studebaker had a bent fender and running board. The coupe was driven by Louis Pastore, 10 Silver street, Greeneville, with two other occupants, one of whom Rosario Cigarro of 10 Silver street, was injured. They were on their way to Worcester, expecting to get there inside of an hour. They stopped a passing machine, and sent for Deputy Sheriff Dolan, building a fire beside the road, while they waited in the cold. They were treated later at Dr. G. H. Jennings' office, for both men were badly cut. The occupants of the Studebaker were Stephen Piscillie, his mother and sister, of Salisbury Ave., Moosup. They were on their way to New London to visit Mr. Piscillie's wife, who is ill there.

THANKSGIVING DINNERS

When everyone is getting ready for Thanksgiving there is an appeal which has been made by the family welfare department of the United Workers which cannot be allowed to go unnoticed.

This department engages each year at this time in making provision for Thanksgiving dinners for those families which are likely to go without if left to their own resources. For many years the school children of the town contributed many barrels of vegetables and supplies of various kinds which help to round out a fitting holiday menu, but those contributions do not completely meet the situation.

As the department officials point out there are 130 families to be provided for, numbering from three to 10 members each, which means a substantial bill for the meat that is furnished each family to say nothing of the other things which go into the basket to round out the holiday meal.

Inasmuch as these dinners go to worthy families and the department has thus far received only a small fraction of the sum needed, there is an excellent opportunity for those who will be enjoying the best the land affords on Thanksgiving day to think of those less fortunate and to use this method for the expression of additional thanks for the blessings received during the year.

There is a service involved in brightening Thanksgiving day for so many that the people of Norwich should be anxious to encourage. Frequently the desire is voiced to provide just such cheer if it were known where it was needed. The family welfare department knows and it is the agency that is not only endeavoring to make a real Thanksgiving day for several hundred people but is ready and willing to act as the agent for those who have the means and the inclination to do something for the unfortunate. It knows where the food is needed, where it will be welcomed, and it provides the opportunity for the many in Norwich through their contributions to see that they are served. As it is more blessed to give than receive, form a line and pass in your dollars.

PICKNICKERS UNDER TEST

Here, there and everywhere there are to be seen signs affixed to trees, fences and posts bearing such words as "No Picnicking Here," "No Trespassing," "Keep Out," "Trespassing Forbidden." In many instances they attract attention because in the past those places have been the objective of many a picnic party and the story they tell is that the privileges were abused, property damaged, grounds left littered with rubbish and the owners became so disgusted with it that they decided to put a stop to it once and for all. Not all of the picnickers were responsible but all are being penalized for the sins of the few.

Not all faith in human nature has been lost, however, if we read aright the placard which an Akron, O., property owner has tacked up. It reads: "They say if I let you picnic here you will ruin my property. I don't believe it so will try my experiment for one year. Please back me up by building no fires and disposing of your rubbish. If you pick the wild flowers there will not be any another year. This is a game preserve, so do not shoot."

That is the welcome that the public looking for a picnic ground gets. It is a case of putting to a test the motoring parties by indicating what is expected and appealing to them to meet their responsibilities. It differs a bit from the picnic grounds from which of many have been barred in that a code of conduct is set forth. Under such conditions there is a willingness to try out fellow men. For those who read there can be no excuse for other than satisfactory conduct. How many will not read, or how many will read and forget, no one knows.

It is a 2100 acre farm to which access has been given and where the picnic parties are being put on trial. It may be a revelation to some of them to learn that they have responsibilities when out on a picnic, and to the owner that there are people who do not believe in signs.

All things are possible under such a test but there's a willingness to go through with it with the picnic parties furnishing the evidence on which the final decision will be made.

A MEXICAN DECISION

At a time when it is believed better relationship between the United States and Mexico is about to be established, much significance is attached to one of the latest decisions which has been handed down by the supreme court of Mexico. This has to do with provisions of the petroleum law, which this country has maintained was unconstitutional because it was retroactive.

This retroactive phase of the matter has been the cause of much discussion because it has been maintained that under it Mexico could obtain possession of oil lands which had been legitimately acquired by Americans without adequate compensation. In other words oil lands and rights to exploit the same, which land and rights were obtained before 1917 when the oil law was adopted, were to become concessions to run for a 50 year period and those who did not make application for such concessions within a year of the time the law went into effect forfeited their title and rights.

It was not the contention that Mexico did not have the right to legislate regarding the sale and control of oil property from 1917 on, but that it could not take away the title and right of those whose property had been properly acquired before that time in accordance with the then existing laws of Mexico.

It is a case inolving just these points that has gone through the supreme court of Mexico. In fact only four American owners complied with the Mexican demands after the oil law was passed. The decision of Mexico's highest court upholds the American contention. The Mexican government has indicated that it was willing to be shown. The decision of its own court stands forth conspicuously, but no more so than was expected from this side of the border.

It is an interesting feature of Mexican law that five decisions of the highest court are required to establish the unconstitutionality of a law beyond doubt. That means there are four decisions to go but an excellent start has been made.

ADJUST, DON'T DIM

"Dim Your Headlights," says a headline.

Perhaps you have tried that very thing and found that it created more uncertainty on your part in reaching for the switch and experiencing a poorer view of the roadside than in trying to look through the strong-lighted car coming toward you.

Perhaps you have tried it and found that it got no response from the other fellow—the fellow with the headlight that was bothering you.

Perhaps you have recalled that it is the advice of the motor vehicle commissioner not to dim the headlights.

The fact of the matter is that there ought to be no need of dimming the headlights and there wouldn't be if the headlights conformed to the legal requirements and were properly adjusted. If the lights on those cars which bother were focused so that they were directed toward the surface of the road instead of up into the trees, sideways or on a level there would be no shining into the eyes of those going in the other direction. Lights which are directed down upon the road serve the drivers of the car on which they are located without bothering the other fellow. Those who are not adjusted downward get into the eyes of the driver going the other way and make it difficult for him to see his highway. If the latter dims it is all the worse, especially if his lights or not correctly adjusted and lighting up his side of the road. Get and keep the headlights adjusted and there will be no need for dimming and highway safety will be greatly increased.

CLEVELAND STICKS

In the matter of city government the city manager plan has been viewed with considerable favor during the past decade. There are instances where it has been a marked success, and there are others where it has encountered a different experience. It is a form of government which depends to a large extent upon the kind of men who are chosen for the council and particularly upon the manager that is selected. That is a vital point of course in any form of government.

Cleveland is one of the largest cities that has adopted the city manager plan. It has been in effect there for nearly four years. It hasn't gotten along without opposition, but if the sentiment of the people as recently expressed at the polls means anything it is giving satisfaction.

There was a demand for the return of the city to party government such as preceded the city manager plan. It was possible to comply with the requirements for getting an expression of the people upon it and this month that question was put to a vote. There was a campaign in which both sides were afred and the result is that Cleveland has voted to continue under the city manager plan.

The claim is made that Cleveland has been fortunate in the selection made by the council for manager. He understands the city's problems and has been able to deal with them in what was believed the correct manner without fear of running contrary to political influences. Possibly Cleveland will find it desirable some time later to abandon the present form, or to make some improvements in it, but at the present time the people who have a right to change it are not in the mood for such a move. In other words Cleveland sticks.

Why is it that because Americans spend about $300,000,000 in Canada each year the idea is harbored that it all goes for wet goods?

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Serve honey with French toast for luncheon.

Hot water will loosen the handles of steel knives.

Old silk stockings make pretty crocheted rugs.

Ammonia will make your spectacles bright and clean.

Dishes for the invalid should be delicately flavored.

A spoonful of chopped meat is nice added to the omelet.

Boiling water poured from a tea kettle through a cloth that has a fresh coffee stain on it will often remove it.

When crumbs are used for stuffing melt some butter and mix the crumbs thoroughly with it to distribute the flavor.

Make individual biscuts for the strawberry shortcake.

Oatmeal for one person: Use one-fourth cup of meal to one-half cup of boiling water; cook in double boiler.

If asparagus is cooked in short lengths, do not add the heads until the rest of the stalks are nearly done.

Only experienced persons should install or repair electrical fixtures.

A paste of borax and water removes chocolate stains.

If soap flakes are beaten with an egg beater fewer flakes will be required to make a good suds.

Towels should be folded in thirds lengthwise, so that they need no refolding to hang on the racks in the bathroom.

If celery becomes soft, place in salted water and add a small potato cut in pieces. The celery will regain its crispness.

Let a chicken stand in salted water for half an hour after dressing it. Then rinse well before cooking.

Very wet shoes may be dried by filling them with crushed newspapers and the leather will be left soft and pliable.

Dip the knife in cold water before cutting a pie with a meringue on top and you will make a neater, better cut.

If a recipe calls for one square of chocolate and there is none in the house, substitute two tablespoons of cocoa and increase the amount of butter.

FRESH RASPBERRY SAUCE.

Mash some fresh raspberries and let them stand for twenty-four hours. Strain through a sieve fine enough to keep the seeds. For each quart of pulp add a pint of sugar, stir until the sugar is dissolved, then let boil rapidly for twelve minutes. Store in fruit jars like canned fruit.

PAPER TOWELING.

A roll of paper toweling should be kept in the kitchen to wipe off the stove, to prepare vegetables on, to wipe out greasy pans and to drain doughnuts.

NEXT WINTER'S COAL.

Have the next winter's supply of coal stored in a dry, airy place in the cellar, and it will burn far better and waste less than if kept in a close, poorly ventilated cellar.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

The majority of counties in Kansas now have women as superintendent of schools.

Insurance policies for $1,000,000 or more are carried by nine women in the United States.

Among the Eskimos of northern Canada each man has as many wives as he can support.

Of the 8,500,000 women wage earners in the United States more than 2,000,000 are married.

Cardiff, Wales, now claims to have more beautiful women than any other city of its size in Europe.

Eighteen-year-old Lillian Jenkinson, of Monroe, Neb., daughter of a race horse owner, is an experienced jockey.

Edith M. Atkinson, judge of the Juvenile Court of Dade county, Florida is the only woman judge in that state.

CANDLE HOLDERS

If you lack candle holders for a birthday cake, arrange marshmallows on top of frosting and stick colored candles into them.

CONVENIENT TOWELS

Colored cotton crepe, bought by the yard, makes economical and colorful towels for the kitchen and for children's play towels.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The scarf collar of a carmine red chiffon afternoon frock has a deep pleated flounce like the insert of the left side of the skirt.

Fur has taken to plaids for sports wear. A sports coat of baby lamb in beige and brown uses the dark tone to plaid the light.

Shoulder flowers and corsages are now fashioned from marcasite with colored stones set in them. Many new evening gowns use them.

In addition to the wreath of orange blossoms, an autumn bride wore earring loops of the blossoms—making good luck doubly sure.

One of the most successful models of the season is a felt turban, with the material drawn into a bow at one side. This in turn is run through a large gold ring.

Among the striking pieces of costume jewelry that have just arrived from abroad are necklaces and bracelets of large pearl beads with a single ornament of jade.

So popular is velvet this season that even the accessories are made of it. Charming little envelope bags come in all the pastel shades of velvet, with clasps of rhinestones.

An egg-plant purple velvet dress has a surplice bodice and irregular panels to the skirt which leaves its deep pleats unpressed to simulate gathers.

Ear flaps of fur, of feathers, flanges of soft velvet, back bows of squashy hatters' plush—these are some of the flattering notes of new hats.

An evening wrap of beauty is made of black velvet lined with white and trimmed with a great collar of white fox. A short cape of the same snowy fur.

Krimmer is enjoying a much deserved success both abroad and here, and quite the smartest coats are lavishly trimmed with this becoming fur. In brown or in gray it is equally successful.

The inevitable felt takes on a new appearance when it is covered with wool embroidery in gay colors. Narrow little scarfs of the same accompany the hats, and the effect is wonderfully cheerful.

Flaring skirts are coming more into evidence but they must flare only from thigh to hem line. The fullness is gathered under two huge cockades on each hip.

STATELY EVENING FROCK

As stately and beautiful as any frock worn in medieval times is an evening dress made of yellow moire shot with gold. The material is so beautiful that the frock requires no trimming except rosettes of the same, which are placed low upon the skirt and have ends that reach the floor. The length of the skirt is worthy of comment. It is extremely long and full.

NEW SLIPPER BAG

Far removed from the old-fashioned slipper bag is a hanging affair with compartments for six or nine pairs of slippers. Each space has its own dust curtain, so that even the most fragile of slippers is safe.

VOGUE FOR VELVET GOWNS

The vogue of velvet has been given greater impetus by the introduction of the very sheer transparent velvet. It is unusually effective in black and is used for evening and day dresses as well as for evening wraps.

NEEDLEWORK HELPS

To pull threads in linen easily, run a damp cloth along the line where the thread is to be pulled.

When household linens wear out in the hemstitched hems, join the linen to the hem with a novelty braid. It doubles the life of the article and looks surprisingly well.

The woman who enjoys sewing will delight a beautiful bedspread of organdie which may easily be made at home. The center part is pink, and as a border there are wide bands of green, yellow and blue organdie faggoted together. Large organdie flowers are used for decoration.

Professional buttonhole makers always baste around a buttonhole or stitch on a machine before cutting the hole. It insures a neater finished buttonhole.

Does your needle ever get blunt while you are stitching on the machine, and pull the threads of your material? If you run the needle through ordinary steel wool a few times it will sharpen the point.

BROKEN CHAINS

The even chains of graduated beads are evolving into irregularity. Even strings of pearls are breaking, here and there, to allow bits of transparent crystal or jade to separate the smaller jewels into groups. The heavy cords of gold, about a quarter of an inch thick, are knotted at intervals with bits of jade and even bracelets are allowing large stones of Chinese red and amber to break their continuity.

NEW CLOTHES BASKET

A wooden bushel basket lined with white oilcloth makes a convenient carrier for clothes. It is inexpensive and can be used many times to a better advantage than a large one.

EASY TO CLEAN

When you buy linoleum for your kitchen, measure your table tops and cupboard shelves and add sufficient yards to your order to cover these working spaces. It will improve the appearance of your room to have them match the floor, and linoleum table tops are comfortable, easy to clean and lessen breakage of dishes.

JELLY IN MINCEMEAT

Use your crystallized grape jelly in making mince meat. Melt it over the fire if necessary and stir in the contents of one or two glasses. Jelly which has sugared can be used to advantage in this way.

THE PAINT POT

Keep the paint brushes in a jar of turpentine between usings.

Keep cans of paint tightly covered between usings or the paint will harden.

Should the brush become hardened and stiff, place it in a saucepan and cover with vinegar. Let boil until the brush is soft and pliable.

Should the paint become hardened and apparently useless, pour an inch of turpentine on top of it and let remain for a few days. Then stir with a stick and continue until soft and ready for use.

KILLS WORMS

To exterminate earth worms from potted plants, thrust unburnt sulphur matches, heads down, unto the earth around the plants. Use from two to six matches, according to the size of the plant.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

The first need of almost all American hands is oil.

Brittle nails come from lack of oil.

Chapped and reddened and wrinkled hands can be gloriously improved by oil.

Pure olive oil, or oils especially evolved for hands, should be rubbed in well and worked in carefully around the cuticles.

A little powered borax shaken into stockings will greatly relieve burning feet.

In almost all instances it is better to let the patient sleep when he can rather than waken him to administer medicine.

Clean the medicine cabinet frequently so you can throw out prescribed medicines before they become dangerous if taken. Also it enables you to take account of stock and replace necessary supplies that should always be on hand.

PICNIC SANDWICH

Cut top nearly off small biscuit, scoop out part of inside and fill with chicken chopped fine, well seasoned with salt, pepper, butter and cream. Replace lid.

SPICED ICE TEA

Make a sirup by boiling for five minutes one cup'ul of sugar, two cupfuls of water, one tablespoonful of whole cloves and two pieces of stick cinnamon. Strain to remove the spices. Make a strong tea infusion and pour it off the leaves. Add the spiced sirup to taste. Add crushed ice, slices of lemon and sprigs of mint before serving

PASS IT ALONG

Large lumps of unslackened lime placed in damp corners of the cellar will greatly purify the air and absorb the moisture.

Use the ice pick to remove doughnuts from the hot fat. Two or three can be removed at one time by this method.

DELICATELY SCENTED

A muslin bag containing a little orris root placed in the water when boiling handkerchiefs will give them a faint but lovely scent of violets.

MEASURING BUTTER

Half a cupful of butter is given in many recipes. A quick way to arrive at this is to fill the measuring cup half full of water, then drop in the butter till the water rises to the top. This takes far less time than to pack the butter down in a cup.

SUMMER RUST

Linseed oil will remove any rust spots that accumulate on the stove during the summer weather. Any very obstinate spot can be sandpapered.

TRY IT

One housewife does all her own work and cooking and does it well, stops work for 10 or 15 minutes in the middle of the day and reads some light literature for that period. It is just a tiny recess, but the diversion and rest obtained make her "carry on" with more zest and happier thoughts.

RECIPES.

Scalloped apples: Butter a baking dish, put in a layer of sliced tart apples, a layer of butter crumbs and so on until two cups of apples, one of crumbs and one of sugar have been used. Bake in a moderate oven and serve with hard sauce. Scalloped apples are good with meat, in which case they may be baked in individual ramekins, each ramekin being lined with a strip of bacon.

Colorful cranberry salad—6 slices pineapple, 1 cup green grapes, peeled, halved and seeded; 1-4 cup cranberry mold, lettuce, cheese fancies, parsley, paprika.

Line individual salad plates with lettuce, put a slice of pineapple in center, place grapes around edge of pineapple. In center of pineapple place a small square of cranberry mold. Decorate with a cheese fancy (pear, apple or small, deep-grooved celery filled with well-seasoned cream cheese). Sprinkle with finely chopped parsley and paprika. Salad dressing of choice is passed separately.

CURLS AND GLASSES

Be careful when using a curling iron if you wear tortoise-shell glasses that the hot iron does not come in contact with them. They are highly inflammable and might cause serious injury to the wearer. Remove them before the curling process.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Founding—And Building Colchester.

To the Editor: I venture to ask for some more space in The Bulletin believing that the material being developed on the early history of eastern Connecticut merits publication. I was as pleased to have my esteemed friend F. O. Bissell start a public exchange of letters as I am to find one from him on my desk. He knows a great deal about Hebron and vicinity that ought to be put into print.

As to Micaiell Taintor being a founder of Colchester he was beyond doubt one of the pioneers and "first principal planters," but I like to think of my ancestor Micaiell as a builder rather than founder. He filled many town offices being Colchester's first town clerk and acting as such for 30 years until his death. He was clerk and often "committee" or agent for the proprietors. Also "one of her majesty's (Queen Anne's) justices of the peace," and a representative for Colchester at the general assembly for 26 sessions! Also of interest is the fact that he was the first licensed "ordinary keeper" in Colchester.

As a justice of the peace we find him signing a deed and writing the paragraph which follows — a rather surprising act and one that might not stand as legal test today:

"Colchester March ye: 14th: 1726: I ye under wrighter (& grantor & subscriber to ye above written Instrument: Do: under my office: oath) acknowleg ye above written Instrument to be my free & vollentary act & Deed—

Micaiell Taintor Justice of Ye Peace."

Edward M. Taintor today owns land west of Colchester Center that has never been recorded in any other name since the town was founded. I understand George Loomis of Westchester Center also lives on land his ancesto (Taintor's brother-in-law) drew at the first apportionment of land. But such instances are rare.

To digress—I have a question to put to local historians. In 1755-56 there were 400 Acadians allotted to Connecticut from the thousands deported from Nova Scotia. Some were sent to each town in the colony (Colchester's allotment was seven).

Can anyone trace the subsequent history of any of these unfortunates and unwilling emigrees?

YOUR HEALTH

PREVENTION COMPARATIVELY NEW ERA IN MEDICINE

By C. T. Chamberlain, M. D., Natchez, Miss., Member Gorgas Memorial.

The late Maj.-Gen. William Crawford Gorgas was truly the father of preventive medicine, the object of which is not only to save human life but to prevent human sickness and suffering.

The purpose of the Gorgas memorial is to perpetuate the work in preventive medicine to which the life of the great benefactor of humanity was consecrated.

As an example of what preventive medicine can do, we may take the disease diphtheria. This, once a dreaded scourge, can be prevented and will finally be eradicated, as yellow fever has been, by proper preventive measures. When the public has the scientific information regarding diphtheria and willingly cooperates with the doctors, this disease will eventually be conquered.

For some years we have had a certain cure for diphtheria in anti-toxin. In order that the anti-toxin may act as a certain cure, it is essential that it be given in the early stage of the disease. In indigent cases state boards of health furnish it free of cost. Proper cooperation between the family physician and the patient is necessary if anti-toxin is to be administered early, when it is most effective.

Parents should not be too ready to attribute a hoarseness occurring at night to croup. This may actually be due to laryngeal diphtheria, one of the most dangerous forms of the disease, and one in which the early administration of anti-toxin is most important.

We can now immunize our children by the use of toxin anti-toxin. Three doses of toxin anti-toxin given at one week intervals will prevent diphtheria. Better still, by a very simple skin test, known as the Schick test, we can tell if the child needs toxin anti-toxin. One can easily see that with this measure properly carried out diphtheria can be entirely eradicated.

It is the purpose of the Gorgas memorial to see that such information is properly brought to the attention of the public.

KEEP YOUR STOMACH YOUNG AND SWEET

Every bite of food you eat MUST be digested, and the waste matter eliminated. That's sure. If your stomach is sluggish and old, from the excessive acids which keep eating away the gastric juices, you must dissolve them, or you never will be free from indigestion, sour risings, bloating and drowsiness after you eat.

Get a package of Pape's Diapepsin from your nearest drug store and chew one of the tablets after meals. Instantly the distress is relieved, it dissolves the acids, sweetens the stomach and you will have an appetite again like you had when a child.

All drug stores have Pape's Diapepsin. More than 5 million packages are used a year.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH HAS DEDICATION SUNDAY SERVICES

Congregations that filled the main auditorium at the Central Baptist church attended the services on Sunday which were in special recognition of the completion of the enlargements and improvements in the church equipment.

In the morning the service was for the dedication of the Carrie Crane Noyes parish house and the church office building. It began with the organ prelude, Laudati Domine (Frysinger) by Miss Louise Fuller, after which the opening devotional exercises were conducted by the pastor, Rev. David A. Pitt, and the congregation participated in a responsive Thanksgiving service. After the hymn, O God Beneath Thy Guiding Hand, and the scripture reading, the anthem, Festival Te Deum in E Flat (Buck) was finely rendered by the quartette, Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., soprano; Mrs. Olive Adams Potter, alto, Frederick J. Maples, tenor; Frank Steinke, bass.

Prayer by the pastor was followed by the offertory anthem by the quartette, who sang the same anthem as was used at the dedication of the church in 1892, The Lord is My Light and My Salvation (Trowbridge.) The doxology and the hymn, Faith of Our Fathers, preceded the sermon, which was by President E. Carl Herrick, D. D., of Newton Theological institution.

President Herrick delivered an impressive sermon from the text, "Sir, we would see Jesus." He warmly commended the church upon the forward step it was taking in providing this new equipment and said that each forward step taken is with the purpose of connecting the church with humanity in order that the living gospel may be brought into human lives. The message of the church is not only to those who long to see Jesus but to those who are heedless of him. There is no greater search we can make than to see Him. To see Jesus is all we are needing. Strength, joy and willingness come with that sight.

The sermon was followed by a responsive service of dedication in which the congregation joined, after which the pastor offered the prayer of dedication and the congregation joined in the hymn, O Thou Whose Own Vast Temple Stands, which was followed by the benediction and the organ postlude, Grand Choeur (Federlein) which closed the service.

Church School and Young People

The church school was held at noon, with the different classes and departments holding their sessions in their assigned places in the Noyes parish house, Bushnell chapel and the church office building.

At 6.15 in the evening there was a young people's rally at which Ledlie Pitt, president of the young people's union, presided. This was held in the young people's assembly room. An orchestra played for the hymns, there was a solo by Miss Viola Hill and addresses were given by Rev. E. C. Dunbar of the First Baptist church and by the pastor.

Community Service

In the evening at 7.30 there was a community service, which opened with the organ prelude, Jerusalem The Golden, followed by the hymn, Come, Ye Thankful People, Come, and the responsive reading led by Rev. J. Harlow Graham of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. After the anthem, Build Thee More Stately Mansions (Andrews), by the quartette, prayer was offered by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, president of the Norwich Council of Religious Education, and the offertory anthem, God Is a Spirit (Bennett).

Three addresses were given upon the theme The Significance of This Dedication to Norwich and Connecticut.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church spoke upon the significance to Norwich, saying that the need of life is to obtain a rewarding concept of the nature of God and that the other churches of the city will pray for God's blessing "on you in that great aim which has always been yours and now takes on a new purpose in this new equipment."

Rev. Elbert E. Gates of Hartford, executive secretary of the Baptist State Convention, spoke of the dedication as indicating a church with a vision for which it is willing to make adventure. This church, he said, has contributed men and women to the Christian forces of the state and the world and under Christian leadership in this fine plant will make even greater contribution in the years that lie ahead than it has in the years that are gone.

Dean Karl Stolz of Hartford Theological seminary, representing the Connecticut Council of Religious Education, spoke of the work of the teacher in the church school, declaring that the teacher had opportunity to turn the impulse to fight in a constructive direction with the ultimate aim that we may have a world without war and the teacher may also exercise the right influence upon the youth problem of the present day.

After the hymn, O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee, prayer was offered by Rev. A. N. Foster, president of the Norwich Ministers' union, who also pronounced the benediction and the service closed with the organ chimes, Lead On, O King Eternal.

After the service the congregation was invited to inspect the new church equipment, officers of the church and school acting as hosts to show their guests through the different departments.

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION

ACADEMY BOWS TO STRONG STONINGTON ELEVEN IN HARD-FOUGHT ENCOUNTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

STONINGTON, Nov. 20—A badly crippled Norwich Free Academy eleven fought itself out here Saturday afternoon and lost to a perfectly fit Stonington team 6 to 0, a hurried punt in the early part of the third period, giving the Farmers the ball on the Norwich 18 yard line. Cowan, the rugged fullback, then managed the remaining distance on a few line thrusts, the final plunge being from the three yard line.

Minus Harry Glone, halfback and Johnny Greene, end, that stellar forward passing set, Freddy Fox, guard for three-quarters of the way, and with Jim Kelly and Billy Tirrell, backs very much banged up, Norwich gave the heavier Stonington team plenty to think about. It was plainly evident that the crippled Norwich team, fighting like wildcats, and the heavier and well Stonington team were so evenly matched that only a fluke could render a decision.

The Academy recovered two fumbles in the first half, one on a punt and the other on an end dash but neither could be converted. The first was at the 25 yard line and the Red and White worked to the 12 yard line only to have a forward grounded over the goal line, the second was on the 35 yard stripe. A 25 yard scamper around left end placed the ball inside the 10 yard line but Norwich's crippled backfield could not penetrate the Stonington line.

Norwich outplayed Stonington for the greater part of the matinee but the lack of scoring punch proved her nemesis. Stonington also showed little sustained drive and save on the touchdown play never had the ball inside the Red and White's 15 yard line. Both teams showed plenty of power between the 20 yard lines, Cowan's line busting giving the youthful Norwich line plenty of trouble. The end dashes, with nice interference, by Jackie Marks and Bill Tirrell threw the highly reputed Stonington team into fright time and time again.

Both teams got breaks and a few were from the officials, whose work was about the poorest seen on an eastern Connecticut gridiron in some time. Fumbles, a hurried kick and a couple of questionable decisions on forward passes made up the list of breaks for the day. The decidedly terrible condition of Owen field also slowed up the play of both teams and enabled runners to be tackled where, on dry or even level field they would have gotten away for many more yards. The gridiron was a series of bumps while one section was decidedly sloppy.

Cowboy Jackie Marks gave another of his fine games and it seemed a shame that a performance such as his should have been in vain. He negotiated the ends with hardly any difficulty, making several dashes of 7, 10 and 12 yards. His defensive work was also fine while he recovered a fumble on one occasion that gave Norwich some help. Bill Tirrell and Vitiano also played well, both getting off for some nice gains, with Tirrell outpunting the widely-heralded Cragan of Stonington. "Chet" Berghinzo, in Johnny Greene's place at end, also played well. In fact, the whole team fought hard.

Cowan was practically the whole show for the Farmers. When not bucking the line he was either giving interference or backing up his line defensively. Dimock also played well for the winners.

Play in the first quarter was in Academy territory. A long boot with a steady wind on the kickoff that went over the goal line helped greatly. After 3 line plays, the Academy kicked from her 20-yard line and the ball went offside after traveling about ten yards. Stonington lost the ball on downs on the Norwich 22-yard line and Tirrell punted back to midfield. Stonington punted over the goal line and the Academy punted right back. Stonington lost 12 yards on three plays and then punted to Tirrell at the 10-yard stripe. After one play, the quarter ended.

Jackie Marks got two first downs to open the second quarter, end dashes for 10 and 12 yards turning the trick. Tirrell punted and Bryer, when tackled, dropped the ball on his 28-yard line. Norwich recovered. Tirrell then scampered around end for 20 yards to the 8-yard line. After a couple tries at the line a forward pass was grounded over the goal line and Stonington got the ball at her 20-yard line. On the first play, Bryer again muffed the pigskin and LaCroix recovered for the Academy on the 15-yard line. The Academy then lost the ball on downs and Stonington worked the ball to the Norwich 40-yard stripe before yielding it on downs. Play was in Stonington territory during practically all of this period.

The kickoff again went over the Academy goal line at the start of the third period. Tirrell attempted to punt from his 18-yard line after a couple line plays, was hurried and the boot traveled almost straight up in the air. It seemed that the boot had been blocked by Stonington and when it came down two Academy players recovered but the ball was given to Stonington. Cowboy Cowan with all line smacks, secured a first down and then, from the three-yard line, went over on a cross buck. He missed the extra point by rushing by about a yard.

The Academy kicked off and after a scrimmage Stonington fumbled. A punting duel took up the remainder of the quarter and is ended with the Academy in possession of the ball on her 30 yard line. Some more punts until the Academy finally started a march from her 35 yard line that sure looked like trouble for a while. Tirrell's eight yard end run, a line buck for the first down, another first down on a series of line plays, a forward pass, Vitiano to Berghinzo for 12 yards, incidentally one only successful toss of the game, brought the ball to Stonington's 35 yard line but here it was lost on downs, one lateral narrowly missing that would have meant serious trouble for Kelly, the intended receiver, had a clear field for the goal line 35 yards away. Stonington punted to Norwich 40 yard line, a forward pass was intercepted by the Farmers on the Norwich 30 yard line. Norwich took the ball on her 15 yard stripe on downs. Stonington took possession of the ball on the visitor's 40 yard stripe on some kind of a technicality for interference and she then worked a first down as the game ended. On the interference play mentioned, it was a pass intended for Buck LaCroix. Both he and the Stonington man scrambled for it, the ball bounced to the ground and the officials went into a huddle and came out with the decision giving the ball to Stonington.

Stonington, for no good reason, claims the eastern Connecticut championship, by winning this game. The Academy and Windham seem to have just as good records, however.

ACADEMY WILL PLAY ALUMNI THANKSGIING DAY

The Academy is now preparing for the Alumni for Thanksgiving day afternoon at the campus as the curtain contest to their season. No scholastic tilt for that day has shown, and in view of the crippled condition of the Wildcats, it seems now for the best, perhaps that the locals will not have to go against anybody in high school competition.

Although they lost and missed the opportunities for putting over scores, nevertheless, followers of the Red and White were not harsh in criticism of N. F. A.'s play. The boys fought hard with all odds against them and in going down they showed plenty of the old-time spirit. The law of averages is bound to rule here and therefore Stonington has waited long for her second grid victory over the Academy in something like ten years. It was the first in six seasons.

The Alumni will bring a powerful aggregation to the local battlefield for the annual clash. Such faces as Ed. Brewer, Pete Labenski, Pheno Tombari, Marty Gilman, Dan Polsky, Jim Williams, Fred Schwartz, Red Fidell, Walt Hussey, Ed. Golomb, Jim Fenton, Harry Waters, Paul and Phil McNamara and others will be seen in their starting array.

Freddy Fox, pluck guard, who has shown a fine game for the locals all season seems to have finished his work for the season for the injury to his eye in the early part of the second quarter is such as to warrant inactivity. However, he has another year for the Red and White.

PENN STATE FAVORED TO WIN CROSS COUNTRY RUN

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—The cross country team of Penn State college was favored tonight to repeat its victory of last year in the 19th annual varsity run of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. over the six mile course at Van Cortlandt park tomorrow.

Bill Cox of Penn State, individual title holder, also was a favorite on the eve of the race.

Plenty of competition was assured for the Nittany Harriers with an entry of 19 teams of which Harvard, Syracuse and Union stood out as promising contenders. The colleges entered are Yale, Union, Syracuse, Rutgers, Princeton, Pittsburgh, Penn State, Pennsylvania, New York university, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Maine, Manhattan, Holy Cross, Harvard, Fordham, Dartmouth, Cornell, Columbia and C. C. N. Y.

An innovation will be tried in this year's race which will start at 2.30 o'clock. The men will be strung out in the form of an arc so that all will run an equal distance to the first turn. Heretofore the teams have been started in groups with one competitor behind another.

The eighth annual freshman race will precede the varsity event. The yearling run was won last year by Syracuse with Robert Swede of Princeton, who is no longer in college, the individual winner.

SMITH'S RUN BEATS BRADFORD A. C.

The Greeneville Tigers, the only semi-pro football team in the city, handed out another defeat to the Bradford A. C. eleven, 6 to 0, Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin field. The boys from Rhode Island gave the Tigers the stiffest opposition of any team appearing here this season, and the game was marked by injuries to the home team players. The most seriously injured was Charlie McGrath, the flashy Greeneville full back star, who has been a menace to all teams opposing the Tigers. McGrath sustained a broken collar bone on the first tackle in the second half of the game.

Bradford won the toss and chose to receive. Mileski kicked to Lord on Bradford's 5-yard line and the ball was carried to Bradford's 20-yard line. After three tries at the line the Bradford team kicked to Greeneville who in turn returned the punt. It was here that Greeneville got a break. Smith, a new lad in the Greeneville lineup, broke through and blocked Bradford's attempt to punt and recovering the ball ran 40 yards for Greeneville's only touchdown and the only score of the game. The try for extra point failed.

The remainder of the half was a see-saw battle close to midfield. Starting the second half Mileski kicked off to the five yard line the receiver being downed in his tracks. It was here that the Bradford team showed their greatest offensive in a march to the Greeneville 26-yard line. The march down was aided by several good end runs and a fifteen-yard Greeneville penalty. On the 25-yard line the Tigers braced and took the ball on downs and started their march toward the Bradford goal. Smith tossed a 30-yard pass to Fenton and on the next play heaved another into Fenton's arms for 15 yards bringing the ball to Bradford's 25-yard line. After three tries through the line Parkhurst attempted a pass which was intercepted by Fenster, who was thrown in his tracks. Before another play could be run off the game terminated.

The star of the game for the Tigers was Smith who showed brilliant offensive work. Gay, who has played end during the season was shifted to tackle and played a nice defensive game. For Bradford, Marchen, Greico, Barber and C. Lord played well. The lineups:

Bradford	Greeneville
DeBartito, le	le, Bubbles
Greico, lt	lt, Smith

ALMQUIST LEAD WEST IN SCORING HONORS

CHICAGO, Nov. 20—(AP)—The touchdown champion of the western conference for 1927 is Harold "Shorty" Almquist, Minnesota halfback, who carried the ball across the enemy goal eleven times, and added nine perfect kicks for the extra point. In addition Almquist tossed many of the passes which were carried over for the other Minnesota touchdowns, and, particularly, in Saturday's game against Michigan, he was the hardest man of the field to bring down. Almquist has finished his three years of Big Ten competition. He was in every big game for Minnesota this year and was rarely hurt.

The nearest competitor to Gopher star was Louie Gilbert, Michigan's great passer, kicker and runner, who caught passes for eight touchdowns and kicked sixteen goals after touchdown, missing only one at the crossbar all season. Gilbert was injured in Michigan's very first conference game, against Wisconsin, but went back in against Ohio State the next week. A week later he was held out of the Illinois game by an infected arm. He helped to down Chicago but could hardly lift his throwing arm in the latter half of the Minnesota game yesterday.

The three-year veterans dominating the top of the scoring list were invaded today by a sophomore, Ralph "Peat" Welch of Purdue and Sherman, Texas. In Welch's first Big Ten appearance he beat Harvard, and in his last performance, Saturday, he dazzled Indiana giving promise of becoming one of the most brilliant runners the Big Ten ever has seen. He made two of his seven touchdowns against Harvard.

GRADUATION TO TAKE FIVE YALE REGULARS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20—(AP)—Bill Hammersley, Yale's second string halfback who played first string football against Harvard, thereby ringing up six of Yale's 14 points in Saturday's contest, is one of the 14 letter men who will be lost to the varsity squad through graduation next June. Of the remaining 13 there are five regulars who have donned the headgear for the last time in the cause of Yale.

The regulars who will quit Yale at the end of the present college year are Captain Bill Webster, guard; Sid Quarrier, tackle; Stew Scott and Dwight Fishwick, ends (regulars for two years), and Duncan Cox, fullback.

Among the second string men are Earle Goodwine, Al Foote, Ken Stone, Backs; Charlie Harvey, center; Lee Mallory and Stew Sanger, ends; Ryan and Flaherty, linemen.

Yale will build her next varsity team around Firpo Green, guard; Dud Charlesworth, center; Max Eddy, tackle; Johnny Garvey and Eddie Decker, halfbacks, and Johnny Hoben, quarterback.

Garvey, Hoben and Charlesworth in particular have covered themselves with glory in every game in which they have taken part this year and the Yale coaches are already looking forward to the season of 1928 with the pleasure which comes with the knowledge that there are half a dozen good men to build a team around.

KEARNS-DEMPSEY LEGAL BOUTS TO RESUME TODAY

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 20—(AP)—Trial of the suit brought by Jack Kearns against Jack Dempsey, ex-heavyweight champion of the world, will be resumed in federal court tomorrow.

The trial, which opened last Wednesday, was postponed later in the week on account of the illness of Arthur F. Driscoll, of Dempsey's counsel.

Kearns, Dempsey's former manager, claims $333,333.33 as his share of Dempsey's earnings in his fight against Gene Tunney in Philadelphia. The contract upon which Kearns' suit was based was signed just after the Dempsey-Firpo fight in New York on Sept. 14, 1923.

That this contract was forged, was charged by Dempsey's counsel the opening day.

Although no indication has been given as to what would transpire tomorrow, it is believed that the taking of testimony will begin, the jury having been selected an the opening addresses made last Wednesday.

PLAINFIELD PROS LOSE BY ONE POINT TO BRISTOL

The Plainfield Pros lost another heartbreaker to the Bristol Endees on Saturday night at Bristol, the margin this time being one point, 28 to 27. The Community house boys lost by two points to this same club at Plainfield Wednesday. Billy Schofield of the Pros led the scorers with 12 points. The Bearing makers had a margin of some 50 points at the half but during the final 20 minutes Plainfield showed plenty of fight and tied the score at 26 all with but a minute to play. Crowley then hooped a field goal for Bristol and Whitey Bernot followed with a foul as the whistle blew. This game opened the home season for Bristol and was one of the most exciting seen there in some years.

SANITARY CORPS FIVE WINS FROM SOLDIERS

WESTERLY, Nov. 20.—In the first basketball game of the season played Saturday night in the state armory on Dixon street, the Westerly Sanitary Corps team defeated the Battery E five by the score of 32 to 13.

For the visitors Center Kellar was high hoop while Right Forward Barber was the best marksman for the Battery boys. The game was rather loosely played, but it was early in the season. Dancing followed the basketball game.

YALE PRACTICALLY CLINCHES EAST GRID TITLE BY DOWNING HARVARD TEAM

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—Winding up its season with a 14 to 0 victory over Harvard Saturday, Yale's fighting football team passed the "last white line" between the Bulldog and general although unofficial recognition as the best of the major college elevens in the east.

Yale's claim is based on victories over Army, Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard and a record of unbroken victories in all its eastern games. The only other team to win all its engagements in its home sector is little Tufts college of Medford, Mass., which made it eight straight by beating the Massachusetts Aggies 32 to 6, on Saturday. Tufts has confined its ambitions to small colleges in its own class.

Ready to dispute the Eli claim to the mythical championship are New York university, Pittsburgh, and Washington and Jefferson, all of which have been tied but not beaten. N. Y. U., the only one of this powerful trio which saw action Saturday, rolled up the huge total against Allegheny. Geneva and Springfield also are in the unbeaten class, the former having overwhelmed Thiel on Saturday.

For the first time this season, practically all of the eastern games went according to advance expectations Saturday. Yale's triumph was hard-won but clean-cut. Georgetown carried its scoring total for the season to the high point of 377 by a 38 to 0 victory over Fordham while N. Y. U.'s powerful machine passed the 300 mark. N. Y. U. appeared in good shape for its intersectional battle with Nebraska on Thanksgiving day.

Army and Navy, which meet this Saturday at the Polo Grounds polished off Ursinus and Loyola of Baltimore, respectively in preparation. Lehigh took its ninth straight defeat from its old rival, Lafayette, while Rutgers proved better than Swarthmore.

Brown's 31 to 13 victory over New Hampshire ended a losing streak that had extended through six games.

In the only intersectional battle Carnegie Tech lost a close 12 to 7 decision to Detroit. Syracuse, which meets Columbia Thanksgiving day, had a narrow escape in nosing out Niagara, 13 to 6. Holy Cross and Boston college which meets Saturday, both won without difficulty as did Villa Nova over the hitherto unbeaten Canisus. Two strong small college teams fought a bitter battle in the game which Temple won from Bucknell, 19 to 13.

Play was particularly hot in the Bucknell-Temple and Harvard-Yale battles. Carl Truxell, Bucknell end, collapsing at a banquet after the game from the effects of what appeared to be a skull fracture, and Dud Charlesworth, Yale center, being carried from the field with a broken leg.

TWO MAKE HOLE-IN-ONE ON SAME HOLE, SAME TIME

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The golfing "miracle" of a hole in one happened twice within half a minute at the Fresh Meadow Country club, Flushing, N. Y., today.

Playing a foursome with three other New Yorkers, W. Norman Frenkel drove into the cup on the 145-yard ninth hole and 30 seconds later his partner, A. E. Booth, sent his own ball to nestle beside it. Both used a mashie niblick.

ILLINOIS WINS TITLE IN WESTERN CONFERENCE

CHICAGO, Nov. 20—(AP)—Illinois, early season dark horse of the western conference, arrived back home at Champaign today with the Big Ten football championship banner for 1927. The Illini waded through five conference teams on five successive Saturdays, having only two touchdowns scored on them while making ten. The squad was the first turned out in Robert C. Zuppke's fifteen years at Illinois that might be called a starless aggregation, with a duplicate line and a triplicate backfield.

Many of the best ball carriers in Illinois were sophomores. Zuppke was particularly fortunate in escaping serious injuries this year, due perhaps to his system of relieving his backs frequently. One of the very few on the squad who played the greater part of every game was Captain Bob Reitsch, all-conference center last year.

Ohio State was Illinois' fifth victim Saturday, falling 16-0, which was typical of nearly all the Illinois scores this year. Four of their five Big Ten victories were won by two touchdowns, and the first one by a single point, 7-6 over Northwestern. "Dutch" Nowack, a tackle, kicked this winning point, and most of the other boots after touchdown.

CHICAGO BEARS BEAT GREEN BAY PACKERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Chicago Bears defeated the Green Bay Packers, 14 to 6, in a National Football league game today. Senn, of the Bears, opened the scoring in the second period with a short run around end for the first touchdown and Sternamen kicked goal. Passes gave the Packers their score in the third period, Dunn shooting the ball 30 yards to Enright for the marker. The Packers got down to the one foot line again on passes but the Bears held for downs. Senn ran 60 yards on a pass from Driscoll in the fourth period for the Bears' second marker and Driscoll kicked goal.

RITOLA RETAINS HIS A. A. U. CROSS COUNTRY TITLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—Willie Ritola of the Finnish-American A. C. today successfully defended his title as national senior cross-country champion of the Amateur Athletic union by outstripping a field of 65 over the six mile Van Cortlandt park course. It was his sixth victory in seven years.

Despite Ritola's individual triumph a five year winning streak of the Finnish-American A. C., was snapped by the Millrose A. A., which won the team title with 33 points to 38 for Ritola's club.

The winner's time was 29 minutes, 49 1-5 seconds. The record for the course is 29:32 1-5, held by Ritola. Second place went to Frank Titterton of the New York A. A., time 30:24, and third to Franklin Osgood, New York A. A., 30:34. Of the 65 starters 44 finished.

HORSES RACE IN PITCH DARKNESS AT PARIS TRACK

PARIS, Nov. 20—(AP)—Horse racing at night was unwittingly ushered into France for the first time, when after a day of heavy fog and incessant rain the last race on the card at Auteuil was run in pitch darkness. The progress of the horses around the course could only be surmised through the shouts of the jockeys as their mounts took the jumps. The spectators had no idea of the winners until the numbers were posted, and then only through electric flashlights.

Eight horses fell out of the sixteen starters. It was the worst racing day experienced in France in many years.

The feature event was the Montgomery stakes, with 75,000 francs added. This was won by the three year old filly Maguelonne, owned by Count De Jumilhac.

ACADEMY WINS FROM STONINGTON IN CROSS COUNTRY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STONINGTON, Nov. 20—Norwich Free Academy's cross-country team kept its slate clean in dual competition by soundly whipping Stonington here Saturday previous to the football game 20 to 35. This closed the Red and White's season with three wins the others over Bulkeley, Westerly, while the Rose City outfit finished third in the interscholastics. Capt. Simoncini of Stonington finished first with Buttsy Weisgraber of Norwich second, closely trailed by four teammates. Navick and Capt. Holdridge of the Academy finished third and fourth, respectively.

Starting fast, the Giants made three touchdowns in the first period and added another in the fourth. The Chicago score came in the third quarter when Vesser, former Idaho player, went over on a pass and Ellis, Detroit, kicked the goal. McBride, former Syracuse fullback, was the star of the game. He passed to Haines, Penn State, and Wilson, Texas Aggies, for touchdowns, scored himself on a line smash and booted all three points after touchdown. Wykoff made the other seven points.

BETTERMENT IN THE TEXTILE TRADE IS EXPECTED EARLY IN THE COMING YEAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Further signs of improvement brightened the business horizon last week, although irregularities continued to crop up. Perhaps, in truth, the improvement was sensed, rather than felt, and exemplified in the growing belief that brisk expansion in industry is due to begin with the new year. The shifting of eyes to 1928, of course, was due in the main, to failure of the expected autumnal revival of trade to materialize. This has been attributed to various causes, such as Ford's absence from the motor market, lagging railway revenue, reduced operations in the steel industry, and a heavy overproduction of crude oil. Some of these "reasons" are better classified as effects, but they are so closely interrelated that they also form a huge circle of causes.

The steel trade reported some progress. Firmness of plates, shapes and bars was partly upset by renewed weakness in sheets and other lighter forms, but a good inquiry for rails and oil field materials has been followed by some development of demand in other branches. Nevertheless, the gain in operation was of comparatively minor proportions, still well behind the records of last year.

Freight car loadings declined, a seasonal movement at this time of the year. Merchandise shipments gained over the week before, but fell below the 1926 figures. An unexpected increase in crude oil production unsettled the petroleum trade somewhat, but this was partly discounted by higher prices for oil stocks in the various security markets, indicating that there has been no sudden growth of pessimism at least in the minds of investors in such issues. Renewed signs of life were seen in the new Texas fields, but it is possible that the petroleum trade, having learned its lesson from Seminole earlier in the year, will exert itself to prevent a serious flood in the new era.

The textile trade displayed some betterment, giving a feeling that brisk trade is expected early in the coming year. Retail business has at the brink of what is expected to be an unusually heavy holiday season, and while weather conditions have caused some hesitancy in many sections of the country, there was a feeling of cheerfulness throughout this branch of commerce.

A particularly favorable development was the government's report on balance of trade, showing that exports in October had a margin of $134,000,000 over imports. Since this is more than $50,000,000 more than the September surplus, and as much above the surplus of October, 1926, it created a decidedly comfortable feeling.

There was little change in the money market. Retirement of $250,000,000 of second Liberty bonds on the 15th poured a huge amount into the credit reservoir, and was reflected by advancing prices in securities. Bank assets were currently reported at a new high record figure, which was taken at new evidence of the fundamental soundness of business as a whole.

Bank clearings increased about 19 per cent. over the week before, and 13 per cent. over the corresponding six days of last year. Bank debts gained approximately 25 per cent. over both related periods.

SUNDAY FIRE WITH $5,000 DAMAGE TO NEW LONDON BOSTON STORE BLDG.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20—The first serious fire in New London in many months was that which threatened to destroy the three story brick building, corner of Bank and Reed streets, this morning when flames attacked the structure and gave the fire department an hour's hard work. The damage, it is estimated will reach close to $5,000, part of which is from smoke and water.

The building is occupied by the Boston store on the ground floor, footwear and notions and women's wear; on the second floor, where the fire originated by an Italian society and the Apostolic Faith mission and on the third floor by the Carpenters' union. The principal damage is to the second floor, although the first and third floods were damaged also.

At 7:50 o'clock smoke was discovered pouring from the second floor and an alarm was sent in from Box 42, corner of Howard and Bank street. One engine company, one hook and ladder and three hose companies responded. By the time that the department arrived at the building the second floor, especially in the rear was a mass of flames. Several streams of water were emptied into the building, but because of the fire having made its way into the partitions the flames proved stubborn for the firemen to combat. The fire burned out the stairway and was reaching the third floor when conquered. Much of the water went to the ground floor where the Boston store's stock was damaged. The fire originated in that section of the building occupied by the religious society and started from an overheated furnace. Because of it being impossible to have a furnace in the cellar owing to water existing there, the furnace which heats the second and third floors is located on the second floor. A fire of exactly the same nature and from the same cause caused considerable damage to the building two years ago.

STEAMER PORT COMMITTEE TO MEET TUESDAY EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20—The committee appointed by Mayor James A. May to act in the matter of the selection of the port of New London as a terminal for the proposed Atlantic steamship line, will meet in the council chamber of the municipal building Tuesday night at 7:30. The situation will be freely discussed and it is probable that action will be taken tending to have representatives of the line come to New London and discuss the project; or representatives of the committee may go to New York and interview officials of the line.

The first in a series of lectures on Early Martyrs of the Church is to be given by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan at the Diocesan bureau of social service, 42 Jay street. Before the lecture, Kenneth A. Burdick of Pawcatuck will sing. Mr. Burdick was recently awarded first prize at the Atwater-Kent radio musical held at Bulkeley auditorium. He will be accompanied on the piano by Miss Loretta Murnane.

Eloise Coles, colored, about 22, was committed to the State Farm for Women at Niantic Saturday by Judge Victor Prince from the police court. The girl was arrested by Policewoman Jane Cassidy and presented on a charge of lascivious carriage. The young woman had been conducting herself in such a manner of late that for her own welfare she was arrested.

Mrs. Carrie M. Tefft, 53, wife of George W. Tefft, died Friday night at her residence, 63 Willetts avenue, after a lingering illness. Besides her husband, Mrs. Tefft is survived by a half-sister, Mrs. David Lewis; two nephews, Fred and Thomas Lewis and two nieces, Mrs. Arthur Enos and Mrs. Charles McClure, all of New London. Mrs. Tefft was born in New London and had always resided here.

The funeral of Mary P., widow of Robert B. Smith, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence, 101 Bliman street and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McGinley, of Hartford spent the week end with Mr. McGinley's mother, Mrs. Evelyn McGinley, Ocean avenue. Mr. McGinley is a reporter for the Hartford Times.

Charles H. Thompson, of New York, spent today with his family in this city.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has ordered the return of the driver's license of Charles F. Hall, 15 Orchard street. Hall is employed by the city as a truck driver and was driver of the five-ton garbage collecting truck that fatally injured Hector Charron, of Shaw street, a city laborer, last October. Charron was riding on the side of the truck as it rounded the corner of Williams and Blackhall street and lost his balance, falling under the heavy vehicle. One wheel passed over the lower part of Charron's body. He was rushed to Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where he died within a few minutes.

Commissioner Stoeckel also denied the right to drive of William Kozek, United States Coast Guard, local section base 4, state pier and Arthur Stanfield, submarine base, and suspended the license of John P. Murphy, 74 Washington street.

Several special trains were run over the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad today from Boston to New Haven and New York for the purpose of accommodating the big crowd of fans who attended the Yale-Harvard football game yesterday. Hundreds of automobiles containing supporters of the two colleges passed through New London late Saturday night and today.

The police of New London had the least law-breaking to contend with Saturday night and today for any like period within many months. But one prisoner is locked up at police headquarters tonight. Saturday was payday with the sailors at the submarine base and while many of them imbibed freely they were all orderly and were not in a disturbing mood. The lone drunk arrested was picked up on North Bank street and is a truck driver employed at Fishers Island where construction work is in progress. By the rules over on the island, any worker proved drunk automatically loses his job.

Mrs. Quinn, 108 Golden street, reported to the police at 1:45 o'clock this morning that her son, Fran, 18, employed at the Capitol theatre, had not returned home and that she was alarmed for his safety, as he always arrived at his home no later than 12:30 o'clock. At 3:20 o'clock, Mrs. Quinn telephoned to police headquarters that her son had returned home.

Dewey Connors, public service automobile driver turned over to Acting Sergeant William Graham a travelling bag Saturday night which he said he had found in the front seat of the cab while it was parked at the Union station and that it did not belong to any passenger who had hired him. Several hours later Connors went to police headquarters and said that he had been mistaken in his statement to Acting Sergeant Graham for the passenger who owned the bag had ridden in the cab and was seeking the luggage. The bag was turned over to Connors, who delivered it to the owner.

Patrolman Lewis Tooker in making his rounds on Pequot avenue Saturday night discovered the entrance of the Pequot Laundry unlocked and several windows open. The officer made a search of the interior of the building and not finding any intruders there or any evidence that the place had been entered for purpose of theft, secured the entrance and the windows.

Jacob Griffin, of West Mystic; George Ney, 38 Walbach street; Albert Fucchini, 38 Walbach street; Mildred Mouchette, East Lyme and Jennie Rudd, Montville, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

A meeting of the officers of the New London fire department was held in the central fire station Friday night at which time an open discussion took place relative to the petition of the F. L. Allen Hook and Ladder company that the company's quarters be condemned and that a new building be erected on the site. The matter of the condition of the fire house was presented by Thomas Gragan, foreman of the truck company, but no definite action was taken. However, at the meeting of the city council, this (Monday) night it is probable that the matter will be presented before that body. Building Inspector William Dunn has inspected the firehouse and he will not recommend the condemnation of the building, but it is probable that he will recommend certain repairs. Inspector Gunn admits that the building is in need of repairs, but declares that the repairs are needed principally to that section of the building used by the firemen as sleeping quarters. He is favorable to the repairs being made, but contends that the main part of the building, that used for the storage of the truck and the furnace room is in good condition. The officers of the company, however, do not agree with the building inspector and assert in no mild terms that the building has seen its best days and that a new and modern fire-house is needed for the men.

City Manager and Mrs. William A. Holt, were among the New Londoners that witnessed the Yale-Harvard football classic at Boston Saturday.

Two sailors went to the Garde theatre tonight and both were intoxicated. They were refused admission and one of the bluejackets hurled a bottle to the highway, the glass scattering in the path of automobiles. Patrolman George Perkins on duty at the playhouse arrested the pair. They will be in the police court Monday morning.

Several continued cases will be heard in the police court Monday. Among them are Santo Ballestrini, 19, of 224 Shaw street; Tony Guerri, 20 East street, William Baldwin, 18, 22 East street; John Rinardo, 19, Grand street and John Grappelli, 18, of 20 East street, all charged with gambling. Last May they went to the rear of Hobron street and participated in a gambling game. The police were notified of the gaming when a resident of that section made complaint because of the youths gambling on the Sabbath. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and four patrolmen were sent to Hobron street where the gang were found and arrested. All of the accused are employed as weavers in mills.

Edward McLaughlin, 2 Union street, will be in the police court also on continuance Monday. McLaughlin, who has been arrested 17 times for intoxication or breach of the peace, will be tried on both charges tomorrow. He was arrested Oct. 20 upon complaint of his brother, John, and at that time a continuance to Monday was ordered.

A representative of a western manufacturing concern was in New London recently with a view to the concern he represents locating in this city. The visitor inspected property along the waterfront, also ascertained the rail and water advantages here. Whether the company will decide to engage in business in New London remains to be seen.

The November meeting of the city council will be held Monday night, but from indications there are no matters of importance to be brought up for action.

POETRY FOR THE WIDEAWAKES

The Thanksgiving in Boston Harbor

"Praise ye the Lord!" The psalm today
Still rises on our ears,
Born from the hills of Boston Bay
Through five times fifty years.
When Winthrop's fleet from Yarmouth crept
Out to the open main,
And through the widening waters swept,
In April sun and rain.
"Pray to the Lord with fervent lips,"
The leader shouted, "Pray"
And prayer arose from all the ships
As faded Yarmouth bay.

Above the sea the hilltops fair—
God's towers—began to rise,
And odors rare breathe through the air,
Like balms of Paradise.
Through burning skies the ospreys flew,
And near the pine-cooled shores
Danced airy boat and thin canoe,
To flash of sunlit oars.
"Pray to the Lord with fervent lips,"
The leader shouted, "Pray!"
Then prayer arose, and all the ships
Sailed into Boston bay.

The white wings folded, anchors down,
The sea-worn fleet in line,
Fair rose the hills where Boston town
Should rise from clouds of pine,
Fair was the harbor, summit-walled,
And placid lay the sea.
"Praise ye the Lord," the leader called;
"Praise ye the Lord," spake he.
"Give thanks to God with fervent lips,
Give thanks to God today,"
The anthem rose from all the ships,
Safe moored in Boston bay.

The Arabella leads the song—
The Mayflower sings below,
That erst the Pilgrims bore along
The Plymouth reefs of snow.
Oh, never be that psalm forgot
That rose o'er Boston bay,
When Winthrop sang, and Endicott,
And Saltonstall, that day;
"Praise ye the Lord with fervent lips,
Praise ye the Lord today,"
And praise arose from all the ships
Like prayers in Yarmouth bay.

That psalm our fathers sang we sing,
That psalm of peace and wars,
While o'er our heads unfolds its wing
The flag of forty stars.
And while the nation finds a tongue
For nobler gifts to pray,
'Twill ever sing the song they sung
That first Thanksgiving day;
"Praise ye the Lord with fervent lips,
Praise ye the Lord today,"
So rose the song from all the ships,
Safe moored in Boston bay.

Our fathers' prayers have changed to psalms,
As David's treasures old
Turned, on the Temple's giant arms,
To lily-work of gold.
Ho! vanished ships from Yarmouth's tide,
Ho! ships of Boston bay,
Your prayers have crossed the centuries wide
To this Thanksgiving day!
We pray to God with fervent lips,
We praise the Lord today,
As prayers arose from Yarmouth ships,
But psalms from Boston bay.

By Hezekiah Butterwroth.

The Brave Old Oak

A song for the oak, the brave old oak,
Who hath ruled in the greenwood long;
Here's health and renown to his broad green crown,
And his sifty arms so strong.
There's fear in his frown, when the sun goes down,
And the fire in the west goes out.
And he showeth his might on a wild midnight,
When the storms through his branches shout.

Chorus

Then sing to the oak, the brave old oak,
Who hath ruled in the greenwood long;
And still flourish he, a hale green tree,
When a hundred years are gone.

He saw the rare times, when the Christmas chimes
Were a merry sound to hear,
And the squire's wide hall, and the cottage small
And all the day, to the roebuck gay,
Were full of American cheer;
They carol'd with gladsome swains;
They are gone, they are dead, in the churchyard laid,
But the brave tree still remains.

Chorus

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

It is the brain and the thoughts in the mind which raise human beings above animals. It is proper thinking which keeps man in freedom and out of slavery. As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he, is a well known scriptural selection. Great thoughts applied in life become great actions; bad thoughts result in just the opposite.

It is thinking and studying which has given us the steamship, the airship, the balloon, the railroad, the telephone, the radio, and the countless other inventions that are in every day use and that are necessities of life in the modern world. Ages ago the people on the earth were content to live on whatever nature furnished them. They underwent hardships of all kinds because they did not know how to improve their surroundings. They lived more like animals than human beings. Their homes were caves or any kind of shelter they could find nearby.

As the years rolled by man began to utilize his brain. He began to study his surroundings and think of easier methods of housing his family, of providing food for them and of quicker and better means of transportation.

As soon as man began to think, life on the earth began to advance. It is a true saying that "Thoughts rule the world." Thought is the seed of action.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Fire Prevention

Dear Uncle Jed: The leaves of the maple, elm and birch trees are now painted in gay colors by the frost. With no wind the leaves fall noiselessly to the earth blanketing the earth with many colors. They will soon dry, leaving the trees bare. After the leaves have dried, be careful and prevent fire. Do not throw anything such as a match, etc., to this rubbish. Millions of dollars of property have been utterly ruined and hundreds of lives have been lost due to carelessness. In the forest a passerby will throw a match which will quickly ignite the leaves, and slowly spread until a vast territory has been burnt. In spring the trees which are now ashes budded, soon leaves came out, birds came and nestled in the leaves. Fall came, the leaves turned bright colors and soon fell. All rubbish, and other combustible substances should be taken care of and it can quickly ignite and cause destruction. Chimneys should be cleaned often, for houses have burned to ashes without this care. In all parts of the country fire chiefs have set aside a week called "Fire Prevention Week." This week is set aside to take care and not have fires not just during this week but all throughout the year. The fire hazard will not do any damage as long as carelessness shall not prevail.

WALTER MAXIMOWICZ, Age 13.

A Hallowe'en Party

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the Hallowe'en party at the Chestnut Hill school at night. At first the school children came to school and fixed everything up before the people came.

When everybody was there we started our program. First the school sang a song. Then a boy friend of mine said a poem. After that we had a play. The name of the play was "Hallowe'en in back of the World." Then some children sang a song. After that there was another play. We then played some games and had the refreshments and after we went home.

Walks To School

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my walks to school. I walk about a mile and a quarter. There are five houses on the way. We have to go up a big hill. It is named Vinegar hill and it is steep. There are three steep hills on my way to school. Our dog comes to meet me on my way home, and sometimes my mother meets me. It is a nice walk. Sometimes it is raining, and I don't walk. I see lots of squirrels. They are mostly gray. Our cat catches them.

Her First Letter

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I ever wrote to you. I want to tell you about my summer vacation, and I hope that you will like it. I had a very good time with my friends. We played different games and also went swimming. My father and mother both went for a vacation to Canada. I love to read books. I read many of them during my vacation.

Blacky Won.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story.

A few years ago my friends and I decided to have a horse race. My horse's name was Blacky. The day of the race came very soon. While the horses were running in the race track Blacky fell. What was the matter? It was a blood vessel that had broken.

The next year we had another race. Blacky won this time. The people were shouting "Blacky won!" I went home very happy because Blacky had won the race. He won many others also.

Our Pet Rabbit.

Dear Uncle Jed and Wideawakes: While out walkink one afternoon with Dad and my brother we came across a poor wounded rabbit which had been hurt so bad that it could not move away, so we brought him home. After several weeks he was able to get around as well as ever. We fed him all summer on greens such as lettuce, carrots, beet tops, clover, cabbage leaves, ears of corn and all things we thought he would like. Now he is a lovely big rabbit and we love him dearly.

MILDRED SULLIVAN. Age 8.
Baltic, P. O. Box 66.

Hallowe'en Night.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to the Wide-Awakes. I am going to tell you about Hallowe'en Night.

I was dressed in a clown suit with bells all over me and a big collar around my neck. There was a crowd of children at the corner near my house. Some of them went into houses to make the children cry. There was a girl who was dressed in her brother's suit and her uncle's hat. Just as we were about to come home, we saw some more children at a corner of another house making everybody afraid. We all stopped and asked why they were hitting everybody. They did not answer, so we kept on our way home. We spent a very good Hallowe'en.

RITA BERARD. Age 12.

How I Spent Hallowe'en.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. My mother was going to give us a party at 6 o'clock. While we were waiting we all played games. For supper we had many delicious things. The room and table was all decorated. We played a game with candles at the table. The one that burned the longest was going to live the longest. I won this. After supper we went out. We had to go in at eight o'clock after having a very nice time.

A Sunday Walk.

Dear Uncle Jed: Sunday afternoon my friend and I took a walk. We went about a mile. On our return we found some hed berries. We picked a few sprays which made a bouquet. As we went toward home some people asked if they could have them. We said yes. We reached home at 5:30 p. m. Next Sunday we will go again.

GLADYS PERKINS. Age 9.

A Pet Rabbit.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about a brown rabbit we used to own. The rabbit was given to my brother and he kept him on the piazza in a small house, which my father made. There was also a yard all fenced in, so the rabbit could eat his food and run around.

The rabbit was named Browny and he was very lively and would always come near the wire netting so we could feed him and scratch his head. We used to pick him up by his ears.

The rabbit was very fond of carrots and cabbage. He drank lots of water. We had to be careful not to give him too much food at one time.

A cat in the neighborhood would come over and watch the rabbit and try to put his claws through the wire netting and touch the rabbit. The rabbit would get scared and go in his house. The cat would also walk on top of the yard, so at night we had to cover the yard so the cat would not harm the rabbit when we were not around.

One day we gave the rabbit some cabbage, and during the night the cabbage froze and the rabbit ate it. In the morning when my brother went out to see his rabbit he was dead. That was the end of Browny, so we decided we would have no more rabbits as they need lots of care.

HARRIET S. HAZARD. Age 10.

Hallowe'en Brownies.

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you and the Wide Awakes enjoy my story.

Several boys were having a jolly time, planning what they would do for their Hallowe'en celebration. Each boy had a special trick to play.

When it came to Jack's turn he said, "Let's play Brownies." Of course all the boys demanded an explanation. After the explanation, the boys shouted "Hurrah for the Brownies."

When it was dark, six little boys might have been seen entering the barn. A few minutes later six queer little Brownies could be seen running down the street.

Some of the tricks they played were: To pile a woman's wood very nicely, put a lovely basket of fruit on a door step and to mend up a fence.

The boys enjoyed playing Brownies so much that they all declared, "Certainly next year we shall play Brownies again."

Our Baby

Dear Uncle Jed: I haven't written to you in about two years, so I am writing this about our baby. His name is Arthur Clark Frink. He is named after an uncle of ours.

He is five and a half months old and weighs twenty-one pounds. He has one tooth.

I have one sister and two other brothers, but we all think there's nothing like the baby. He is so good-natured, he smiles all the time. He certainly is a cute little fellow.

The Flood

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to tell you about the water up here. There were lots of bridges broken down here. This is the first time I have written to you. The water was deep up here.

I thought our cellar was flooded. But it was not.

We are very thankful for that. I went over to see the bridge this afternoon.

A Leaf Dress

Dear Uncle Jed: One day I went hunting for some leaves. I went into my father's swamp to find some red leaves and put them into my pocket. Then I found some pretty yellow and red leaves with a little bit of green on them. Then I wondered what to sew it up with. So I took sticks and made holes into the leaves and put the sticks into the holes. Then wondered what to use for beads. I found some berries and stuck them onto the end of the sticks and my leaf dress was done.

My First Experience in Riding a Sled.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first story to you and the Wide Awakes. One day last winter Jennie and I went out to have a good time. It was snowing so we took out our sleds. We had a lot of fun going down the hill. Jennie's sled broke and she fell down so I let her ride with me. The first time she got on with me we heard the sled creak. The next time she got on, we heard it creaking again. This time when we were about half way down the sled cracked in two and we fell down. Jennie got her nose scratched and I got my ear scratched.

Our School.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about school. The study I like most is history. It really is fun to study it. All the studies we have are geography, history, English, spelling, reading, writing and arithmetic. Our school room is real large with four windows in it. There are 35 desks in the room. I like to go to school very much. I am in the seventh grade. We have night school once a year for one hour. We have a fake broadcasting station in our room that we give our current topics to the class through. The letters are LTOP. We have made many maps in school this year so far and hope to make many more. Uncle Jed I hope I am one of the winners of your books.

Having a Good Time.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the story that I am writing to you and the Wide Awakes. One day when I went to the beach, I had very many friends there, so I was happy.

One night when we were playing hide and seek, we had a great deal of fun.

Because the one who had to find us had a hard time, for my friends and I changed our coats and hats. Now when the best fun was going on my mother called me and said that it was time to go to bed, because I had to get up early in the morning to go home.

Slater Hall Annex Lecture

Dr. John Edwin Wells who will speak before the Norwich College club and guests in Slater Hall annex next Tuesday evening, is regarded as one of the leading living authorities on Thackeray and his writings. Dr. Wells possesses several Thackeray manuscripts and has re-edited Thackeray's works.

Breed Theatre

Lon Chaney, always a master of mysterious roles and belief-defying disguises, and Tod Browning, who is to the screen what Edgar Allen Poe was to mystery in the printed word, have triumphed again.

The combination that produced "The Unholy Three," "The Road to Mandalay" and "The Blackbird," has gone another step forward into the mysteries of life—and the result is "The Unknown," now playing at the Breed theatre.

It is a strange mystery tale revolving about a circus, with Chaney as a sinister armless freak, ruling an underworld from his hiding place among the hundreds in a tented city. The audacity of it is amazing—an apparent harmless sideshow freak controlling the criminal underworld. His love for a dancer in the circus, his jealousy for the strong man, who is his rival, and the amazing sacrifice that climaxes the astounding story, Joan Crawford, Norman Kerry and others are in the supporting cast.

Palace Theatre

Motion picture producers who are continually bewailing the lack of new ideas for screen plays should take a tip and consult Bebe Daniels. This Paramount star who seems to have a faculty of grabbing more than her share of good screen thoughts proved it thoroughly in her latest picture, "She's a Sheik" which opens a three days run at the Palace commencing today. The role of Captain Colton is played to perfection by Richard Arlen, with William Powell cast as the villian. Others in the cast include Billy Franey, Josephine Dunn and Paul McAllister.

An unusually good vaudeville program is arranged in conjunction with "She's a Sheik", featuring Cooke, Mortimer and Harvey in their novelty, Basketball on Wheels, Barbier, Simms and company in a comedy skit, "Action, Camera," Thompson and Kemp, "Two Dark Clouds of Joy," Allen and Kent in "As You Were" and McDonald and Oakes, a pair of fast steppers, make up the vaudeville bill.

For Thursday's change of program the management has booked one of the outstanding feature pictures of the year, when Fred Thomson will be shown on the screen in his first Paramount picture, "Jesse James."

Slater Hall Concert

"Bravo! Greater than Jeritza!"

Those vociferous words or their Teutonic equivalent shot up above the din and fairly smote the rafters of the National Opera house in Vienna at the expiration of the debut of a brand new Marguerite in "Faust" a few years ago.

On the stage in the full flush of initial success stood a stunned American novitiate, a young American girl who a short two years previously in the farthermost standing room of the Metropolitan Opera house, New York, had gazed open mouthed, at the bright scintillating star to whom she was now being compared. That was the moment when determination to some day tread the same stage was born in Mary Lewis' heart and the accomplishment of that dream came in January 1926 when her debut was made at the New York Opera house.

"Mary Lewis wins instant triumph at Metropolitan" headlined the New York Evening World on the occasion of her debut in New York, editorials were printed on her success, and coast to coast telegraph wires hummed with the story of the female protagonist of the old time Horatio Alger stories.

"A charming voice, the possession of it seemingly unaffected, and with her program of songs there was nothing to be desired either in pulchritude, ability or generosity; the latter being marked by a rare unselfishness" was the opinion of the Dayton (Ohio) Daily News critic on the occasion of Miss Lewis' recital there on her first coast to coast tour. So not only has she triumphed in Europe, but also in her own country, not only in New York, but also in San Francisco, and many cities between from the Gulf to Canada, Mary Lewis' radiant smile, unaffected manner, and beautiful voice never fails to enthrall her audience. See advertisement in another column of this issue for full details.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

The French colony in Los Angeles was heavily drawn upon recently for types to appear in Pola Negri's new Paramount starring production "The Woman on Trial" which reaches the Broadway theatre today.

The scene showed a court room in Paris, faithful in every detail, and as the trial represented a sensational murder episode it was necessary to pack the courtroom with hundreds of Parisian men and women. Nearly five hundred French types in all were used by Maurits Stiller, director, for the sequences.

These included, in addition to the civilian crowd, eight French judicial types, seven French lawyers, seven gendarmes in uniform, twelve court clerks, a jury, French officers and reporters.

The picture is based on a stage play by Ernest Vajda, noted dramatist and principal roles are taken by Einar Hanson and Arnold Kent, supporting Miss Negri.

Strand Theatre

The document was as follows:

"I promise to give up all claims on my wife, Mabel P. Stocking, to William Suda, for the sum of $10,000." Stocking signed the document Oct. 23, 1925.

A previous suit was settled when Stocking received an automobile from Suda several months ago.

COTTRELL HEIRS WITHDRAW SUIT OVER STOCK DEAL

The case of Leone B. Cottrell, of New York, widow of Edgar H. Cottrell, and their minor children Nicholas, Leone, Elizabeth and Edgar H. Cottrell, Jr., against Charles P. Cottrell and Arthur M. Cottrell, individually and collectively, executors of the will of Edgar H. Cottrell, late of Stonington, to recover 500 shares of preferred stock and 50 shares of common stock of the C. B. Cottrell & Sons Co., of Stonington, claimed to be worth $100,000 has been withdrawn from the docket of the superior court.

The complaint stated that Edgar H. Cottrell and Charles P. Cottrell were the owners on May 23, 1921, of the capital stock, preferred and common, of the Cottrell & Sons Co., when an agreement was made by which Arthur M. Cottrell was to buy 1,000 shares of the common and 1,000 shares of the preferred stock of the company.

On June 1, 1921, it was claimed, Edgar H. Cottrell owned 2,420 shares of preferred and 3,997 shares of common stock. He transferred to Arthur M. Cottrell, 500 shares of each class of stock, which he intended to sell to Arthur M. Cottrell at a price equal to the par value of the shares, to wit: $100,000. It was alleged that Arthur H. Cottrell had never paid Edward H. Cottrell or to his estate the sum of $100,000, for this stock or any other sum as consideration for the stock transfer.

It was further alleged that the two executors recognized and acquiesced in a claim by Arthur M. Cottrell and had refused to take any action to recover the stock or to get payment therefor.

The plaintiff asked that Arthur M. Cottrell be required to vest the ownership of this stock in the estate of Edgar H. Cottrell or he required to pay the price from the date of receipt; further that if the stock was not returned to the estate, an accounting be made for all dividends on the stock received by Arthur M. Cottrell.

LEBANON SUMMER VISITOR DIED SUDDENLY AT SARATOGA

The Daily Saratogian of Saratoga, N. Y., in it issue of Nov. 4 said:

Miss Ada L. Ensign, a well known resident of this city for many years, died last night suddenly, having been taken ill while attending a lecture by the Saratoga Bird club, given in College hall, Skidmore. Miss Ensign's health has been a matter of concern, but last evening she felt sufficiently well to attend the lecture by Dr. Charles Crawford Gorst.

While there she suffered a sudden attack and was assisted from the room and medical aid was summoned, Dr. Earl H. King responding almost immediately. Her death occurred shortly after.

Miss Ensign was the daughter of Isaac and Susan Halstead Ensign, and was born and spent her early life in Troy, N. Y., where her father was engaged in mercantile business. Several years ago she removed with members of her family to this city, where, with the exception of a few years spent with relatives in Melrose, Mass., she has since made her home, occupying her house at 14 Madison avenue.

Miss Ensign was a member of the Bethesda Episcopal church, and was deeply interested in church affairs. Miss Ensign was a sister of the late Mrs. Leonard B. Fletcher and is survived by a niece, Miss Marian Fletcher, who resided with her. She is also survived by several cousins—Mrs. Minnie Dates and Mrs. Frank Groat, of Ballston Spa, Mrs. Decins Beebe of Melrose, Mass., Mrs. Catherine Spencer of Los Angeles and Mrs. Ellmore of Westport, Conn.

Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Irving G. Rouillard at the late residence, 14 Madison avenue, Monday morning at 11 o'clock. Burial will be in the family plot at Oakmont cemetery, Troy.

Miss Ensign was accustomed to spend many of her summers in Lebanon and had many acquaintances there.

HALIFAX MAN ENJOYED HIS VISIT IN NORWICH

With reference to a recent visit which John E. Trider of Halifax, made in Norwich and vicinity recently, The Evening Mail of Halifax, Nova Scotia, says:

Having visited the printing departments of many of the larger papers in the United States, during the course of an extended tour, John E. Trider, chief pressman of The Evening Mail, has returned to the city. On the trip he was accompanied by his daughter-in-law, who was formerly Miss Hartfree, daughter of William Hartfree, of 136 Duncan street. Among the visits of particular interest, in connection with his work, paid by Mr. Trider were those to J. T. Gutmann, of the R. Hoe Co., of New York, and the offices of The New York Times and the New York World. He also visited Boston, Lowell, Worcester, Mass., and Providence, R. I.

At the last named place he was the guest of Mrs. Mont, formerly a resident of Halifax. Mr. Caldwell and Fred Horton, both formerly of this city, are now residing in Providence and welcomed direct news of their home city. Much of Mr. Trider's time in the United States was spent in Jewett City, where he was the guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sebilleaud. While there he visited the Bulletin and Record office of Norwich, Conn., and met J. C. Broadhurst, of The Bulletin who extended a warm welcome. Among others who received direct news of Halifax with interest were Mr. and Mrs. Whitley of Yantic, Conn. Mrs. Whitley is a sister of Robert Horton, and Mrs. William Hartfree, of this city and formerly resided in Halifax.

While in Yantic, Mr. Trider was conducted on a tour of one of the sixty mills of the American Woolen Co., manufacturers of very fine men's woolen wear. One of the striking things noted during the trip was the steady growth in the size of manufacturing plants, which have now attained places where the employment lists runs into thousands, the stride forward having been of but recent years.

Mr. Trider was in the flood area, when the raging waters recently caused such widespread destruction in Vermont and the New England states. Although Jewett City and Norwich were somewhat south of the storm it was necessary to close a number of mills down because of the rise in the water. Sterling, a few miles away, had a bridge completely washed away. There were reports of a similar nature received from Springfield and Hartford, nearby places.

The warm hospitality of the people in general in the places visited is commented upon with enthusiasm by Mr. Trides.

WILL CONTINUE TRIAL OF DAMAGE ACTION

Trial of the $60,000 damage suit of the Textile Finishing Machinery Co., of Providence, R. I., against the New London Ship and Engine Co., will be resumed at New London today (Monday). The case was partly heard in New London before Judge Allyn L. Brown, prior to the closing of his superior court term. Judge Brown will hold a special sitting today to hear expert testimony to be presented by the defendant company.

The plaintiff company alleges that the New London concern made 16 castings for hydraulic presses, which proved unsatisfactory. The defense denies the allegations.

DR. HEWES' FAMILY WAS IN DANGER IN VERMONT

Considerable damage to farmland in South Strafford, Vt., owned by Dr. Frank W. Hewes of Thames street, Groton, was done by the flood that took heavy toll throughout that state, Dr. Hewes, with his family returned from there recently.

The wash of the swollen rivers and streams gullied the outlying acres of the Hewes farm and left them strewn with debris washing in from miles around. The house and other farm buildings, however, were undamaged.

Within the few weeks the Hewes were in South Strafford one woman was drowned there and an aged man, also a neighbor, died, following a stroke of apoplexy.

To the heroic efforts of a truck driver, Dr. Hewes feels that he and his family owe their lives. The farm was visited one night by the crews of two trucks, who said they had had practically no sleep or food for three days and nights.

He learned upon inquiry that the cargo of the truck caravan comprised gasoline in barrels, dynamite to the amount of a half ton, and percussion caps. Sensing the danger, the doctor cautioned the members of his family not to venture near the trucks, and urged the truckmen to be careful with the oil lantern which they had with them.

In spite of the warning, one of the men placed the lantern too close when they were attempting to refill the tank of one of the trucks from a barrel. The result was a flare that quickly ignited three of the barrels on one truck and seriously menaced the other, which was standing only a few inches away.

Fearing an explosion, which seemed inevitable, Dr. Hewes warned his family and the truck crews away. One of the men, however, ignored the advice and, leaping to the cab of the flaming vehicle, drove it down the road as fast as it would go, stopped it and quickly lifted the dump body, spilling the load in the highway.

The result was that all but three barrels of gasoline were saved, and to this fact also, Dr. Hewes attributes not only the safety of his family but the farm buildings themselves.

With him at the farm were Mrs. Hewes, their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hewes, Jr., and Martin Chapman of Monument street, Groton.

MYSTIC MAN IS TO TESTIFY IN WORCESTER

Miss Estelle Belaire, 23, of Newton street, Holyoke, a passenger in Lamson's automobile, was badly injured in the collision, and was for several weeks at the Worcester City hospital, suffering from a double fracture of the skull. TAFTVILLE

The members of the Taftville Rod and Gun club gave an exhibition motion picture Friday evening, to further the knowledge of wild game and fish in the locality. One of the pictures "With Dog and Gun," dealt with a deer hunting expedition in the wilds of Canada, which was very interesting. The feature picture was "Taking Game Fish in the Florida Gulf Stream," which showed the hooking of various semi-tropical fishes such as tarpon, bonita, barracuda, dolphin and sailfish. After the motion pictures there was a social hour and dancing, for which Swahn's orchestra played, was enjoyed. Otto Czikowsky prompted for the square dancing. The affair took place at Ponemah hall and was in charge of the executive board of the Rod and Gun club.

An enjoyable whist party was held Friday evening in the rooms of the T. A. and B. society on Providence street. Eleven tables were in play, and following cards, delicious refreshments were served at the tables. The first prize for gentlemen went to John Daley, Jr., and the second to James Murphy. Miss Amanda Senecal won the ladies first prize; the second going to Antoinette Benoit and the consolation to Mrs. Louis Gregory. The committee in charge included Miss Helen Breault, chairman; Miss Julia Chappell, Miss Mary Hanlon, Miss Katherine Hasler and Miss Mary Murphy.

At the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church Sunday, the pastor, Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, preached on "A Thanksgiving Study." The special music sung by the choir under the direction of Miss Nellie S. Howie, the church organist and choir leader, was the anthem "Praise the Lord, All Ye Nations." In the evening there was the regular weekly meeting of the members of the Young Peoples' society of Christian Endeavor in the church vestry, Miss Dorothy M. Aberg was the leader and the topic discussed was "Blessings We Often Forget," a Thanksgiving topic.

Over 500 people attended the carnival Saturday night at the Parish hall which is being given for the benefit of the Sacred Heart church under the auspices of the Army and Navy club. There were some attractive electric light displays, and many novelties were introduced during the evening. Dancing was enjoyed until midnight, Dave Lyons' orchestra furnishing the music.

The rummage sale recently conducted by the members of the American Legion auxiliary, netted the organization the sum of $23.

Mrs. George Bromley of Lisbon has been spending several days with Mrs. Charles Boyens at her home on Occum Heights.

Matthew J. Hatton of Providence, R. I., has been calling on friends in town the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Seifert and family of Norwich avenue have moved to Norwich where they have taken a house on Hamilton avenue.

A game supper is being planned for next Saturday by the members of the Taftville Rod and Gun club. John Ely has already contributed two coons for the occasion and Delvica Benoit has offered the use of his cold storage facilities for the preservation of the game which members may bring in for the affair.

The Army and Navy club have installed a new radio receiving set in their clubhouse on Dion street.

SIR ESME RIDICULES FEAR OF BRITISH PROPAGANDA

British Ambassador, Speaking Before the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants, Admitted That He Himself Was Badly Infected With "the Terrible Disease Known as Anglo-Amercian Friendship"—Rebuked Those Who Are Seeking to Undermine the Friendship Existing Between Great Britain and America

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States admitted tonight that he was "badly infected" with "the terrible disease known as Anglo-American friendship" and in a more serious vein expressed the belief that "the peace of the world depends largely upon friendship and understanding between our two countries."

Speaking before the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendents at the Hotel Somerset the ambassador said:

"We have heard so much lately from another place of the danger of British propaganda in this country that I was beginning to wonder whether the descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers gathered here to celebrate the landing of their ancestors at Plymouth might not have feared that the presence of the British ambassador tonight might bring with it some dread infection of the terrible disease known as Anglo-American friendship. It is of course a most dangerous malady and may lead to results almost too appalling to contemplate.

"I fear nevertheless I am badly infected with it and may perhaps spread the microbe. Indeed, I am bold enough, unashamed enough to say that I should be glad to do so.

"My reason for desiring friendship and understanding between our two countries I have never sought to hide for the last three and half years that I have been British ambassador here. It is not only on account of my personal sentiments, because I have many friends on this side of the water, because I have continually met with real frank unadulterated kindness wherever I have been, but also and even more particularly because I believe that the peace of the world depends largely upon that understanding.

"It is therefore difficult for me not to believe that those who seek to undermine it are consciously or unconsciously actively promoting a state of things which will make permanent peace far more difficult to realize and the possibility of a new world war more threatening than at present. Such a world war, whether for us or for our children would be a disaster so incalculable that even such a dangerous propagandist as a British ambassador may be believed and excused for doing what little he can to avert it. x x x

"There seems to be some on either side of the Atlantic who believe that all those who preach friendship and understanding desire to denature their own countries, to undermine the patriotism of their compatriots. Now I may say for myself at least, and I believe the same can be said of every Englishman, that we no more wish to see the Anglicizing of America than we wish to see the Americanization of England."

Sir Esme told of a letter from his son at Oxford saying that his American classmate was "much more alive to the absence of American plumbing than to the architectural beauties of Oxford, and added:

"As to plumbing I may say quite frankly that I could wish to see not only Oxford but the rest of my country considerably more Americanized. We have much besides plumbing to learn from this country which we can adapt without losing our individuality, without becoming too Americanized. It is possible also that American travelers after they have overcome the first shock of British plumbing and other important mediaevalisms may find one or two things in the British Isles which could be usefully adapted here without in any way reducing that percentage of Americanism which every true son of this country should maintain."

Remarking that in the remainder of his speech he was to utter "really subtle and dangerous propaganda," the ambassador said it was owing mainly to the landing of the Pilgrims that "there are certain essentially English things which will stick willy-nilly to this continent and which all the censoring and books in the world cannot terminate." These things, he said, were the English language, English law, English literature and the English conception of government, "which combines a determination to reject and refuse any government which attempts to tax the people without their consent and respect and the will of the majority as expressed in elections."

KLAN CONTROVERSY IS THROWN OUT OF COURT

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Counter actions of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and five "banished members" against each other were both thrown out of federal court today.

United States Judge W. H. S. Thomson dismissed the suit of the Klan against five western Pennsylvanians seeking to have them enjoined from interfering with the affairs of the organization and asking $100,000 damages from each of them.

The court likewise denied the application of the "banished members" for an injunction to bar the Klan from Pennsylvania and the appointment of a receiver over its properties in this state.

The action by the Klan was filed against the Rev. John P. Strayer, Charles S. Hunter, Charles F. yer, William C. Davis and Van A. Barrickman. The damages were sought upon a claim that they collected funds of the organization after their dismissal.

Denying the allegations, the defendants, supported by affidavits from others, sought a court order barring the Klan from the state, charging the Klan incited riots, lynchings, kidnapings, and other acts of violance.

"The plaintiff is asking for equitable relief, and must come into court with clean hands," Judge Thomson said in his decision. "The averments of fact in the answer and counter claim, if established, would clearly deprive the plaintiff of any relief in a court of equity. No gross violator of the laws of the land can ever hope for relief, particularly in equity. The court would unhesitatingly refuse its aid to any litigant who came before it as a violator of the law, even though the cause might show merit on its face. The court would leave the parties where it found them."

Affidavits filed by the "banished members," and their supporters charged the Klan among other things with responsibility for the fatal Carnegie and Lilly, Pa., riots, the abduction of a child and the lynching of a Negro, all the disorders named as having occurred in 1923, during the period when Sam D. Rich, of Pittsburgh, was state grand dragon. It was also claimed the Klan had collected some $15,000,000 in Pennsylvania within the last seven years without an accounting.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE AT JUNEAU, ALASKA

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 21—(AP)—A severe earthquake at 6:15 a. m., today awakened many residents of Juneau. The motion lasted about 15 seconds.

Magnetic observers F. P. Ulrich at Sitka, near here, registered the shock at 6:14 a. m. The tremor was strong enough to shake moveable objects, but no material damage was reported either in Sitka or Juneau.

A slighter and slower earth movement was felt 15 seconds later.

Ulrich said the shock at Sitka was the heaviest since the quake of Oct. 24, which shook all of southeastern Alaska. He said he believed the center of the disturbance was probably the same as the previous shock. This point has not been determined, but it was believed to have been off the coast of southeastern Alaska in the Pacific ocean.

WOMAN BANK OFFICER GUILTY OF LARCENY

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 21—(AP)—After having pleaded guilty to the larceny of more than $10,000 from the Watertown Co-operative bank while she served as an officer of that institution, Mrs. Arlene Coblenz of Watertown today was sentenced in Middlesex superior court to two years in the house of correction. Mrs. Coblenz is socially prominent in Watertown.

Prosecuting counsel declared the belief that the woman had been under the influence of another against whom the government had been unable to obtain sufficient evidence to convict

RACE SEGREGATION IS SUSTAINED BY COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—Race segregation of children in public schools was sustained today by the supreme court.

The ruling was on a case from Mississippi where an attempt was made to compel the state to permit Martha Lum, daughter of an American citizen of Chinese descent, to attend the Rosedale Consolidated high school in Bolivar county, provided exclusively for white children.

Declaring that "the right and power of the state to regulate the method of providing for the education of its youth at public expense is clear," Chief Justice Taft, in delivering the opinion said it was "within the constitutional power of the state legislature to settle without intervention of the federal courts under the federal constitution" whether it will require a Chinese citizen of the United States to send his children to public schools provided for the colored races.

The court held it was within the discretion of the state to set aside schools exclusively for the use of white children provided equal facilities are furnished children of other races within the school districts, and the states may require children of Chinese birth to attend them.

Former decisions cited included one in a case from Louisiana which upheld the Jim Crow law requiring railways to furnish separate compartments for whites and Negroes. Having found such a law constitutional the court indicated that it was comparatively clear that children not Caucasian could be required to attend schools for colored children.

MOTHER SACRIFICED HER LIFE TO SAVE HER CHILDREN

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 21—(AP)—The heroism of a mother who gave her life in an attempt to save her four children was revealed today when authorities pieced together the story of the last moments of Mrs. Charles Marshall, burned to death with three of her children when their home was destroyed by fire this morning. One child, Walter, aged 6, was saved.

The children were asleep on the second floor of the house when the mother discovered that the flimsy frame structure was in flames. She carried Walter down stairs and threw him to safety from a window, then fought her way back through an inferno of flame and smoke to reach the other three. But the roof and walls collapsed, and Mrs. Marshall perished with her daughter, Ruth, 11 years old, and her sons, John and Robert, aged 8 and 4.

The father, employed in the chair department at the New Hampshire state prison, had left for work half an hour before the fire was discovered. Prisoners in his department took up a collection to aid Marshall, some of the convicts contributing their last cent. They raised $50, to which non-prisoner employes added $120.

TORRENTIAL RAINS A LUCKY TOKEN IN MOROCCO

RABAT, Morocco, Nov. 21—(AP)—Torrential rains, accepted in Morocco as a token of good luck since the sun shines here 300 days a year—greeted the new sultan, Sidi Mohammed Ben Mulai Yusseff today as he entered Rabat, seat of the French residency and capital of his sultanate.

The youthful sultan, only 17 years old, drove from Fez in an American made automobile to make his official entry into the city from which he will rule. He alighted from the car just outside the city gates and mounted a white Arabian steed.

The heavy rain that poured down in sheets transformed the red fez and white burnous of the boy sultan into clinging skin-fitting garments as the Resident-General Theodore Steeg, who accompanied the procession, smiled uneasily in his cutaway coat and top hat.

ROME, Nov. 21.—(AP)—After painting four portraits of Italian notables in three weeks, Howard Chandler Christy, the American artist, will sail for New York on the steamship Conte Rosso tomorrow, taking with him the canvases of Premier Mussolini, Crown Prince Humbert, Countess DiFrasso—formerly Miss Dorothy Taylor of New York—and Prince Philip Ofheese, husband of Princess Mafalda. He will exhibit the paintings at New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago.

AMBASSADOR MORROW POPULAR IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The personal popularity achieved by Ambassador Morrow promises to reconcile the anti-American element in Mexico, in the belief of Ambassador Tellez, who said today that the new American envoy already had created a spirit of amnity long needed in Mexican-American relations.

Ambassador Lelles, who recently returned from a visit in Mexico City during the time of the arrival of Morrow said that, in addition to his personal charm which has won all Mexicans, the new ambassador had abandoned most of the strict forms of diplomatic procedure and had adopted his own ideas of tactics in dealing with Mexican officials. He never sends notes but talks personally with officials and, Ambassador Telles declared, usually is successful in achieving an understanding on disputed questions.

The Mexican envoy expressed the belief that the recent rulings of the Mexican courts refusing to sanction the withholding of drilling licenses from foreign oil companies, is indicative of an eventual clearing up of the petroleum controversy.

SISTER REFERRED TO IN KLEIN SEPARATION SUIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—Jacob Henry Klein Jr., former commander of the mysterious woman referred to by U. S. Navy dirigibles, has revealed that his wife in her separation suit is none other than her sister.

Mrs. Klein, who was awarded $300 monthly alimony Saturday pending trial of her suit, charged that Klein was "financially obligated" to live with another woman whom she did not name, for three years. Entering a Fifth avenue apartment, unannounced she said, she found her husband with this woman and the pair held her prisoner over night.

Klein's version is that he had taken the apartment with his wife's sister while his wife was in Europe to help pay the rental. Mrs. Klein came on a pleasant social visit after her return, he continued, and voluntarily remained over night. He produced a telegram from her dated next day in which she sent love and reported her safe arrival at Lakehurst, N. J.

Klein, who has commanded both the Los Angeles, in which he flew from Germany, and the ill-fated Shenandoah, retired from the navy in July 1926, to enter a brokerage firm.

AGED SISTER OF FORMER KAISER WEDS YOUNG SAILOR

BONN, Germany, Nov. 21—(AP)—The proud former kaiser of Germany today acquired a brother-in-law who has been a sailor and professional dancer. The deposed ruler's 61-year-old sister, Princess Victoria Schaumberg-Lippe, was united here in a religious ceremony to Alexander Subkoff, 27-year-old Russian refugee, whom she married in a civil ceremony aSturday.

The princess became Frau Subkoff amid all the pomp and splendor customary in a Greek Orthodox church wedding.

The couple planed to leave for the Tyrol within a week or two for a honeymoon trip, after which they intend to settle in Berlin.

The adamant refusal of the Lutheran synod to perform the ceremony is attributed to the influence of the former kaiser, who opposed the marriage. Princess Victoria resorted to the Greek Orthodox church of her husband in the emergency.

STATEMENT BY CHIEF OF POLICE OF MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21—(AP)—General Roberto Cruz, chief of police, issued an official signed statement tonight, declaring that three prominent members of the league for the defense of religious liberty—the organization which is opposed to the new religious law— were the actual and intellectual leaders in the recent plot to assassinate General Obregon, and that they have been arrested and have confessed their guilt.

The names of the men are: Luis Segura Vilchis, an engineer employed by the Mexican Light and Power company; Miguel Augustin Pro Juarez, a Catholic priest, and his brother Humberto Juarez.

General Cruz, in his statement, says that Vilchis assumed entire responsibility for the plot to assassinate General Obregon, but the police believe that this was done in an effort to shield his accomplices.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OFFICIAL IN TROUBLE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 21—(AP)—Conflicting testimony, including a denial by Dr. Edward S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league of several statements made by Senator James E. Watson in a deposition taken at Washington Thursday, tonight was taken under advisement by the Indiana supreme court.

The court heard the testimony of five witnesses, which was topped with an hour of attorneys' arguments on the motion of Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom to increase the sentence of sixty days at the state penal farm and fine of $250 imposed on Shumaker for indirect contempt of the Indiana supreme court.

The testimony was a succession of accusations and denials, Dr. Shumaker, who is accused by the attorney-general of corruptly attempting to influence the decision of the court in his case was read portions of the deposition of Senator Watson, and variously commented: "The senator's recollection is very faulty," and "The senator said nothing of the kind."

New Warfare Opened by Chicago Gangsters

Three Armed Men Were Arrested Outside the South Park Police Station.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21—(AP)—Rival Chicago gangsters, opening a new phase of extermination for gambling supremacy, today carried their feud into the doors of Chicago's largest police station, where it was nipped by the police. Critics who for two days have been making a desperate effort to prevent the initial crack of gangster pistols and the roar of their sawed-off shotguns.

A series of raids of machine and shotgun nests by the police last night to frustrate an assassination plot believed directed mainly against Al "Scarface" Capone, notorious gangster, culminated today in the arrest outside the South Park street police station of three armed men believed to have been Capone's bodyguards, and the unsuccessful attempt of one of them to shoot his way boldly out of the office of William O'Connor chief of detectives.

After questioning the three men, the police said they had obtained information there had been a plot to kill Capone when he appeared in court today, and that two killers were in the courtroom actually waiting for him. The police said however, that he did not appear, despite statements of his attorney that he had been there and left.

Tonight the police, with orders to round up every known ganster, were scouring the city.

The latest feud, the police said is a result of the efforts of the remnants of the old O'Banion-Weiss-Drucci gang, which turned from liquor running to gain a foothold in the gambling world.

The assassination plot was revealed last week when an arsenal was found in a rooming house across the street from the home of Antonio Lombardo, head of the Unione Siciliana, the largest Italian fraternal order in Chicago, of which Capone also is a leader. Several arrests were made last night.

Half a dozen gangsters, mostly Italian, were arrested and Capone, called to the station to try to identify them, refused to do so. Police booked Capone on a technical charge of disorderly conduct. Sam Martin, alias Samuel Marcus, of New York, one of Capone's alleged bodyguard tried to shoot his way out of the detective bureau where he was being questioned. He was overpowered, however.

Another was identified as Tony "Little New York" Campagni, ex-convict and convicted bank robber.

Shortly afterward Andy Aiello and Tony Calafo were arrested outside a criminal court room. As the men were arrested an automobile with shotguns protruding from its sides was driven rapidly away from the building. The police said the three Aiello brothers, attempting to supplant Lombardo and Capone in control of the Italian society, have been directing the feud against this faction.

After both men had been treated by a doctor they were removed to their homes in a machine sent to the scene by the trucking firm. The truck was one of a fleet operated by the express company for the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company.

Military in Control of Col. Coal Fields

Four Strikers Were Killed and More Than 20 Wounded by National Guardsmen.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Military rule prevailed tonight in coal mining areas of northern Colorado where four strikers were shot and killed and more than 20 wounded by state police today in the first bloody outbreak since the strike was called five weeks ago by industrial workers of the world.

The shooting occurred near the Columbine mine, in Weld county, where guards recently were placed under orders to shoot any strikers who sought to invade the mine property to picket.

Of the wounded strikers brought down by the hail of bullets, four were not expected to recover. They were sent to nearby hospitals.

Conflicting versions of the shooting were expressed by representatives of the strikers and state officials.

Committee representing the strikers placed full blame on the officers, declaring not a single miner was armed and that they were not marching toward the mine, but were on their way to the post office which is situated on the property of the Columbine mine. Governor W. H. Adams, who issued an executive order declaring a state of riot and insurrection in Weld and Boulder counties, asserted the state police had to protect themselves from an attack by the strikers.

The executive cloaked Adjutant General Paul R. Newlon with full authority to proceed as he saw fit to command the situation, and guards men were in control of the fields tonight with the same jurisdiction as under martial law, according to state officials. Five companies of infantry, two troops of cavalry, two armored tanks and a medical detachment of the state national guard were detailed to the scene.

The strikers' committee also placed responsibility for the casualties on "A fool speed cop" who they said fired into the strikers. This shot, the statement said, caused some fighting and precipitated the point-blank volley fired by the officers.

Twenty officers, lined up in front of the mine, fired the shots.

Twenty of the wounded strikers were taken to the hospital at Longmont, nearby town, and doctors said that at least four of them did not have a chance to live. Two were taken to a hospital at Boulder and others of the wounded were taken to their homes. All of the state officers received injuries.

Among those wounded among the strikers' ranks was a woman dressed in the clothing of a man. Another woman was found among the wounded in the Longmont hospital.

A $5,000,000 ATTACHMENT ON AMERICAN WOOLEN PROPERTY

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—An attachment of $5,000,000 was placed on the property of the American Woolen company in Massachusetts today in connection with a bill in equity brought against the company by the Old Colony Trust company and Cornelius A. Wood, executors of the estate of the late William M. Wood, former president of the textile corporation. The suit seeks to compel the defendant to pay, in pursuance of an alleged agreement, income taxes on the former president's salary amounting to $2,000,000 and interest of more than that sum.

Judge Elias Bishop, sitting in the equity motion session of Suffolk superior court today ordered to issue a special precept of attachment against the property of the American Woolen company in Middlesex, Essex, Worcester, Norfolk and Plymouth counties. The motion for attachment followed the recent filing of suit by the executors to enforce specific performance of the alleged tax contract.

NEW REVENUE BILL WILL PROVIDE FOR MAXIMUM $250,000,000 TAX REDUCTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—Overriding the treasury proposal to limit tax reductions to $225,000,000, the house ways and means committee today tentatively voted to set the maximum at $250,000,000 in framing a revenue bill.

It likewise turned thumbs down on Secretary Mellon's recommendations for repeal of the federal inheritance tax and a downward revision of surtax rates on incomes falling within the intermediate brackets.

The committee decided to confine prospect tax cuts primarily to reduction of the levy on corporation incomes and either reduction or repeal of those on admission tickets, club dues and automobile sales. Determination of what changes would be made regarding these taxes was deferred.

Adoption of the motion to set $250,000,000 as the maximum cut came near the close of a stormy session and after a number of other proposals had been cast aside.

At the outset the democratic membership lost a motion to authorize a reduction of $300,000,000. This was rejected on a strictly party vote.

Next, a motion to fix the maximum at $275,000,000 was defeated on a ballot that found one republican voting with the minority.

Then on a vote, described by one member as overwhelming, the committee approved the $250,000,000 total.

The committee sidetracted the proposal to repeal the inheritance levy by a 17 to 6 vote, and disapproved, 21 to 2, the suggestion for downward revision of the surtax rates.

A motion was adopted to refuse to consider proposals for repeal or reduction of the tax on tobacco sales and also the levy on stamp sales. A motion to reconsider action regarding the stamp taxes however, was pending at adjournment.

The committee also voted to eliminate the tax on cereal beverages, a levy producing about $150,000 annually in revenue.

COOLIDGE HAS DECLINED TO INTERVENE IN COAL STRIKE

Chief Executive Advised Workers' Representatives That They Could Expect Justice if They Filed Their Complaints With the I. C. C.—Labor Delegation Was Headed by William Green, President of the A. F. of L., and John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—President Coolidge was asked today by a delegation of labor leaders to intervene in the bituminous coal strike in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, but he left with them clearly the advice that he saw little desirability in calling a conference between miners and operators unless both were agreed that some good might come from it.

To the request of the delegation which was headed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, for a congressional investigation of an alleged "conspiracy of large railroads to depress the price of coal," Mr. Coolidge advised the workers' representatives they could expect justice and co-operation if they filed their complaint with the interstate commerce commission.

"We were prompted to make our request because the freight rate structure is based upon a reasonable fair price for fuel. If a reasonable price for fuel is maintained, the coal operators could pay a decent price for mining coal which is asked for by the miners."

The delegation had no sooner left the White House than it was stated on the president's behalf that he made no commitment regarding the calling of a conference to adjust the strike situation but merely had promised to refer the request to Secretary Davis of the labor department for investigation.

There seemed to Mr. Coolidge little to be gained, it was said, by the calling of a conference unless both parties to the controversy were willing to go into it with the desire for a reconciliation, and the impression was clearly left at the White House that the president saw little likelihood of an invitation to confer being issued.

The president was told also by Mr. Lewis that specifically the alleged conspiracy to beat down prices of coal and "to degrade the living conditions in mine fields" could be laid to the Pennsylvania, New York Central and the Baltimore and Ohio railroads, and he added that if given the opportunity, these charges could be proven to the satisfaction of congress.

The mine workers' representatives were informed by President Coolidge that he had made several efforts to have congress give him the authority to act in coal strikes, but that the mine workers themselves had contributed to defeat these. Lewis said he had replied that the proposal had been opposed because it did not make an effort to get at "the fundamental human relationship of the coal industry," and only was intended to prevent coal shortages.

BELGIAN CABINET RESIGNS; RECONSTRUCTION PREDICTED

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 21—(AP)—The Jaspar cabinet, which took office May 20, 1926, resigned today, after a meeting which revealed the impossibility of reconciling the conflicting views of the Socialist and non-Socialist ministers on the period of military service.

The Socialist attitude was finally decided at a morning caucus of the Socialist ministers with the Socialist senator, M. De Brouckere. This was to adhere to the demand for a reduction of military service from ten months. The cabinet assembled in the afternoon, and the minister of defense Count De Bro Queville, after a full review of the situation announced that it would be impossible to introduce a bill for the reduction of the period of service that would meet the approval of all the ministers. He therefore, proposed that the whole military question be submitted to a mixed commission of deputies and higher officers.

The ministerial council found that it was unable to agree to this suggestion, and decided upon resignation. It is believed that the ministry will be reconstructed, the four Socialist ministers being replaced by two Christian-democrats, one Catholic and one Liberal.

TAX LAW DECISIONS BY THE SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Tax laws were materially clarified by the supreme court today in its interpretation of numerous questions which have arisen to plague both the taxpayer and the tax collector.

In one case, involving taxes on incomes derived by lessees of Indian tribal oil lands, the government established its right to retain approximately $150,000,000 in revenue.

In another proceeding, the government lost in its contention that under the revenue act of 1924 it could tax gifts made prior to enactment of the law.

In a third, the board of tax appeals and the federal courts were held to have jurisdiction to review settlements made by the commissioner of internal revenue under the 1924 revenue act. The government had contended in this case that is such a power were recognized it would open the door to claims involving more than $1,000,000,000 which had already been collected.

The attention of the court was brought to the fact that Ogozalek has resided here about 18 years, being in business practically all of this time and that it was his first appearance in court. Harold Bergin of Bridgeport, employed on the construction of a new concrete bridge to replace the old twin bridges near Mansfield Center, suffered an unexpected and rather cold ducking while at his work recently, when the tree which he had climbed to unfasten a wire was chopped down before he could descend. Bergin clung to the tree as it made a sweep of about 30 feet and landed with a splash in the waters of the Fenton river. Bergin, who had about an hour previously refused a substantial bet if he would walk across the river, was none the worse for his unwelcome submersion. The tree had been chopped by a husky laborer who had wielded the axe a little too lustily in his intention to make a small notch for an engineering mark.

WESTMINISTER

The state trunk line is completed all but the finishing touches, rounding the shoulders, clearing the roadside and building fences and walls to replace those torn down for the new road.

It is estimated that another month will be consumed in this work. It is just a year since the first material, drain pipes of various sizes, began to arrive and the workmen followed.

Last week the pastors attended the State Association of Congregational Churches in the United church of Bridgeport, spending a night with the family of Murray Meade, son of Mrs. J. A. Meade and formerly of Sunny Meade farm, now in New London.

The first Sunday in November six persons had green corn fresh from a hilltop garden in Westminster.

That same day, Nov. 6, there were nasturtiums of various shades and calendulas at church. And an American beauty rose also bloomed outdoors.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rollison of Wauregan were guests at Westminster's morning worship recently.

Amos Green is fairly comfortable in his little house made from the small shed rescued from his fire. While the community has been glad to assist, to Mrs. W. E. Davies of Elm Arch farm belongs much credit for accomplishments.

The W. C. T. U., Buell Union, met Thursday with Mrs. Nina Hanson at Canterbury Plains. Mrs. Samuel Wibberly of Plainfield was a guest. Members from the Plains were present in good number.

When the November Six Church Fellowship of the South Windham Conference met in Westminster the Wibberleys furnished instrumental music through the day, adding greatly to the enjoyment of all. The morning address by Rev. Dwight C. Stone of Hanover was one to stimulate thought. The goodly number in attendance seemed to enjoy their lunch in the gallery of the old church where some of the women and four girls served coffee. At 1.30 the song and devotional service was led by Mrs. Stone of Brooklyn, who also sang a much appreciated solo in the afternoon. The resignation as secretary and treasurer of Rev. Walter Stone was accepted and Rev. William Williams elected in his place. Mr. Williams gave the first address of the afternoon, "Rum and the Gospel on Our Northern Boundaries" conclusively showing that prohibition work on the border is largely a farce, as the bridges are not guarded constantly, and giving instances proving this, also that the people of that region are longing for the Gospel of Christ. It was a very great privilege to have the concluding address from Rev. Mr. Higgins of Packer, who stated that he was laying aside the address he had prepared, speaking the things uppermost in his heart, touching on his early life, his freedom from the use of tobacco and intoxicants but indulging in profanity; of his conversion in evangelistic meetings after a week of seeking; of his young manhood as a music master, of his call to the ministry; of God's care for him in answering prayers for material needs, and of God's times of testing his faith; of God's Holy Spirit constantly present, ready to enter each heart as light enters a room when blinds and shades are opened, closing with a plea that each church pray for all churches in this region. After two stanzas of Blest Be the Tie that Binds Our Hearts in Christian Love, Mr. Higgins led in prayer and pronounced the benediction. Perhaps the most notable among the two-minute reports of the churches was that of Ekonk, which has not only painted the church and the parsonage on the exterior but also has renovated the interior of the "meeting house" and received eight into its membership on confession of faith in Christ. Among those present at Westminster from other places were some from Plainfield and Hanover, beside Rev. and Mrs. Stone.

Mrs. Andrew Nash of Darien, who has made many friends in her frequent visits with her sister at Elm Arch farm, is seriously ill in the hospital. She was in a hopeful condition at last accounts.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown is steadily progressing toward recovery.

A union Thanksgiving service for the 15 churches of various denominations banded together in this region is to be held at 10.30 Thanksgiving morning at Wauregan. Rev. William H. Dunnack of Moosup is to speak.

A Thanksgiving program is to be given by the Club of Westminster Hill school Friday afternoon at the regular session.

A much appreciated improvement on the hill is the re-made road from the Hubbard place past the Vitiaz property, connecting with the new road.

Westminster Hill school held a short session Saturday, making up for lost time.

It is hoped to secure the consent of the New York, New Haven and Hartford company to repair and use the road as a spur track. To further said action on the part of the larger corporation it is considered best to secure exemption from taxation on the branch road. With commendable public spirit some of the residents of the east portion of the town have turned out and constructed a temporary bridge at the George H. Holberton brook to replace the one washed away by the recent flood, thus relieving the town from much extra expense.

POETRY

The Friends

I called him John; he called me Jim;
'Nigh fifty years that I knowed him
An' he knowed me; an' he was square
An' honest all that time, an' fair.
I'd pass him mornin's jain' down
Th' road or drivin' into town.
An' we'd look up the same old way,
An' wave a hand, an' smile, an' say:
"Day, John!"
"Day, Jim!"

I guess you don't real often see
Such kind of friends as him an' me,
Not much on talkin' big, but, say
Th' kind of friends that stick an' stay
Come rich, come poor, come rain, come shine,
Whatever he might have was mine,
An' mine was his; an' we both knowed
It, when we'd holler on the road,
"How, John!"
"How, Jim!"

Somehow the world ain't quite the same
Today! Th' trees is all aflame
With Autumn, but, ther's somethin' gone
Went out of life, I guess, with John
He nodded that ol' grizzled head
Upon th' piller of his bed,
An' lifted up that helpin' hand
An' whispered: "Sometime! — Understand?"
"By, John!"
"By, Jim!"

—James W. Foley, in Saturday Evening Post.

Starlings

Trudging up the lane
One dank afternoon
Through a world of leaves and water,
Suddenly we heard the rustle and fall
Of a stream where could be no stream
"Strange!" we nodded, "strange."
But spoke not; tripped on quickly,
Called by the water.

And when we neared it,
The murmur and toss and flutter of wavelet
Seemed visible in the air,
Seemed to flow about the naked trees,
Vesper-waters and lavings of night
And still there was nothing to see
Save, rank upon rank
Manning shrub, tree-branch, outermost twig,
A multitude of chattering starlings.

The Flying Scotsman express of Great Britain has its own ice-making machinery abroad. The test has proved so successful that coaches on other lines are to be similarly equipped. The refrigerator plants are in the diners' kitchens. Power to operate the ice making apparatus is generated by an electric motor driven by a belt from the restaurant car wheels.

Scotchmen are determined to discourage American and English tourists who immediately put on kilts when they go north of the Tweed and commit the unforgiveable error of wearing them too high, thereby exposing too much of their knees. The process is before a committee of the Kilt society, composed of representatives of the various clans. During a meeting of this august body it was brought out that many of the clan representatives themselves wear their kilts too high. A committee of inquiry will, if necessary, revise the rules of kilts.

TWO FINED IN DANIELSON COURT FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 21—In the town court this morning, Acting Judge E. L. Darbie presiding because of the illness of Judge W. Fenner Woodward, two cases having to do with charges of reckless driving of motor vehicles were considered. Anthony Gzezck, Goodyear, was fined $35 and costs for reckless driving, $15 of the fine being remitted. Gzezck was the driver of a motor vehicle that ran down a three-horse team wagon of Frank Eldridge of South Killingly, at Dayville, on a recent evening, so injuring one of the horses that it had to be shot. Gzezck was somewhat injured in the accident and his little sister, who was riding with him sustained a fracture of the skull. It is understood that Mr. Eldridge will be reimbursed for the loss of the horse and for damage to his wagon and harnesses through the insurance with which Gzezck carried.

Alfred Spears, Norwich, driver of a New England bus, also charged with reckless driving, was fined $25 and costs, $15 of the fine being remitted.

FINAL ACCOUNTING OF TRUSTEE OF A. H. PAINE ESTATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 21—In the Killingly probate court today Judge Sabin S. Russell was engaged with a hearing on the allowance of the final account of the trustee of the estate of Almond M. Paine, who died at East Killingly many years ago, leaving trust funds the income from which has been used as he designated during a period of 38 years and which now are to be turned over as he directed. One of these trust funds is of $10,000 and will go to the Danielson Public library. Another fund of $10,000 goes to the Sunday schools of the Protestant churches of Killingly, the income to be distributed under detailed instructions in Mr. Paine's will. It was Mr. Paine's plan that the money left the library should be used in the construction of a library building, but meanwhile, many years having elapsed since Mr. Paine's death, the Bugbee Memorial library building has been built. However, Mr. Paine's trust fund will go to the library, it is said. F. A. Jacobs was named as trustee of the library trust fund and the Killingly Trust Co., as trustee of the Sunday school fund.

Motorists are insisting that many horse-drawn vehicles are going about at night without lights or with lights so poor or so obscurely placed as to constitute a real danger to car drivers. This is particularly true of the very early evening hours, now very dark, and marked by heavy traffic as hundreds of cars move about as people ride home from work. Pointing to the rigid manner in which motorists are rightly held to have proper lights on their machines, they hold that they, in turn, are entitled to protection against running down hrose-drawn vehicles that are without lights or with improperly placed lights. It is a matter that many drivers would like some enforcement on, as a measure of protection for themselves and all others who might be involved in an accident for the reasons pointed out.

Allen A. Cameron, 83, died Sunday at his home in Foster, where he had lived for many years. He was a native of the town, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cameron. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Howard was a native of Scituate, R. I., and widow of Gardner Howard, who was town clerk of Foster for many years. She leaves no relatives nearer than nephews.

A reader of The Bulletin who shall be nameless here got a laugh out of an item coming to this paper from Woodstock recently, telling this: "After being treed by his dog ——, shot two wild cats in the woods not far from his home." Writing in about it, the anonymous reader wants to know where he can get a good hunting dog that is trained to tree a hunter so he can shoot wild cats. "Such dogs are rare and valuable," he ——

These are days when members of Killingly's board of assessors are engaged in the arduous task of compiling the grand list. Into this work goes more hours of effort than in the reception of lists. It is likely that it will be well along toward the end of the year before the list is completed and ready for meetings of the board of relief in February.

It appears that opposition that promises to be strong is developing against a proposal for the general revaluation of property in Killingly during 1928, and a counter proposition is that this matter be left until 1930, when the state requires it must be done.

At 11 o'clock today at the Greek Orthodox church on Water street a funeral service for Nicholas Atsales, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Atsales, was held, with burial in Westfield cemetery. L. E. Kennedy had charge of the funeral arrangements.

A real kick at an old superstition is the history of the Thirteen club of Providence, which holds hunts and outings at East Killingly. The club was organized 19 years ago and all of the thirteen original members are living.

There was real activity among Red Cross workers here today, the final day of the annual enrollment campaign, the results of which will be announced Tuesday, it is expected.

PUTNAM

GENEROUS RESPONSE TO RED CROSS ROLL CALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 21—The Red Cross membership drive will come to an end on Wednesday, day before Thanksgiving. A number of ladies who are interested in making the annual roll call for the Putnam chapter a success have been making a house to house canvass. There has been a generous response but many who could well afford to give the dollar have turned the solicitors away empty handed.

Much of the work of the local Red Cross nursing service is concerned with saving the lives of babies and developing more healthy children. There is nothing more worthy than such a work and it is difficult to understand the refusal of one dollar to help this great work along. Half of the money obtained in this drive for membership remains with the local chapter to carry on its important work in Putnam. The other half goes to the national organization for its wonderful work.

The Red Cross organization has become invaluable in relieving suffering and distress throughout the world and gets its heartiest publicity in time of calamity, where it is always first in the field doing relief work. The Red Cross district nursing work here in Putnam is as important to this small community as are these larger relief measures that occur so frequently. Those who have refused to join may even yet think better of it and send in their one dollar.

The Quinatesset grange at Thompson have elected the following officers for the coming year: Master, Alexander Maitland; overseer, George E. Law; lecturer, Mrs. Florence M. DON'T NEGLECT THE RED CROSS

Is Norwich doing all it should for the Red Cross? The responsibility for maintaining that organization doesn't rest upon the people of Norwich, but they should be eager to do their share in maintaining it.

As concrete examples nothing more convincing needs to be furnished of the service rendered by the Red Cross than the part it is playing in aiding the flood victims in Vermont and those who were driven from home by the flood in the Mississippi valley. Right now the Red Cross is caring for about 40,000 persons as the result of the recent disasters. That means much to those who are getting the benefit of that assistance, and it should mean correspondingly as much to those who know of the conditions surrounding those disasters and the great need prevailing for immediate and sustaining relief.

It isn't upon the Red Cross memberships that dependence is being placed for the help that is now being extended in Vermont. That help will be provided whether you enroll or not, but this near at home instance of the magnificent service that the organization is rendering should be inspiration enough to put your dollars to work through such an agency for the purpose of aiding the present situation or any other that may develop unexpectedly in the future. It is of vital importance that there should be some such agency ready to respond when the emergency calls come in. That is what the Red Cross does.

Norwich has been kindly disposed toward this great organization in the past and the reasons for increasing that disposition are manifold. It is to be remembered that such funds as are gathered from memberships do not all go for work elsewhere, for a certain proportion is devoted to local cases at the discretion of the local organization. But the worthiness of the cause for which the Red Cross gives its time, attention and funds is so commendable that everyone should be anxious to have their dollars put to work through it. Norwich should do its part and get in its enrollment fees by Thursday of this week. Don't neglect it.

THE SHORT HAUL LINES

Just over the Rhode Island line there is a short piece of railroad running from Wood River Junction to Hope Valley, a distance of about six miles. This has been operated for years in order to provide transportation for the people of that village and neighboring communities and for the industries located in that region. Like other short lines it has felt the pinch of changed conditions until it has gotten to the point where the owners are ready to abandon it. When it means a loss of several thousand dollars a year it is apparent that there is nothing very encouraging to those backing it.

The road has been leasing its equipment from the New Haven road with which it connects at Wood River Junction, and it is probably a natural thing that the New Haven should be called to take it over. But what does the New Haven want of a branch line that is going into the hole every year? That is the question the railroad is certain to ask in these days when so much of the short hauling is being done by trucks and so many such lines actually being abandoned.

But there are manufacturers and others who are dependent upon railroad transportation for their fuel, for raw material, for the moving of finished goods while various other demands are made upon such transportation service as the short line has been providing. The question that faces the people of Hope Valley is whether they are going to see the passing of the steam road and place their entire dependence upon motor vehicles, or whether they are going to be able to give such assurance to the railroad as to bring about a retention of steam road service.

It is going to be an unfortunate thing for the villages situated off the main line of a railroad if they have taken away from them the transportation service they have been accustomed to. On the other hand it cannot be expected that transportation lines will maintain a service, or take on new ones, when the patronage does not meet the expense involved. It is one of those problems which many localities have been and still are wrestling with.

STARTING MORE FORTUNES

In view of the demands for more forestation throughout the country in order to meet the demands for lumber attention is halted by the steps which are being taken in that direction by the various states. There are plenty of opportunities in the east where some of them are being developed, but even in the midwestern states we find a response to the appeal and a recognition of the merits of such utilization of land.

Out in Nebraska a fine beginning was made some time ago. That state has long been interested, but it does not feel satisfied in resting upon past laurels. It recognizes the force of good example even though that good example was set by itself. Thus when it is disclosed that Nebraska has planted a total of more than 2,700,000 forest trees this year and the federal government has planted 1,500,000 in the Nebraska national forest it means that substantial provisions are being made each year for the future.

And why shouldn't that very thing be done! The owners of woodlands know what a handsome melon they are able to cut every time they can dispose of part of their crop of trees. They know that those crops stand as an asset to be tapped whenever they say the word. They are growing more valuable every year and when the time comes to cash them in they will return a tidy sum. And right then, through the application of the same methods of reforestation should be started for a repetition of results in another generation. Forest crops do not mature every year, unless portions of them are set out regularly after the woodchopper goes along, but they steadily improve with the passing years and net a good profit to the owner when the right time comes. And the best part of it is that they require only the minimum of attention. Once they are started right they grow while the owner is busily engaged with his yearly crops, but the bankroll which they represent is growing bigger and bigger each year.

GETTING OUT THE VOTE

For the same reason that many of the special days and special movements ought to be kept in mind every day in the year, the effort which is occasionally put forth to get out the vote should not be restricted to once every two or four years. The desirability of getting out the vote and getting an expression on election day from as many electors as can get to the polls is apparent.

The voter must realize that unless he gets sufficiently interested in an election campaign to vote and vote intelligently he might as well be without the right of suffrage. When we stop to realize that there were 30,000,000 who stayed away from the polls for various reasons at the time of the last presidential election, and that on the subsequent congressional election the number was increased to 40,000,000 there is sufficient reason for bringing increased attention to bear upon the need of overcoming such seeming disinterestedness.

If this is due to a don't-care attitude it is time to change it. If it is due to the feeling that one vote makes no difference it is time to create a new view on the effects of such apathy. If it is due to a failure to properly understand politics it is time for the necessary educational effort to be set in motion.

It is a matter of about a year before the next presidential election will be held but if the getting out of the voters is going to be as hard at that time as it has been at other elections the start has been made none too soon, and while the movement is underway it should not slight any of the lesser elections which happen to come along in the meanwhile.

BRITISH CRUISERS

When the declaration was made in the British house of commons that two of the three cruisers which had been planned for the present year would not be built it aroused an interest far outside of London.

It was possible, of course, for England to go ahead and blow itself to as large a navy as it desired within the provisions of the Washington agreement, but because it had a right to do so does not mean that it would be good policy. This is particularly true in view of the efforts which have so recently been made to bring about a restriction of auxiliary warships. To Great Britain has been charged the responsibility for the failure at Geneva. It is therefore up to that country to endeavor to regain lost ground. This it would seem it was doing in setting forth the fact that it is voluntarily giving up the construction of two cruisers.

There may be those who will view this as a bluff but if the cruisers are not built there will be the opportunity to point to what Great Britain has refrained from doing. If it has experienced a change of heart, or if the government is feeling the pressure from those who are in sympathy with the efforts undertaken at Geneva, this decision not to carry out plans is timely and responsive.

If this is evidence that Great Britain is ready and willing to resume negotiations for the further limitation of naval armament it is of a character to have its good effect. Time will perhaps reveal a better understanding of the real object but at the present time it bears all the earmarks of a different attitude concerning naval competition.

EDWARD THE THIRD

"Where did you get that?" inquired Burton. "Are you turning the house into a day nursery, Meg?"

"One little baby-waby doesn't make a day nursery, Ed," replied Mrs. Burton, giving the small person in her lap a rapturous squeeze. "Just look at his brown curls. Aren't they darling, with that gold light in them? I've always adored golden brown hair."

"Oh, it's a he, is it?" remarked Burton with a slight show of interest. "Well, who is he? What's his name?"

"Edward," answered Mrs. Burton demurely.

"Edward? Not so bad. I've managed with it fairly well. What's his other name?"

"So far he hasn't one," said Mrs. Burton. She did not think it necessary to admit that the appellation "Edward" was a recent acquisition, bestowed with sudden inspiration in answer to Burton's question a moment before.

"I hope that he will soon have a last name, Ed. It would be a terrible thing for a little baby-waby to grow up without one, wouldn't it?"

"Of course every little beggar ought to be outfitted with a complete set of names," agreed Burton. "What's the grand idea, Meg? Where did you pick up that kinky-top, and what are you going to do with him?"

"Well, you see, I went over to the Sheltering Arms home this afternoon with some layettes that our club had made for the babies there, and I happened to see this little fellow, and he was such a darling with that wonderful hair, and those big brown eyes that he reminded me of you, that I just asked if he couldn't come to stay with us awhile, and maybe—maybe——"

"We'd give him the name of Burton. I get you, but you know, Meg, I've never been keen on this adopting business."

"I know you haven't, Ed, but this is such a fine youngster that I thought you wouldn't mind having him sort of visit us for a week or two. I'd just like to make him some pretty clothes and we could play he was ours, and we don't have to keep him. Your father has always wished for another Edwards!"

"Oh, well, you'll never be satisfied till you try it, Meg. You may as well experiment with this morsel of humanity, and get the idea out of your system. Gosh! I hope he's a good sleeper," added Burton dubiously.

The first night found Edward slept, as Meg said fatuously, like an angel from heaven. The next night Ed found it difficult to restrain himself from comparing the child to something much less seraphic.

"Gosh, Meg," he said at breakfast, "it seemed to me that the more that terrible infant howled and yowled, between midnight and dawn, the more you mush over him."

"The poor little lamb probably had colic, Ed. I was so sorry for him that I didn't know what to do."

"And I was so sorry for myself that I didn't know what to do. One more session like we have just survived, and farewell to Master Edward! Good men are scarce, Meg, and I can't live minus sleep."

Mrs. Burton kissed the brown curls of the baby who was cooing in a clothes basket by her side.

"He's so sweet, he'll surely be good tonight, Ed," she said hopefully, and the infant did not believe her. He slept as peacefully as any parents, adopted or otherwise, could wish. But the next night from dewy eve till rosy morn. And for two weeks his conduct alternated in this way until, the morning after a particularly harassing night of wailing, Burton declared that Mrs. Burton would have to choose between him and the erratic Edward.

"Well, this is more like it," remarked Burton that evening, when he found the baby gone. "We can enjoy a little quiet tonight."

"But this is his good night," sighed Mrs. Burton.

"How about tomorrow night?" grumbled Burton.

"Please don't let's talk about him. I took him back to the Sheltering Arms, and that's the end of it," said Mrs. Burton.

But it was not the end of it. Ten days later Burton came in late one afternoon carrying a bundle.

"What's that, Ed?" asked Mrs. Burton tremulously.

"That's our son, Meg, Edward the Third, otherwise known as baby-waby," grinned Burton. "It's been so dinged lonesome round here that I thought it was about time he was coming home. Yes, I know, I counted up, this is his yelling night, but I don't care a darn. Do you?"—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

HOW FOOD IS DIGESTED

By L. Winfield Kohn, M. D., New York Member Gorgas Memorial.

Most of the foods in their natural form are not acceptable to the body, owing to the fact that they cannot be absorbed. Only few substances are taken up directly by the assimilative organs. They are oxygen, the greater portion of which comes from the air, water, sugar, particularly that form known as grape sugar, and several inorganic salts. The other foods must be broken up into simpler forms before they can be used by the body.

The process which is concerned with the change of food into these simpler parts is spoken of as digestion. The starchy foods are broken up into simpler starches and sugars, the flesh foods, or proteins, are split into very simple elements called amino-acids, while the fats are changed into fatty acids and glycerin. As a result, these final modifications of the food are readily absorbed and utilized by the body. Some of these foods replace tissue waste, develop growth, and supply energy and body fuel.

Cooking makes digestion easier. It is in reality a process that corresponds to an early stage of digestion. It saves the salivary glands, the stomach, and the intestinal tract a great deal of labor. In fact, without it as a preliminary treatment, many foods would not be taken up by the body. As a result of cooking, chemical changes occur which may reduce the food constituents into simpler chemical substances which are very readily attacked by the digestive juices.

Through an improvement in the taste and aroma of the foods, cooking stimulates the appetite. This improvement of the appetite results in salivary, stomach, and intestinal activity. The saliva first acts upon the starches and other carbohydrate foods. After the food has reached the stomach, the juices there, consisting of weak hydrochloric acid and the ferments pepsin and rennin, continue to act upon the food. The foods particularly affected in the stomach proper are the meats and the protein elements of milk and other substances. Later the intestinal juices and secretions form the pancreas and liver complete the act of digestion. These juices also contain ferments which give a final touch to the digestion of the different types of food.

When these organs function properly, the secretions are given forth in sufficient quantity and quality. The food passes along in normal time and is taken up by the body in proper fashion.

The process of digestion is to a great extent influenced by the mind and many other factors such as cooking, the type of food eaten, and other conditions peculiar to the environment and the individual. It is not a simple mechanical function, and for that reason is not easily rectified when a disturbance in its activity arises. Diseases of the stomach and bowels, when they occur, should be given immediate consideration in the hope that a restoration to normal may be readily accomplished.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William J. Burns, who has come under concentrated fire in the Teapot Dome oil jury tampering case, is a former chief of the U. S. Secret Service and has long been recognized as one of the ablest detectives in America. His first notable work was in 1885, when he assisted in unearthing tally sheet forgeries in Columbus and Cincinnati. More than 20 years of his early career were spent in the government secret service. In 1908 he gathered the evidence which resulted in the conviction of many men of prominence in the Northwestern land cases. He also ran down the Los Angeles Times dynamiters. The conviction of the Philadelphia-Lancaster counterfeiters in 1899 was the result of evidence gathered by him. One of Mr. Burns's last big pieces of work for the government was the apprehension of Dimmick, who robbed the San Francisco mint of $30,000.

CHILD TRAINING

DIPLOMACY.

Mrs. Nestor Noel.

I have always noticed that a request has a better effect on a child than a command. In some cases a little diplomacy will prove even better than a direct request.

Let us suppose it is just time for your little girl to have her drink of milk. For some reason or other, you are pretty sure she will make a face when you say: "It is time for your milk now." She will probably pout and cry and give you a bad quarter of an hour. Be a little diplomatic with your small daughter. Looking at the clock with a smile, say: "Pussy and Mother and Baby will never grow strong if we forget their milk. Shall we give Pussy hers first today?" This makes a little distraction. Puss laps up her milk hurriedly as if to say how good it is, you drink yours, and small daughter immediately follows suit.

Another time you might try adding some little dainty to the milk and say: "I wonder what will be in our saucers today." Then the odd-shaped cracker is eaten with the milk, and all is well.

Bedtime is another trial to some mothers. The more tired a child is the less she wants to go to bed. "Your big dolly has gone to sleep in your bed!" we might say, having first put the doll there. "Now, what are we to do about it?" Dolly is then put in her bed and, as a natural sequence, the child goes to her bed.

If we were to consider the matter from an unprejudiced point of view, we should see that we often ask our children to do things we should not like doing ourselves. Should we like to put down a book at the most exciting point in the story and go to bed? It is easy for a child to stop in the middle of a game? You can avoid this by saying at the beginning: "You may play if you can finish in half an hour." Children generally know how long a game will take. When a game is very near its finish, I would not push all the things they are playing with ruthlessly to one side in order to be punctual to the minute. Why not give the children due warning when only five or ten minutes are left, and even allow a few more minutes if the game requires it?

After all, what we want is happy, healthy children, and reasonableness on the part of the parent will do much to insure this joy. It is impossible to make a rule that will apply to all children but the individuality of the child and parental love and watchfulness should teach us the right method with each of our own.

IN DAY'S NEWS

THE ALEUTIANS

"The report of an epidemic in the village of Unalaska and the dispatch of a government cutter to carry aid to the islanders serves to bring about one of the infrequent appearances of the Aleutian Islands in the world's news," notes a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National geographic society.

"So little is heard of this far flung chain of Uncle Sam's that misconceptions are rife about it," continues the bulletin. "Unalaska is frequently referred to as 'a village on the coast of Alaska.' In fact it lies on an island which is separated from the westernmost tip of the Alaskan mainland by more than 150 miles, and which lies 500 miles farther west than Honolulu.

"Unalaska is among the largest of the Aleutian Islands. On it is situated Dutch Harbor, port of call for vessels plying between Seattle and Nome. This harbor has deep water at its wharves and a protected anchorage that could accomodate the largest battle fleet. The shortest sea route between Seattle and Yokohama (the great circle route) lies practically through Dutch Harbor, and it may some time become an impirtant coaling and provisioning point. Because of the dangers from fogs and rocks, however, ships now swing wel south of the Aleutians. Only a few natives and whites live at Dutch Harbor. Nearby is the village of Unalaska, a native community.

"The Aleutians were born of volcanic action, and the activity is not yet spent. Bogoslof island, some 50 miles from Dutch Harbor, is continually changing its form, rearing one smoking promontory after another above the waves, and withdrawing others. It is in truth a submerged active volcano.

"On the whole, the Aleutian chain is one of the longest and straightest single lines of volcanoes in the world. Within the last few months observers have extended the eastern end of the chain nearly 100 miles by determining the volcanic character of Spurr, a cone near the head of Cook Inlet, Alaska. From this point the chain swings in a great flat crescent 1400 miles to the southwest, embracing in this tremendous sweep some 50 known volcanoes, active and dormant, cones whose symmetry rivals that of Fujiyama, and the jagged stumps of mountains that have been blown to bits by recent volcanic explosions. Vulcanologists consider it one of the best known fields for the study of the problems of vulcanism.

"Near the eastern end of the chain, in the Alaskan peninsula, is the Katmai national monument and the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, a vast region of steaming vents, boiling pools, and smoking hills, which came into existence suddenly with the explosion of Mt. Katmai in June, 1912. In 1916 and subsequent years expeditions of the National Geographic society explored this remarkable region, and brought the first knowledge of its wonders to the United States."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Protest.

Mr. Editor: It is a matter of grave concern to the members of the Business and Professional Woman's club of this city, and as such was taken up and discussed at tonight's meeting, why the intrepid and honorable members of our local chamber of commerce should have printed The Ten Commandments for Wives in their last bulletin, and omitted the Ten Commandments for Husbands. Was this wilfully done? What was the motive?

As members and defenders of the superior sex we voice a loud protest. Can nothing be done to rectify this omission?

Infant Care

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless and reliable, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill throughout the system. Fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, and without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. Castoria is delicious! Your own tongue will tell you why "Children Cry for It." Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's the least sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea. Or whenever there's need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Only one word of warning: the above is true of genuine Castoria. Fletcher's is the original. Other preparations may or may not be as pure, as free from a single doubtful drug.

Physicians tell parents to get Fletcher's Castoria, and no child of this writer's is going to test any other kind. I'll save a dime some other way.

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

How difficult it is to find a Christmas gift that is exactly fitted to the need. There's that friend far away—a card won't carry half the love it should. The folks back home may have everything they want—what can you give them? It taxes any imagination to select in every case the gift which carries just the proper shade of feeling.

That's why your photograph is such an ideal Christmas gift. To the friend it carries an intimate personal greeting. For the loved ones near and far, it has a wealth of sentiment because it's a gift that only you can give.

Our portraits are made to suit your tastes. You will like them yourself and be proud to give them to others. A few moments spent in our studio will solve at least twelve of the problems on your gift list.

Yours very truly,

FORMER NEW LONDON GIRL WEAVES HER OWN CLOTHES

A Chicago dispatch reads: Married 20 years and never spent a drachma for clothes is the record of Mrs. Angelo Sikallanos, American wife of a Greek poet. Instead of buying clothes she weaves the cloth and makes them.

Mrs. Sikallanos and her husband are leading a movement in Greece to bring the peasant classes into a realization of their heritage from the old Greece of Homer, Pericles and Aeschylus.

"They have fallen far behind," she said in a lecture at the University of Chicago, "in their knowledge and practice of the culture that made Greece the center of the ancient world of philosophy, literature and science."

In an effort to stir up interest of the Greek peasants in handicraft Mrs. Sikallanos weaves her own garments.

The woman referred to is Mrs. Eva Palmer Sikellanos, daughter of the late Courtland Palmer of New London and granddaughter of Dr. Robert Abbe of New York. She with her husband, the Greek poet, Angelo Sikellanos, revived last May the Prometheus Bound of Aeschylus among the ruins of ancient Delphi. She is to be the guest of Connecticut college, New London, Nov. 26-28.

URGES WARFARE IN STATE UPON DESTRUCTIVE GOSHAWKS

In a circular letter to game wardens and others interested in wild life conservation, Superintendent John W. Titcomb of the state board of fisheries and game, calls attention to the ravages made by goshawks and the reward which the state gives for killing these birds.

The letter follows:

The unprecedented influx of goshawks to this state in the winter of 1926 and 1927 and their predilection for game birds—particularly the ruffed grouse, resulted in the raising of a fund for paying a bounty of $3 on these birds, if the specimens killed were promptly mailed to the office of the state board of fisheries and game in Hartford and the amount of postage expended in mailing the specimens was added to the bounty fee.

It has become apparent that the birds have been breeding in this state during the past summer and are now preying upon the depleted stock of ruffed grouse (locally called partridge). For this reason, a fund has been placed at the disposal of the commission which makes it possible to renew the offer of a bounty of $3 on every goshawk killed in Connecticut before April 1st, 1928.

The specimen should be heavily sprinkled with table salt rubbed into the feathers, then strongly wrapped in paper or enclosed in a pasteboard box. Within the package should be an identification slip of paper written in pencil with the name and address of the person killing the bird, stating where killed and any other particulars, such as the kind of prey—if any—it was pursuing when shot. If more convenient to deliver the bird to a warden or deputy warden, the same particulars should be given to him and he will see that it is delivered to the office of the commission. Packages should be plainly addressed on the outside to the State Board of Fisheries and Game, State Capitol, Hartford, Conn. Upon receipt of the bird at the office, check will be mailed to the person named on the inside identification slip. Shippers should furnish ample proof that the birds killed were within the confines of this state. While it is important to have all of the goshawks killed beyond our borders, we cannot afford to pay for them.

The co-operation of all persons interested in the conservation of the ruffed grouse and the Hungarian partridge, which, by the way, is a prominent victim of the goshawk in one town, is requested.

MOTOR VEHICLE FATALITIES WILL SHOW DECREASE

The motor vehicle accident and death rate in Connecticut will show a decrease in 1927 for the first time in five years, according to present indications, notwithstanding that in the first ten months there was at least one accident for every thirteen cars registered in the state. Motor vehicle department records show that this is below the 1926 and 1925 rates, when there was an accident for every eleven cars using the highways.

Fatality rates thus far this year have been in the proportion of one death for every 1,050 cars in use. This is a measureable improvement over 1926 when there was an accidental death for every 828 cars, and over 1926 where there was one death for every 735 cars.

The personal injury rate has not shown as much improvement as the general accident and death ratios. This year there has been one person injured for every thirty cars in use. A better record was made in 1925 when one person was injured for every thirty-two cars registered. However, 1927 figures promise improvement over the 1926 rate, which was one injury for every twenty-eight cars.

Accident ratios, according to population, while not truly indicative of conditions, also show some improvement by reason of reduction. In 1925 the rate was one person injured for every 189 in the state, and one person killed for every 4,240. This rate decreased in 1926 to one in every 157 injured, and one death fro every 4,646 of population. A further decrease is looked for this year because of the figures for the first ten months which show that only one in every 151 persons was injured and one in every 5,616 killed.

Much of the credit for the reduced casualty rates is given by Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel to the agencies responsible for the increased study of traffic conditions and safety measures in schools, the educational work of private organizations, and the unceasing vigilance and efforts of state and municipal authorities.

Many schools in the state now have "safety courses" as a part of their regular studies. Debates, discussions, lectures and drills mark the efforts to install in the minds of the pupils the necessity for caution and care upon the public highways. The state and local education and health boards contribute to these programs by supplying material for study and many teachers give instruction and drill beyond the prescribed courses.

Newspapers of the state, co-operating with all agencies by giving publicity to safety programs, have also done much, in the opinion of Commissioner Stoeckel, to make this year's low record possible. The work of private and civic organizations for the most part has been quietly done, but has taken many forms. For example, truck associations, composed of owners or drivers, or both, have safety discussions as a part of their regular meetings.

The operator's license law is set forth as a decided safety measure in a recent letter written by Commissioner Stoeckel. "This law," he says, "makes it possible to tighten up the enforcement of the other provisions of the motor vehicle law and to somewhat increase the penalty for violations. For instance, last year out of approximately 50,000 applicants for new licenses, 2,665 were repected as unfit. Of the 294,000 licensed to operate last year, 8,821 had their licenses suspended for some violation of the code for periods varying from fifteen days to an unlimited time."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ANNUAL STRESSES NORWICH FORWARD MOVE

The forward move in Norwich was a pregnant note in the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce which was held Monday evening at the Wauregan hotel with a dinner at 6.15 attended by close to 200 of the members. Two fine addresses, one by Howard C. Baldwin, educational director of the Babson Statistical Organization of Wellesley Hills, Mass., and the other by Rev. John Nicol Mark of Arlington, Mass., followed the business part of the meeting and were received with enthusiastic applause and appreciation.

Before the dinner was served, President James L. Case called upon Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt to make the invocation and the assemblage sang "America" under the leadership of William G. Park who was song leader for the evening. Swahn's orchestra playing for the song numbers and throughout the supper hour.

President Case opened the business meeting by calling upon Mayor Milo R. Waters who responded with a few words in which he emphasized the value of the chamber of commerce to the community and declared that support of the organization was due from all the citizens who were interested in advancing the welfare of Norwich.

President Case followed with a brief statement of some of the activities of the past year and urged that the programme for 1927-28 include an industrial survey, efforts to obtain an aviation field, a continuation of efforts to create community spirit and civic pride, and the working out of a tax equalization system. Mr. Case expressed appreciation of John J. O'Rourke for his services for seven years while he was secretary of the chamber and declared that he felt as if the coming year would be one of the greatest in the history of the chamber. He urged upon the members that they give to the new secretary, Mr. Pilcher, the same kind of support as they had given to Mr. O'Rourke.

Brief reports of the committee work were given by the chairmen as follows: Fire prevention week, Walter F. Lester; retail credit bureau, Charles I. Smith for Ernest Latimer; publicity, Arthur L. Peale for Max Hanover; retail merchants' bureau, Abner Schwartz; industrial survey, H. D. Larrabee.

Roy D. Judd, treasurer, gave his report, mentioning some details in addition to the report already published in the chamber publication, showing the pleasing financial condition at the present time.

Secretary Pilcher Reports

In making his report, Secretary Walter H. Pilcher commended the valuable leadership of President Case, which he said was felt by the entire organization, and he went on to say that "we need men and brains to work together in this community organization. As one member of our chamber recently said, it is all a state of mind. That saying of his has permeated this organization to its very core. The success of our recent campaign was due to the spirit that was engendered into the gathering by that worthy gentleman.

"During the last three months we have accomplished six or seven definite projects, which were mentioned briefly in the last issue of Norwich Progress. They have had primarily to do with the problem of organization and finance. Of course before the financial budget can be adopted, it is necessary to have a tentative program developed. In fact, the two, the program and the budget are so interwoven that it may be said that they consider the comprehensive operations for the year in advance. Now these two parts of our program have been pretty well worked out. It now remains for you to elect six new directors, who, with the six that carry over into the coming year, will at their first meeting, consider a schedule of events, a working program for the coming twelve months. This is the next all-important job to be undertaken for this organization. In order that you may have a part in determining what in your opinion should be considered of first importance, we have prepared a referendum in this last issue of our magazine. To date only a few of these have been returned to the office. Now if you want to have a little part in this chamber of commerce aid your board of directors by sending in that referendum at once.

"I have absolutely no sympathy with the statement "You can't do it in Norwich." When you have been around here a while you will see. Are you members of the Chamber of Commerce going to allow that sort of pessimism to throttle the program of work of your city? A city which possesses attractions that can be sold to advantage. All New England is awaking to the fact that she has assets which are preferred to other sections of the U. S. I have seen enough co-operation in Norwich so far to lead me to the conviction that within the ranks of this organization there is enough to carry out effectively any program that is conscientiously undertaken.

"The secretary of a chamber of commerce in a large eastern city was once asked what is the biggest accomplishment that your organization has ever effected? And this particular chamber of commerce has scored many successful projects, in its history. His reply was "The greatest contribution that our Chamber of Commerce has made has been the part it has played in developing a greater community spirit."

"Remember the little girl in the western wheat field, who was lost. One hundred men searched the fields but were unable to find her. Finally one bright fellow suggested that they all join hands. So they formed a line and all marched forward. As a result, the girl was spon found. The same thing applies in Norwich. With the newspapers, the bankers and hardware merchant and the real-estate man and the furniture store man, all joined together, results will be sure to follow."

Message From State Chamber.

President Case read a telegram received from Clark Belden, executive vice president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, congratulating the Norwich organization and wishing it success. He then called on Max Hanover to give a five-minute report of the New England Council, which was held at Springfield.

New England Council Report.

Mr. Hanover gave a glowing report of the council meeting which he attended with C. W. Taggart and Henry Lyon. He said that the business of the council and the addresses given there showed that New England is very much alive and that Connecticut is gloriously marching on in a spirit of progress. The keynote of the council was progress through research and the necessity of self investigation to correct our faults and use what is worth while. The dawning of a new day is to be seen in New England, said Mr. Hanover, and this will come also in Norwich and for this the citizens should support the work of the chamber of commerce.

Six Directors Elected.

The following directors, whose names had been presented by the nominating committee, were elected, Secretary Pilcher casting one ballot for them by vote of the meeting: Arthur M. Brown, Walter F. Lester, F. Russell Smith, Charles W. Taggart, Henry Lyon and Charles J. Twist.

President Case called upon the men to rise and they were given ringing applause. When Mr. Brown's name was called, Mr. Case turned to him with the remark: "How about a minute on the state of mind?"

Responding, Mr. Brown replied: "Well, I did say it was all a state of mind. There are too many that couldn't see anything but Hollyhock Island. They could see the beauty of our city, its fine men and its natural advantages. If Norwich is to advance, we have got to have men and women who can see something besides mud in a wayside puddle."

His words brought down the house and President Case was about to declare the business part of the meeting over when Shepard B. Palmer proposed a vote of thanks to the president and the retiring board of directors which was carried by a rising vote.

Business Outlook for 1928.

President Case then presented Mr. Baldwin to speak upon "The Business Outlook for 1928." Mr. Baldwin illustrated his instructive talk by the use of a chart showing the physical volume of business and said in part:

"There is a tendency to consider optimistic reports on business conditions misleading purposely. We would not too harshly criticize most of these reports because we know that the prominent business men making them really want to bolster up conditions. We have in mind a New York bank which has been very optimistic in its current business pamphlets simply in an endeavor to offset the effect of those people presenting less encouraging facts. There can always be found enough favorable spots to give some fundation to this optimism.

"Many honestly believe that the reporting of unfavorable facts tends to further depress business. Their motives are good in glossing over unpleasant facts. But others, including our organization, believe it much safer and sensible to place the facts squarely before the public, both favorable and unfavorable. The majority of data available on business conditions has been indicating a slowing up. We believe that recognition of facts forearms the business against what they indicate. If you are driving on an unfamiliar road which is becoming rougher and more winding you would not be foolish enough to step on the gas and perhaps land in the ditch. You would take time to read the signs. There are some men facing bankruptcy now and others in it who ought to still be doing a good business if they had not been blindly optimistic.

"We would venture to make a forecast only for the rest of the year and the early part of 1928. It is safe to say that the trend of business will be slightly upward due to the purchasing power of the holiday season, but all indications point to about five per cent less business this Christmas than for that of 1926. Certainly most retailers have been complaining about poor business this fall, but we believe this has been due largely to the mild fall weather. Earnings have actually been increasing for the workers in some industries and in some sections of the country during the early fall. This results in a high potential purchasing power which does not seem to have been fully exerted so far. But we must remember that there has been a pronounced tendency to increase output with fewer workers. The unfit workers are either out of a job or are forced to accept lower wages. The latter constitute a reactionary influence on business conditions because of lower purchasing power. It is logical to state that there can not be a continued progressive improvement with fewer workers while population is increasing about two million a year. Because of the greater difficulty in retaining a good job, those fortunate enough to continue will naturally be influenced to reduced purchases and save more.

"Eventually the slack in employment due to increased output per man, will be taken up by new industries and the natural expansion of existing ones, but, temporarily, the unemployed will act as a brake on improved business conditions for the rest of this year and well into 1928.

"Some say that the Christmas saving funds will be larger than ever this year and will result in a record Christmas business, but we believe that a larger proportion of this money will be used for paying previous debts, particularly, installment payments, than last year. This fact coupled with the fear of unemployment will somewhat reduce the Christmas business. Then, too, we know that many salaried people have unwisely plunged into the stock market and cannot sell out at present except at a loss. If they hold on to their stocks even the paper loss will make them more conservative in their purchases of commodities.

"Much optimism has been due to advancing commodity prices. From July to late October they moved upward about 6 per cent. but this was due almost entirely to agriculture and livestock. Industrial prices have been steady but with no upswing of any consequence. At present, indices of all commodities are just about holding the advance.

"There is a growing feeling that we have reached a turning point. Just what are the facts? First, raw materials prices, in general, show no disposition to rise. Second, there is no shortage of raw or finished goods. Third, hand-to-mouth buying has not been so much of a factor as is generally supposed. Actual stocks on hand are heavier than a year ago. Fourth, producing capacity is excessive and current rate of output is ample to meet all seasonal increase in demand. Fifth, producing costs are being lowered through more efficient methods. Business conditions, therefore in our opinion, do not justify any marked advance in industrial prices for the rest of the year and early into 1928.

"Agricultural prices will, in general, hold up well exceeding the average of the first part of 1927. The farmer is more prosperous and his income will exceed that of a year ago. But for a while at least we would not advise the buying of cotton. Our forecast of a larger cotton crop than was anticipated is being borne out.

"Employment and payrolls have been sagging in the last three or four months but the holiday business is increasing employment temporarily. We look for a sag again after the first of the year resulting in more unemployment than the first part of 1927.

"Strikes are the lowest for the first two weeks in November than for the same period during the last ten years, but we urge business men to be prepared for a possible increase in industrial troubles next spring because wage reductions in some lines are inevitable before next summer. We do not advise wage reductions if they can be avoided. Better by far to lower costs through increased efficiency, still the trend in general wages is surely downward next year.

"For those making products for distribution over a considerable area, we advise concentrating sales on those cities and industries with the best outlook. Too often we find business men expending their sales efforts in the same territories and the same industries regardless of the prosperity of sections and industries. Prosperity is seldom evenly distributed and, therefore purchasing power varies. In picking fruit from the business tree select the ripe lines and territories. With business coming harder, it is more necessary than ever to observe this rule.

"Many people have been misled as to the actual trend of the stock market as a whole. The well known Dow-Jones average of 20 industrial stocks has moved upward rapidly since the middle of 1924 but if an average of all the stocks on the exchange is taken we find that the movement has been relatively stable since the latter part of 1925. It is apparent that the 20 industrials have been the leaders and much buying with a limited amount available, has forced the prices very high in comparison with earnings and dividend statements. These industrials represent powerful companies for the most part that have been meeting competition successfully and probably will continue to do better through the rest of the list. But we believe that the present stock market is a dangerous one for speculators. Keep your funds in short-term liquid notes and bonds or in the bank and prepare for the next bargain period.

"Bonds are still a good purchase but must be selected more carefully than in the past because the enormous amount of funds seeking an outlet has resulted in a flood of bond issues, some of which are in the doubtful class. With money tending to remain easy for many months to come, we expect bonds to remain firm regardless of any downward movement in stocks.

"In conclusion business men must lower their costs to successfully meet competition in many lines. Cooperative buying and cooperative advertising will increase as a measure of cost cutting. We must have a higher grade of salesmanship. Business will go to those rendering efficient service at reasonable prices. Even though general business conditions may be quieter through the winter you will find a few firms making excellent profits, not because of any good luck, but because they have recognized the changes in conditions and adjusted themselves to them."

Touchstone of Success

Rev. John Nicol Mark of Arlington, Mass., was the concluding speaker, making a most inspiring address upon "The Touchstone of Success" in which he prefaced the serious side of his remarks with a rarely delightful period of scintillating humor. Men who have achieved real success, he said, are those who have helped others to better things and higher living. Success is doing something that will make the world a little better and brighter for one's presence in it. It is being one's best and doing one's best in the hope of rendering some service to humanity.

The speaker pointed out that the successful men of the world have been marked by the spirit of enterprise, have made wise use of obstacles, have not despised the might of little things, have learned to labor and to wait and have lived on the higher levels of life. There was never a time in the history of the world when there was so much need of high idealism as there is today, he declared in conclusion and he was given long continued applause as his address brought the meeting to a close.

ONLY TWO EASTERN CONN. TEAMS VICTORS IN WEEK END GAMES

The records of the "Big Six" teams for the most part received big black smirches over the week-end. Only Stonington and Westerly can look back on victories. There were at least two upsets in the results for Bulkeley and Windham seemed to have victories ahead.

The work of the "Big Six" the past week:

Stonington 6, N. F. A. 0.
So. Manchester 19, Windham 6.
Ansonia 27, Bulkeley (N.L.) 7.
Westerly 13, Chapman Tech 0.

Academy Hobbles In Behind.

Stonington finally secured a grid win over the Academy and her Cowans, Cragans, Cronins, etc., now have something upon which to look back. It was the first time in six years that a Red and White machine has fallen before the Farmers so it was probably about time.

Presenting a lineup far different from that which showed well during the early part of the season, the Academy went down but only fighting like a bunch of cornered wildcats. There was no McGlone, Greene combination to worry Stonington and after the opening of the second period there was no Fox to stop Cowan through guard. Chet Berghinzo at end played a nice game but there is only one Greene. Dion who replaced Fox, played well but his inexperience (it was his first taste of varsity football) no doubt hurt greatly. Tom my Viviano showed a nice game in the backfield but he cannot toss passes like McGlone.

When the Academy only works one forward pass throughout a game, surely there is something wrong.

Jackie Marks gave another fine exhibition all around. He has shown himself this season to be well able of standing alongside Ed Brewer, Lloyd Jarvis, Ray Terrington and others as great Academy captains of the present. Jim Kelly at halfback was considerably bothered by his game leg and at one stage during the last quarter it seemed that this injury interfered greatly with a probable victory. A cross buck and the subsequent forward seemed to have caught the Stonington team unawares at what proved to be the conclusion of the last period march. It happened near the Stonington thirty-five yard line but Kelly, trying his hardest, could not quite connect with the pigskin that sure looked like trouble for he had a clear field ahead.

For Stonington, Cowboy Cowan gave about the best line smashing performances seen in some time. He can rank with Hannusovsky of Warren Harding as a specialist at this type. When not hitting the line he was making a hole for a fellow member to pass through and when not engaged in that he was backing up the line well.

Windham Closes With Loss.

Windham got her poorest season in some years by losing to South Manchester, a traditional rival. This school, which has only to step aside for the Academy as Windham's chief adversary, plays good football throughout and deserved to win. Windham scored in the last quarter when Saba, capable fullback, dashed about 25 yards around end.

At Ansonia, New London scored, but lost. The Orange and Black did not win a game this year, losing six and knotting three. However, she deserves world's of praise for no setups have floated by. Meeting only the best in the state, the Bulkeley Tiger has always showed plenty of fight. The 6 to 6 tie with the Academy was the bright light of the year. Bulkeley met but one "Big Six" team, the Academy. She will no doubt receive a higher rating from many than other teams of this section that have won a game or two.

As was expected, Westerly won from Chapman Tech Friday. It was the Granitemen's second win of the season. This is another school that seems in a bad football slump this season, this being occasioned by the presence of much green material. However, prospects are bright for future years and once again Westerly may climb back to a top place in scholastic football hereabouts. A 65-yard run by Ed Sawyer, baseball pitcher, was the feature of the Chapman Tech game, incidentally the last for the Whalers and the last home game for Westerly.

Tech won but one game all year, that from Plainfield and this was the second consecutive season that she has dropped all "league" games. The "Gentlemen" are in a fierce slump and they now depend on basketball to pull them out a bit.

The work of the "Big Six" to date:

	W	L	T	Pts	O.P.
N. F. A.	5	2	1	82	56
Stonington	5	3	0	81	34
Windham	4	3	1	77	63
Westerly	2	4	3	25	75
Chapman Tech	1	6	0	19	101
Bulkeley	0	6	2	13	130

Bits About the Big Six.

The race for low scoring between the two New London schools has ended with the Bulkeley Tigers eking out a win. She was also scored upon the most.

The Academy has the best all-season record of any team to date. However, Thanksgiving may bring a final change.

Only the top two teams now have won more than half their games.

Bulkeley, at least, scored again.

Gentile, Westerly's freshman quarterback, played well against Tech and both he and Sawyer are expected to give Stonington trouble Thursday.

South Manchester's win Saturday was her first over Windham since relations were taken up and it was the first score made over the Callaghan machine since 1924.

Wildcat seems to have stuck now as a cognomen for the Academy. They sure fought like that species of animal Saturday.

Rhode Island State may be better than Conn. Aggies when their football teams get together, but when it comes to officials, the Storrs school wins by several long forwards, if the work at Stonington is any criterion. Whaples is about the best to grace a gridiron in this section this year.

The field at Stonington Saturday was in very poor condition. Both teams suffered therefrom.

Bulkeley, Chapman Tech and Windham are through for the year. The Academy, Westerly and Stonington will be Thursday night. Then basketball, but, from present indications, for four of the "Big Six," N. F. A., Windham, Chapman Tech and Stonington.

Hartford with a last half spurt downed New Britain, its ancient rival, Saturday, 24 to 6. A state title meeting with Harding (which beat Central, also of Bridgeport) is now in the making for Thanksgiving day.

Nashua High from New Hampshire beat Meriden at Meriden Saturday for their annual intersectional clash, 6 to 2.

Crosby and Wilby get together Thursday in their annual clash at Brasco park, Waterbury. Crosby defeated the strong Naugatuck team there Saturday with 2,000 of the latter school's rooters present. Naugatuck is the only school to hold a decision over Warren Harding.

Many of the state schools are already on basketball. The Academy will probably get away next week.

WILCE PRAISES HIS OHIO STATE ELEVEN

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 21—(AP)—Praise for the showing made by the Ohio State football team in the face of widespread criticism and a spirited rejoinder to those he held responsible for the wave of protest that followed the team's poor showing this year was voiced here today by Dr. John W. Wilce, head football coach at the university, in an address before 1500 Ohio alumni.

Declaring that a team can do "no more than reflect the spirit, power and tone of the university behind it, together with the technical handling by coach and the conditions existing in the state," Dr. Wilce said that he had been forced to devote half the time he should have been coaching to writing letters to "dissatisfied coaches."

Any idea that Dr. Wilce intends to resign under the criticism of the 1927 team was cast into the discard when he referred pointedly to the heavy schedule Ohio is obliged to face next year.

Fast running backs, who were lauded as "prima donnas," at the start of the season by Ohio followers, who expected too much, became the source of embarrassment, Dr. Wilce declared, later in the season, when it became apparent that graduation last year had robbed the team of hard blocking backfield men.

TIGER FLOWERS IS LAID TO REST WITH TRIBUTES

ATLANTA, Nov. 21—(AP)—"No Mo' Tiger, No Mo' Tiger," screamed a sobbing woman's voice and seven thousand people lapsed into silence to hear last honors paid to departed Theodore Flowers, Negro middleweight boxer, who once was crowned champion of the world.

For more than an hour, that one burst of emotion and a series of formal exercises were all that broke the stillness of Atlanta's municipal auditorium.

As the casket was borne in, preceded by a vested choir and Tiger's lodge brethren in full regalia, all swaying, moving even slower than the death march from the vast organ, the booming voice Flowers' pastor, chanted a sonorous benediction.

From the group of relatives seated near the rostrum, banked high with flowers, the voice of Tiger's sister rose:

"No mo' Tiger, no mo' Tiger—hold the boat and let me go—I want to see him again."

From that dramatic point on, the ceremonies were marked by a quiet, almost stiff formality, until one of Tiger's white friends had paid him highest praise. When Morgan Blake, sporting editor of the Atlanta Journal, had completed a brief address, the assemblage broke into a long thunder of applause.

The funeral address was delivered by Rev. G. L. Work, pastor of the Butler Street Colored Methodist church, of which Tiger was a trustee.

ILLINI TEAM BREAKS TRAINING WITH BANQUET

CHICAGO, Nov. 21—(AP)—The "starless" football team of Illinois tonight reaped the reward of their victorious 1927 season at the annual football banquet closing their training period. Coach Robert Zuppke called them the best bunch of fellows he had ever had among the many good squads he had coached at Illinois in fifteen years.

While the Illini celebrated their western conference championship at Champaign, the University of Minnesota team gloried in their decisive victory over Michigan and declined, in the words of President Lotus D. Coffman, to see any tie existing in the title situation because Minnesota was also unbeaten.

Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals and Ohio football star and coach himself in years past, was the chief speaker at the Illini banquet.

The Risman Big Ten trophy, awarded the conference winner under the Dickinson rating system, was presented to the Illinois team today at a special convocation of the university.

HYMIE HELLER WILL BE OUT OF BROWN LINEUP

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 21—(AP)—Brown university's football warriors, starting the season's final days of practice today for the Colgate game here Thursday, are paying particular attention to bolstering the defense against the forward pass, the only department in which the men were weak in their winning contest against New Hampshire Saturday.

The Brown staff realizes that Colgate will undoubtedly test the aerial defense searchingly and for that reason is neglecting no opportunity to school the men as much as time permits in aerial strategy.

Today's practice featured this angle of the game, and the remaining sessions will probably be largely devoted to it.

Heller, end, Harry Cornsweet, tackle, and Bud Edwards are probably out of the running as far as Thursday's game is concerned on account of old injuries but otherwise it is now expected that all of the Brown players will be in first class condition for their annual Thanksgiving contest with their traditional rivals.

HULBERT IS CHOSEN HEAD OF A. A. U. AGAIN

CINCINNATI, Nov. 21—(AP)—Re-election of Murray Hulbert of New York for a fourth term as president of the Amateur Athletic Union was assured late tonight by unanimous agreement on his nomination by a caucus of delegates. Hulbert will be accorded this honor tomorrow at the closing session of the convention.

The caucus also agreed on Daniel J. Ferris of New York to succeed Fred W. Rubien of New York as secretary-treasurer. Mr. Rubien resigned after holding office for 13 years.

Vice presidents agreed on by the caucus were: First, Avery Brundage, Chicago; second, C. W. Streit, Jr., Birmingham, Ala.; third, Charles Brennan, Detroit; fourth, Fred L. Hoffman, Cincinnati.

The caucus decided to hold the 1928 convention in New York.

Dundee Kayoes Ballerino.

DAYTON, Ohio, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Mike Dundee, Rock Island, Ill., scored a technical knockout over Mike Ballerino, Brooklyn, former junior lightweight champion of the world in the tenth round of a sensational 12-round match tonight. Ballerino waged a stubborn battle and took a severe lacing before the referee stopped the contest "to save him from further punishment.

A. A. U. APPROVES AND REJECTS SOME RECORDS

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Because the take-off for his leap was an inch higher than the landing pit, DeHart Hubbard, famous Negro athlete, is deprived of a new world's broad jump record.

Hubbard, a resident of Cincinnati, jumped 26 feet, 2 1-4 inches in a meet here last Sept. 17, but the amateur Atletic union today rejected the record. The former University of Michigan star already holds the world's mark of 25 feet, 10 7-8 inches.

Faulty timing, at the same meet, also was the cause for rejection of a world's record equalling performance of 9 3-5 seconds for the 100-yard dash.

The A. A. U. turned thumbs down on an attempt to revive consideration of the 100-yard dash performance of Jackson Scholz, of the New York A. A., who was credited with cover the "100" in 9 5-10 seconds at Greensboro, N. C., in 1926.

Charley Paddock holds an American record of 9 5-10 seconds for the century but the official world's record is still 9 3-4 seconds because tenth-second timing is not internationally recognized. This disapproval of the tenth second time pieces was responsible today for the tabling of applications for two relay records, 800 meters and 880-yards made by Southern California's team last May.

Sabin Carr, of Yale and Dubuque, Ia., is now the offical possessor of all world's pole vault records with the A. A. U.'s approval of his indoor mark of 13 feet 9 1-4 inches made last February in New York and his outdoor figure of exactly 14 feet made in the intercollegiate championships in Philadelphia.

These outstanding records also were approved among the 31 track and field marks recognized altogether: Indoors: 800 meters in 1:54 by Alan Heilfrich, New York A. C.; 1000 meters in 2:26 2-5; 100 yards in 2:12 4-5 and 1500 meters in 3:55 4-5, all by Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A. Outdoors: 100 yards in 9 3-5 seconds, equalling record by Chester Bowman, Newark A. C., 440-yard hurdles in 52 2-5 seconds by Johnny Gibson, Bloomfield, N. J., Catholic Lyceum; 440-yard relay in 41 seconds by Newark A. C., Decathalon 7574.42 points by Fait Elkins, University of Nebraska.

Among the women athletes, Helen Filky of Chicago, was credited with three new national records for the 60 yards dash and 70 yard low hurdles, indoors and 60-yard hurdles, outdoors.

Of the 94 swimming records accepted, 22 were registered in the name of Martha Norelius of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, national fre style champion, Walter Spence of the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A., with 13, and Johnny Weismuller of the Illinois A. C., with 12 new marks to credit headed the men's porformers. Agnes Geraghty, breast stroke star of the W. S. A. of New York, broke eight records and George Kojac, New York schoolboy "wonder," established seven new marks.

HERRMANN'S RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED BY STOCKHOLDERS

CINCINNATI, Nov. 21—(AP)—Action of the board of directors in accepting the resignation of August Herrmann as president of the National league baseball club, was unanimously approved by the stockholders of the Cincinnati baseball club company, at the annual meeting of the company today.

For the first time in 25 years, Herrmann, head of the club, for a quarter of a century until about a month ago, was not in the meeting. The company re-elected C. J. Diamid, L. C. Widrig, Walter Friendlander, James P. Orr, and Julian Pollak, as directors, the last named having been recently chosen to take the place vacated by Herrmann.

Immediately after the session the directors met and organized for the season of 1928 with the following officers: C. J. McDiarmid, president Walter Friendlander vice president; Louis C. Widrig, treasurer and Julian Pollak, secretary.

NO ATHLETIC CAPTAINS AT OHIO STATE

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 21.—(AP)—On the theory that campus politics has interfered with proper functioning of Ohio State athletic teams, the university athletic board has abolished the traditional election of captains in all sports.

Action of the board was taken November 10, but announcement was postponed until the football season was concluded. The board made no explanation accompanying the announcement, but the athletes and athletic officials have expressed themselves as feeling the old system had interfered on some occasions with selection of logical men as captains.

Sometimes the strife born during annual elections of captains was carried over into the foreign season with a bad effect on the team morale and its showing in competition, the officials believe.

Y EMPS ISSUE BASKETBALL CHALLENGE

The "Y" Emps challenge any team in the state averaging 16-17 years of age. The Emps last year won 18 games and were strong claimants of the junior title. This year with a much stronger lineup and more experience, they will endeavor to win their second straight championship.

The Emps will be able to place two strong teams on the floor. At the forward positions Economus, former New local star, will roam, at center Sauslocal satr, will roam, at center Sausman and Henchell ought to perform well, at guards Murphy, former Shamrock star and Swatzburg, running mate of Tigar, well-known combination of last year's Emps. Among the substitutes Stevens, Ogulnick, Sherry, Lynch, Dyon, Ed Hamill and Vulgaries stand out as the most prominent.

The Emps are negotiating with the strong Wheeler high team for the opening game of the season.

ROSENBLOOM SLUGS WAY TO WIN OVER LATZO

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, slugged his way to a referee's decision over Pete Latzo, Scranton, former welterweight champion, in a ten-round bout at the arena tonight.

Rosenbloom weight 165; Latzo, 164. In the ten-round semi-windup, King Solomon, Panama, won on a technical knockout over Ray Neuman, Jersey City, in the fifth round.

Solomon weighed 126; Neuman, 204.

Tony Ascencio, 122, Spain, knocked out Willie Joyce, 125, Philadelphia, in the first round, and Buck Boyle, 136, Allentown, Pa., and Freddy Welsh, 136, Atlantic City, fought a draw in six-round preliminaries.

Dorfman Beats Mack.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Sammy Dorfman, New York featherweight, defeated Petie Mack, of Jersey City, in a tend-round bout here tonight. Each weighed 129, Georgie Mack, brother of Petie, whipped Pete Passafume, of New York, in six rounds.

Georgie weighed 121 3-4, Passafume, 122.

In a six-round preliminary, Murray Layton, 126, of New York, defeated Pinkie Mays, 118 3-4, of Savannah, Ga.

DEMPSEY-KEARNS LEGAL BOUT IS DECLARED TO BE "NO-CONTEST"

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 21.—(AP)—One of a pair of Jacks called the other a knave today and the ensuing uproar completely obliterated, at least for the time being, the $333,333.33 damage suit against Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, by Jack Kearns, his erstwhile manager, for breach of contract.

After counsel for Kearns had charged Dempsey and his lawyers with deliberately "framing" the court, and Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, with having boasted that he had the case "in the bag," both sides agreed to end the trial in a "voluntary non-suit," a polite form of mistrial carrying no connotations of guilt.

Counsel for Kearns announced the case would be brought to trial again as soon as possible but Dempsey's lawyers intimated that legal obstacles would be found in the path of such action and chuckled that Kearns had unintentionallly got himself "up Salt Creek without a paddle" and would have a hard time getting back into the legal stream.

Today's session of the trial was brief but it was one of the most dramatic court scenes of the year. It began late, the judge being delayed, but once under way it sizzled with speed. It was marked by shouts, threats, taunts, tears and tirades. Several times physical conflict was narrowly averted.

The trial had been put over to today from the middle of last week, after jury selection and opening statements had been completed, on the statement of Arthur Driscoll, chief counsel for Dempsey, that he was suffering from grippe. The adjournment was made over objection of the plaintiff, Kearns.

When court opened today Driscoll thanked the court for giving him time to recover and Judge Runyon as politely expressed the hope that recovery had been complete. Then Arthur Sager, chief counsel for Kearns, rose ominously in the stolid Dempsey and the suave Rickard, and politeness fled from the court.

"Your honor," said Sager, after he had requested that the jury be sent from the room and they had filed out, "what I have to say is against the wishes of my client. The plaintiff, Kearns, but we, his lawyers, have over-ruled him.

"Last week this case was adjourned after Mr. Driscoll had delivered a most energetic opening address. He pleaded sickness though he was to all appearance in the most robust health. The adjournment was granted over our protest and our subsequent demand that a juror be withdrawn and a mistrial was refused.

"I now charge that since that time the defendant Dempsey has been traveling about the state trumping up public sentiment for himself; he has appeared at political meetings and has talked over the air. I charge his attorney with most unethical action in arranging this postponement. I charge his spiritual advisor, George L. Rickard, with having openly boasted that he had the trial in the bag."

At this point the court was thrown into an uproar by Rickard jumping to his feet and shouting "you're a contemptible liar." Everyone else seemed to be stunned by the suddenness and the gravity of the charges, and Rickard was pulled back into his chair as Sager continued.

"Your honor," Sager said, "I move for withdrawal of a juror and declaration of a mistrial because if this trial is not halted such a scandal will develop because of the actions of this defendant, these lawyers, and this George L. Rickard whose sinister shadow has been cast over this court room, that by comparison the actions of the Burns jury shadowing detectives in the Fall-Sinclair trial will smell like attar of roses."

Lengthy argument followed the making of this motion, counsel for Dempsey charging that Sager had made his charges, unsupported by affidavits, solely for the newspapers, and that Kearns had never wanted the case brought to trial, but hoped by keeping it hanging over Dempsey's head to force him to make a settlement out of court.

Driscoll in a ringing voice asserted that Dempsey would never settle, even if it could be done for one cent. Another defense lawyer questioned Sager's remark that he had 25 years of service at the bar and Sager rose in anger, tears glistening on his cheeks to defend his reputation.

At this point Judge Runyon plainly indicated that he intended to declare a mistrial, not because he believed there had been any guilt, but because, "these charges having been made, the finger of suspicion would inevitably be pointed in some quarters at the jury and even at the court."

The Dempsey-Kearns contract was made in 1923 in accordance with the regulations of the New York State boxing commission. The next year Dempsey, who had recently married Estelle Taylor, movie actress, and Kearns severed business connections. Kearns alleged, however, that the contract still held and that under its terms he was due one third of all Dempsey made. Dempsey held that the contract had never been anything but a scrap of paper, to satisfy the boxing commission, and was terminable at will. The case has been buffeted from court to court and actually came to trial for the first time last week in the civil side of the United States district court here.

BILL COX OF PENN. STATE WINS INTERCOLLEGIATE CROSS COUNTRY

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—Ramsy Bill Cox, of Penn State college won the cross country championship of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, for the second time in two years today and led his mates to a clean sweep of varsity and freshman individual and team titles.

Over the six mile Van Cortlandt park course, the long-limbed youth from Rochester, N. Y., out-raced a field of the best college distance men in the east and won as he pleased in 30 minutes, 34 4-5 seconds. His record-breaking time last year was 30 minutes and four seconds.

Penn State's team victory of 1926 was repeated with a point score of 50, the Nittany runners romping off with first, sixth, seventh, 12th and 24th places. Harvard was second with sixty points and Maine, third, with 69.

The Nittany day of triumph opened with a decisive victory in the freshman event. Richard J. Detwiler of Penn State crossed the line first in this three-mile event and his team mates followed him closely for the low total of 31 penits. Dartmouth was second with 42 and Syracuse, third, with 106. Detwiler's time was 15:22 2-5 in comparison with the record of 14:56 1-5 set a year ago.

A favorite before the race, a contender from the start and the pacemaker most of the way, Cox finished 100 yards ahead of Harry Richardson of Maine, who came in second. Striding over the line, Cox turned and swung off down the course to his dressing room 300 yards away with camera men in futile pursuit. He was dressed for the street and receiving congratulations before the last man finished.

Cox took the lead at the start and relinquished it twice in the first mile before the fiery challenges of Jim Reid, of Harvard. Forging ahead of the mark he opened the throttle gradually until, with two miles to go, he had a lead of 100 yards. As they coasted down a slope and swung into the home stretch, Richardson cut his lead to 20 yards, but Cox opened it up to 100 again in the last few strides. Reid was third, just five seconds back of Richardson.

Behind the three leaders the field was closely bunched at the finish with Francis Lindsay of Maine fourth, Ben Merembeck, of Pennsylvania, fifth, then Louis Lee and George Offenhauser, Penn State veterans, sixth and seventh. Henry Kittle, 13th, Henry Ratcliff, 24th, were the other Penn State men to count.

By winning this 19th annual race Cox became the second man in the history of the event to gain the individual crown in successive years. John Paul Jones, of Cornell, who won in 1910, 1911 and 1912, and John Overton, of Yale who won in 1915 and 1916 were the only others ever to accomplish the feat. Cox was captain of his team, although only a junior, Penn State's accomplishment of winning all four championships is without precedent.

Like Cox, the wiry Dewitler out-ran his field almost from the start. Bill Gould and Leon Andrews, of Dartmouth were second and third, half a stride apart.

In the varsity race the colleges finished as follows:

First, Penn State, 50; second, Harvard, 60; third, Maine, 69; fourth, Union, 93; fifth, M. I. T., 139; sixth, Syracuse, 178; seventh, Cornell, 189; eighth, Pennsylvania, 223; ninth, New York university, 234; tenth, Columbia, 241; 11th, Yale, 275; 12th, Dartmouth, 288; 13th, Princeton, 335; 14th, Manhatta, 443; 15th, Fordham, 445.

In the freshman race, F. E. O'Brien, Yale, came in sixth and C. Bullock, Yale, came in 22nd.

The freshman race finished as follows:

First, Penn State, 31; second, Dartmouth, 42; third, Syracuse, 106; fourth, Yale, 126; fifth, Princeton, 139; sixth, M. I. T., 147; seventh, Rutgers, 183; eighth, Cornell, 188; ninth, Columbia, 278; 10th, New York university, 282; 11th, Union, 284; 12th, Manhattan, 294; 13th, C. C. N. Y., 348.

REMUS FAILED TO MAKE STATEMENT OF DEFENSE

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The first evidence upon which the state depends to send George Remus, the former "king of bootleggers," to the electric chair, was adduced today after Remus had sprung the biggest surprises of the trial by declining to make the opening statement for the defense.

Six times last week, Remus electrified the spectators in Judge Chester R. Shook's court by clashes with the prosecution, but the surprise of none of them excelled that of today when Charles H. Elston, associate counsel, opened for the defense.

I've just got to tell somebody

NO, I'M not going to be married. Neither have I fallen heir to a lot of money. But I have discovered the one tobacco that makes a pipe come through a thousand per cent—Prince Albert!

Yes, Sir, Prince Albert—the world's largest-selling brand. I was sitting with a fellow-commuter the other morning, when he was filling his pipe from a bright-red tin. I got a whiff of that tobacco and said: "Do you mind if I borrow a load?" He passed the tin over, and I filled up and lighted up.

I never tasted anything so good in my life. It was wonderfully cool and sweet, with a mildness I had never met before in a pipe-tobacco. Mild, as I say, yet it had that rich, rare body that put satisfaction into every pull. What a taste!

I could hardly wait till the train pulled in to get me a supply. I've smoked enough of this cool, mild, long-burning tobacco to know that it gives you deep-down contentment in every load. Try Prince Albert. You'll say so!

You get quantity, too, with P. A.—TWO full ounces in every tin.

PRINCE ALBERT

WESTERLY

FIRE CHIEF EGGER'S SPEECH AFFECTED BY SLIGHT SHOCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 21—Fire Chief George E. Egger suffered a slight shock about 2 a. m., today, at his home 9 Narragansett avenue. Having returned from a trip to Boston, his first thought was to see the newly arrived Ahrens-Fox pumper before he returned home at a late hour. Dr. Richard O'B. Shea was called to the chief's home, and found that his left side was affected, as well as his speech. Complete rest it is hoped will effect his recovery.

Much of Chief Egger's time has been given of late to his duties, not only in the vast amount of work entailed by the loss of the Westerly fire station April 30th, and in the purchasing of new pump and equipment and the details of the rebuilding of a new station, but much of his time at late hours at night has been devoted to the pumping out of cellars which were filled with freshet waters.

Chief Egger, who is a native of Mystic, has been chief of the Westerly fire department since his election in the special meeting of April 3, 1916, following the death of Chief S. G. Cottrell, his predecessor for 21 years. Chief Egger was a former foreman of the Cycline Fire Engine company and was first named to the board of engineers as third assistant at the annual fire district meeting Dec. 7, 1910. During the incapacity of Chief Egger his duties wil ldevolve upon First Assistant Engineer Robert Bonner.

ALBERT BLACKNELL'S BODY BURIED IN PAWCATUCK MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Nov. 21—The body of Albert Blacknell, 23, a resident of the lower Pawcatuck section near Wequetequock cove, who was washed off the bridge on the cross road from Post road by the three-foot flood of two weeks ago Friday morning, was found soon after noon Sunday. The body was across the cove from the home of Newell Smith, stuck in the mud, not far from the trolley bridge. It was first seen by Howard Taylor who was engaged in putting a storm door on the bungalow of Mrs. Mary A. Richardson, located on the Stonington road east of the casino. Taylor noticed an object appearing above the waves of the cove, about 50 feet off shore. Taylor first viewed the object with opera glasses and then secured a boat and rowed to the place; only a small part of the body was visible, the rest being buried in mud that is believed to have held him fast since the accident. Taylor was unable to move the body alone, but with the aid of Newell Smith, he succeeded in towing it ashore. He notified Joseph Vargas, a selectman in the town of Stonington.

The medical examiner for the town of Stonington, was notified and gave permission to remove the body from the shore where it was brought by Mr. Taylor. The body was taken to undertaking rooms in Mystic.

Burial took place this afternoon in St. Michael's New cemetery, Pawcatuck. The committal service was read by Rev. Fr. F. J. Quinn, pastor of St. Michael's church, Pawcatuck.

TWELVE DIVORCE CASES FOR TRIAL IN NOV. TERM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 21—Associate Justice Charles A. Walsh presided at the opening session of the November term of Washington county superior court at West Kingston Monday morning. The grand jurors under summons were examined as to their qualifications by Third Assistant Rhode Island Attorney General Louis V. Jackvony of Providence, charged by the judge and sworn by Court Clerk W. Herbert Caswell of Narragansett. NOANK

The Noank Nuggets basketball team, all dolled up in their orange and black suits, started their 1927 season Saturday evening in the village hall before a crowd of 170 fans. The game did not get under way until 9:30 o'clock as Co. C team of Willimantic had an accident outside of Norwich. They called up Manager Pheleps and said they could not arrive before 9.30. As the fans had a long while to wait, to take up their time Judge Billings Fairbrother of Stonington did the Harvard hop. His steps were the latest. Then big Charles Cowan 3rd, star football fullback of Stonington high school was called from the crowd to sing several team songs and everybody was well pleased. Soon Referee Fitzpatrick blew his whistle for the game with the fast Willimantic team and everybody sat back for a real battle. The new guard, Dinty Banks for Noank got the first basket, which started the orange and black boys on the score sheet. The blue and white boys of Co. C were working the ball under their basket and taking short shots. The first quarter ended with Co. C in the lead, 7 to 2. In the second quarter the cod-chasers of the village were getting their eyes on the hoop better and the first half was over with Nuggets 14, Willimantic 11. The third quarter Willimantic was doing the passing game and the crowd saw the ball going around the hall; and the Nuggets got in and soon broke up that combination. Timer Butson rang the bell on the third quarter and still Co. C team was ahead 26 to 21. The final quarter proved the most exciting that the fishing village ever saw since basketball made its appearance. When the referee's whistle blew the score book read a tie game—31 to 31. The house was in an uproar and it seemed that the shingles on the roof would let go, with the cheering. A 5-minute over-time period had to be played. One side would get a basket then the other. Co. C team from the mill town won by 2 points, making the final score Co. C 40, Nuggets 38. The battle proved one of the hardest fought games in the village since the hall was built 35 years ago. The crowd went home happy for they sure got their money's worth. The stars for Noank were Ebbetts with 5 field goals, Robertson 4 field goals and for Co. C team Haggerty 8 field goals and 2 fouls, making a total of 18 points. Referee, Fitzpatrick; timer, Butson; scorer, Pheleps. Dancing followed. The Sousa Music Master's orchestra of Stonington played.

Austin Morrison of Boston was calling on relatives in the village Sunday.

Mrs. Cicelly Morrison of Cambridge, Mass., spent the week end with Mrs. John Tourgee.

Mr. and Mrs. William Yukon, of East Boston, were in the village for a day recently.

Local members of the Fire company, were reading in the paper about the Farmers' football team of Stonington high school, intending to play the fighting Red and White team of N. F. A., the game to be played in Stonington, Saturday afternoon. So the covered car got under way to see the farmer boys put away their tools and give the fans a real game of football. The smoke-easters were rooting for old N. F. A. to win. The school spirit was with the teams; with their best two men out, they never gave up. The coach had the never-die spirit. It was the best, hard fought game the fire fighters had seen on any gridiron this season. Lots of thrills kept the fans on their feet. For the Red and White team, Marks and Kelly were the heroes for the Rose of New England town. For Stonington, the 200-lb. fullback, putting pep on the line and his work won for them, 6 to 0.

Edward Mahoney is in Brooklyn, N. Y., for a few days' visit.

Raymond Jones has returned from a short visit in Passaic, N. J.

Fred Phillips has gone to Hartford to spend a week with friends.

Alden Rathbun of Yale, spent the week end in the village.

The Abate block, on East Main street, has been called the red front block for it is all painted red. The A. & P. will take possession this week, making the street show up well at night and when it is all lighted up.

Lover of Highway and Byway

SHE loves them all, does the Reo Flying Cloud. Be it the spirit-level smoothness of Pennsylvania's concrete, or the lava-shingled trail of Nevada, she sweeps to meet them with that joyous thrill of motoring that only the Reo Flying Cloud gives.

Hour after hour, mile upon mile, day after day, those who drive a Reo Flying Cloud are learning the meaning of a "pleasure car."

Swung upon long, flexible springs, cradled by hydraulic shock absorbers, she irons out the bumps of every road. She has power for the hardest pulling and speed for the swiftest flight. Yet no matter how fast she is going, how treacherous the roadbed beneath you, she comes to a quick and gentle halt when you touch her velvet stop brakes.

Give her a chance to tell her story in her own sweet way. Take her out for a trial spin. If she can't sell you, no one else can.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were 5 sales of real estate in Norwich as compared to four sales for the corresponding week in 1926. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $14,775 and $22,550.

New London

The slump in big building enterprises in this city during the past six months or more has been a subject for considerable comment in building circles recently with perhaps a few endeavoring to learn the reason. The beginning of the so-called slump in major construction jobs is believed to have made advent with the completion of the new Southern New England Telephone Co. building in Washington street.

In some quarters the situation is considered little below normal; the attitude being taken that this city experienced a sudden boom in major construction work in 1925 and 1926 with the development of the Williams estate at State and Huntington streets into a modern business block with five new buildings, two of which were out of the ordinary in local enterprises. Also in that period came the construction of several modern big commercial garages, extensive altering to the Connecticut Power Co. plant in Water street, re-construction of the Second Congregational church, one or two new buildings in the center of the city, and a new building at Connecticut college.

Following the boom mentioned it is generally conceded that the construction of more new business blocks will follow in the natural course of further growth of the city.

Plans are being prepared for a new residence to be erected in the Pequot section for Thatcher Shepard. The proposed structure will be 28 by 40 feet in dimension, with an ell 14 by 12 feet. It will contain two tiled baths, a library, five bedrooms, a den and a sunporch. There will be steam heat and brass piping and modern electrical and plumbing fixtures throughout.

The architect has completed plans for a grandstand at Mercer field and work has been started on the construction of the stand. The structure will be 81 by 41 feet, covered over with a seating capacity of 590 persons and quarters for teams and dugouts below.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Chubby Gets a Warning.

Whene'er you find a warning heeded
You'll seldom find another needed.
—Old Mother Nature.

You will remember Cubby. Of course, you will remember Cubby. Cubby was the little bear who got into so many scrapes while Farmer Brown's Boy was taking care of him. You know Cubby had finally been set free and gone back to his mother and sister.

Those twin cubs were very much like other twins; they loved each other, yet they squabbled and scrapped and quarreled and made up again. At first after his return Cubby tried putting on airs. He found that even Mother Bear was interested in all that he had to tell, and this made him feel very chesty and all swelled up with conceit. And you know this is a bad thing for anybody to be swelled up with, to say nothing of a little bear.

But after a few days Cubby didn't feel quite so chesty. He didn't like to admit it, but it was a fact that his sister knew more about certain things in the woods than he did. While he had been living so comfortably at Farmer Brown's, never having to worry about his food, his sister had been learennig many secrets of the Green Forest. So Cubby soon discovered that she was getting more to eat than he was. She was getting more because she had learned how to find food, while Cubby was trusting more or less to luck. So Chubby began to have very real respect for this smart twin sister of his. But he didn't let her know it. Oh, my goodness, no! Not for the world would he have allowed her to suspect that he thought her very smart indeed. Instead, he tried to impress her with his own smartness.

The days were growing cool. The nights were becoming frosty. Already they had had to roam farther and farther to get enough to eat. You see, so many people had been feasting on the beechnuts and the acorns and on the wild grapes that in many places they had about disappeared. So Mother Bear led the cubs farther and farther as the days went by. "Gr-r-r-r," said Mother Bear in her deep rumbly-grumbly voice, looking very hard at Cubby, "you have got to be fatter than you are now before you go to sleep for the winter. I don't want any one kicking around, waking me out of the middle of a sound sleep, because he is cold. Look at your sister there! She's so fat she's actually stretching that skin of hers. She'll sleep warm. Yes, sir, she'll sleep good and warm."

"But I don't feel sleepy," said Cubby.

"Certainly not," replied Mother Bear, nodding her head. "I should feel ashamed of you if you were getting sleepy now. But you are going to get sleepy before long. And when you do get sleepy you want to be prepared. A lean bear never sleeps well. It takes a fat bear to sleep as a bear should sleep in the winter. I warn you, Cubby, to get fatter than you are now. If you don't you won't sleep with us."

Now there was nothing the matter with Cubby's appetite, and the only reason that he wasn't as fat as his sister was that he didn't find the food as well as his sister. That was because he had missed the training she had had while he was living at Farmer Brown's.

"But I don't feel sleepy," said Cubby.

What did Mother Bear mean by saying that he couldn't sleep with them if he wasn't fat enough? Cubby wondered if she really meant it.

HEAVY SELLING IN THE FINAL HOUR CAUSED DROP IN PRICES OF STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—Operators for the rise, aided by a series of favorable trade developments and a brisk rally of nearly $3 a bale in cotton futures, started to mark up prices from the opening of today's stock market, but heavy selling developed among the standard industrials during the afternoon, checking the rise and leaving final quotations irregularly lower. More than 25 issues, including a number of coppers, public utilities, foods, tobaccos and medium priced motors, attained new peak prices for the year, or longer.

Much of the selling undoubtedly was influenced by the belief that a technical reaction was warranted after three weeks of almost steadily rising prices. Then, too, the approach of the holiday probably inspired the lightening of some speculative accounts. There was no change in money rates, which are generally expected to continue easy until around the end of the year.

Increases were announced during the day in the prices of brass and export copper. From steel centers also came unofficial reports of another increase in steel prices. Copper shares were in fairly good demand, Anaconda, Kennecott and Calumet & Arizona all reaching new peaks. U. S. Steel common sold off more than 2 points to 142, but Crucible, republic and Youngstown recorded moderate net gains.

General Motors failed to make good the "bull" tips that were widely circulated about that stock last week, falling back more than 2 points to 128 3-4. Hupp and Packard, which have been widely mentioned in merger reports, attained new peak prices, the former climbing nearly 5 points to 32 1-2. Hudson also dropped more than 2 points to 70 1-8 and Chrysler, Mack Trucks, Nash and Pierce Arrow preferred yielded a point or more.

Although directors of DuPont declared extra dividends of of $4.25 and raised the regular annual rate from $8 to $10, the stock broke 7 points to $18 on the traditional "selling on the good news." Losses of 3 to 5 points were recorded by Arnold Constable, Atlantic refining, Case Threshing, Commercial Solvents, Hoe & Co., International Harvester, Manhattan Electrical Supply and National Surety.

Among the many issues to reach new high ground, most of them in the morning trading, were Brooklyn Edison, Detroit Edison, adio, Shubert Theatres, Fox Film, Sears Roebuck, Munsingwear, National Biscuit, International Paper and Congress Cigar.

Rails yielded with the industrials, but the losses were not as large. Chesapeake & Ohio fell from 211 to 207 1-4 and then rallied slightly, while New York Central, Rock Island, Union Pacific, Erie common and a number of other active issues declined a point or two.

Outside of the rally in cotton, which was based on the bullish government ginning report, there was little of interest in the commodity markets. Wheat and corn futures advanced a little but most of the other grains showed small declines. Coffee and sugar quotations held steady.

Spanish and Japanese currencies were reactionary, but most of the other leading foreign exchanges gained ground. The increase in the premium on the Canadian dollar resulted in the further shipment of gold to Montreal. Sterling held firm around the year's high of $4.87 3-8 for demand bills.

EARLY SHOPLIFTING IN NEW LONDON RESULTS IN GROTON GIRL'S ARREST

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—Shoplifting has started in New London as it usually does in the fall when the holidays are approaching, but this year the thieving is being perpetrated by juniors instead of by adults. Friday and Saturday merchants in two or three stores on State street made complaint to the police that the thieving had begun. From clues that the merchants gave Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh arrested two girls residing in Groton today. Neither of the girls is 17 and the pair returned many of the stolen articles, which had an aggregate value of $30. Instead of prosecuting the girls they were allowed to return to their homes, but not until they had been given a severe reprimand. Heretofore, for the most part the stealing of articles from the counters of stores has been done by men or women, although occasionally a juvenile shoplifter appeared with the grown-ups.

ASKS DAUGHTER'S ARREST WHEN PATIENCE EXHAUSTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Viola Mayo Brewer, about 27, colored and the wife of Larney Brewer, of 20 High street, will be in the police court tomorrow morning on a charge of being a common drunkard, unless the young woman's mother, Mrs. Stevens, of Hempstead street, changes her mind. Such action is not anticipated, for it was upon the complaint of the mother that the daughter was arrested. The young woman has a long police court record, most of the offenses being breach of the peace, intoxication and frequenting a disorderly house. The young woman appears to have taken a rapid gait on the downward trail, due to her fondness for liquor. This morning when she appeared drunk on Hempstead street the mother requested her daughter's arrest. Patrolman George Cockell and William Corcoran went to Hempstead street and finding Mrs. Brewer there arrested her.

MRS. JAMES GRIMES DEAD—HAS SISTER IN NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—Annis E. Smiddy, 59, widow of James Grimes, who died Saturday night at her home, 43 Center street, is survived by two daughters, Misses Isabel and Marcella of this city, two sisters, Mrs. Isabel Plouffe, of New London, and Mrs. William Shelley, of School street, Norwich, and by a brother, William Smiddy, of Montville. Mrs. Grimes was born in Montville, the daughter of Charles and Jane Smiddy, but had resided in New London practically her entire life.

John Howard and Devine Potter, United States Coast Guard sailors, local section base, 4, state pier, were arrested last night when disorderly at the Garde theatre, State street. They had been drinking and one of them smashed a bottle in the street. They were arrested by Patrolman George Perkins, but they were not presented in the police court. They were turned over to the shore patrol and taken back to the pier for discipline.

Marie Vashie, 4 West Pleasant street, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, suffering from lacerations of the head which injury she suffered when the automobile in which she was riding collided with another automobile in Colchester Sunday.

Ella Ann Mitchell, 60, wife of Lyman Garde, died Sunday at her residence, 7 Latham street, Groton, death ending an illness of 15 months heart disease, which kept her confined to her bed the past three months. Besides her husband, Mrs. Garde is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Edgar Garde, Mrs. Earl Faulkner and Mrs. William Oviatt, all of Groton. Three stepdaughters, Mrs. John Cooper, Old Mystic; Mrs. Thomas Haggerty, Poquonoc Bridge and Mrs. Starr Deane, Center Groton and a step-son, Albert Garde of Providence, also survive. Mrs. Garde was born in Groton, March 23, 1867, the daughter of Henry and Frances Mitchell.

FIRE HOUSE PROPOSITION IS REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21—The city council held a meeting for two hours this evening. Three matters consumed the major portion of the time. The matter of a new fire house for the Allen Hook and Ladder company, petitioned for, was discussed and finally referred to the committee on public safety. It developed into a demand for a central fire house that would accommodate the Allen company and the Niagara company as well as be the location of the city's fire alarm system. Foreman Gragan of the Allens was given the floor and he pictured the hook and ladder house as a disgrace to the city. He had the opinion of the inspector of buildings that an expenditure of $10,000 would be necessary to put the house in order. He said the roof was leaking, the rear wall was falling out, the side wall on one side of the building was cracked its entire length, and that there was a stench there that was unbearable. City Manager Holt declared that the house was old and intimated strongly that it would be a matter of economy for the city to have a station that would accommodate the Allens, the Niagaras and the fire alarm system.

Councilor Twoomey criticized the management of the fire department houses for allowing the Allen house to deteriorate into the condition in which it claimed to be. He said the officials who were supposed to look after the fire department property were derelict in their duties. Foreman Gragan having stated that at a meeting of officers of the fire department he was promised a new house, Councilor Twoomey asked who made any such promise. Foreman Gragan replied, "Councilor Scott." The latter corrected the statement, saying that he promised to do all in his power to have a new house provided, but claimed that he could not and did not promise a new house. He said there was no doubt that the Allens needed a new station. Referred to the committee on public safety.

The decoration of a portion of Bank street to Tilley, State street from Bank to Huntington and Main street to John brought from the committee that considered the matter an adverse report which refused to grant the petition of merchants and the chamber of commerce. That report came early in the evening and thereafter a petition of 100 merchants backed by the secretary of the chamber of commerce was read. Secretary Gareipy of the chamber was given a chance to speak on the matter and advocated it strongly, saying that the lights could be rented on other occasions if desired. He had figured it out that the cost would be half a cent per person if the city had a population of 32,000 as is claimed. Other cities had provided the decoration and the course had brought happiness to thousands of people. Merchants were given opportunity to speak on the subject, but no one cared to take advantage of the chance. Councilor Twoomey called a meeting of the committee to meet immediately after the session of the council, that the matter might be farther considered. He said the city had no money available for the decorations. It was proposed to have the municipal building, the monument and court house decorated and to have Christmas trees and laurel or fir decorations. That matter also went to the committee.

Councilor Streeter asked when the inspection of gasoline tanks was made before or after they were put into the ground. He held that the tank placed at School street and Ocean avenues was in the ground before it was inspected and expressed the opinion that such a course was not as it should be. City Manager Holt replied that the inspection was all right and Councilor Scott said the council should have reliance enough in the fire marshal to accept his statements as to inspection. Councilor Streeter insisted that he was talking about facts and that confidence in the inspector did not enter into the matter. An application for the removal of a tree at the gasoline station referred to was voted, provided the applicant would bear the expense of removal.

L. Y. Spear asked the council to consider the exchange of a parcel of land adjoining the land on Montauk and Ocean avenues which Mrs. Alfred Mitchell proposes to give the city for a park. The Mitchell land abuts that of L. Y. Spear for a long distance and there the exchange is proposed. The council is to consider the matter further.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Indian Chief At Boston Store.

Needahbeh, a full blooded Penobscot Indian, who made so many friends at the Sugar Brook garden party two years ago, and who on another occasion so delightfully entertained the local Rotary club, will be at the Boston store the entire week. The Penobscots, who now live at Old Town, Me., and who number less than 300, pride themselves on the fact that they were one of the few Indian tribes that never fought the settlers. In fact, they volunteered their services to the Revolutionary forces, and many of them enlisted in the army to fight against England. Needahbeh is displaying baskets and novelties made by members of his tribe.

Palace Theater.

For fast moving, concise, interesting and humorous entertainment you'll have to pay tribute to Bebe Daniels, who came to the Palace theater yesterday in her latest Paramount comedy, "She's a Sheik."

The picture starts out with a bang thanks to the effort of William Powell, as the heavy and before long it is picked up by the star and carried through at a merry pace. The story revolves around the granddaughter of the Sheik, who, after an education received in the United States, returns to her Algerian home with some new and novel ideas on how to capture a male. An excellent cast supports Miss Daniels in this comedy, with Richard Arlen in the leading male role.

On the vaudeville stage are five splendid acts headed by Cooke, Mortimer and Harvey in their internationally famous specialty, "basketball on bicycles." Barbier, Simms and Company offer a comedy with a movie studio background, called "Action, Camera." Thompson and Kemp are highly amusing in their colored character offering. Lockhard and Green in "Flirtations," and McDonald and Oakes, "the aristocratic steppers," complete the show.

Commencing Thursday for a three days run the management has booked Fred Thompson in one of the biggest attractions of the year, "Jesse James." Although this picture is playing all the straight picture houses it has been arranged to show at the Palace in conjunction with the usual vaudeville program.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theater.

Footloose Widows showing tonight at the Strand is a comedy showing the deluxe adventures of a pair of husband-hunting gold diggers. It is smart, brightly sophisticated, swift, gay and surprising.

We have a matinee on Thanksgiving afternoon at 2.15, a double feature bill with special music by Professor Herbert Rich and his orchestra.

Breed Theatre.

How many men can tie their neckties with their feet? This is one of the strange things Lon Chaney learned to do, in practicing for his most astonishing role, as an armless circus performer in "The Unknown," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle now at the Breed theatre. It is a vivid mystery surrounding a circus, with Chaney as a sinister sideshow freak. It took him several months to learn the strange tricks with his feet seen in the new picture. Joan Crawford, Norman Kerry and others of note are in the cast.

One of the stage's most famous hits is the new vehicle of John Gilbert, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Twelve Miles Out," which comes Thursday to the Breed theatre. It created a veritable sensation in New York, and was adapted to the screen by A. P. Younger, famous for "Brown of Harvard," and other screen features. Jack Conway directed it. The play is a thrilling story of adventure on the high seas, with a cast that includes Joan Crawford, Ernest Torrence, Bert Roach, Tom O'Brien, Eileen Percy and many others of note.

As an added attraction on Thursday's program will be the Dempsey-Sharkey fight pictures, showing the battle of heavyweights in the Yankee stadium at New York last July.

Broadway.

For today and tomorrow, the Broadway theatre will present a double feature program that is sure to please all patrons of this popular playhouse. "Turkish Delight," featuring Rudolph Schildkraut, is a picturization of Erwin S. Cobb's famous story of the same name and concerns a man who inherited a Harem. It's a scream from start to finish and if you enjoy a hearty laugh, don't miss it.

The co-feature is "The Adventurer," with Tim McCoy. The plot concerns a revolution in Mexico in which the hero is involved and of course there is a fair senorita—but wait till you see "The Adventurer."

NEW NORWICH INDUSTRY DEMONSTRATES ITS PROGRESS

In an interview with John Mitchell, treasurer of The Bridgeman corporation, while he was showing the new machine recently installed in the Norwich Paper Box company factory on Chestnut street, he gave an optimistic account of the progress of this new Norwich industry which manufactures automatic machinery.

The factory off North Main street has constructed 25 of their turn-in machines and is now building the first lot of the companion machine, called the stripper. These machines work in conjunction with each other, in the operation of covering the box and cover with paper. The pair of the machines now operating at the factory of The Norwich Paper Box Co., are doing fine work, producing quality boxes and obtaining all of the economies originally claimed for them. The machines are proving themselves an entire success in actual work.

Thirty-five hundred exceptionally fine descriptive circulars of two kinds have been printed and distributed during the past two months throughout the paper box industry over the world. The response to these has been fully up to expectations, inquiries have been coming in daily and appointments for demonstrations of the machines in both Norwich and New York city are now being made. These inquiries have come from all over the United States and two have been received from England and one from Australia.

The officials and stockholders of the company are well pleased with the progress made in the construction of the machines and the response of box making industry of the country to the circulars is an indication of their deep interest in the machines which will undoubtedly result in a good volume of business for the company. The merit of the machines, combined with the intelligence and energy of the officers of the company, portend a fine future for the investors.

WASHINGTON PAPER'S TRIBUTE TO BISHOP THOS. J. SHAHAN

The Washington, D. C., Star, of Saturday, referring to Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, who, following his ordination in Rome spent a short time at St. Patrick's church, Norwich, of which his uncle was then rector, said: Following the expiration of his current six-year term in March, Bishop Thomas J. Shahan will relinquish the office of rector of Catholic University, at the conclusion of the present school year in June, thereby ending 18 years of active governing of the university during the period of its greatest expansion. This was announced in a letter addressed to the clergy and laymen of the Baltimore diocese by Archbishop Curley in an appeal for contributions to the university in the collection to be made in all Catholic churches Sunday, November 27.

Although relinquishing the rectorship of the university, Bishop Shahan will remain actively engaged in its interest. He will be director of the building of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, with headquarters at the university, and will head a campaign to further public knowledge of the university. In the latter position he will be assisted by Rev. David T. Dwyer, pastor of St. Patrick's church, of Denver, Colo.

Bishop Shahan was born in Manchester, N. H., in 1857. Educated in Canada, Rome, Berlin and Paris, he was ordained to the priesthood in 1882, and was appointed instructor in church history at Catholic University in 1891. In 1909 he was appointed rector of the university for a term, under the old constitution of the university, for six years. He subsequently was reappointed for two more terms, so that his present period in office, ending in March, totals 18 years in that office.

Archbishop Curley paid glowing tribute to the "scholarly and lovable Bishop Shahan, who has given more than 40 years of his life to the sacred cause of Catholic education."

Founded in 1889 with a school of theology maintaining only four instructors, Catholic University has grown to include practically every branch of learning, taught by 110 teachers, of whom two-thirds are laymen. The present enrollment is 2,350 students. The major portion of this growth, university officials said this morning, occurred under the administration of Bishop Shahan, to whom, they said, was due chief credit for the expansion.

It is expected that Bishop Shahan's successor will be appointed by the beginning of the next school year.

Bishop Shahan is a cousin of Mrs. William H. Murphy, of Broadway, and the late Dr. D. J. Shahan, of Norwich.

CITY COURT DISPOSES OF AUTOMOBILE CASES

A number of automobile drivers were before the city court Monday morning on charges of failure to grant the right of way, violating city ordinances, driving while under the influence of liquor, etc. Alden F. Sorenson, 24, sailor, entered a plea of guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor. He was fined the usual $200 and costs. Unless he is able to pay his fine he will have to serve 30 days in jail. He was arrested in Taftville Saturday night after the machine he was driving had collided with two other machines on Norwich avenue.

He disappeared after the accident but later in the evening gave himself up at police headquarters.

NORWICH TOWN

FOUR CHURCHES UNITE FOR THANKSGIVING SERVICE

The Norwich Town Methodist and Congregational churches, are uniting with Bozrah Congregational and Fitchville Baptist churches, for a union Thanksgiving service, to be held Thursday morning at the Fitchville church. The pastors of the visiting churches, also the choirs have been invited to have part in the service, which opens at 10:30. The sermon will be by Rev. Albert E. Whitten, of Norwich Town Methodist church. The offering taken is to be divided between the Salvation Army and the Near East relief.

The children's three o'clock service at the Norwich Town M. E. church, Sunday afternoon, was led by Rev. George H. Strouse of the Bozrah church. He held the close attention of his listeners, while he interpreted to them "Strong Spiritual Truths," through facts already gained at home and at school, which formed the basis of an interesting address. Miss Virginia Ward played the piano during the service very efficiently.

In his sermon at Sunday morning worship at the Methodist church, Rev. Albert E. Whitten used for his text, John 4:32, But He said unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not of.

The Christian Endeavor service at the Methodist church Sunday evening, was in charge of Mrs. George Manning. The topic was "Blessings We Often Forget." Psalms 103:1-18. (Thanksgiving service). The C. E. society will hold a special meeting Friday evening in the church.

At the First Congregational church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey preached from John 3: 1st and 4th verses. There was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews, was the lines of the first verse.

At the Junior C. E. service Sunday afternoon at the Congregational church, the leaders were Ruth Avery and Olivia Saunders. The former was dressed as a Puritan maiden and read an account of The First Thanksgiving, while Miss Saunders, in Indian costume, recited an Indian poem. This was a Thanksgiving service.

The Young People's C. E. service Sunday evening at the Congregational chapel was in charge of the music committee, Miss Rose Durr, chairman. During the service which had for its topic, "Blessings We Often Forget," Rev. Charles E. Reeves gave a talk. Miss Ida Beebe was the leader. Miss Bernice Underwood gave a vocal solo accompanied by Miss Louise Sterry at the piano. Miss Rose Durr played for the hymns.

The Congregational mid-week service for conference and prayer is to be omitted this week, because of the Union Thanksgiving service in Fitchville that morning.

Rev. and Mrs. Gurdon F. Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Sterry from the Norwich Town Congregational church, were in attendance at the opening of the Federated church at Storrs, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Gladys H. Tasker accompanied by her father Frank Harrington, the latter's son Henry, and sons, William and Peter Harrington, of Hartford, were callers on Norwich Towdn friends Sunday afternoon.

Having passed a week touring Connecticut, New York and New Jersey, the objective being Atlantic City, Theodore Sterry accompanied by Thomas H. Bacheler and John Dawson, all of Norwich Town, returned Saturday evening. The first over-night stop was at Yonkers, N. Y. One night was spent at the home of friends of Mr. Bacheler, Mr. and Mrs. Prince, of Montclair, N. J. From this point the party proceeded to Atlantic City. Here they visited from Wednesday afternoon until Friday, with Warren Stapleton, formerly of Norwich. Leaving that morning, they motored to Belmar, and were dinner guests, also remained over that night at the home of Mrs. E. E. Lange, who Saturday morning joined the Norwich Town party on the homeward journey. Mrs. Lange, who came to visit Mrs. C. P. Lane, was a week end guest at the Bacheler home on East Town street, where Mrs. Lane resides. During the stay at Belmar, Mrs. Lange and her guests enjoyed a motor trip to Lakehurst, where they witnessed the Los Angeles in its hangar at the naval station.

Before returning to New Jersey, Mrs. Lange on Monday morning gave an interesting talk to the pupils in Miss Bessie M. Grant's room at Town street school.

It is pleasing news to the friends of Mrs. Charles F. Geer, that she was able to return Saturday to her home, 76 West Town street, following several weeks at Backus hospital, where she was taken after a serious fall in her home, which caused severe injury to her left knee. Mrs. Geer had with her Saturday and Sunday, her daughter, Mrs. Charles Hazelhurst and her brother-in-law, William Hazelhurst, of Waterbury. They came to Norwich for the purpose of assisting Mrs. Geer in her removal from the hospital, to her home.

A former Norwich Town young man, Chief Signalman Robert Wells Sterry, returned recently from Portsmouth, N. H., where for a number of weeks he was stationed on U. S. S. Camden. Previously for a lengthy period, he was in Philadelphia, on U. S. S. 50, which during the past summer was dismantled, Mr. Sterry at this time having been transferred to the Camden. The Camden, now stationed at the submarine base, is the flag ship of the control force. During January, with her crew, she will leave New London, for Panama, to remain in the south for an indefinite period. COOLIDGE RESENTS CHAIN LETTER CIRCULARZATION FOR HIS NOMINATION

Chief Executive Was Displeased by Movement Started By a Boston Broker—Positive Statement From the White House Said the President Disapproved the Circulations of Petitions and That He Hopes Their Circulation Would Be Discontinued—Roraback Will Give Letter No Encouragement in Connecticut.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—In unqualified terms President Coolidge let it be known today that the first specific attempt to force the republican convention to nominate him as its candidate next year had incurred his displeasure.

Breaking a silence of nearly four month, the White house disclosed the president's views in a sharp criticism of the movement started by a Boston broker to circularize the country by a chain letter system in an endeavor to build up such a dominant sentiment for Mr. Coolidge that his nomination by the republicans would amount to a nation-wide demand.

In a direct and positive manner, it was made known that the president disapproved the circulation of the petitions, that he failed to see how any good could come from the move and that he hoped their circulation would be discontinued.

Unlike the statement of August 2, which was neatly typed on small, plain white slips of paper and handed to the correspondents personally by the president, today's announcement was made verbally and without the authority of a direct quotation.

Made during a regular president conference with the Washington correspondents, today's declaration, under the rules, could not be published as a direct quotation nor presented as an offical White house declaration. The rules require that whatever is made known on behalf of the president at these conferences must be published on the news writer's own responsibility and while the bi-weekly meetings have come to be considered in at least a semi-official unqualified authority which obtains a written document.

After Mr. Coolidge's opposition to the circularization of the petitions had been disclosed, a request was made to permit publication of his views as a direct quotation from the president but it was ruled that the statement would have to be presented in the same way as other White house news.

RORABACK IS OPPOSED TO COOLIDGE CHAIN LETTER

HARTFORD, Nov. 22—(AP)—J. Henry Roraback, republican state chairman, in a statement this morning said he would give the plan for a "round robin" asking President Coolidge to run again no encouragement in this state. "Such a plan, in my estimation, is calculated to defeat its own ends," said Mr. Roraback. "I had heard of the plan previously, although I don't recall just now from what source, and at that time I told interested parties exactly what I am saying today. I have not approved of the proposition. I don't think it is good judgment and I believe it is like other plans that have been started for drafting the president—incapable of reaching the end desired. I don't think it has made any headway in Connecticut and I think it will die out here."

MAKING PROGRESS ON THE NEW REVENUE BILL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Disposing in rapid order of all maor issues entering into the question of tax reduction, the house ways and means committee today approved a program calling for a total cut in revenue rates of $235,820,000.

The program is expected to be whipped into bill form immediately so that reading of the measure may be started before the week-end for possible changes in its provisions.

While the committee, according to its own computations, kept well within the $250,000,000 maximum reduction set by itself, it exceeded by slightly more than $10,000,000 the figure proposed by the treasury. It also refused to adhere to any of the major recommendations submitted by the department.

Chairman Green explained that the committee in placing the total prospective cut at nearly $236,000,000 had used its own figures and that if certain estimates, submitted by under-Secretary Mills of the treasury, had been taken for a basis, the otal reduction would approximate $249,000,000.

JUNKERS PLANE IS BEING TOWED BACK TO THE AZORES

HORTA, Island of Fayal, Azores, Nov. 23.—(AP)—After what appeared to be a favorable start this evening on its long delyade trans-Atlantic flight from the Azores to Newfoundland, the Junkers plane D-1230 came back to port a few hours later. She was in tow, and while no exact details of her misadventure are yet available, it is supposed that her heavy weight did not permit of the continuance of the flight.

In addition to the crew, Lilli Dilenz, the Austrian actress, was aboard. She had flown in the plane from Norderney, Oct. 4, and was resolved to finish the overseas ourney from Germany to the United States, no matter how it ended.

NAVAL SEAPLANE HAS RADIUS OF ABOUT 3,000 MILES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Construction of a naval seaplane, to be known as the PN-11, and having a flying radius of approximately 3,000 miles has been completed at Philadelphia and test flights will begin within two weeks.

Captain Emory S. Land, assistant chief of the bureau of aeronautics, said today that the plane would be capable of making the flight to Hawaii without trouble, and that it was "hoped a radius of 3,500 miles might be reached."

Naval officials said there were no plans for a trans-Pacific flight, because it was not known what the plane could do. Secretary Wilbur amplified this by saying that the plane would be put in regular service and not used for a round-the-world flight.

FIVE EARTH SHOCKS WERE FELT AT SOUTHPORT, N. C.

SOUTHPORT, N. C., Nov. 22—(AP)—What were believed to have been five distinct earth shocks rattled windows and shook dishes in homes here tonight. No damage was reported.

The first shock was followed by another of greater nitensity a moment later, and caused pedestrians to rush into a motion picture house and warn patrons. The third shock was felt as the theatre was being vocated and brought residents hurrying from their homes into the street. Two more felt as groups gathered to discuss the shocks, caused momentary disorder.

MAN HAD BEEN DEAD IN BED FOR TWO WEEKS

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 22—(AP)—William Houlihan, 63, of 20 Ashley street, was found this afternoon in bed—he had been dead two weeks while his wife was away on a visit—gas was found flowing from an open jet when the body was discovered. Medical Examiner Le Baron Peters believes it was a case of suicide. The reason for failure to discover the body sooner was that the old couple occupied the house alone.

RUMANIA ALARMED BY SOVIET WAR VESSELS

BUCHAREST, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The reported sudden appearance on the Black sea of several Soviet war vessels pushed politics off the front page of Rumanian newspapers today and caused what appeared a real scare throughout the country.

For several days Soviet torpedo boats have been reported patroling the routes usually followed by Rumanian and foreign mail and passenger steamers, causing the Rumanian admiralty to arm all its larger vessels. The purpose of the Soviet vessels is stated to capture all vessels formerly belonging to the white Russian Wrangel fleet, but Rumanian vessels are taking no chances.

The secret police yesterday sent a wireless message to the captain of the steamship Rumania, on route from Constantinople to Constanza, warning him that two Russian torpedo boats were cruising mysteriously on the Black sea intending to capture former Wrangel vessels.

Although the Rumania does not come within this category, the captain ordered all lights extinguished immediately and started full speed toward Constanza. The passengers consequently had a thrilling midnight race at top speed across the Black sea in complete darkness and the steamer arrived four hours ahead of time. The passengers declared that the Rumania was pursued all the way across, but this could not be verified.

KING ALBERT APPROVES NEW BELGIAN CABINET

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 22—(AP)—King Albert tonight gave royal approval of the new cabinet which Henri Jaspar formed at the sovereign's request. The resignation of the previous Jarpar ministry which had been in office since May 1926 occurred yesterday. Royal decrees will be issued tomorrow

The new cabinet contains no socialists, the four socialist ministers having been replaced by liberals and Christian-democrats. Paul Hymans, former minister of justice, becomes minister of foreign affairs while M. Vautheir, former minister of the interior, becomes minister of science and arts.

The two new liberal ministers are Maurice Lippens, railways and posts, and Paul Emile Janson, justice. The two new Christian-democrats are Senator Carnoy, local affairs, and Henry Heyman, public works.

The previous Jaspar cabinet signed after it was found impossible for the members to agree on the period of military service.

NEGRO NOT IDENTIFIED BY MRS. LILLIENDAHL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 22—(AP)—Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle denied tonight that Mrs. Margaret Thompson Lilliendahl widow of the slain Vineland physician, for whose murder she will go on trial Monday had "identified" one of the Negro suspects apprehended in Jenkintown, Pa.

"There has been no identification," he said. "Mrs. Lilliendahl will be tried on Monday."

The two Negroes were brought from Mays Landing to the city jail here tonight by county detectives. They gave their names as Robert Higgins, 33, Malden, Mass., and Alfonso Anderson, 24, 1341 Kenworth street, Philadelphia.

MILK DRIVER MISSING WITH $1,000 COLLECTIONS

BRISTOL, Nov. 22—(AP)—Loss of about $1,000 in bills representing collections of drivers yesterday being missed by Edwin H. Elton, milk dealer, today he told the police of the fact and also that Percy W. Worsley, a driver, did not show up for his duties as usual.

The police found that Worsley, who was paid his week's wages yesterday had disappeared in his automobile leaving his wife and two children penniless. They also had evidence, they said, that Worsley's last night went to the milk station where the money had been left by the drivers taking the bills and leaving checks and change. Mr. and Mrs. Elton had gone out to a whist party at the time.

Shot In Attempt To Break From The State Prison, Wethersfield

HARTFORD, Nov. 22—(AP)—Big James Napoleon Bonaparte O'Mahony, life convict and slayer of his sweetheart, made a bold attempt to escape from the state prison at Wethersfield early this evening. After a dash for freedom through the broken bars of his cell window and a desperate hand-to-hand encounter with two prison guards in the prison yard, he was wounded in the left side by a pistol shot and overpowered.

At 6.30 p. m., he was discovered by Michael Brady, a prison guard, moving about the big prison yard within a short distance of the twenty foot concrete wall that was all that stood between him and liberty. With an iron gate to protect him from attack by O'Mahoney, Brady summoned Night Captain Daniel M. Farrington by telephone.

Farrington, in turn, called to Assistant Deputy Warden Leon Barr, who was doing duty on the outside, to accompany him to the big prison yard where the prisoner lurked in the half shadows. When they arrived, at the gate that separated O'Mahoney from Brady, O'Mahoney was at the gate waiting for battle. The officers opened the gate to seize the prisoner.

Instantly O'Mahoney, a six footer weighing 200 pounds, endowed with the strength of an insane man, leaped on his would-be captors. Unarmed, he tore into the two officers with his fists and his feet and his giant strength. He beat them, he wrestled with them, he struggled. Warden H. K. W. Scott, with only an incomplete report before him, described the fight as terrible. "They had a terrible fight," he said. "A terrible fight."

In the melee the drawn pistols of the two guards, Farrington and Barr, spoke. One of them sent a bullet through the left side of O'Mahoney, just below his lower left ribs. Still he fought, but the bullet had weakened him and the man who was regarded as the most insanely desperate prisoner the institution ever held, was made a kicking, struggling prisoner.

The wound is not regarded as serious. The prison physician, Dr. P. B. Battey, described it as a superficial wound, with the bullet still imbedded in the flesh of O'Mahoney, but not piercing the wall of the inner cavity. He is expected to recover.

A MARRIAGE DEVOID OF FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

GARARD, Kas. Nov. 22—(AP)—A matrimonial experiment accepted as purely a companionate one entailing no financial responsibilities of home-making was entered upon here today by Miss Josephine Haldeman-Julius, 18, and Aubrey C. Roselle, 20.

Dr. L. M. Birkhead, pastor of All Souls Unitarian church, Kansas City, united the young couple at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Haldeman-Julius, Garard publishers and authors, who are advocates of companionate marriage.

The ceremony was conventional in every respect, but Roselle and his bride agreed, with the support of their parents, that each would be free to carve out a career without immediately taking on the responsibility of establishing a home.

Next Monday the bride will return to her classes at the Garard high school. Walter Wallace, superintendent of schools, said he approved the marriage and saw no reason why Mrs. Roselle should not complete her studies.

Roselle is employed in his father-in-law's publishing house and intends to re-enter the University of Kansas as a student the next semester.

He explained it was necessary for him to work his way through school and he would be unable to provide a home for two until he had completed a law course and established himself in his profession. The bride plans to take up a dancing career.

Both said a companionate marriage would permit them to enjoy each other's companionship without sacrificing their education as many schoolmates had done.

"So many girls, especially those in school, have affairs and they would be better off and more capable of putting their minds on their work if they were married," said the bride.

Mrs. Haldeman-Julius expressed the belief that the marriage would finally terminate in a true "family marriage."

Lose in Their Appeal From Death Sentence

Date of Execution of Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray May Be Set Today.

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 22—(AP)—Ruth Snyder, the blonde New York housewife and mother who denied her guilt to the last, and Henry Judd Gray, her mild-mannered paramour, who told freely how they both strangled and beat Ruth's half-sleeping husband to death, today lost their joint appeal from death sentence.

Both are in the death house at Sing Sing. The date of execution is expected to be set by the court of appeals here tomorrow.

If Mrs. Snyder dies, the department of corrections records here show she will be the third woman executed in New York state, the others being Martha Place of Brooklyn in 1899, and May Farmer of Jefferson county in 1909.

Mrs. Snyder's confession before trial, which she repudiated as forced from her while nervous and overwrought, weighed against her in the court of appeals decision today, which affirmed the death penalty.

The court did not consider the evidence except as to whether it concerned the point of the appeal, which was that trial was unfair because the defendants were tried jointly instead of separately. The decision found that the trial had been scrupulously fair, and that Ruth's own early confession removed the possibility of substantial injury to her from presentation to the trial jury of Judd's confession.

At the trial Ruth was often defiant and blazing and always keen. She put the whole blame on Gray. Judd followed her on the stand, confessing completely, seemingly to ease his conscience, and made no appeal for mercy.

The evidence indicated that in their relations she was often the dominant personality. Her most description phrase of her paramour was brought out from her correspondence as: "Darned lovable little cuss."

The story brought out by the trial was that Albert Snyder, Yachting Magazine editor, and Ruth went to a Saturday night party in Queens Village, their Greater New York home on March 19 last. Judd Gray waited concealed in the Snyder home. After Snyder's return and retirement to sleep Ruth and Judd had some drinks. Ruth maintained that Judd than beat her husband with a window sash and strangled him with wire. Gray said that Snyder seemed to be getting the better of their struggle and that Ruth helped him kill her husband.

Gray asserted that Ruth had been urging him for a long time to kill Snyder, and told how he plotted the killing, even buying the window sash weight in another city while travelling about New York state selling corsets, his regular occupation. He expressed his sorrow at the trouble he brought on his own wife and daughter. Evidence was presented that Mrs. Snyder had increased her husband's life insurance to about $100,000 shortly before his death. Whether her daughter, Lorraine, would get the insurance has been one of the aftermaths of the trial.

The decision of the court was unanimous, except that Associate Judge Henry T. Kellogg was not sitting. Judge Irving Lehman wrote the opinion.

EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY THE ONLY HOPE FOR RUTH SNYDER

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 22—(AP)—Executive clemency on the part of Gov. Smith is the only hope for life now remaining to Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray.

Whatever may be the governor's intentions with respect to the two defendants whose conviction of murder in the first degree was sustained by the court of appeals today, no one will know until he makes his decision after the customary clemency hearing, which probably will be held in the executive chamber a few days before the date set for execution.

It has been Gov. Smith's policy to be guided by the court of appeals decisions, especially when these have ben unanimous.

SLAYER OF NINE PERSONS ELECTROCUTED

RAIFORD, Fla., Nov. 22—(AP)—Ben Levins whose arrest on the charge of slaying nine persons during a series of hammer murders at Tampa led to a storming of the county jail there in which five members of the mob were killed, died in the electric chair here today.

Levins was executed for the murder of Lonnie Merrell, a carpenter, but he also was charged with slaying four other members of the Merrell family, Bee Rowell, his mother, niece and a roomer, Charles Alexander.

At various times Levins confessed to all the murders but he died today protesting his innocence.

Last minute attempts to save Levins from the chair brought a stay of four hours when Gov. John W. Martin, advised by the condemned man's attorneys that a Tampa court had taken jurisdiction, halted the execution five minutes before it was to have taken place this morning.

The trial judge however refused a writ of supercedaes, and the governor instructed the warden of the state prison to proceed with the execution.

Pressing Appeal For Protection of Miners

Leader Lewis Was in Conference With Secretary of Labor Davis.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Efforts on the part of labor chiefs to get the federal government to take a hand in the Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio coal mining suspension continued today although the white house represented President Coolidge as being convinced that the bituminous industry is undergoing inevitable readjustment.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, was in conference with Secretary of Labor Davis, a good part of the day, pressing further the proposals that William A. Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, advanced yesterday to President Coolidge. These would entail the calling of a conference in Washington between Pennsylvania bituminous operators and miners' union spokesmen, and the institution of a congressional investigation into the mining tie-up in northern territory.

President Coolidge's view after his talk with the union men was said to be that he saw no direct answer to the problem of restoring peace and production. He hoped that the labor department might be of some assistance, and would look for its suggestion and cooperation. The president has been told that some of the northern operators, if they acceded to the demands of the miners, would be able to buy coal more cheaply than they could produce it, and he considers that if such cost conditions prevail, there will be nothing possible for all concerned but to await the normal economic termination.

NEGRO WOMAN HELD FOR MURDER OF BUSINESS MAN

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 22—(AP)—The murder of Fred Daley, young business man, was laid today to Leona Rogers, a Negro woman. Police who arrested her on a warrant charging murder said that when they entered her home in Dublin near here she poured kerosene on her clothes and tried to set them afire and later tried to bleed herself to death by pricking her arms.

Daley was shot to death in his automobile late Monday night in front of his boarding place here and the 30 year old Negress was traced by prints of high heeled shoes. Gloves found under the car were said to be hers.

The woman told various accounts, police said, but in her cell here she stoutly denied that she had seen Daley for ten days before the shooting. She declared he was the father of her five year old son.

To Negro men who were said to have been seen with the Negress the night of the killing were held today as material witnesses. One was said to have lent her a .32 calibre pistol and at the coroner's inquest which was not completed today it was testified that the young bachelor had been slain with such a weapon.

SLASHED THE THROAT OF 18 YEAR OLD BRIDE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 22—(AP)—An elopement followed by four months of marital discord had a tragic climax here tonight when James Higgins, 25, slashed the throat of his 18 year old bride on a lonely road near the edge of the city while another girl looked on.

The wife, Mrs. Belle Higgins, was in a critical condition in a hospital from deep cuts, and loss of blood. Posses of police and officials were searching for Higgins who hurried away from the scene on foot.

Miss Doris Birdseye, 18 year old friend of the injured woman, told police that Higgins had asked the two to ride home and they finally accepted in order to avoid a scene.

Monday Higgins and his wife separated. She went to live with a brother's family. Members of the girls family said that Higgins had been insanely jealous ever since he was married.

NEW YORK COP GUILTY FIRST DEGREE MURDER

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(Wednesday)—(AP)—Patrolman "Handsome Dan" Graham early today was found guilty of first degree murder for the slaying of Judson H. Pratt, construction company paymaster he had been assigned to guard.

After retiring at 2:30 this afternoon the jury remained out until dinner time and upon its return consumed more than two hours listening to a re-reading of testimony. They heard the evidence of the two boys, Charles Alfano, 10, and Jackie Nevins, 9, who said they saw Graham in an automobile with Pratt, and that of Patrolman Roy Freyer and Carlo Amanno, a trolley car conductor, before again retiring.

TRANS-ATLANTIC AND TRANS-PACIFIC FLIERS WERE BOTH FORCED BACK

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Capt. Frederick A. Giles, British war ace, who set out today from San Francisco in a trans-Pacific flight to Australia, informed the Examiner by phone tonight that he had been forced back after traveling 500 miles to sea and had landed near the William Randolph Hearst ranch at San Simeon, Calif.

Utterly beyond control, his little trans-Pacific biplane went completely "haywire" 500 miles out at sea—went spinning into a rain drenched "air pocket" and finally turned completely upside down, scattering his charts, his foods and his instruments into the ocean below, Giles said.

And then, in a magnificent exhibition of airmanship Captain Giles turned his damaged plane right side up again, making a wild guess as to direction and sent her roaring back to the mainland to make a perfect and safe landing a mile south of the Hearst ranch at San Simeon 50 miles from San Luis Obispo.

A RESOLUTION PREPARED THAT WOULD OUTLAW WAR

Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, is to Submit Such a Measure to the Next Congress—Would Request President Coolidge to Enter Negotiations With France and "Like-Minded Nations" For Treaties Outlawing War—Proposes That the Governments Are "Not to Give Aid and Confort" to Aggressor Nations in Warfare

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—A resolution which would request President Coolidge to enter negotiations with France and "like-minded nations" for treaties outlawing war has been prepared by Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, for submission to the next congress.

Senator Capper, who is a member of the senate foreign relations committee, proposes also that the treaties should provide that the governments were "not to give aid and comfort" to aggressor nations in warfare.

In the preamble of his resolution, the text of which was made public today, Senator Capper recalls the willingness expressed last April by Foreign Minister Briand of France to negotiate a treaty with the United States to outlaw war and calls attention that the present arbitration treaty between France and the United States expires next February.

The main body of his proposal, which would require approval by both the house and senate and go to the president for his signature, reads:

"Now, therefore, be it

"Resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, that it be declared to be the policy of the United States:

"1—By treaty with France and other like-minded nations formally to renounce war as an instrument of public policy and to adjust and settle its international disputes by mediation, arbitration and conciliation; and

"2—By formal declaration to accept the definition of aggressor nation, as one which, having agreed to submit international differences to conciliation, arbitration or judicial settlement, begins hostilities without having done so."

"3—By treaty with France and other like-minded nations to declare that the nationals of the contracting governments should not be protected by their governments in giving aid and comfort to an aggressor nation; and

"Be it further resolved, that the president be requested to enter into negotiations with France and other like-minded nations for the purpose of concluding treaties with such nations, in furtherance of the declared policy of the United States."

Recalling the expressions of both the United States government and France in favor of arbitration as a means of settling disputes, the Kansas senator declared in a statement that "it is time the United States, as the world's most powerful, secure and pacific nation should follow words with acts."

"Nothing further is to be gained," he said, "by repeating pious platitudes, by uttering high sounding moral generalities, or by professing to be devoted to international peace and opposed to war. We are under the necessity of doing something conservative to give expression to what is obviously overwhelming public sentiment in the United States relative to the discontinuance of war and preparations for war."

Senator Capper pointed out that the present arbitration treaties with Great Britain and Japan as well as that with France expire next February.

An aggressor nation is defined by the resolution as one "which having agreed to submit international differences to conciliation, arbitration or judicial settlement, begins hostilities without having done so."

OIL CASE PRINCIPALS CHARGED WITH CONTEMPT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and five other principals in the oil trial jury scandal ran afoul of the law anew today with the filing of criminal contempt proceedings against them in the District of Columbia supreme court.

A rule was issued requiring them to appear before Associate Justice Frederick L. Sidons on December 5 to show cause why they should not be punished for their part in the surveillance of the Fal-Sinclair Teapot Dome jury, which has been under investigation by a grand jury for three weeks.

In praying for the order, District Attorney Peyton Gordon charged on behalf of the United States of America that the purpose of bringing the Burns detectives to Washington was "to spy upon, to bribe, intimidate and influence" the trial jurors, and "to do anything calculated" to "impede, pervert and prevent the due administration of justice" either by corruptly influencing the jurors or by "concocting false charges" against one or more of them with a view to bringing about a mistrial.

Besides the wealthy oil operator and the internationally known detective, those named in the petition are Henry Mason Day, of New York city and Sheldon Clark, of Chicago, close associates of Sinclair; W. Sherman Burns, directing head of the Burns Detective agency, and Charles L. Veitsch, manager of the Baltimore bureau of the Burns organization.

CHICAGO GANGSTER WAS KILLED BY POLICE BULLET

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(AP)—The police scored first today in the grim war to the death between rival gangsters for control of gambling and bootlegging privileges.

One gangster was dead from a police bullet, 13 others alleged by police to be implicated in plots to kill their rivals faced charges ranging from disorderly conduct to conspiracy to commit murder, and police squads with machine guns in armored automobiles searched for new gangsters to conquer.

Even "Scarface" Al Capone, one of the few gang leaders to escape death in the gang war of extermination two years ago, and the object of an assassination attempt, could not escape the authorities.

Immaculately groomed, even to spats and a cane, the youthful Capone surrounded by surly, grim-faced bodyguards appeared in police court today to answer to a charge of disorderly conduct which was dismissed. Then, still surrounded by his lieutenants, he was whisked away to his hotel which virtually has been transformed into an armed fortress.

Shortly after Capone's trip to court, one of his enemies, Joseph Ajello, was released on bond and started for his home trembling for his life after being refused a police escort.

URGES ESTABLISHMENT OF MORE HYGIENE CLINICS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22—(AP)—Pointing out that the percentage of persons entering state hospitals and institutions for the feeble-minded, is greater than of those discharged from such institutions, Dr. Lloyd J. Thompson, clinical director of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene in the last of a series of talks for teachers at the New Haven Normal school, urged that more hygiene clinics be established in the state.

Dr. Thompson pointed out that there are 36 towns in the state with a population of from 5,000 to 25,000 and 60 villages with a population of under 5,000 and that of these, only nine towns and two villages have reasonable access to a mental hygiene clinic.

QUIET PREVAILS IN THE COLORADO COAL FIELDS

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 22—(AP)—The Colorado coal fields, torn by an I. W. W. strike for more than five weeks, were quiet today as national guard troops took charge of the northern Colorado territory where five strikers were shot and killed and a score wounded by state police yesterday.

Carrying out plans formed at a mass meeting last night, the strikers staged no demonstrations in northern Colorado today.

A number of the strikers wounded in yesterday's clash still were in a serious condition today but no new deaths were reported.

Columbine mine, in Weld county, where the shooting occurred yesterday, has been made headquarters for the national guard troops, but three companies have been sent to other mines in the northern field.

J. C. Nesbit, one of the strike committee in the northern field, told the Associated Press today that "there absolutely would be no violence." He added that the miners were going to stay away from work until they were granted the Jacksonville wage scale and that they were going to win the strike by peaceful means.

TO CONDUCT TWO WEEKS' ANTI-CANCER CRUSADE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Newspapers of the country are to play a leading role in a two weeks' anti-cancer crusade that started here tonight with a mass meeting at the New York Academy of Medicine. Among the speakers was Dr. Kimball Emerson of Worcester, Mass.

The campaign is to be waged largely through the medium of authoritative bulletins dealing with various aspects of the disease distributed to the press by the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

"The points emphasized in these bulletins," said Dr. George A. Soper, managing director of the society, "are that delays are fatal in cancer; that many cases can be cured if the disease can be discovered in time and put in the hands of a skillful physician; that facilities exist, in the way of hospital and clinics, for accurate diagnosis and sound treatment and that a great many wrong ideas about cancer should be given up, namely that cancer is contagious, that it implies a family taint, and that home remedies are useful.

MAN WHO KILLED DOCTOR GRANTED A NEW TRIAL

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 22—(AP)—Francesco Caruso, who killed a physician after he had tried unsuccessfully to save the life of Caruso's child, was granted a new trial today by the court of appeals.

The court held there was insufficient evidence to premeditation in the trial which ended in Caruso's sentence to death.

Caruso was an illiterate Italian resident of Brooklyn, when his six year old son, Giovanni was ill with diphtheria. Caruso, after treating the little one with remedies from a drug store, called Dr. Casper Pendola. The physician administered anti-toxin, and a few hours later the child died. Mad with grief, Caruso accused the physician of causing the child's death, and, according to his own statement, he stabbed the doctor to death.

DOMESTIC LOSES DAMAGE SUI TAGAINST HER EMPLOYER

GREENWICH, Nov. 22—(AP)—Otto Doll, piano manufacturer, and defendant in a suit for damages brought against him by Sarah Egan, a domestic at his Greenwich home, was given the decision in the case by a jury here this afternoon. Miss Egan had asked $1,900 for an alleged assault by Dol.

Doll, his wife, and two daughters took the stand this afternoon to deny that Miss Egan had been dragged out of bed and beat with a stick following a party at the Doll home on April 12, as she had testified.

The suit marked the first time since the organization of the borough court in 1887 that a jury of 12 men had sat in a case.

SADLON GIVEN TEN MONTHS IN JAIL FOR ARSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 22.—At a criminal session of the Windham county superior court held here today, John Sadlon, of New York city, resumed a previous agreement to court officials that he would plead guilty to a charge of attempt at arson with intent to defraud an insurance company and Judge Marvin sentenced the man to ten months in the county jail and ordered him to pay the costs of the court which are expected to amount to about $300. Some time ago Sadlon agreed to plead guilty to the charge if the court allowed him time to spend some time in New York to arrange his business matters. When he returned before the court, he announced that he had changed his mind and the case was put over for trial by jury. Before court opened today his attorney stated that Sadlon had reconsidered again and would plead guilty. No evidence was introduced. State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford said that the court had been to considerable trouble because of Sadlon's mental fluctuations and he would recommend that the man pay the costs. The criminal session followed a civil session and at the close of the Sadlon case court was adjourned until Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

The civil side of the Windham county superior court opened here this forenoon with Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin on the bench. Judge Marvin announced that session of court would be omitted Wednesday and Thursday but that a short calendar would be held Friday of this week. A few of the cases on the short calendar today were claimed and one was heard. It was the case of Antonio Gerosa vs. Stanley Kurcuskas, et al, in which Gerosa sought for default, judgment, foreclosure and hearing on limitation of time. The principals in the case are residents of Plainfield, and the suit is to recover on a mortgage of a house. Terms made two years ago were for $200 a year and the plaintiff alleged that not a cent had been paid on either the principal or interest. The property is said to be worth $1,700 but inasmuch as it had not been occupied for some time it was now worth about $1,400. Deputy Sheriff Frank Tillinghast, who served the papers in the foreclosure suit, stated that the property was not worth over $1,200. Judge Marvin found in favor of Gerosa to recover $254 and set the date of limitation for the restoration of the mortgage by the defendant as the first Tuesday in January, 1928.

The case of Howard R. Bullard vs. Clara Bullard, an argument for more specific statement and allowance of alimony pendente lite to the defendant, was allowed to stand. The case of Clara G. Bullard vs. Howard R. Bullard for judgment, brought by the plaintiff to recover a sum of money that the defendant, her husband, was alleged to have used unlawfully, was claimed by Mrs. Bullard's attorney. Judge Marvin assigned the case to Tuesday, November 29.

NOANK

William Terris, a local carpenter, was locking up a cottage at Groton Long Point when he was attacked by a large salt water rat. It made a crying noise that scared William for a few minutes. The rat was ready to spring as the man turned his back; but Mr. Terris with a hammer in his hand landed on the rat's head and sent him to the happy hunting grounds. He claimed the rat was about 13 inches long and weighed around 10 pounds. It was the first time in his life that he was afraid of any animal, but the rat had his number. The jinx seems to be on that cottage for every time he does any carpenter work there he kills or catches something. One day this summer he caught a 6-foot black snake that was on its way to the garage, also ran into a rabbit nest with little rabbits hidden under the cottage. He did not take them, but put them away from the children.

A birthday party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Livingston for their daughter Frances, Monday. Her schoolmates came and helped her celebrate. The room was decorated with thanksgiving turkey crepe paper, also pumpkins hanging from the vine. Games were played and a prize went to the one who had the best history story about General Grant. Miss Marion Livingston read from a paper about him and the judges gave her first prize, a nice umbrella.

On the supper table was a large birthday cake with 15 candles on it. With one blow Stretch Moran had them all out. Miss Virginia Burns sang several songs as the piano was played by Miss Julien Cross. Dancing followed to music by Rose Brothers' orchestra. She received many gifts also post cards.

Miss Delia McQuire, of Cork, Ireland, is making her first visit across the ocean, coming on the steamer General Grant. She landed in New York and was some surprised to see the tall buildings and to see the houses so close together. Taking the train to New London, she came over to Noank to visit Mrs. Elmer Baker, her cousin, for two weeks and to talk about Ireland and the happy days there. She thinks Noank is the only place to live, with all the trees and the beautiful water. Miss McQuire is 22 and is some happy to see the United States. She will tell the Bon Bon club in Cork, of which she is vice president all about her trip to America, when she goes home.

Boss Worker Lid Grant has started to put on the planks before the snow flies. One side is about half done. About 50 visitors from out of town came and inspected the model of the boat claiming it is the best looking boat they have seen at the village ship-yard in 25 years. DANIELSON

THIRTEEN AUTOISTS FINED $1 IN DANIELSON COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 22—This morning thirteen owners or operators of motor vehicles were before Acting Judge E. L. Darbie in the town court and paid fines of $1.00 and actual costs, a total of $3.27 in each instance, for violations of the motor vehicle laws pertaining to having proper lights on machines a half hour after sunset.

State officers from the Danielson barracks on duty in various part of the town last evening from 7 to 11 o'clock ordered those who paid this morning to appear in court. The activities of the officers was part of a statewide campaign to eliminate the practice of driving cars at night that are not properly equipped as to lights.

In court this morning various of the accused made explanations along the lines that the lights on their cars were working a short time before they were stopped by the officers and others held that the lights were in working order this morning. However, the pleas were invariably guilty and the fines identical.

The prosecutions this morning were the first to follow warnings that have been given for weeks past and the practice of having drivers with poor lights fill out cards and return them to the state police department after defective lights had been remedied.

The warning and tag system has not accomplished all that was expected of it, so court appearances are now in order, and this applies to all the state of Connecticut. There is full realization that some whose lights are usually good may have the misfortune to have them go bad while officers are checking, but in the interest of better enforcement of the lighting law prosecutions appear to be the only effective means of forcing car owners who habitually neglect their lights to put them in proper order.

Any night of late any observer might see in the course of half an hour as many as a dozen machines running about with one head light, or without a lighted taillight. In most instances this is due to negligence. It isn't going to be safe to drive cars so lighted hereafter if one hopes to avoid a court appearance. This morning's cases are fair warning of what the new program is to be.

TOWN HALL IS LEASED FOR BASKETBALL GAMES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 22—On a competitive bidding basis, in which there appeared to be no great amount of interest the town hall was leased this afternoon for one year to Henry A. Johnson. Bids for the lease could be filed up to 2 p. m.

It was later stated that the leasing of the hall to Mr. Johnson assures basketball there this winter by a Danielson team of fast and experienced players. C. Clinton Cleveland said that the season will open on December 1, and that games will be played regularly until early spring. Bleachers are to be installed during the coming week and the players will begin practice in the immediate future.

Last evening Killingly grange elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Master, Walter G. Bruce; overseer, Frank J. G. Bailey; lecturer, Mrs. Harriet L. Wood; steward, Howard O. Wood; assistant steward, Stanley Barstow; chaplain, Mrs. Edith Jordan; treasurer, Rev. Charles A. Downs; secretary, Mrs. Walter G. Bruce; gatekeeper, Kenneth Preston; Ceres, Florence Converse; Pomona, Vivian Converse; lady assistant steward, Helen Grover; member of executive committee, Ray W. Pellett.

OVER 1,000 ENROLL IN DANIELSON RED CROSS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 22—A total of $1,181.50 received up to this afternoon and upwards of 1,000 members enrolled is the exceedingly gratifying result of the annual Red Cross roll call completed in Killingly Monday evening after more than a week of effort. As a few more donations are expected to come in, there appeared the possibility today that the final total of money receipts will be at least $1,200, which represents the most successful roll call effort in this town in a number of years.

Included in the receipts is $25 forwarded to Danielson, unsolicited, by Mrs. Marinda C. Butler Robinson, now at Glendale, Cal., and for years a resident of Danielson and still generously interested in good works undertaken here.

Chairman W. E. Parker of the Danielson chapter today expressed his gratification over the success of the roll call both to the workers and the contributors.

Two upright pianos in excellent condition for sale at attractive prices. Edward Bacon.—Adv.

While no definite date has been set, it was indicated today that Christmas club checks will begin to go out to club members in Danielson banks very soon after the first of December. The bankers are reticent as to the exact dates for release, preferring to have the checks come as a surprise. With early December releases, club members will have ample opportunity to do their holiday shopping, with cash in hand, before the rush of the last few days before Christmas is on and before many choice things in the original stocks have been selected by buyers. It is believed that the Christmas club releases here this year will be well in excess of $100,000.

In Killingly and in Brooklyn Wednesday schools will hold what has been termed a double session, that is, a continuous session running from the beginning of the morning session until 1 p. m. This arrangement has been made that teachers living at a distance from their teaching posts here will be able to get away reasonably early for their homes and a happy Thanksgiving. The holiday recess will extend over the week end, schools in both towns reopening Monday next.

Wanted—Quiet girl, desirous of good home rather than high wages, to companion young child and do light housework. Mrs. Ralph Brundage, 44 Academy St., Danielson.—Adv.

There is about as abundant a water supply in the reservoirs up at East Killingly as Danielson has approached a winter season with in years, and it is good news to all who think about such things.

Thanksgiving turkey dinner served from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. Puritan restaurant, Danielson.—adv.

Dead goshawks are going to be worth money the coming winter, Deputy Game Warden Gurdon E. Withey announced this afternoon that the state again will pay a bounty of $3.00 each on these marauders—killers of partridges and other protected game birds that the state is spending so much time and money on in an effort to again make them plentiful in the forests and fields of Connecticut. The bounty on goshawks, it is understood, will be in force until the first of next April.

Again tonight state officers from the Danielson barracks were on duty here and in surrounding towns checking up drivers of cars with defective headlights or with lights that were out of commission. Early this evening there was promise of another grist of cases for the town court Wednesday morning. The campaign against bad lights already is having its effect with some drivers who have been paying little attention to warnings and tagging, and they were hunting up garage men men today to make the lights right. No excuses about "loose connections" or such can be accepted by the court. In there it is a case of plead guilty or not guilty on the poor lights campaign.

A sunrise prayer meeting is to be held at the Nazarene church Thanksgiving morning. This is to be a union service for the evangelical churches of Danielson. There is to be prayer, testimonies and talks by the pastors.

Mrs. Harry Ware is confined to her home on East Franklin street by illness.

Reports today indicated that the native turkey supply in this region available for Thanksgiving feasts had been sold. This has been a difficult year for turkey raising, the losses being particularly heavy on account of the wet, cold weather during August.

This evening a Thanksgiving Poverty social was held at the church under the auspices of the Men's club of the Methodist Episcopal church. Numbers by a male quartet, toasts by members of the club and games were features of a pleasant evening. Refreshments were served.

This morning a meeting of the New London Archdeaconry Clerical association was held in Brooklyn, with a number of communities represented. Rev. Richard D. Hatch was the speaker.

Arrangements were underway today to provide Thanksgiving dinners to inmates of county institutions and in others under directions of towns in this part of the state.

At 50 per cent. less than former prices, we are doing upholstery, furniture repairing and refinishing at Henry Burton's shop near telephone office; work done very promptly.—Adv.

At Brooklyn Mrs. Sidney W. Bard had charge of assembling the contributions from that section to the Thanksgiving thank offering for the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam.

Hunters will remember that Wednesday of this week is the last day on which protected game birds may be legally hunted this fall. The closed season begins Thanksgiving day.

On Wednesday extra service will be provided on the motor coach lines operating through Danielson on the Hartford-Providence route. The Connecticut company, on its local line, will furnish additional service as traffic requires.

Mrs. J. W. Atwood of Wauregan is to be in Boston during the winter season.

Miss Alice Robillard of Woonsocket is here to spend the holiday with relatives.

NEW R. C. NURSING SERVICE QUARTERS WELL EQUIPPED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 22.—The new quarters of the Putnam Red Cross nursing service are in a mill tenement, the first floor, in what was formerly known as Bailou's Village, just north of Providence street and is in the heart of Putnam's textile center. There are four rooms including a kitchen. Miss Wells' office, a small bad room, and a waiting and reception room. The furniture is not elaborate but is attractive and the rooms are light and airy. White curtains are at the windows and a neat sign on the outside tells the public the location of the Putnam Red Cross Nursing service.

The nurse feels that the new location has many advantages over the old rooms and that it will advance the work the service is doing. Already women in the vicinity are dropping in to consult with Miss Wells. It is hoped soon to begin to hold meetings for the mothers where a general discussion of health problems may be reviewed, and that home health hygiene will be one of the groups of discussions. While the nursing service is patronized mostly by those who can not afford to pay for the services of a trained nurse, the people are asked to remember that Miss Wells is at the call of everyone. There are many cases where the services of a nurse is wanted once a week or even less often and in such cases the Red Cross district nurse may be called and while there is a regular fee for this service, yet none are turned away because they are unable to pay the charges.

On Thanksgiving day there will be union services at the Methodist Episcopal church from 9:30 to 10:30 in the morning. Rev. Henry E. Hodge, of the First Baptist church, will be the speaker. The Congregational Methodist and Baptist churches will join in this service.

The Thanksgiving day services at St. Phillip's Episcopal church will be held at 10 o'clock in the morning.

The funeral services of Mrs. Philomene Favreau were held yesterday morning from St. Anne's church at Fiskdale, Mass., with a high requiem mass which was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Joseph A. Jacques. Burial was at Dayville, Conn. Mrs. Jacques, who was 86 years of age, died at the home of her son, Napoleon Favreau at Snellville, Mass., where she has made her home for the past year. She was born in Montreal, Canada, and came to the United States more than fifty years ago and lived in Putnam for many years. She is survived by seven sons, fifteen grandchildren and six great grandchildren. There are also two sisters living in Canada.

The first of the series will be played at the K. of C. hall on Union street December 1, and the following week at Odd Fellows hall on Pomfret street and alternates until the end of the contest. The meeting had been adjourned to this date when it was hoped that the special committee of investigation into the needs of the Westerly fire district following the disastrous fire of April 30th would make a report. Chairman of the Committee Clifford W. Campbell, in view of these conditions, asked that adjournment be again taken. It was voted to adjourn to Tuesday, December 6 at 8 p. m. There was an attendance of 12 at tonight's meeting.

In the third day of the November term of the superior court for Washington County today (Wednesday) at West Kingston with Judge Charles A. Walsh on the bench, petit jurors are under summons to report for duty. Monday, the first day of the court session the grand jury failed to return a true bill against Edmund Scanlon of Providence, in a case of alleged manslaughter brought by Chief of Police Frank H. Brown of Ashaway. The charge grew out of the automobile accident near the meeting house bridge on the Noose Neck hill road when Harry Vernon Cross, 12, riding a bicycle was struck by an unknown hit and run driver. As the result of injuries sustained the Cross boy died the same night, Oct. 28th, at the Westerly hospital, from a fracture of the skull.

Other cases were disposed of as follows: A two weeks' term in Providence county jail was given Herbert W. Rathbun, 23, and Kenneth E. M. Gardiner, 16 on a deferred sentence when they pleaded guilty to an indictment charging them with breaking and entering and larceny in the unoccupied home of Marsden J. Perry, Jr., at North Kingstown on the night of Oct. 24. Louis P. Jackvony of the Attorney general's department recommended leniency because of the youth of the offenders. Judge Walsh, in deferring sentence, said he would send the boys to the Providence county jail for two weeks "that they might see what jail was," and told them they would be given a two-year term if apprehended again.

No indictments were returned by the grand jury on the cases of Andrew D. Orlo, Victor Pucella and Kenneth Cook on charges of breaking and entering the barber shop of Michele Possillo, on Fisk Flat, South Kingston, June 27. No indictment was returned in the case brought against Hugh Lannon for impersonating a police officer.

The Secret of Keeping a Perspiring Body Sweet

Do you know why thousands of people who never have to take a laxative, do eat a candy cascaret now and then?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immaculacy of person that means everything. It pervents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cascarize the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction! To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that lasts for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July! Men and women whose years have brought on sluggishness often find that a cascaret only once a week is all the tonic they needed.

Cascara is splendid for children, too, and they love the taste of this candy laxative which every drugstore has for 10c and 25c.

"ONE DANCE used to undo all my precautions for personal daintiness. All waste in my system seemed to come out through the pores. Today, I don't worry; I keep clean all through, with just occasional use of—

COAL STRIKE RESULTS

Conditions in certain of the coal fields are coming in for much attention just now. This is because there are hardships being experienced which easily arouse sympathy. Appeals made in behalf of the soft coal miners who have been on strike since the first of April are being presented in the hopes of bringing about relief or an adjustment of the wage situation.

It is an unfortunate situation in that the 150,000 miners in three states are dependent upon such help as they can get from their organization or others to live and care for their families, and with cold weather at hand it doesn't mean a pleasant outlook.

The situation is one, however, which ought to have been taken into consideration when it was begun. The hopes last April were that by striking and threatening the industry with non production that the terms demanded would be conceded. It had worked before and it was thought it would work again. It was a most unfavorable time for undertaking to force such terms for there had been a period of trial for the Jacksonville agreement which had forced many operators to shut up their mines. They could not meet the terms and compete with those who did not approve the agreement. The non-organized mines have consequently been getting the business and the organized miners are finding that enough bituminous coal can be obtained to meet public requirements without their services being required.

This is the situation that was pointed out last April when the strike opened. There is apparently no greater reason for yielding on the part of the operators now than there was then. The idea of forcing them to yield has failed. The miners are out of work and facing a serious winter. They have followed bad advice and leadership, but the predicament in which they find themselves is of their own seeking. Not much has been heard of this soft coal strike because not many but the miners themselves have been bothered by it. Winter with a lack of coal has before this worked hardships upon the consumer. Now it is having its effects upon those who have voluntarily ceased to work.

THE PRICE OF CARELESSNESS

How little attention is paid to warnings was well illustrated in the killing of two men at Westmont, N. J., when their machine was struck by an express and death was instantaneous.

The driver of the car had just come from a court to which he had been ordered because of speeding. Through the influence of his friends who had convinced the police authorities that a warning was all that was necessary, the driver had had his case settled in that manner. He was told that he should not drive so fast. Whether he had promised to refrain from such fast driving in the future is not known, but it is presumed that that was part of the understanding.

Just how much of an impression his arrest made is shown by the fact that it was only a matter of minutes after he left the court room before he was bowling along the highway without regard for the danger of the railroad crossing. He had not undertaken to respect the "Stop, Look and Listen!" sign even though it was an obstructed crossing. He approached without slackening his speed but was brought to his senses by the whistle of the locomotive. He applied his brakes but not soon enough for his car was carried onto the track directly in front of the engine. Both men tried to jump but there was not time enough. The car was hit, carried along the track for several hundred feet and both men were killed.

It was a needless sacrifice of human life. Possibly it was a crossing that should have some other, more effective warning than just a sign, but a crossing is a crossing and there isn't any one of them but what is dangerous. The danger is increased by the refusal of highway users to take the necessary precautions. Had that car been under the control that it should have been when approaching a crossing where the view is obstructed it could have been stopped and there would have been no fatalities. That driver got a warning for his first disregard of highway safety which cost him nothing. He paid the highest price possible for the second.

CONDITIONS IN RUMANIA

While the Balkans have always been inclined to discord it seems to be centered just for the moment in Rumania where internal conditions are far from peaceful. There are elements which are inclined to revolutionary tactics. They have been given an opening since the death of King Ferdinand and they are making the most of such opposition as they can create against Prime Minister Bratiano by putting forth the claim that he is a dictator.

In connection with the spirit of unrest which has been manifested there has been an endeavor to get Carol back in spite of the fact that he had renounced title to the throne. Just why any considerable number of Rumanians should want such an unstable individual to become the king is rather difficult to understand, except that they are ready for a change and lend their support to anything that gives promise of bringing it about. The recent trial and acquittal of an official for conspiring to bring Carol back revealed additional indications of unrest, but Carol's record has been such that any movement in his behalf could not be expected to succeed.

Some opsition has been shown to Premier Bratiano because it has been claimed that he was endeavoring to create a republic. It seems hardly probable that such is the case or that the country is ready for any such change. It has within a few years added much territory, getting Bessarabia and Transylvania as the result of the war. These people have not adjusted themselves to Rumanian conditions and there are indications that Rumania has not been dealing with them in such a manner as to get the most harmonious results. But with many elements to deal with it is apparent that there is need for a strong hand in Rumania, and that must be exercised at the present time by the prime minister. King Michael is too young to assume the responsibilities, and yet when a premier goes too far experience shows that he can expect to hear from it. On the other hand Bratiano may well point out that anyone who does his duty is bound to encounter opposition.

CHECKING DEFECTIVE EQUIPMENT

According to orders which have been given to the state police, automobiles with defective equipment are not to be allowed to operate on the highways. The purpose of this is to eliminate the danger which they create.

There has been a long period when slight attention has been given to some of these defects. For instance it is a quite common thing to see autos with only one headlight. It is conceivable that some of these are making their way home and are driving with full regard for the fact that only one headlight on an auto is a menace to other traffic. Others have gotten the idea that one headlight is just as acceptable as two and make no effort to have the trouble remedied.

There has been a leniency which has not been appreciated. Advantage has in fact been taken of it and now it has been decided that it is time to use different tactics. The expectations are that this new effort in behalf of enforcement will be continued and that it will not be allowed to lapse in a fortnight or so. When auto owners are given to understand that enforcement can be expected they will be much more interested in compliance.

The folly of fining a truck driver for not having a windshield wiper on his car which had no windshield, but allowing dangerously defective equipment to be used day in and day out, shows the limit to which enforcement may go in connection with auto laws. Nevertheless the need of requiring the necessary measures for safety is evident to everyone and all reasonable measures for getting compliance with important provisions of the law are bound to get hearty endorsement. With enforcement there will come a greater degree of respect.

PAYING THE DAMAGES

The investigation has not as yet been completed concerning the gas tank explosion in Pittsburgh which was the cause of so many deaths and injuries and so much property loss. Without waiting for the decision which may be reached as to the cause the gas company has come forth with the statement that it will meet all claims for damages. The company will pay all hospital expenses of the injured, will repair all damages and it is presumed will make settlement for all deaths. This goes much beyond all compensation provisions and it has been roughly estimated that it will mean a million or more to the company. Nevertheless it feels that it is under obligations and it desires to meet them without being forced into long and expensive litigation.

The course that is being pursued is most unusual. It hasn't been officially determined what caused the explosion. It hasn't been found that the company was negligent or that the proper precautions had not been observed. The company, however, places itself in the best possible light when it decides to do what is promised. Not every company would be in a position to do it even if the spirit was willing.

The Pittsburgh company by its action admits its liability and it is certain that there will be far less indignation through the pursuit of the course decided upon. It was a costly experience for all involved. The company can offer no preventive measures at this time but it is fair to presume that its action means that it will permit of no occasion for similar censure in the future. When everything is considered it takes a most commendable attitude.

THE LIVING FLAME

Now that Ellen Rhodes was so near her journey's end courage began to fail her. A feeling of doubt and timidity grew. Perhaps she would only suffer disappointment and chagrin. Suppose nobody remembered her or cared about seeing her?

Yet as the old familiar hills drifted past her car window she gazed at them hungrily, finding some compensation for the trouble and sacrifice her journey entailed. She realized she should find some sort of welcome in the dear old scenes even if the people had changed.

She had been longing for years to go back to the place where she had spent the happiest period of her life, but somehow she could never arrange it. Even now she had had to practice the strictest economy with all her preparations. She could not ask the children to help her. Joe had just married and Louise, who had been married for nine years and had a child, had recently undergone a serious operation. It was, in fact, her three months of service in Louise's home which had made the doctor suggest a change for her. So she had decided to go back home as she had always called Westville.

Eighteen years is a long time and much had happened. She no longer received letters from the old place. She felt herself lost to such of her old friends and neighbors as yet remained. She wondered about them wistfully.

Of course she herself had changed greatly. Those 18 years of hardship and struggle and sorrow had blanched her brown hair and stolen the roses from her cheeks. She wore black now, for Arthur, instead of the bright colors she formerly loved.

Fireflies twinkled among the hills. The town at last! How the new lighting system made it glow upon the darkness! She remembered the old kerosene lamps in their living room evenings. With a sigh she began to collect her luggage, to rummage in her purse for the right cab fare. Before she went to the hotel she would have a long look at her old home where she and Arthur had been so happy.

As she stepped from the train she came face to face with a large, rosy woman wrapped closely against the chill in a fur-trimmed coat. Instantly she recognized Mrs. Page. In the old days Mrs. Page had ranked as the leading woman of the town. Arrogant—with wealth and popularity. She had made a great distance between herself and the plain little wife of an unsuccessful physician. Remembering this Ellen was slipping past, intent on delivering her suit case to an approaching cabman, when Mrs. Page stopped her.

"Isn't this Mrs. Rhodes?" she said. "I was looking for my husband when the light fell on your face. I am so glad to meet you. My husband hasn't come after all—he went to the city on business and probably has been detained. So you must let me take you in my car. By the way, whom are you visiting?"

Ellen colored. "Nobody. You see, I—I didn't let anybody know I was coming. So I shall go to the hotel. It is very kind of you, Mrs. Page. I am grateful."

It was beginning to storm very hard. They hurried to the great car and its shelter. And a chauffeur in livery took charge of Ellen's shabby suit case.

"If you will just leave me at the hotel—" Ellen began.

"At the hotel?" Mrs. Page looked at her guest under the dome light. "I am going to take you home with me."

So instead of occupying a room at either the shabby old hotel or the noisy new one, Ellen slept in a resplendent chamber on cushions of down. She was so worn in body and soul that she slept. And she awakened to a shining world and a strange wonder at being where she was.

Breakfast was a thing of beauty and delight, with Chinese lilies and Lowestoft china. She was alone with Mrs. Page at the table.

"Of course, now that I have got you I shall keep you right here with me," Mrs. Page said.

"I couldn't think of making you so much trouble."

Trouble! My dear, my maids will see to making your bed and providing you with a cover at table. And I shall have your company, which I need. Can't you see that I'm a lonely woman?"

"You look very comfortable," Ellen smiled.

"Oh—yes. But there is a drawback. You remember my son, Archie?"

"I was just going to ask about him."

"He died just as he came of age." Then, hurrying over Ellen's sympathetic murmur: "I have often thought that if your husband had been here Archie would have lived. You recall how successfully your husband treated the Beals boy? Well, Archie's case was the same." She paused. Then changing to a livelier tone, she said: "I shall telephone a few of your old acquaintances and let them know you are here. Then you will see!"

Ellen did see. Those few magic words from Mrs. Page brought immediate results. People came flocking to see her, eager with welcome. She had more invitations than she could accept.

She knew it was all owing to Mrs. Page's influence. Now, as in the old days, everybody followed whither Mrs. Page led. But never mind, she was having a good time. Sometimes she was almost happy. She found herself laughing, talking quite girlishly.

Then came the last evening with a party, a small intimate affair at which the souls she knew best gathered. As they sat in the glow of Mrs. Page's gold-shaded lights Ellen found that the time had come for her to speak what was in her heart.

"You folks have been so good to me that I just must tell you how grateful I am," she said. "Why, you've made me feel almost young again—and almost happy. I wanted to come, but I dreaded to come, on account of the old associations, but you have made it all so easy and so pleasant for me. I am taking away so much that I can't tell you about—things that shall be a comfort to me all the rest of my life, like the motor trip out to Canada Falls. That was the place where Arthur and I used to steal away for our bits of outing. He loved things like that. And the last words he said to me were: 'El, when I get mended we'll go back to Canada Falls and renew our honeymoon. Somehow I feel he knows I've been there. And maybe he wasn't far away."

There was silence. And then Mrs. Page began to speak very gently, laying her hand upon that of Ellen's, who sat beside her.

"I wish we had understood the doctor and you better when you were here among us. But we were too young and thoughtless. Life goes so fast when you are just entering the thirties. But past 50 you get true perspectives. You've had your sorrows—yes, the older you get the faster you cling to the tried, true things. When you came down the steps of that train in the dusk a month ago it came to me like a flash that I had been wanting to see you a long time. You gave me back the things I had lost, my youth—Archie—I have been very happy while you have been here, Ellen. And I never shall lose sight of you again."

They all said the same thing and Ellen could not but believe they meant it.

Next morning Ellen went away. Her niche in the Pullman was crowded with farewell gifts—roses, books, bonbons. Her heart was warm and glad. She was going away, but she was coming back.—Detroit News.

S. DAVIES WARFIELD LEAVES MEMORIAL TO HIS MOTHER

S. Davies Warfield, late president of the Seaboard Air Line railway, paid a high tribute to his mother in leaving the bulk of his estate to establish a home for aged women as a memorial to her. Mr. Warfield's will, made public recently, said:

"I am sure my desire to perpetuate the memory of our mother in such manner as will be worth while and as shall extend the usefulness of our mother's life, after death, will be appreciated in such directions as will accomplish the greatest good. I wish, therefore, to leave the bulk of what I may own for the purpose of establishing a memorial to my mother.

"My mother represented to me all I really had in life, which I did not entirely realize until her death. It was always my desire to be financially able to give my mother every comfort in life, which was the mainspring of my efforts. All of my life, up to the time of her death, my mother and myself lived together, and I look back to the days of my earliest recollection of anything to the unselfish devotion of my mother to her children, her Christian fortitude and patience.

"To be with my mother was to recognize a supreme influence; indescribable. It is to my mother, therefore—to her memory—I wish to establish this memorial—the 'Anna Emery Warfield Home for Aged Women.'

"During the last years of my mother's life I had the opportunity of realizing how pitiful are the infirmities of approaching great age. The struggle of declining life brings with it many little ailments and sufferings, and while each may not be severe in itself and is perhaps exaggerated in the imagination, taken together they constitute a real condition of mind and body and make the closing years of the lives of aged women so distressing without the little attentions, and without the alleviating conditions, which mean so much to those who through reduced circumstances are unable to receive the attention their former position in life had enabled them to have."

THANKSGIVING

This year Thanksgiving day falls on the earliest possible date, November 24.

The earliest harvest thanksgiving in America was kept by the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth, in 1621.

Congress recommended days of thanksgiving annually during the Revolution and in 1784, for the return of peace.

Of all the religious festivals of the year Thanksgiving is the only one that is for the people of all creeds.

Since 1863, the presidents have always issued proclamations appointing the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving day.

The first national English thanksgivings were offered at St. Paul's cathedral for the defeat of the Spanish Armada, in 1588.

President Washington appointed a day of thanksgiving in 1789, after the adoption of the constitution, and in 1795 for the general benefit and welfare of the nation.

The earliest Thanksgiving known to have been observed by Christian men on the American continent was that held by the Popham colonists on their landing in Maine, Aug. 9, 1607.

Stories That Recall Others

Wanted Plenty of Them

Little Myrtle had returned from a visit with her grandfather, in the country. While there she had heard of flocks of sheep and flocks of chickens.

Her mother had taken her downtown to buy a new dress, when Myrtle saw a large number of dresses her size in the store and she said: "Oh, mother, please get me a whole flock of those pretty dresses."

He Knew

Little Henry had been watching his father tinker with the engine of his car. It always was an endless source of delight for him to see dad take this part off, put that part on and stop and start the motor to see if the effect was that which he desired. Suddenly his father turned to him and said: "Henry, go up to the house and tell mother to give you those nuts that I left on the table."

Henry, eager to assist his father, flew toward the house. Not wishing, however, to ask his mother for such a simple thing as nuts, he dashed for the dining room, scrambled upon a chair and took down a dish of hickory nuts which he found on the table. His mother coming into the room just then, espied him and asked: "What are you going to do with those son?"

Henry unwilling to delay his mission jumped from the chair and replied as he dashed for the door: "They are nuts for daddy's car."

YOUR HEALTH

STRENUOUS EXERCISE IS DANGEROUS

By R. C. Meshlig, M. D., Detroit, Mich. Member Gorgas Memorial

In this day of strenuous competition in which many records are being broken, it is not unnatural that young people are endeavoring to gain fame through athletics.

Many individuals are not physically fit to undertake strenuous exercise. While they may feel no inconvenience from ordinary exercise, when under the strain of competition to outdo their rivals great strain is placed upon the heart and dilation may result. This is especially true of individuals who have had frequent attacks of tonsilitis, rheumatism, or St. Vitus' dance.

No one should undertake athletics without having a thorough physical examination. The public is becoming educated to modern medical advances, and certainly a physical examination periodically is a step forward in public education.

When men reach the age of 35 years and over they feel that in order to keep physically fit exercise should be taken. Unfortunately this is not always tempered with good judgment, and too strenuous exercise is engaged in. This is especially true of men who boast about how many holes of golf they have played in one day, not realizing the strain it was upon their hearts and arteries.

Exercise for older individuals, while necessary, should certainly be moderate and best regulated by a physician. One's appetite is frequently increased following exercise and a large meal is eaten. This is not beneficial for elderly individuals.

We frequently hear the statement that an individual died of cramps during swimming. Such deaths are often due to chronic heart disease or acute dilation of the heart. Individuals should not continue to stay in the water for many hours, especially if it is cold, because this produces a contraction of the peripheral blood vessels and in turn more work for the heart.

Individuals who have been athletic in the past should continue modern exercise such as walking, light gymnasium work, or some other form of mild exercise, and should not suddenly take up any competitive athletics or any strenuous form of exercise without due preparation.

The Day Before Thanksgiving.

Expectation spices all the day before;
Remembrance only lingers when the day is o'er.
—Old Mother Nature.

It was the day before Thanksgiving. Cubby, the little bear, who was doing his best to get fat, didn't know what Thanksgiving meant. But then, of course, none of the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest know just what the meaning of Thanksgiving is. It was just a day like any other day to Cubby.

He awoke early that morning, rather cross. He quarreled with his sister before they had even started out to look for a breakfast. He disobeyed his mother and was spanked. After that he sulked. And while he was sulking and hanging back and refusing to have anything to do with Mother Bear and his sister the latter found the nicest lot of sweet beechnuts and gobbled them up before Cubby had a chance to get even one. So, had Cubby known that the next day was to be Thanksgiving Day, he would have said that it didn't make a bit of difference to him, for he had nothing to give thanks for.

Now, of course, that wouldn't have been true. Everybody has something to be thankful for. Whether you have a lot or little, for what you have you have reason to be thankful. And, really, Cubby had a lot to be thankful for. But he was so out of sorts from having gotten out the wrong side of the bed that morning that nothing suited him and he was sure that he was the most abused little bear in all the Great World.

So pretty soon he began to lag behind. "I can find more to eat if I go off by myself," he muttered, and when Mother Bear was not looking, slipped away. About five minutes later he found a big ants' nest. Now, to a bear's way of thinking, ants are very delicious. So Cubby dug into this nest until all the ants came out to find out what it was all about. Then you should have seen that long tongue of his sweep up those ants. You should have heard him smack his lips. He forgot all about his sister. He forgot all about his Mother Bear. He forgot he was the most abused little bear in all the Great World. Having finished up all but a few scattered ants, he trotted on to look for another nest.

So it was that after a while Cubby discovered the same thing had happened to him that had happened to him once before—he was lost. He had wandered about, this way and that way, so that he hadn't the slightest idea where mother and sister were or where home was.

"I don't care," sniffed Cubby. "I'm big enough to take care of myself now, anyway. If I'm alone I'll get all there is to eat. I won't have to divide it with anybody. If I were as fat as Sis I wouldn't care, but until I am as fat as she I want all I can get."

So Cubby wandered on carelessly, without paying any attention to where he was going, and with every step he was getting more and more lost. And so it was that when late that afternoon the Black Shadows came creeping through the Green Forest Cubby was still aimlessly wandering about, lost, lonesome and, if the truth be told, a wee bit afraid. And, what is more, he was hungry, for he had wandered away from the oak trees and the beech trees, and here among the pine trees and the birches there was little enough to tempt his appetite. And this was the day before Thanksgiving. Just imagine that! It was the day before Thanksgiving.

The next story: "Cubby's Thanksgiving."

About five minutes later he found big ant's nest.

At 83 years of age Herbert T. Ames has been elected mayor of Williamsport, Pa.

NEW LONDON AROUSED OVER SECURING BIG STEAMSHIP LINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—The city of New London, through a committee of twenty-five citizens this evening displayed lively interest in the proposal to establish a western terminal for the Brown-Boveri steamship line from the United States to Europe. Mayor May briefly stated the purpose of the meeting. He predicted the support of all citizens and of the manufacturers of the state. P. Leroy Harwood, chairman of the state rivers, harbors and bridges committee, expressed gratification at the interest manifested. He reviewed the history of New London's harbor and the commercial business developed here. He said that something tangible seemed to be possible for this port now, in the establishment of the proposed line of steamers. The line depended largely upon what congress would appropriate for the construction of the ships. Much more money must be provided than the shipping board would recommend as a loan $75,000,000 or $80,000,000 beyond the shipping board's loan. He referred to the erection of the state pier here and said the idea was the dream of Capt. Charlie Barr, the master of American cup defending yachts, and said that it was he who put the idea of a state pier into the brain of the late Congressman Bryan F. Mahan, who was so largely instrumental in securing the erection of the million dollar pier for New London. Capt. Barr, had an idea of the purposes for which it is now proposed to use the pier. Barr realized that the route from New London to England was a day's sail shorter than was the route from New York. All conditions pointed to the selection of New London for the terminal. The men behind the plans are of broad calibre. They are convinced and interested in the plan for the steamship line. He said Connecticut need have no fears of what the governor of Rhode Island and the R. I. committee could do, to divert attention from New London. Nor could Gov. Brewster of Maine nor Gov. Smith of New York secure the line for Portland or Montauk Point. Connecticut can trust its cause with Gov. Trumbull and he wanted the committee to be ready to assist Gov. Trumbull. He believed the governor would be glad to have the assistance of the committee assembled.

Waldo Clark, secretary of the rivers, harbors and bridges commission said this port would commend itself to the projectors of the line because of its abundant water supply for use of the steamers, its police and fire departments, its central location for travel. The commander of the coast guard and the entire personnel of the guard would testify as to that. He wanted the committee to be prepared with facts and figures, should they be called upon for them.

L. Y. Spears of the Ship and Engine company advised being ready with any information that was desired. Attorney Morris Lubchansky, Supt. Greisbaber of the Ship and Engine company, President Benjamin T. Marshall of Connecticut college, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, Rev. Chester H. Howe, Rev. W. C. Fitzsimons, ex-Senator L. E. Whiton, Attorney W. T. Connor, Director of Law Troland, City Manager Holt and Samuel T. Adams, Senator James J. Floyd and others spoke on the same lines. Messrs. Troland and Howe laid stress upon the provision of an air port and Messrs. Clark and Harwood said that matter had been considered and was in a way to be taken care of.

An executive committee, consisting of P. Leroy Harwood, Mayor James A. May, Waldo Clark, Lawrence Y. Spears, Morris Lubchansky, Theodore Bodenwein and S. A. Brown was selected and Attorney John McGarry was chosen permanent secretary of the committee.

FOURTEEN PAY FINES FOR AUTOMOBILE VIOLATIONS

State policemen stationed at the corner of Dunham and West Thames streets Monday night to inspect automobiles for defective lights, windshield wipers and mirrors found fifteen offenders against the law whom they summoned to the city court for Tuesday morning.

All but one of the cases were disposed of by imposing fines. In that case, a charge of reckless driving against Harry Marcus, of 17 Main street, there was a continuance to Saturday of this week.

It is claimed that Mr. Marcus came near running down Officer Gavitt, when the officer signalled the driver to stop and that the officer had to jump out of the way, but had such a close shave that the crystal on his wrist watch was broken.

The other cases were the following:

Edgar J. Robsky, Norwich Y. M. C. A., no windshield cleaner, arrested by Officer Busch, fined $5.

H. Lloyd Rathbun, 32 Hedge avenue, no tail light and no cleaner, Officer Busch, fined $5.

Saul Agranovitch, Wauregan hotel, failure to have registration in his possession, Officer Busch, fined $3.

Luther W. King, 328 Franklin street, failure to have registration in his possession, Officer Busch, fined $3.

Edward Merrimen, R. F. D. No. 1 Uncasville, failure to have registration, Officer Busch, fined $3.

Edward E. Brown, Coast Guard destroyer Shaw, State pier, New London, no tail light, Officer Busch, fined $3.

George Prest, 40 Blackhall street, New London, no registration certificate in his possession, Officer Busch, fined $3.

EXPECT 200 BOYS IN ANNUAL TREASURE HUNT

The third annual treasure hunt under the direction of the Boys' division of the local Y. M. C. A., will take place Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock.

The boys will assemble at the "Y" and receive their instructions as to where to start searching.

Local merchants have generously contributed over 30 worthwhile prizes, so that every searcher will have 30 chances of securing a prize.

This event has grown each year until it is expected that over 200 boys will take part this year. The boys will spend over an hour hunting for these prizes in the open air Thanksgiving morning, thus working up a good appetite for an old-man turkey dinner and all the fixings.

MORE DRIVERS CAUGHT WITH DEFECTIVE LIGHTS

Nearly 30 automobile drivers were summoned Tuesday night to appear in the local city court this (Wednesday) morning on charges of driving with defective lights. Two state police officers were on the watch for auto law violators at Burnham square throughout the evening. Most of those summoned in had no tail light burning while the others were driving with but one headlight.

LECTURED ON THACKERAY BEFORE COLLEGE CLUB

Under the auspices of the Norwich College club at Slater hall annex on Tuesday evening, Dr. J. E. Wells of Connecticut college gave an entertaining and instructive lecture on Thackeray.

Dr. Wells was introduced by Miss Beatrice Smith, president of the club. The speaker declared that the more one reads of William Makepeace Thackeray the more one realizes the worth of the reading and the significance of the man. Thackeray is one of the foremost writers of prose the world over, the representative man of letters of his day, one of the few great novelists, and as time passes his vogue increases.

Dr. Wells said that he wished to combat the prevalent estimation of Thackeray that made him a cold blooded satirist, ungenial, unloving and fault-finding. In contrast to this view Dr. Wells pointed out that charity and generosity were characteristics of the writer, that he was a lover of children, had a wonderful way with boys and women, and a great liking for practical jokes. He was an ideal club man and when he died was affectionately referred to as "good old Thackeray."

The lecturer gave a very complete account of the life of Thackeray and exhibited some specimens of his handwriting.

DRIVERLESS TRUCK RUNS AWAY ON THAMES ST.

One man was injured and several others narrowly escaped injury when a driverless Ford truck crashed into a G. M. C. truck on Thames street, near the plant of the Richmond Radiator Co. early Tuesday evening. The injured man is Leonard Bogue of No. 17 Stanton avenue. He is a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital and it is thought that he is injured internally. The G. M. C. truck owned by Hartley and Gallup and operated by C. H. Gallup of No. 363 Hamilton avenue, became stalled on Thames street when the magneto went dead. Mr. Bogue, a repair man, was working on the truck at the time of the accident. He was standing in front of the radiator and several others, including Mr. Gallup, were grouped about watching him.

The Ford truck had been left by the roadside with its engine running. In some manner it started down a slight incline and headed directly for the stalled truck. It is said to have crashed into the front of the truck at a speed of about twenty miles an hour. Mr. Bogue was crushed against the radiator of the truck and badly injured. Dr. Louis T. Cassidy was called and after attending Mr. Bogue ordered him removed to the Backus hospital. The name of the driver of the Ford truck was not learned.

GAVE SURPRISE FOR THIMBLE CLUB LEADER

Members and friends of the Franklin Thimble Wearers, a 4-H clothing club, pleasantly surprised their leader, Mrs. Marjorie Ayer on Saturday, when they gathered to celebrate her birthday. Games, songs, and stories were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the committee in charge. During the evening Mrs. Ayer was presented with a cake set, the gift of the club girls, in appreciation of her most faithful and helpful services. Mrs. Ayer has recently found it necessary to give up the leadership of the club, a fact much regretted by all. Those present were Mrs. Marjorie Ayer and the Misses Anita Armstrong, Grace Johnson, Vera and Vivian Bushnell, Florence Date, Ruth and Harriet Robinson, Ruth Starkweather, Julia Rodman, Frances Lamb, Mildred Manning, Cora Manning and Frances Ward and the Messrs. Raymond Manning, Nelson Robinson, James Lamb, Bernard Crandall, Edward Bushey, Nathaniel Manning, Arnold Manning, James Kahn, Raymond Beckwith, out of town guests being Miss Margaret Healy, of Storrs, Randall Whaples, county club leader, Miss Harriet Manning and Edward Hinckley of Lebanon.

ENGINEER LOST FROM BLOCK ISLAND BOAT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22.—Kenneth Lang, 21, formerly of Block Island, employed as engineer of the auxiliary schooner Aquidneck, Block Island fishing craft, was lost at sea last night, although the manner by which Lang came to his death has nto been determined. The schooner was about 10 miles southeast of Southeast light, off Block Island, when the engineer was missed and a search of the waters in that vicinity failed to find any trace of the body.

Seized With Appendicitis Attack

Miss Theresa Fitzgerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fitzgerald of 36 Hobart avenue, was seized with a sudden attack of appendicitis at the Willimantic Normal school Tuesday morning. She was taken to St. Joseph's hospital and was operated upon at 6.30 Tuesday by Dr. Owen O'Neil.

GAVE CLEVER PRODUCTION OF THREE ACT COMEDY

The three act comedy "Come Out of the Kitchen" was presented by the Children of Mary of St. Patrick's parish Tuesday evening in the church hall to a large and appreciative audience. The leading male role was taken by Walter F. LaFontaine, Mr. LaFontaine as Burton Crane from the north was excellently cast and carried his part through the three acts in a manner which showed a clever interpretation of the role, and gave him an opportunity to display the ability which always characterizes his work in dramatic circles.

Playing opposite Mr. LaFontaine was Miss Mary Dodd, as Olivia Dangerfield, the younger daughter and later as Jane-Ellen, the Irish cook. Miss Dodd was exceptional in the portrayal of a difficult role, but one which she carried with ease throughout the play, mingling pathos and much comedy, and holding the interest of her audience straight through to the final curtain.

Miss Anna Coleman played the part of Elisabeth Dangerfield, alias "Aramanta" and was the typical Southern beauty, very much opposed to her role as the upstairs girl, forever at the call of the would-be aristocrat, Mrs. Falkener, played by Miss Mary Carol Sheridan, the haughty match-making northerner. Miss Sheridan added much to the entertainment of her audience and played her part with ability and ease.

Cora Falkener was excellently cast in the person of Miss Catherine Dutton, who, as the sweet and lovable daughter of Mrs. Falkener, won the admiration of her audience and left nothing to be desired in her work.

In the character role of Amanda, the colored mammy, Miss Clara Duhaime was perfect as the old nurse of the family. The part was carried through by Miss Duhaime in a manner which brought forth spontaneous and enthusiastic applause.

John P. Kelly as Paul Dangerfield, alias "Smithfield" was the perfect, well-mannered man servant, and the impossible situations into which his frequent prevarications led him kept his audience amused for the length of the production.

Charles Dangerfield, alias "Brindlebury" was played by Cassidy Driscoll. It would be difficult to describe Mr. Driscoll's work in detail, but it was a most creditable interpretation of an amusing role and one highly appreciative to the large audience, who greeted his every appearance with prolonged applause.

Randolph Weeks, a part taken by William Shannon, the jealous rival of Crane, was admirably taken by Mr. Shannon, while Tom Lefferts, as played by James FitzGerald was the true poet in appearance, and in his acting of this role, Mr. FitzGerald showed marked ability.

James Casey as Solon Tucker, the lawyer who spends most of his time in the kitchen, was excellent. Mr. Casey is not new to the footlights and never has any difficulty in arousing the interest of his audience and keeping that interest until the drop of the curtain.

The production was ably directed by Miss Katherine Dodd of the faculty of Plainfield high school. The committees were as follows:

Tickets, program and publicity, Loretta Bellefleur, chairman, Katherine Hanrahan, Margaret Burns, May Bellefleur.

Properties, Abbie Sheehan, chairman, Mary Sheridan, Mary Mahoney, Katherine Hanrahan.

Candy committee, Madeline Riordan, chairman, Mary Donovan, Mary Donegan, Marian Buonanno, Ella Buonanno, Grace Christian, Marie Hulstrunk, Abbie Sheehan, Bella Allard, Dorothy Crawford, Lucy DiCarlo.

Candy was sold between the acts by the following pupils of St. Patrick's school, Anne McCune, Katherine Coleman, Mary Lynch, Rita Crawford, Carmen Trudeau, Ruth Crawford, Geraldine O'Neil, Alice McGarry, Adeline Gernhardt, Margaret Buckley.

Door receipts were taken care of by John P. Corcoran. Others assisting were Henry LaFontaine, Martin Burns and Joseph Marks.

The ushers were the following Boy Scouts: Anthony Kirker, John Caron, Timothy Toomey, John Cox, Daniel Foley, Eugene Paterson, Henry Matthews and Alfred Ravenelle.

EAGLES ARE TO HAVE BIG INITIATION CLASS

The present week has been one of activity for the officers and members of Norwich Aerie, No. 367, F. O. E., when they started Monday evening with their regular meeting which was largely attended.

On Tuesday evening, the degree team ourneyed to New London to exemplify the ritualistic work of the order on a large class of candidates, the largest New London arie has initiated in some time. The Norwich officers in charge of the initiation consisted of Nelson Petrone, Timothy Fields, W. R. Hastedt, Joseph Cadieux, Walter Caughey and E. J. Mulline.

Under the welfare of the order, State President Sherman Bunnell and William Kelley, of Naugatuck, gave very interesting talks.

The real time of the year's activities of Norwich arie will take place this (Wednesday) evening when the annual Thanksgiving banquet will be held in Eagles' home, after the initiation of about forty candidates into the order.

The visiting brothers that have promised to attend are Sherman Bunnell, of Winsted, state president; Richard Dempsey, of Hartford, state vice president; Thomas Fitzpatrick, of Naugatuck, state chaplain; John McGarry, of Putnam. Also two past state presidents, P. Johnson, of Hartford, and William Kelley, of Naugatuck, who is now entered in organization department.

Visiting members are expected to be present from the following subordinate aeries: Naugatuck, Middletown, Hartford, Putnam and New London.

The committee in charge is planning on handling one of the largest crowds that have attended this annual event in a good many years.

4-H CLUB ROUNDUP IS SET FOR THIS WEEK

The first annual 4-H club roundup for club boys and girls in New London county will be held here Saturday afternoon and evening in Elks' hall. The purpose of this roundup is to give the youngsters a chance to get better acquainted with each other, the value of club work, and to have a social time. Every club boy and girl in the county is invited by County Club Leader R. W. Whaples and if they care to come bring their friends, brothers, sisters, fathers or mothers. The program that has been arranged will have something of interest and value for everyone. The roundup starts at 3.00 p. m. and carries through until 9.00 p. m. with supper being served at 6 o'clock by a group of interested farm bureau women from Norwich Town. The use of the hall has been donated by the Elks club.

Mr. Whaples said Tuesday that he expected at least 150 rural boys and girls to attend and hoped that there would be even more. Club work in this county is new and there is room for many more clubs than the county has at the present time. This roundup will stimulate a greater interest among the present members and this interest will then be spread to more rural boys and girls with the result an increased enrollment in 4-H club work in every town in the country. The 4-H clubs, he said, are carried on among the rural boys and girls for the purpose of teaching better practices on the farm and in the home. Clubs are formed for boys in dairy, poultry, sheep, swine, beef cattle, forestry, health and handicraft work and for girls in cooking, sewing, canning, room arrangement and health club work. 4-H club work aims to teach better and greater use of the head, heart, hands and health.

A few of the special attractions at the roundup will be talks by club boys and girls on what club work has meant to them. State Club Leader Brundage will talk on club work in Connecticut. Charles Lewis, club leader of Hartford county will give an interesting talk on club work. The roundup attendants are very fortunate because they will have the opportunity of hearing and seeing Don Fraser, the cartoonist who draws "Yankee Bill" for the New England Homestead, talk about and draw cartoons of the club folks. These are only a few of the numbers on the program that has been arranged. We want every 4-H club member there and everyone else that is interested in 4-H club work, said Mr. Whaples. We have worked hard to make this roundup a success.

A. A. U. OPPOSE SUGGESTION TO PAY OLYMPIC ATHLETES FOR LOST TIME

By Alan J. Gould.
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

CINCINNATI, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Any proposal to pay athletes for their time lost in Olympic competition is "dangerous" and contrary to all concepts of American sportsmanship and amateurism, the Amateur Athletic union decided today in going on record as vigorously opposed to the "broken time" provision adopted by the International Football association in connection with the 1928 Olympics.

The "broken time" rule under which players on soccer football teams entering the next Olympics may be reimbursed for the time taken from their work, has received the endorsement of the International Olympic committee, but American authorities through Maor General Douglas McArthur, president of the American Olympic committee, have served notice they will not accept it.

The A. A. U. endorsed this protest today. It is the understanding that the United States football association also opposes such a ruling and will not accept it as operating in sending an American soccer team to Amsterdam next year.

Besides settling other affairs connected with its part in organizing the American Olympic program, the A. A. U. in the closing session of its convention today re-elected Murray Hulbert of New York to a fourth term as president, a record for this office, and named New York as the 1928 convention city over 15 other places. Daniel J. Farris, of New York, was elected to succeed Frederick W. Rubien, of New York, as secretary, the latter having resigned after serving 13 years. Other officers named were: first vice president, Avery Brundage, Chicago; second vice president, Fred L. Hoffman, Cincinnati; third vice president, C. W. Streit, Jr., Birmingham, Ala.; fourth vice president, Charles Brennan, Detroit. Trustees, Charles Brennan, Chicago; Robert S. Weaver, Los Angeles, and John T. Taylor, Pittsburgh.

Reconsidering several applications for records the convention accepted as new American marks the 880-yard and 800-meter relay figures, both 1 minute 25 4-5 seconds, as made by the Southern California quartet last May after establishing that they were clocked by fifth-second watches and not tenth second watches as was first reported.

At the same time the appeal of De Hart Hubbard, of Cincinnati, Negro star, for recognition of his world's broad jump record of 26 feet 2 1-4 inches, made here last September was turned down. The meet referees report that the take-off was one inch higher than the landing pit precluded acceptance of this mark for which Hubbard sought recognition to replace his own present world's record of 25 feet, 10 7-8 inches.

The fight over the award of the Olympic marathon tryout to Boston April 19, instead of to Baltimore was resumed today and resulted in a compromise under which the performances at all established marathons, such as those at Baltimore as well as Detroit, will be considered in making American Olympic selections. The Boston marathon, however, remains officially designated as the Olympic tryout as well as the national championship event.

EDDY IS ELECTED YALE FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Maxson Hunter Eddy, right tackle, was elected captain of the Yale varsity football team for 1928 by his team mates here tonight.

The vote for Eddy was unanimous. All the letter men of the team were present with the exception of Dud Charlesworth, center, who is confined to the infirmary with a broken ankle. Charlesworth mailed in his vote. Bruce Caldwell, although present, did not vote.

Although this is his first year on the varsity, Eddy has been in every game and has been one of the hardest players on the team. His election, however, came as a surprise to the undergraduates who had picked Hoben or Charlesworth as successor to Capt. Webster.

Eddy prepared for Yale at Exeter. His home is in Middlebury, Vt. He is 20 years old, weighs 190 pounds and is a trifle over six feet tall.

The election was held at the annual football banquet marking the official end of the season.

TWO INJURED PLAYERS RETURN TO H. C. LINEUP

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Gus Cervini, stellar left guard, and Shel Daly, fullback, quit the injured list today and returned to togs as Holy Cross continued preparations for Saturday's game with Boston College.

The Crusaders spent much time learning new plays today. Bloody Ryan was at quarterback all through the two-hour session but all the other backs, Donovan, Shanahan, Clancy, Lowry, Dowling, Daly and Carnicelli were used in the drill.

The freshman team busied today rehearsing the Boston College plays which it will use against the varsity in a dummy scrimmage tomorrow.

SEVERAL INTERSECTIONAL GAMES ON THANKSGIVING

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A general exodus of students and players alike from far-flung campuses of the east today brought the football season of 1927 a step closer to the Thanksgiving day goal of many major elevens.

Three thousand students gathered to send Cornell's big red team off to Philadelphia for the 34th battle with Pennsylvania. A short signal drill before the take off found two changes in the Cornell lineup with Wrampelmeier replacing Shumacker at end and Richards filling Worden's shoes at guard.

Pennsylvania spent most of the day at a golf club in Absecon, N. J., where they will remain until time to leave for the game. Although coaches plan to keep most of the squad in the open air as much as possible to retain the fine "edge" Penn has obtained, the players worked out lightly this afternoon.

A first squad of 27 players left Syracuse for New York and the seventh engagement with Columbia. Another group of 30 will get away tomorrow along with more than 5,000 of the student body. Columbia scrimmaged against Orange plays with one of the scrubs labelled "Bayslinger," star Syracuse passer and another dubbed "Goldman," dangerous open field runner. Both were handled rather roughly.

Colgate was on the way to Providence, R. I., for the 13th contest with Brown, traditional "turkey day" rivals, and Penn State's march on Pittsburgh was under way. New York University, adding an intersectional tinge to the day in battle with Nebraska, has been travelling most of the week to reach Lincoln. The presidents of Washington and Jefferson headed into Morgantown for the West Virginia fray.

ROBERTSON TO COACH OLYMPIC TRACK TEAM

CINCINNATI, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Formal recommendation for the appointment of Lawson Robertson of the University of Pennsylvania to be head coach of the 1928 Olympic track and field team and of William Bachrach, of the Illinois A. C., to head coach of the Olympic swimming team, will be laid before the American Olympic committee as a result of decisions ratified today by the Amateur Athletic union.

Bachrach held the same position in 1924 while Robertson shared the head coaching role with Walter Christie, of California. Robertson's assistants will be selected from a list of a score of college and club coaches agreed on by the A. A. U., which has a controlling voice in the Olympic committee.

Bachrach will be aided by L. DeB. Handley, of New York, as women's coach and Ernest Brandsten, of Stanford University, as diving coach. If a fourth swimming coach is permitted, Perry McGillivray, of the Illinois A. C., will be named to have charge of the water polo team.

SLATTERY AND LOUGHRAN TO FIGHT FOR TITLE

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, and Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, have signed to meet in a 15-round bout at 175 pounds for the light heavyweight championship of the world on December 12, at the Madison Square Garden, it was announced tonight by Thomas E. Donohue, president of the National Boxing association.

Slattery, the holder of the N. B. A. light heavyweight title, and Loughran, recognized as titleholder by the New York and Pennsylvania commissions, have also signed contracts guaranteeing that the winner of the bout will risk his title against Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., on January 6, at the Madison Square Garden.

President Donohue, in discussing the match, declared that it was a "constructive step" towards clearing up the mess in the light heavyweight division and that the winner of Slattery-Loughran and Lomski matches would have a clear and undisputed right to the title.

State Basketball Conference.

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The annual state conference basketball tournaments sponsored by the Connecticut interscholastic conference, will be held March 16 and 17, at the Yale university and at Connecticut Agricultural college, it was announced today by Walter B. Spencer, president of the conference and principal of the New Haven commercial high school.

As in former years the tourney will be divided into two sections, the class A and B schools will stage their battle for the championships at Yale, while Storrs college will act as hosts to the class C and D teams.

Eight teams will be entered in each tourney, the best scholastic basketball combines in the state. The conference officials will constitute a committee that will select the teams for the tournaments.

EASTERN CONN. SCHOOLS CLOSE FOOTBALL SEASON THURSDAY

Thursday's Games

Alumni at N. F. A. (2.30)
Westerly at Stonington (10.30).

Eastern Connecticut scholastic football makes its final bow Thursday with two games. The Westerly-Stonington clash is the second between these rivals while the Academy and her former stars engage in what has become to be a regular institution.

Strong Alumni Team Ready

The Alumni team this year will be probably the strongest to step onto the local field in some years if not since these games were started. Numbering many college stars, three of them of varsity timber with other former Red and White luminaries, this team should make the Wildcats step very fast to win.

Never has an Alumni game been a runaway, in fact the former players seem to delight in giving their younger brethren plenty of trouble. Anyone who saw last year's scoreless tilt will agree that there was little fooling for both teams went at it hammer and tongs.

The Alumni carries the favorite's colors into this game mainly because she will not be hampered by injuries and also because such stars as Pheno Tombari, Marty Gilman, Charlie Hagberg of the Conn. Aggie varsity, Jim Williams, Fred Schwartz and Jim Moore of the Storrs freshmen, Dan Polsky of the Brown varsity, Red Fidell of the Brown frosh, Ed Brewer, Jack Hinrichs, Jim Fenton, Harry Watters, Paul and Phil McNamara, Ed Gulomb, Pete Labenski and others are slated to appear.

The Academy will continue to present somewhat of a crippled lineup in closing the season. McGlone, Greene and Fox will not be present.

Westerly-Stonington

To Stonington, Westerly comes for the second game of their annual feud. Stonington won by two touchdowns at Westerly Armistice day and this, with the confidence gained from the win over N. F. A. Saturday should send the Brown and White into the fray as likely winners. However, Westerly seemed to show improvement in beating Chapman Tech Friday and probably she will have also received enough confidence to pull through. This is also a "league" game.

The Granite Men will rely on Sawyer and Gentile to do much of the ball advancing for they were practically the whole show against Tech.

This Westerly-Stonington game comes in the morning, it will be noted with the N. F. A.-Alumni clash in the afternoon.

One way of settling the 6 to 6 tie between the Academy and New London Bulkeley was brought forth by a local fan Tuesday with a plan for a game between the Alumni teams of the two bitter rivals. No doubt such a game would draw many to the scene of action but whether there is any prospect of such a battle is not known.

One date given was for the coming Saturday. What an argument that should be with the Academy employing such stars as Pheno Tombari, Marty Gilman, Dan Polsky, Ed Brewer, Pete Labenski, Fred Schwartz, Red Fidell, Jim Williams, Jack Hinrichs against such former Bulkeley players as Joe Watterson, Joe Barry, Tilly Daniels, George Sheffiot and others.

Practically all of these players would be available over the week end with the colleges closed for the Thanksgiving recess. Such a game would be a nice thing to start as an annual affair for no doubt the graduates would be only too glad to get back at their rival once more.

AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY AT CHICAGO IN 1928

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The first amateur golf championship to be decided on the Pacific coast will be played over the Pebble Beach Course at Del Monte, Calif., in September, 1929. The dates will be determined later.

Announcement of the selection of the California course was made today by H. H. Ramsay of the United States Golf association, who announced at the same time the dates for the National competitions of 1928.

Definite assignment of the 1929 amateur to California carries out a policy announced some time ago of a wider geographical distribution of the classic.

The annual meeting of the United States Golf association will be held in New York, January 7.

The executive committee fixed June 11 for the qualifying round in the various districts for the next open championship which will be played June 21, 22 and 23 at Olympia Fields, Chicago.

The Public Links championship will be played July 31 to August 5 at Cobb's Creek Course, Philadelphia.

The 1928 amateur championship, to be played at the Brae Burn Country club, West Newton, Mass., has been fixed for September 10 to 15.

The women's championship is scheduled for September 5 to September 29 at the Virginia Hot Springs Golf and Country club, Virginia Hot Springs, Va.

The Walker cup international matches will be held August 30 and 31 at the Chicago Golf club, Wheaton, Ill.

CROWLEY TO COACH FOOTBALL AT COLUMBIA

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—The reappointment of Charles F. Crowley, as head coach of football at Columbia for 1928 was announced today by the Columbia University Athletic association through Reynolds Benson, graduate manager of athletics.

Crowley was head football coach at the University of Dallas from 1913 to 1917. He joined the Harvard coaching staff as end coach in 1921 and after two years there he came to Columbia with Percy D. Haughton in 1923. When Haughton died in October, 1924, Dr. Paul Withington finished out the season as head coach but was succeeded by Crowley on Feb. 27, 1925.

After graduating from Cambridge Latin school, Crowley entered Harvard and played right end on the Crimson elevens of 1907 and 1908, being selected for the first All-American team in the latter year. Transferring to Notre Dame, he won a regular end berth and was the running mate of Knute Rockne on the 1910 and 1911 teams.

BRUCE CALDWELL IS AWARDED LETTER UNDER SPECIAL RULING

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22—(AP)—Bruce Caldwell, Yale's all around backfield star, although barred from participation in either the Harvard or Princeton games, is one of 35 members of the varsity squad to receive the coveted "Y." The other 34 all played in either the Princeton or Harvard games.

The Yale Athletic association made the following announcement tonight regarding the award to Caldwell:

"Upon the strong recommendation of the coach, the captain, the manager and all the members of the football team, it was voted that Bruce Caldwell be awarded a letter, a gold football, and a picture for his fine playing and spirit which was shown throughout the season."

Caldwell was declared ineligible for the two major games on the Yale schedule when Yale learned for the first time, four days before the Princeton game, that he had played football while enrolled at Brown college.

Although today's action on the part of the athletic association was most unusual it was not entirely unexpected. Hithertofore Yale has held to the rule that a player must take part in either of the two big games in order to win his letter but the undergraduates were confident that Caldwell's exceptional playing would merit a waiving of the rule.

For the first time since 1924, the Eli eleven was given the championship award of a gold football for winning over both Princeton and Harvard. The coaches and trainer were also awarded gold footballs. Last year Yale won from Harvard and lost to Princeton and the year before tied Harvard and lost to Princeton.

The complete list of awards granted tonight by the executive committee of the Undergraduate Athletic association also included the award of the AYA to 35 members of the second football team. Numerals were granted to 32 freshmen who played in either the Harvard or Princeton freshmen games.

Varsity members who received their letters and gold footballs are as follows:

W. A. Webster (captain), J. D. Charlesworth, D. B. Cox, E. L. Decker, M. H. Eddy, D. B. Fishwick, A. S. Foote, J. P. Garvey, E. Goodwine, W. W. Greene, N. S. Hall, R. A. Phall, W. S. Hammersley, J. Sanger, R. E. Spiel, P. F. Swit, J. C. West, R. F. Wilson, E. A. Kell, F. L. Marting.

Gold footballs were also awarded to the members of the coaching staff, as follows: T. A. D. Jones, head coach; Major V. E. Prichard, M. A. Stevens, B. C. Chamberlin, C. A. Comerford, P. W. Bunnell, W. M. Lovejoy and M. E. Fuller, assistant coaches; and G. S. Connors, trainer.

BOSTON COLLEGE PREPARES FOR HOLY CROSS BATTLE

BOSTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—A scrimmage between the second and third teams and a fast signal drill on new offensive plays and formations for the varsity featured today's Boston College preparation for the Holy Cross game Saturday. A possible starting lineup was seen in the way the varsity took the field as follows:

Lenane, le; Herman, lt; Durant, lg; Clinton, c; Wilczewski, rg; McGuirk, rt; Murphy, re; Weston, qb; Dower, lhb; Creeden, rhb; Smith, fb. Captain Tom O'Brien was absent from his regular berth in the line due to a two-week old injury but went through a workout that indicated he will be in shape by Saturday. The first three teams will leave tomorrow night for the Sandy Burr Country club to practice in seclusion until Saturday.

YALE CLUB FAVORS RETENTION OF JONES

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—The executive committee of the Yale club of Montclair, N. J., went on record today as strongly in favor of retention of "Tad" Jones as coach of football at Yale and proposed to launch a nationwide movement among Yale graduates to attain that end.

Copies of the resolution were ordered sent to secretaries of all Yale Alumni associations, numbering about 150, with a request for an expression of their members' attitude on the question. Replies are to be read at an annual rally at the "Old Yale Barn" of Nicholas Roberts, club president, the night of December 3, at Montclair.

The resolution urged that every effort be made to induce Jones "to reconsider his resignation to the end that Yale men may look forward to his leadership for at least another three years." It heartily disapproved the plan for unpaid graduate coaching recently discussed by the Yale Alumni Weekly and recommended continuance of the present policy.

WEISMAN ELECTED TO HEAD EASTERN LEAGUE

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Herman J. Weisman, of Waterbury, Conn., tonight was re-elected president and secretary of the Eastern league at the league's annual meeting, held here. Weisman, who has served a one year term in the office, will serve for three years more.

A new office of vice president was created and Arthur J. Shean, president of the Springfield club named to fill it. Carroll B. Mayon, of Springfield, treasurer, was re-elected.

The opening date for the 1928 season was set for April 18, but team pairings for the first game were not announced. The pairings are to be decided upon at a January meeting to be held in a city chosen by the president.

The election of the officers was unanimous, with every club except Hartford represented.

President Wiesman and Samuel E. Arnowitz, of Albany, were named a committee of two to revise the constitution. Several clauses, especially those providing for adding strength to teams after September first and for post season series between pennant winners and second place teams, were discussed at tonight's meeting, but no action was taken by the league.

Elimination of post season games was predicted by Arnowitz at the conclusion of the meeting.

"The club owners apparently feel that no good can come of post season series and we will kill this clause" he declared.

Addingplayer s to the roster, after Sept. 1 will be regulatey by "an iron clad clause in which there will be no loopholes, Arnowitz said.

Approval of the transfer of the Providence club to Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston nationals, was approved by the league. Judge Fuchs was unable to atten dthe meeting.

The schedule for 1928 will consist of 154 games, with the season covering a 22 weeks period ending Sept. 16, only only one day appears on the calendar without a game, the Tuesday following Labor Day.

There was no discussion of economy measures. The owners felt that if they were able to finish the 1927 season, with its long runs of bad weather they could go through any future campaign. Clubs which talked of sponsoring a rule making compulsory the carrying of at least two players of no s Class A experience, dropped the matter when the meeting was called.

Slattery-Loughran Sign

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22—(AP)—Articles of agreement for a 15 round bout between Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, and Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, at the Madison Square Garden on December 12 to decide the dispute regarding the light heavyweight championship were formally signed here tonight by Jess McMahon, match maker for Tex Rickard, and Joe Smith, manager of Loughran.

McMahon stated that he already held the signature of Paul "Red" Carr, Slattery's manager, for the bout. McMahon also confirmed reports that the winner of the fight would meet Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., at Madison Square Garden on January 6.

EAST SIDE BOWLERS DOWN TAFTVILLE FIVE

At the Elks' club Tuesday evening the East Side team took two hotly contested strings from the fast Taftville team but failed to negotiate the grade in the third frame dropping the last string by a comfortable margin. The Taftville outfit composed of some of the fastest bowlers in the club and touted as being safely the winners of the evening's contest failed to live up to their much vaunted reputation and had about as many alibis for their defeat as a hound dog has fleas. O'Brien came through with the high single, 104, scoring enough in the last box of the third frame to nose out Millea for this honor by four pins, while Driscoll captured the high three strings with a total of 255, nosing out Millea for this place again by four pins.

The Taftville team felt the absence of Enos who is a high pin scorer and the East Side team was without the services of Riley and Risley. Riley it is understood is in New York understudy for "Joe" Humphrey, the announcer at the Garden, and Risley it is reported by the team will be either relegated to a "bush league" team or waivers are to be asked for him from from the other league.

The score follows:

It is expected McLarnin will make 137 pounds, two pounds over the lightweight limit, while Wallace normally weighs in at 132 pounds.

Both Wallace and McLarnin are outstanding contenders for the lightweight mantle worn by Sammy Mandell.

3 STUDEBAKER COMMANDERS
THE WORLD'S CHAMPION CAR

Nothing made by man in the history of the world has ever traveled so far so fast—25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes

Read the facts below

TO THE PUBLIC:

South Bend, Indiana, November 10th, 1927

On October 18th at 2:49 p. m., two strictly stock Studebaker Commander Sport Roadsters, and a strictly stock Commander Sedan, started at the Atlantic City Speedway (one and one-half mile board track) to run continuously for 25,000 miles and thereby, if successful, to establish a new world record for endurance; and also, if possible, to average better than a mile a minute and thus break all existing speed records not already held by Studebaker cars. These were the objectives sought by Studebaker.

This run was sanctioned and supervised by the American Automobile Association, which stationed a squad of 35 men on the job in charge of Val Haresnape, Secretary of the Contest Board of the Association. These men kept all of the records by means of the most accurate electrical time recording instruments and tape which registered every lap (16,667 laps) as each car passed over a wire stretched across the track immediately in front of the judges' stand, which was occupied by four A. A. A. men at all times—day and night.

In addition, at least two members of the A. A. A. Technical Committee kept an accurate record of all gas, oil and water replenishments, together with parts replacements and work done on the cars.

The sole duty of the Studebaker drivers and pit men was to keep the cars on the track and the average speed above a mile a minute. They had nothing to do with the recording of distance or speed.

The Official Results of the tests as duly certified by the American Automobile Association were as follows:

Both roadsters finished 25,000 miles on November 3rd at 1:37 p. m., which made the total elapsed time 15 days, 22 hours and 48 minutes, or 22,908 minutes, and the average speed 65.31 miles per hour for the entire distance.

The Sedan finished 25,000 miles on November 4th at 10:09 a. m., which made the total elapsed time 15 days, 19 hours and 30 minutes, or 24,300 minutes, and the average speed 61.98 miles per hour for the entire distance.

These are world records for distance covered and average speed. No machine made by man in the history of the world, be it airplane, automobile, steam engine, or ship, has even approached the performance of these Studebaker cars.

An accurate record of all repairs and replacements was kept on the three cars. At Studebaker's retail prices for parts, the total cost of all mechanical repairs and replacements (including labor) on the two Roadsters was $207.88 or 41 hundredths of a cent per mile for the 50,000 miles traveled.

The Sedan turned over during the night of November 2nd with a mileage of 21,390 miles to its credit, while going at the rate of 65 miles per hour. It was necessary to replace radiator, wheels, headlights and front axle, but the car was back on the track again in one hour and fifty-seven minutes and completed the 25,000 miles with an average speed of 61.98 miles per hour. The repair cost was, of course, made abnormally heavy on the Sedan by this wreck—totaling $408.34 or one and sixty-three hundredths cents per mile.

Competitive engineering and proving ground tests, plus analytical examinations of a hundred cars made during the past year, had convinced the men who make Studebaker cars, that they are superior in performance, endurance, and value to any other cars on the American market today.

Realizing the futility of superlative claims, so prevalent in automobile advertising, Studebaker determined seven months ago to go after all existing performance records held by stock automobiles and to submit the results to the public as official facts certified to by the highest American authority, namely the American Automobile Association.

COLLEGIANS AT PLAINFIELD TONIGHT

Tonight at the Plainfield Community house court the Plainfield Pros renew basketball hostilities with the Purple Collegians of Worcester. The Collegians have always been more or less of a thorn in the side of the Plainfield team and since the meeting of these two teams several years ago the Collegians hold a wide margin of victories over the Plainfield team. Last season the Collegians took two of three games played but not without a battle.

With their strengthened lineup the Plainfield Pros are hoping to get off on the right foot in tonight's contest and get the jump on their opponents. The Collegians present a strong lineup in Brusso and Casper in the forward line with Kettredge, former college star in the pivot position, and Hop Riopel and Ray in the backfield. Ray is a new man to the Collegian team but is rated as one of the best guards in the Bay State. The other four members of the team are no strangers in this section of Connecticut and are known to be exceptionally fine basketeers.

To combat this wealth of talent Manager Salisbury will use his best. Either Schofield, former Connecticut Aggie player and chosen on the mythical All-New England five, or Mondi Normandin will be at left forward. Dissinger will be in the other forward position. Stavinsky, the youngster who played such a brilliant game for Plainfield last season will be at center. Whitey Bernot and Madden will be the guards, and two better men for these positions will be hard to find.

For the preliminary game the Buddies, as yet undefeated, will clash with the Willimantic Y five and a hot battle is anticipated. The game will start at 8:15 o'clock.

POETRY

Harvest Time

The quiet of Autumn
Had settled over the valley,
Sentinel corn shocks in the fields
Guarded the Autumn fires on the hills.
Barns were filled with sweet-smelling hay
And the cattle fed in the meadows
Where the new grass was green.

A group sat on the store piazza
Discussing crops.
Alf Henderson sat on his wagon seat
With his feet swung over the wheel
He had a load of apples on
And two empty cider barrels.
He did considerable with his apples
And sold them for fancy prices.
He had been talking apples
For some time, when George Allen
Joined the party.

"Speakin' o' apples,"
He edged into the conversation,
"If old man Higgins ain't been settin' out
Half an acre o' young apple trees
North o' his horse barn."

"Got a perfect right to, ain't he?"
Alf Henderson asked a little tartly.

"Likely he has, but the old fool,
He's past eighty now
He'll be restin' over there in th' churchyard
Before them trees ever git to bearin'.
No, sir, he won't never live to see 'em bear."

"Wal, mebbe he won't.
But jest th' same the old man'll be livin
'Till he does die,
That's more'n can be said fer some."
—W. R. Hard, in Manchester (Vt.) Journal.

The End of a Perfect Day

When you come to the end of a perfect day,
And you sit alone with your thoughts,
While the chimes ring out with a carol gay
For the joys that the day has brought,
Do you think what the end of a perfect day
Can mean to a tired heart,
When the sun goes down with a flaming ray
And the dear friends have to part?

Well, this is the end of a perfect day,
Near the end of a journey, too.
But it leaves a thought that is big and strong
And a wish that is kind and true.
For memory has painted this perfect day
With colors that never fade,
And we find at the end of a perfect day
The soul of a friend we've made.
—Carrie Jacobs-Bond.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Dora—Are you happily married?

June—Indeed, my husband's scared to death of me.—Detroit News.

"Darling, you are the most beautiful woman in the world."

"Oh Harold, how quick you are at noticing things!"—Tit-Bits.

Tom—Ever notice how dauby most pictures look at close range?

Ted—Don't speak so loud. I told my girl over there she looked like a picture.—Boston Transcript.

Clerk—This is the latest patent life-saving belt made, sir.

Customer—Are they quite reliable?

Clerk—Kill, we're sold dozens of them and never had any complaints.—Vancouver Province.

Mrs. Newrich—Are you very sure, doctor, that I have the very latest form of influenza?

Doctor—Quite, madame. You cough exactly like the Countess of Wessex.—Answers, London.

Father—Where has Mamma gone?

Daughter—She is shopping.

Father—Why, what more does she need?

Daughter—Nothing. She's just looking to see if she can find anything she might need.—Pathfinder.

Sybil—Uncle told me I looked 13 years older than when he last saw me.

Jack—What confounded cheek!

"Not at all. When he last saw me I was six months old!"—Boston Post.

"Jackson," said the office manager, "there's a vacancy on the staff, and I rather thought of giving the place to your twin brother."

"Twin brother, sir?"

"Yes, the one I saw at the foot ball match when you were attending your grandmother's funeral last Wednesday," said the chief, smiling grimly.

"Oh—ah—er—am—yes," said Jackson. "I'll—er—go and fetch him!"

"That's right," said the manager, "and don't you come back till you've found him!"—Montreal Star.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Pneumonia kills three men to one woman.

The dead-leaf butterfly with its wings folded looks very much like a leaf.

Queen Elizabeth wore silk stockings made of pieces of silk sewn together.

A well was dug 363 feet deep in Jakutsk, Siberia, without getting below frozen earth.

Terrapin are now being raised on farms, since the best sources of the supply are being rapidly fished out.

Women of the Samoan islands sometimes wear beauty patches made of a thin luminous fungus that shines at night.

The historian Josephus writes that pages who walked before King Solomon on state occasions had gold dust powdered heavily on their hair.

To test their ability to withstand a pitching sea, men who apply for enlistment in the French navy are whirled and rolled about in a mechanical chair.

Fruit growers in south Germany have found a new use for the loud speaker. One fruit grower who tried everything possible to frighten birds from his orchard has erected a loud speaker as a scarecrow. The birds immediately began to shun the orchard for others and several other fruit growers have since used similar devices.

The University of Paris, the oldest in Europe and "the mother of all universities," has established a radio institute of university extension. Besides broadcasting courses direct from its amphitheatres it will send over the air specially prepared shorter courses on subjects ranging from commercial law to the care of children. At least fifteen minutes a day will be devoted to broadcasting talks in English, says Gas Logic.

Anything goes on a Warsaw (Poland) horse cab. In their competition with the taxicabs, which appeared in Poland for the first time two or three years ago, the horse cabbies will take anything on board their "seagoing" hacks. It is a daily sight to see horse cabs advancing slowly down the street with loads of pianos, sofas, cupboards and chairs. Their rates, too, are cheaper than the taxi rates. The horse-drawn vehicles charge about one zloty, which is slightly more than 10 cents, for each trip, regardless of the distance, providing it is in the city limits.

Hassan Effendi, who prided himself as being the Beau Brummel of Scutaris, has been arrested and sentenced to a week's imprisonment on the charge of wearing the baggy trousers known as chalvars, universally worn under the old regime, but prohibited recently by law of the new republic. The indignant dandy has carried the case to the court of appeals, alleging that he wears no antique chalvar and that the trousers which roused the suspicions of an ignorant police are actually the latest cry in civilized garb, imported from the United States as "Charleston" trousers.

GAINS EXCEEDED THE LOSSES AT THE CLOSE OF IRREGULAR DAY IN MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Chief speculative interest in today's stock market centered in about a dozen assorted specialties, which were bid up to new high records, on a huge turnover. The general list presented considerable irregularity although gains again exceeded losses at the close. Trading, which was largely professional in character, again crossed 2,000,000 shares, bringing the year's total to date just a few thousand shares short of the half billion mark.

In the commodity markets, considerable interest was aroused by the advance of 2 cents a bushel in wheat futures, based largely on unfavorable Argentine crop reports. Cotton lost about half of yesterday's $2.50 to $3 a bale advance, due to the failure of Liverpool traders to follow up the rise which started here on the publication of the government ginning report.

There was little in the day's trade news to influence the movement of stock prices, although some fresh buying came into the non-ferrous metal shares on the announcement of an increase in zinc prices. Call money was in abundant supply at the renewal rate of 3 1-2 per cent despite the calling of about $10,000,000 in loans. Wall street bankers do not profess to be disturbed over the recent shipments of gold to Canada and the advance in sterling to around the "gold export point."

Aggressive pool operations were reported during the day in such issues as Abraham & Straus, Coty, Jones Bros. Tea, Midland Steel Products preferred; Montgomery-Ward, Otis Steel Prior preferred, Radio Transue & Williams and Westinghouse Electric, all of which were marked up 2 to 8 points to new high records for the year, or longer.

Indications of concerted buying also were apparent in American Republics, Consolidated Gas, International Combustion, Mack Trucks, Rossia Insurance, Symington and Woolworth.

Bullish operations in the motors centered in the Dodge Bros. issues, which advanced 2 points or more, and in Packard and Hupp, which continued their climb to new high ground. General Motors moved within a range of about 2 points, closing half a point higher at 129 1-4. U. S. Steel common also closed only fractionally higher at 142 3-8, although some of the independents recorded good gains. American Tobacco issues failed to respond to reports of a large tax refund by the government and pronounced heaviness also was shown by Gotham Hosiery, Purity Baking B. and Western Electrical Instrument.

Except for the establishment of a new high by Norfolk & Western at 201 1-2 on a revival of reports that dividends would be guaranteed by the Pennsylvania, which already owns half the stock, under proposed lease terms, there was little of interest.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Sugar prices held steady but coffee futures reacted 50 to 75 points.

Except for a slight recession in sterling and another break of about 20 points in Japanese yen to around 46.70 cents, the leading foreign exchanges held firm in quiet trading.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Bond prices displayed further irregularity today, but current easy money conditions militated against any material recessions. The soundness of the market again was exemplified by prompt over subscription, reported by the offering syndicate, of the $75,000,000 Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5 per cent issue.

Activity of Peruvian bonds was the feature of the day's trading, the 7 and 7 1-2 per cent issues selling at new highs of 102 5-8 and 107 respectively. Strength of these securities was associated with reports that $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 of an authorized issue of $75,000,000 Peruvian bonds will be offered within a short time. Other foreign obligations were quiet and mixed in tone.

Traders in the railway division were disposed to seek out hitherto inactive mortgages which might be out of line with the leaders.

International Great Northern 6s and Canadian Pacific 4s were heavily bought. Such outstanding bonds as Rock Island 4 1-2s and Erie 5s were subject to moderate profit-taking.

Several industrials attracted attention, notably Andes Copper Mining 7s, which reached new high ground in response to recent stiffening of copper prices. Barnsdall 6s, Dodge 6s and Julius Kayser 5 1-2s were strong and active.

Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1-2s reflected the strength of the stock, into which they are convertible, by jumping 4 1-2 points to 235, the year's peak. Profit taking later, however, clipped away two-thirds of the gain. Other utilities were dull.

Federal treasury issues sustained the sharpest reaction in two weeks or more, but sales were not numerous. Liberty 3 1-2s were firm.

UNFORTUNATE NEW LONDON WOMAN SENT TO NORWICH INEBRIATE FARM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—Mrs. Viola Mayo Brewer, colored, wife of Larney Brewer, 20 High street, was in the police court this morning on a charge of being a common drunkard. She was committed to the inebriate farm at Norwich State hospital by Judge S. Victor Prince. Mrs. Brewer was arrested yesterday by Patrolmen George Cockell and William Corcoran when her mother, Mrs. Stevens of Hempstead street, made complaint at police headquarters. The Brewer woman has become an habitual drinker and yesterday went to her mother's home where she started a row, which led Mrs. Stevens to seek to have her daughter put where she could not obtain strong drink, and possibly, bring about a cure.

Mrs. Brewer will not be actually in the bounds of the inebriate farm since that is reserved for men patients; she will be given treatment at the state hospital proper. She is by no means the first woman to be committed to the inebriate farm since it was opened, nine or ten years ago. There have been many women sent there from courts all over the state and at present a number of such unfortunate and weak females are under the supervision of the hospital superintendent, Dr. Franklin S. Wilcox. Frequently a course of sprouts enables a woman patient to brace up and conquer the drink or drug habit, so that she can be trusted to return home and once more become a useful and dependable member of human society.

Altogether 32 arrests were made and these drivers were detected driving with improper devices in Norwich and Groton. The action of the state police is part of a state-wide movement to cause the number of accidents to be reduced to a minimum. HOLIDAY ILLUMINATION IS VOTED BY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—The public welfare committee, comprising the entire membership of the city council, with Councilor Cornelius D. Twomey, chairman, convened in the office of City Manager Holt this afternoon at 5 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the matter referred to the committee, that of furnishing funds for decorating and illumination of the principal business streets at Yuletide. Councilors Edward L. Streeter, Jr., and Lucius L. Whiton opposed vigorously the proposition submitted by the Connecticut company, which was accepted and which entails an expenditure of $7,500. The meeting was called to order by Councilor Twomey, all members of the council being present except Councilor Whiton. In attendance were several merchants, in favor of the proposition of the power company, which is to provide lights on poles on State street, from Huntington to Bank street, from Bank street to Tilley street and from State street, on Main street, to John street for an expenditure of $1,500 for five years. At the end of that period the city will own the lights and the only expenditure thereafter for such decoration will be the power consumed for illumination.

Besides the illumination, which will be a streamer of bulbs on each street, small Christmas trees will be attached to the poles. City Manager Holt submitted a proposition, greatly modified from that submitted by the merchants, or Connecticut Power company, which would entail an expenditure of but $2,500.

After the matter had been freely discussed, Councilor Scott offered a motion that the petition of the merchants, which was the $7,500 expenditure, be approved. This motion was seconded by Councilor John F. Murray. The motion being seconded, Councilors Streeter and Whiton attacked the Connecticut Power company, principally because of the amount that public service utility demanded for the use of the lights and consumption of fuel. The discussion was vigorous and general and resulted in the meeting occupying an hour. After the attack upon the power company, Edward S. Neilan, Graham S. Hislop of the chamber of commerce and Secretary Carepy of the chamber addressed the meeting, all being in favor of the $7,500 expenditure. When, finally a vote on the matter was taken, the proposition was carried 4 to 3. Mayor May and Councilors Robert Chappell, Malcolm M. Scott and John F. Murray voting in favor of the illumination and decoration and Councilors Cornelius Twomey, Lucius E. Whiton and Edward L. Streeter, Jr., voting against it. The matter will be decided upon at a special meeting of the council to be held Friday night, for Mayor May will call such a meeting Wednesday.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

HAS THE CITY GONE WILD?

CLAIMS BOY STUMBLED FROM WALK AND FELL IN PATH OF AUTOMOBILE

Defense testimony that James W. Johnson, Jr., of Mystic, stumbled and fell in the path of the automobile was offered in the superior court here Tuesday afternoon before Judge John Rufus Booth and a jury in the superior court in the trial of the $10,000 suit brought against Charles E. Wheeler, a Mystic manufacturer.

The boy was between 8 and 9 years old at the time of the accident on Sept. 4, 1923, and it is claimed that he was struck by Mr. Wheeler's machine in what is known as Bank square, in Mystic, where there was excavation work and there was a footbridge over a ditch, which the boy was crossing.

A previous suit brought against Wheeler was non-suited, but Attorney G. C. Morgan brought another suit, alleging new facts in the complaint. Attorney B. H. Hewitt is counsel for the defendant.

Medical testimony was given for the plaintiff by Dr. W. E. McGinley, of New London, Dr. L. M. Allyn, of Groton, and Martha E. Gaskell, a hospital nurse. She said that the boy was in the hospital for 55 days. Others to testify were James Watrous, who picked the boy up after the Wheeler machine had hit him, and Emanuel E. Gracey, who was driving a coal truck near the scene of the accident.

For the defendant, a map of the location was shown and explained by Edwin E. Bucklin.

John R. Wheeler, of Mystic, son of the defendant, testified that he took the boy to the hospital. He said he heard the father of the boy say to the boy in the hospital: "Jimmie, why didn't you do as I told you, why didn't you mind me?" to which the boy replied "Father, I couldn't help it. Another boy was chasing me."

James W. Johnson, father of the plaintiff, gave testimony that his son had left the hospital before the witness consulted a lawyer about bringing suit against Mr. Wheeler.

Charles E. Wheeler, 32, of East Main street, Mystic, the defendant, testified that he was driving a Cadillac touring car at the time of the accident with the brakes in good condition. He said he is not a fast driver and was not driving fast then, but at about 12 miles an hour with the car perfectly under control and a clear road ahead of him. The first he saw of the Johnson boy, the witness said, he was running on the bridge. He stumbled and fell on his face in the path of the automobile. Mr. Wheeler said he had applied his brakes when he saw the boy running and when the boy fell, he stopped his machine within its own length so that the boy's body was under the middle of the machine. The witness said he got out of the machine at once and Mr. Watrous was helping the boy out from under the car. The boy was taken to the hospital.

On cross-examination, Mr. Morgan brought out that the defendant does not wear glasses when he is driving an automobile, but sometimes uses glasses at night to read under an electric light.

Trial of the suit will be continued today (Wednesday).

The following is the jury: Henry Gebrath, Frederick A. Gallup, Ashley T. Boon, Norwich; Era L. Barnes, Preston; Henry S. Park, Colchester; Joseph Roode, Griswold; William H. Partelo, North Stonington; George A. Miller, John E. Frink, Franklin; John Morrison, Sprague; Clarence Fitch, Lisbon; John H. Herbert, Mason T. Gray, Voluntown.

SETTLED SUIT AGAINST NEW LONDON FOR $750

Settlement out of court for $750 in favor of Mary Bayerle, of New London, against the city of New London, which she sued for $5,000 for injuries received in fall upon a sidewalk in Broad street, was effected Tuesday. The case was scheduled to be tried before Judge John R. Booth and a jury in the superior court in this city.

The plaintiff claimed that on Jan. 24, 1927, while walking in Broad street on the northerly side of property owned by the late Richard C. Morris, she fell spraining and bruising her ankle and sustaining other minor injuries. She charged that the sidewalk was out of repair.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT FOR TRADING COVE CRASH

Settlement out of court, reported favorably for the plaintiff, was effected Tuesday in the $11,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Kamilla Wadka, of Montville, against Malcolm Austin of this city. The case was one of those assigned for trial before Judge John R. Booth and a jury in the superior court here Tuesday.

According to the allegations the plaintiff was riding in her automobile, operated by her husband on March 12, 1927, when it figured in a collision with an automobile driven by the defendant who was enroute to New London to attend a wedding.

The defendant set up a counter-claim for $3,500 claiming that it was the plaintiff's fault due to the inefficient handling of the car by her husband.

The collision between the two machines took place at Trading Cove on the Norwich-New London highway.

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN AGAINST ACCIDENTAL DEATHS

Waging a nation wide campaign against accidental deaths, which each year take a toll of life in excess of American losses in action during the World war, the American Red Cross has given first aid and life saving instructions to more than 1,100 persons in Connecticut during its last fiscal year.

These figures, taken from the organization's annual report, were made public by local Red Cross officials, who declare that the year has seen a growing interest in accident prevention and the dissemination of first aid and life saving knowledge.

Connecticut now has six chartered Red Cross life saving corps, and during the year 739 persons were enrolled in the service after receiving intensive training in the scientific methods of rescuing drowning persons and reviving unconscious victims of water, gas, electric shock, and smoke. In the United States, nearly 135,000 persons are enrolled in the Red Cross Life Saving corps, while during the last year the organization conducted more than 3,000 lectures and demonstrations. National headquarters of the Red Cross, in Washington, states that hardly a week passes that a life is not saved as a result of this training. One Red Cross life saver is accredited with nearly 300 rescues.

LIONS ENTERTAIN BOYS AT THANKSGIVING DINNER

The Norwich Lions club held its annual Thanksgiving dinner for deserving boys of the city Tuesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. There was a large attendance of members and guests, the latter including visiting Lions from New London. William R. Frisbie, club president, presided at the meeting which opened with the singing of America. C. E. Carpenter said grace and Earl Taggart was the song leader, assisted by Dr. K. K. Markoff. N. J. Spellman presided at the piano.

The turkey dinner menu comprised celery and olives, English beef broth with barley, roast turkey, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, French bread, ice cream, assorted cakes and coffee.

As the boys entered the room they sang Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here. One side of the boys' table competed with the other side, when the groups sang Show Me the Way to Go Home, and Jingle Bells. C. E. Carpenter spoke to the boys explaining the significance of Thanksgiving day. Mr. Carpenter told the boys, who had just sung Home Sweet Home, to think of their parents' struggle to keep the home together and to make good American citizens of them.

The speaker of the day was Chief Needahbad of the Penobscot tribe of Indians, of Old Town, Me. The chief gave a very interesting talk on Indian customs and sang a number of Indian songs. He gave an interesting account of the Indian welcome dance and gave an illustration of the dance with Indian rhythm, accompanying himself on an Indian musical instrument. He also gave an exhibition of the Indian Charleston. After giving the Lions' roar in honor of the chief the members and all present brought the meeting to a close with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

The new plant of Atlantic Fisheries corporation, located at the former plant of the Groton Iron Works on the Thames river at Groton, has just begun active operations in all its departments, employing a force of about 100 men. The arrival of the steel fishing trawler Seiner on Monday with 75,000 pounds of fish furnished material for the work under the supervision of R. A. Ross, manager at Groton and large quantities of filet of haddock were put through the processes.

The unloading of trawler with the modern tramway conveyer took a little less than four hours and the boat was off again Tuesday morning for another fishing trip on the Georgia banks.

The first carload of frozen fish has already been shipped out and on Friday another carload will be shipped, following which four or five carloads a week will be shipped from the Groton plant according to plans for the immediate future. Eventually these shipments will be increased.

Besides the four or five carloads of frozen filet of haddock the plant expects to ship from 40,000 to 50,000 pounds of fresh fish from the plant each week.

Another trawler is scheduled to arrive Friday and beginning next week trawlers will arrive at the Groton plant on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

INFERS THE STORM STORY OF AVIATOR GILES WAS A FAKE

Major Bowie, Forcaster at San Francisco, Asserts That Such a Storm as the British Airman Reported Encountering 500 Miles Out From San Francisco "Was Impossible"—Giles, Who Had Hopped Off For Hawaii, Reported That a Storm Had Forced His Biplane Into a Tail Spin That Almost Cost Him His Life.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23—(AP)—Officials of the San Francisco weather bureau today cast doubt on the story of Capt. Frederick A. Giles, British aviator, that a violent storm forced him to turn back at sea yesterday on his attempted flight to Hawaii.

Major E. H. Bowie, forecaster, asserted that the atmospheric conditions which Capt. Giles reported encountering about 500 miles out from the Golden Gate were "simply impossible," and added "it is not reasonable to think that they could have existed."

Capt. Giles landed yesterday afternoon at San Simeon, Cal., after taking off here at 7.24 a. m., and heading westward over the Pacific. He reported that he ran into a severe storm that sent his biplane into a tail spin, spilled his instruments, chart, food and signal flares into the water, damaged the heavily loaded plane and almost cost him his life.

The flier was en route here to arrange repairs on the plane and a third attempt to span the 2,400 miles to Hawaii by air when the weather bureau statement was made. He had not been reached for comment late today.

"There were no winds such as could have wrecked Capt. Giles' plane," declared Major Bowie. "Four ships reported clouds in some spots but these were as high as 2,500 or 3,000 feet."

"There were no indications of abnormal weather conditions along the course Capt. Giles was to cover in reports received from the ships. The violent weather conditions reported by Capt. Giles were simply impossible and it is not reasonable to think that they could have existed."

Major Bowie charged that the aviator and his flight manager had not "played the game" with the weather bureau and said no forecast had been made for the flier since last Saturday.

Capt. Giles had acted contrary to the advice of the weather bureau, Major Bowie asserted. He said when favorable forecasts were given the airman "seemed in no disposition to fly," and then last Saturday, when the bureau warned against a start, Capt. Giles hopped off, and flew out 29 miles to sea, dumped part of his gasoline and returned here.

While no forecast has been furnished after Saturday, Capt. Giles was supplied with weather reports from ships, Major Bowie said.

T. R. Reed, another member of the weather bureau staff, declared that reports from six ships along the route Capt. Giles was to take said nothing about squalls or unusual atmospheric conditions.

Before leaving San Luis Obispo early today for San Francisco, Capt. Giles said he was thown partly out of the cockpit of his plane when it was thrown into a tail spin at an altitude of 1,000 feet.

"I managed to grasp the gasoline feed line overhead, and as the plane fell, I worked my way back into my seat, straightening the plane as it fell," he said.

Capt. Giles said he was only a short distance over the water when he brought the plane out of the spin. The flier expressed doubt that a monoplane could have withstood the force of the storm.

After dumping 300 gallons of gasoline to lighten the strain on the wings, he related that he headed back toward the coast and made an emergency landing with only two gallons of fuel left.

STATEMENT MADE BY THE BRITISH AVIATOR

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23—(AP)—Captain Frederick A. Giles, British aviator, who landed at San Simeon, Cal., yesterday after his failure to fly to the Hawaiian Islands, arrived in San Francisco tonight. Despite the assertion of weather officials that his story was "impossible" he reiterated his claim that "foul weather" upset and damaged his biplane 480 miles west of San Francisco Tuesday, forcing him to speed back to a safe landing in San Luis Obispo county.

In an interview with the Associated Press, Captain Giles said:

"I can't understand all this controversy over my accident. In the first place I never described the foul weather conditions encountered at sea as a storm in the sense one usually refers to a storm. The air conditions that caused my plane to upset would not be observed by ships nor could they be charted on any weather map. I did not fall in a squall.

"You can quote me as saying that as a foreigner to this country I am thoroughly disgusted with the action of local weather bureau officials who today took advantage of my absence from San Francisco by issuing statements in which they declared that the atmospheric conditions that forced me back were 'simply impossible.'"

GILES ORDERED TO GET HIS PLANE "READY TO GO"

DETROIT, Nov. 23—(AP)—A sharp telegram of censure, in which he was ordered to get his ship "ready to go" instead of performing for "cheap and vulgar publicity," was dispatched tonight to Captain Frederick A. Giles, British airman, who proposes to fly to Australia, by William H. Rosenwarne, backer of the flight.

Mr. Rosenwarne's telegram, made public through the Associated Press, was the first intimation of friction between the airman and his backer. In commenting on the matter, Mr. Rosenwarne, said he was puzzled as to how Giles could have lost his navigation instruments without losing the instrument board on the machine. He also intimated that the flier was guilty of poor sportsmanship.

FOUR MEN EXECUTED IN MEXICO CITY PRISON

MEICO CITY, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Four men were marched out to their death today within the walls of the Mexico City prison. They were executed for the recent attempt against the life of General Alvaro Obregon, former president of the republic and now sole remaining presidential candidate.

The first to face the firing squad was Miguel Agustin Pro Juarez, described as a Roman Catholic priest. He met death calmly, kneeling with clapsed hands for a brief prayer, then standing and extending his arms in blessing. He crumpled over as the bullets passed through his body.

A moment later, the second man, Luis Segura Vilchis, an electrical engineer, was led ffrom his cell. He walked across the courtyard with steady step, glanced with firm, set face at the dead body of the priest, but said no word. When he reached the wall he turned and faced the squad, gazing straight at his executioners, and fell before their bullets without a sound.

Humberto Projuarez, brother of the priest, was third. Also with unfalteringly step he crossed the courtyard, walking past the two dead bodies. His face was pale but composed. Without uttering a word he looked into the rifles and fell bullet-ridden beside the others, and received the coup de grace.

Last came Juan Tirado, who had sat in his cell hearing the shots that ended his companions' lives. He appeared weak from wounds which he had received at the time of the attempt against Obregon. He was pale, but resolute. He crossed the courtyard with a stride less firm than his predecessors. He wore a blood-stained cloak, once the property of Lamberto Ruiz, another occupant of the murder car, who was killed by Obregon's companions in the pursuit following the attempted assassination.

Tirado shuddered as he went forward, glancing with a shifty eye at the three bodies on the ground.

"I wish I could see my mother and say good bye to her," he said. A volley crashed and echoed through the courtyard and his body lurched and fell.

FIGHT BETWEEN POLITICAL FACTIONS IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Akla., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Exchange of verbal salvos was the outstanding development today between two Oklahoma political factions at odds over the question of convening a special session of the legislature December 6 to investigate the executive department and other state offices.

The assertion of Representative Thomas Johnson, one of a committee of four legislators who have called the session, that he has "concrete proof of more than a dozen irregularities," was the most recent in the interchange of retorts courteous and otherwise that has been in progress for three days.

The committee in calling the session, it claimed, acted on inherent rights, but Governor Hinry S. Johnston, in refusing to issue an executive call for the session, declared their legislative rights were conferred and not inherent.

Governor Johnston denied the committee's charge that state employes were ready to depart in a fleet of state owned automobiles to dissuade legislators favorable to the petition for a special session.

YOUTH WITH $400 IN BANK DENIED SLEEPING PLACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—James Moore, 19-year-old youth of Lawrence, Mass., who recently acquired notoriety and a jail sentence by reason of his custom of sleeping in subway stations so that he might save money from his work as a dish washer and porter has been denied sleeping quarters in the municipal lodging house, it was revealed today.

Under an alias Moore has slept at the city's "free hotel" several nights, the superintendent said, but when he applied for admission Monday night, he was turned away on the grounds that he had laid claim to having a $400 bank account.

Moore was rescued from a 30-day sentence for disorderly conduct last month when Thomas Eger, a lawyer, intervened and obtained his release, giving the youth a job at a golf club of which he is a member. At Mr. Eger's office it was said today that it was not known whether Moore still held the job.

CHICAGO WINS DECISION ON THE DIVERSION OF WATER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—All material phases in the dispute over the diversion of water from Lake Michigan were decided in favor of Illinois and the Chicago sanitary district by Charles Evans Hughes, former associate justice, in a report filed by him today with the supreme court as special master.

The Great Lakes states which contested the diversion will be granted an opportunity to file with the court briefs challenging the findings and conclusions reached by Mr. Hughes. Afterwards the court will set a day for hearing oral arguments of all parties concerned and will then for itself, under its reserved right, decide how far it will adopt as its own the findings and conclusions of its special master and to what extent, if any, these should be modified.

PREMIER OF RUMANIA UNDERGOES OPERATION

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 23—(AP)—The Rumanian premier, Ionel Bratianu, underwent an operation this afternoon for an abscess of the throat. The surgeons were obliged to perform tracheotomy to relieve the difficulty breathing; they inserted a silver tube in the windpipe.

The operation was described as successful, but the general condition of the premier this evening is causing his physicians and political associates grave anxiety, owing to a recurrence of nephritis (inflammation of the kidneys).

Chicago Gangsters In $100,000 Bonds

Must Answer Charges Ranging From Disorderly Conduct to Attempted Murder.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—(AP)—Chicago gangsters trying to [illegible] each other to determine who is [illegible] were too busy appearing in co[illegible] today to do any more shooting.

More than a dozen members of the two factions vying for control of bootlegging and gambling marched in an out of court and when it was all over, they had left more than $100,000 in bonds to insure their appearance to answer charges ranging from disorderly conduct and carrying concealed weapons to attempted murder.

The police, who yesterday killed a gangster trying to escape them, today again did all the shooting but their aim was not so good. Sergeant Thomas Lynch, commander of a detective squad, was shot and fatally wounded by a member of his own squad while they were chasing an automobile believed containing gangsters.

The gangsters, however, succeeded in exploding a bomb in front of what the police thought was a gambling house conducted by the syndicate opposed to "Scarface" Al Capone, intended victim of an assassination plot foiled recently when the police raided a downtown hotel, and found shotguns trained on a cigar store across the street frequented by Capone.

Among the gangsters who did not appear in court was Joseph Aiello, one of three brothers heading the gang opposed to Capone. Aiello was refused a police escort to his home yesterday when released from jail. Today his attorney presented a doctor's statement that he was too ill to come to court.

The streets in front of the South Clark street police station, where many of the gangsters appeared to answer court summons were closely guarded by extra policemen and detectives who said they were looking for machine gunners or other indications of a new battle.

Capone issued a statement saying that he did not want to hurt any one and hoped no one wanted to hurt him. He said he wanted only peace.

TO REOPEN COAL MINES IN COLORADO MONDAY

DENVER, Nov. 23—(AP)—Coal mining companies in northern Colorado plan to reopen their mines Monday, officials said today. All of the mines except the Columbine, where five strikers were killed Monday, have been idle since the I. W. W. strike of miners started more than five weeks ago.

National guard troops now are in complete charge of the district. With headquarters established at the Columbine mine, companies of the soldiers have been stationed at the various other properties.

The strikers have announced they will carry on the strike by peaceable means until they have been granted the Jacksonville wage scale.

The southern Colorado mines reported increased working forces today and there was no activity on the part of the strikers. I. W. W. leaders at Walsenburg said, however, that a telegram had been sent to the national headquarters of the association in Chicago, asking permission to resume mass picketing.

RUTH SNYDER AND GRAY EXECUTION WEEK OF JAN. 9-16

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Broyn Snyder, of Queen Village, mother and housewife, and Henry Judd Gray, her paramour, a corset salesman, of East Oranke, N. J., must pay with their lives some night during the week beginning January 9 for the murder of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, artist and editor.

The time for their execution in the death chamber at Sing Sing prison was fixed today by the court of appeals, which yesterday upheld their conviction in the supreme court of Queens county last May. Each of the seven judges of the court signed the death warrants which were sent to Warden Lawes of Sing Sing prison.

With today's action by the court, the only hope of Mrs. Snyder and Judd Gray is in the clemency of Gov. Smith.

VALUABLE GEMS SAVED BY A MISUNDERSTANDING

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—(AP)—Because a maid misunderstood directions and packed the wrong jewels, she unwittingly saved Mrs. Lucius Foster, wife of a Chicago banker, a strand of pearls and a diamond pin valued at approximately $38,000, Mrs. Foster revealed tonight.

Mrs. Foster's suitcase, containing her jewels, was stolen last Sunday night while she was about to leave Buffalo after a visit. Thinking the maid had packed the jewels which she requested, Mrs. Foster estimated her loss at about $45,000. Instead the loss was only several cheaper jewels, valued at $3,900 Mrs. Foster said.

Chain Letters For Coolidge Abandoned

Originator Has Requested That All Work on the Plan Cease Immediately.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The plan to draft President Coolidge into candidacy for re-election by means of a series of chain letters was abandoned today by its originator, Philip M. Tucker, Boston banker. He issued a statement requesting that all work on the plan cease immediately.

The idea was entirely his own, he said, and he denied published story that Frank W. Stearns and former Senator William M. Butler, close friends of the president, had anything to do with it. Mr. Tucker said his purpose was "to make it possible fo the great mass of American citizens to speak for Mr. Coolidge as with one voice."

Abandonment of the project was in response to the expressed wish of the president that any petitions favoring his candidacy be discontinued, "in view of the president's wishes," Mr. Tucker said, "it seems best to desist from trying to bring further pressure upon him to run. I trust that all work on my plan will cease immediately."

Thanksgiving Meditations

Some there are who great Thanksgiving in a glum, half-hearted way; granting not a thought of gladness as a tribute to the day.

They forget the Pilgrim Fathers, how they struggled year on year, facing peril every moment that we might be happy here.

They forget Thanksgiving's meaning, mobilize for drink and meat; pausing not to count the trifles that have made Life's living sweet.

Let's be glad for all the friendships that are found along the way; bring them into sweet reunion in our hearts Thanksgiving Day!

Let's cherish all the pleasantries, the jokes and jests and smiles that make the going easy over Life's uneven miles.

A little story now and then is better than a sneer; a little jesting cures a grouch far quicker than a tear.

Be glad if you can only grin—a few grins laid away look mighty good parading on your face Thanksgiving Day.

Be thankful for your talents, too, though humble as can be; a man of humble talents was the first to cross the sea.

We can't all build skyscrapers, but we can pass up the bolts that make the mighty girders stand old Earth's volcanic jolts.

Be glad your arms are sturdy arms and not mere forms of clay—the strongest should stay longest on their knees Thanksgiving Day!

COAL STRIKE SYMPATHIZERS WERE ROUTED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Several thousand New Yorkers today routed a small band of pickets parading on lower Broadway with banners denouncing treatemnt given Colorado coal mine strikers. The paraders were scattered and the banners torn from their bands.

The band, composed of about 20 men and women, had gathered in front of the Standard Oil building and were immediately greeted with jeers and boos by the thousands of persons who were promenading after lunch. Laborers on nearby construction jobs joined in the fracas.

About the time the disturbance was underway, a statement was being issued from the offices of John D. Rockfeller, Jr., in which he declared he neither directly nor indirctly had an connection with the Columbine mine in northern Colorado, scene of the orders. The statement was occasioned by a charge by David Sheehan, of the miners5 committee, that state police who fired upon the striking miners were "hired assassins" of Mr. Rockefeller.

The band appeared suddenly in front of the oil company's building shortly after noon and soon attracted a crowd by their banners. Some of these read: "We Protest Against the Murder of Colorado Strikers," "Down With Colorado Cossacks," "Rockefeller You Are Guilty—The Ludlow Massacre and the Denver Massacre" and "John D. Rockefellew, Your Gunmen Will Not Break the Solidarity of Labor."

Nineteen directors of the company were named defendants and the court was asked to restrain them from making any issues of capital stock, which might have prior dividend rights over the original stock nad from using $60,000,000 in five per cent. gold mortgage bonds and $100,000,000 worth of preferred stock for the payment of dividends declared on the original issue.

The petition asserted the directors sought illegally to invalidate the original stock last August 5, when they authorized issuance of the bonds and preferred stock.

RECORD HEAT IN NEW YORK FOR THANKSGIVING EVE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Instead of the crisp, cold weather of the Pilgrim fathers' Thanksgiving, New York today experienced the warmest Thanksgiving eve in the annals of the weather bureau. Heavy coats were discarded as the official thermometer touched 70 degrees at one o'clock, topping by one degree the previous high record made in 1913. Tomorrow's prediction read "fair and colder."

THANKSGIVING ADDRESS BY PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

The Address Was Broadcasted By a Score of Radio Stations—The Chief Executive Made a Personal Appeal to the People to Give Thanks For Another Year of Peace and Domestic Contentment—Read His Thanksgiving Day Proclamation Asking For a Continuation of Divine Favor.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—The radio was placed at the command of President Coolidge tonight for a personal appeal to the people to give thanks for another year of peace and domestic contentment.

On the eve of another anniversary of the first Thanksgiving by a handful of colonists more than 300 years ago, a hookup of a score of radio stations was arranged to bring for the first time in history to millions of people the words of a president reading his Thanksgiving day proclamation asking for a continuation of divine favor.

Whereas, the first observance in New England in the seventeenth century found the very cradle of American civilization surrounded by hostile savages and wilderness, tonight's ceremony beheld the president of the new nation letting his voice carry to a civilized people from coast to coast, over the cities and farms which have arisen from the forests, and even possibly abroad where the still young republic has assumed a commanding influence.

Reminding the nation that fields and factories have yielded abundantly during the year, Mr. Coolidge's proclamation declared that with these had come a more profound knowledge of the higher values of life.

"There has been advancement in our physical well-being," the proclamation said. "We have increased our desire for the things that administer to the mind and to the soul. We have raised the mental and moral standards of life.

"We have had the blessings of peace and honorable and friendly relations with our sister nations throughout the world. Disasters visiting certain of our states have touched the heart of a sympathetic nation which has responded generously out of its abundance. In continuing to remember those in affliction we should rejoice in our ability to give them relief."

The program of which the address by the president was the principal part was the signal for a day of prayer and thanksgiving over the country tomorrow. Leading the rest of the nation, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will attend morning services of the First Congregational church in Keith's theatre, the congregation being required to use other buildings for its exercises while its own structure is being repaired. Upon returning from the services, the president will be serenaded by the army band with music appropriate to the occasion, the public having been invited to the white house grounds for this ceremony.

The usual quantity of turkeys and other Thanksgiving delicacies have arrived at the white house where the President and Mrs. Coolidge will have as dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, their house guests. John Coolidge will not be home as Amherst college which he attends has declared only the one day a holiday.

At the white house the balance of the day will be spent quietly as all business will be suspended at the executive offices along with all other government departments. As soon as the holiday is over the usual quota of officials and army and navy officers will make an exodus from the capital to attend the Army-Navy football game in New York Saturday.

WAGE REDUCTIONS FACE 8,000 COTTON MILL WORKERS

BOSTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Thanksgiving eve found more than 8,000 cotton mill workers in half a dozen Maine and Massachusetts cities faced with immediate wage reductions averaging about 10 per cent as a result of the latest textile retrenchments announced today from Waterville, Me., and Ipswich, Mass.

The Lockwood mills, employing 700 to 800 in Waterville, Me., announced a decrease effective next Monday of not more than 10 per cent. At the same time Russell H. Leonard, treasurer of the Ipswich mills at Ipswich, Mass., announced a 10 per cent cut at all company plants in Ipswich, Gloucester and Lowell, affecting some 1,500 employes.

PLANE CARRIER SARATOGA WAS PLACED IN DRYDOCK

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The ticklish job of drydocking the giant airplane carrier Saratoga, which was placed in commission last week, was accomplished at the Philadelphia navy yard this afternon without the slightest mishap.

The great ship, 888 feet long and with a displacement of 33,000 tons, will be scraped, painted and otherwise conditioned before she makes her "shakedown" cruise to the west coast where she will join the Pacific fleet.

The carrier, which has cost approximately $40,000,000, was guided out of her berth at the ship yard cautiously so that she would not stick in the mud on the sides of the channel. Carefully she was hauled around until her nose turned south and then proceeded on the four-mile journey which took one hour and fifty-five minutes.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPT. WAS INDICTED FOR LIBEL

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 23—(AP)—The Rev. Marna S. Poulson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, tonight was indicted on charges of transmitting libellous statements to newspapers in linking three judges with organized vice in this city.

The grand jury handed the indictment up to Common Pleas Judge Daniel L. Brennan after waiting until 8 o'clock for Prosecutor Joseph L. Smith who searched newspaper files and checked the published statements with the text of the indictment. In charging the grand jury, Chief Justice Gummere, of the supreme court, had instructed the return of the indictment charging criminal libel against the person responsible for the publication of the charges.

Dr. Poulson had named Common Pleas Judge Walter D. Van Riper and Police Judges Frank A. Boettner and Nicholas Albano in his charges, first declaring they "were in on the gambling game" and later saying he had "merely linked them up with general charges that there was a vicious combination existing between organized vice and disorganized law enforcement."

He pointed out that the statements were made on his own initiative and that he would fight the charge. He added, however, that the Anti-Saloon league would support him.

TO HOLD ELECTRICAL HEAT TREATING CONFERENCE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 23—The electrical engineering department of Yale, in cooperation with the research committee of the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut is issuing invitations to a one-day conference on electrical heat treating to be held in New Haven on November 30. The conference, which will be attended by about 400, is held for the purpose of indicating how electrical heat may be used to better the quality of Connecticut manufactured goods and to promote a greater economy in production than is possible under other methods.

Electric heat may serve industry in many ways, ranging from the glue-pot to the steel furnace. Any attempt however, to cover the whole field in a one-day session could result only in a superficial survey. The scope of the conference is therefore limited to a particular and important application, "Electric Heat Treatment of Metals" which is of direct concern to a large number of the industries of Connecticut and New England.

SMITH COLLEGE GIRLS TRAINING WHITE RATS

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 23—(AP)—A group of Smith college girls have become trainers of white rats thus disproving the traditional feminine horror of these animals. The rats are used in a class for the study of animal psychology and they are placed in a glass topped compartment at one end of which is a feed box. To get the food the rats have to traverse complicated and rambling maze. As soon as the rats master the route they are allowed to eat. The experiment is repeated for several days and the speed with which the rats learn to traverse the maze is compared. Alternative routes are opened and the reaction of the rats to the new situation is observed.

LABORITES SUSPENDED IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Several laborites were suspended in the house of commons tonight to the accompaniment of a wild uproar and the hurling of bald Anglo-Saxon epithets, traditionally classed as unparliamentary.

The business of the house at the time was a discussion in the committee of the whole of the unemployment insurance bill. The trouble began when the minister of labor, Sir Arthur Steel Maitland moved closure on a clause of the bill which had been debated for three hours.

The laborite back-benchers shouted "gag, gag," and James Maxton, labor member for Glasgow, demanded that certain manuscript amendments should be discussed. The chairman, James Fitzalan Hope, refused, and Maxton reported that it was "damned unfair." At this the laborites cheered vigorously, and the ministerialists angrily protested.

After closure was carried, Chairman Hope called upon Maxton to withdraw his charge of unfairness. The laborite refused, and the prime minister moved his suspension, and Maxton quit the house.

The members were greatly excited throughout the incident, and after Maxton had gone, the laborite George Buchanan, also from Glasgow, told the chairman that his ruling was contemptible and unmanly. Buchanan's refusal to withdraw this charge led to his suspension.

No sooner had Buchanan disappeared than a third laborite, Richard Collingham Wallhead, declared that the chairman's conduct was a "damned outrage" and a misuse of the chair's powers. The uproar was renewed, and after the usual formalities, Wallhead was suspended and left the chamber.

Then up spoke Neil MacLean in defense of his colleagues. He charged Chairman Hope with unfair partisanship to the government, and, after further shouting, he followed in the footsteps of the other suspended men.

CASE AGAINST REMUS IS VIRTUALLY COMPLETED

CINCINNATI, Nov. 23—(AP)—The state today virtually completed its case against George Remus excepting for accounting for the 45 minutes which intervened between the time he shot his wife to death in Eden Park here last Oct. 6, and the minute he surrendered himself to the police.

Remus' whereabouts and association of that period was a missing link in the state's expected determination to prove that when he fired the fatal shot Remus was an actor in a four cornered conspiracy.

George Klug admitted he drove Remus to the scene of the shooting, that he later went past the home of George Connors and to the home of Blanche Watson.

Connors was named by a witness as the man he thought he recognized as the driver of the automobile, different from the death car, in which Remus rode to the Pennsylvania railroad depot, whence he took a taxicab to the police station after the shooting.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW'S VIEWS ON GOVERNMENT

LONDON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Wireless Science is capable of smashing the whole fabric of representative government, George Bernard Shaw declared lecturing tonight before the Fabian society. His subject was "Democracy as a Delusion."

Elaborating his point, the noted writer said: "Nowadays speakers talk to millions of people. I did the other night. The only invention necessary is an arrangement for listeners-in to be able to press a button and register 'aye' or 'nay', and thus instantaneously register their votes on a political issue. Then the pure democracy of the old fashioned town meeting would have returned."

But Shaw was convinced that nobody wanted pure democracy or any other sort of democracy. He maintained that dictatorship is the natural government for man, and he made the socialist intellectuals who sit at his feet as patron saint of the Fabian society, squirm in discomfiture as he championed Mussolini and ridiculed government by the people.

"The government of the people, and for the people—yes," said Shaw, "but government by the people cannot be."

He was tired of people insisting that they were democrats and then doing everything possible to disprove it. He cited Americans "who all want prohibition and at the same time want their drink. They all vote prohibition," he added, "and then disobey the law."

ASKS REFORM OF SYSTEM OF MEDICAL EDUCATION

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 23—(AP)—Decrying the dwindling supply of country doctors who care for the health of 30,000,000 people in rural communities, Harry A. Caton, master of the Ohio State Grange, today placed a resolution before the National Grange asking the American Medical association to aid in reforming the present system of medical education.

The grange decided to hold its 1928 convention in Washington by a close vote, after Denver had made a strong bid for the meeting.

"Young men who are required to spend seven years in college medical work at an expense of from $8,000 to $10,000 are not looking for an ordinary practice among ordinary people, or for any practice in the country. There is a demand for a practical medical course to fit the general practitioner for worthy service in his community," Caton said.

SMALL FINES IMPOSED FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 23.—Charged on three counts with violation of the liquor law; manufacturing, possession and actual sale, John Kolwosky of the Wells Wood district was before the Columbia town court Tuesday evening. He pleaded guilty to the complaints as presented by Grand Juror Joseph N. Clarke. The court took into consideration the fact that Kolwosky had previously borne a good reputation in the town as well as that he was the head of a large family and that a jail sentence or heavy fine would be a detriment both to the town and his family. His punishment was comparatively light, including a fine of twenty dollars on each count, totaling sixty dollars, one-half of which was remitted. The total assessment of $52.90 was paid. In addition Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins imposed a thirty-day jail sentence on each count which was suspended and the accused placed on probation for one year. DANIELSON

MORE AUTOISTS ARRESTED FOR DEFECTIVE LIGHTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 23—Throughout today and on until after the supper hour courts in Plainfield and Brooklyn were busy disposing of a new grist of cases brought before them through the activity of state officers in enforcing the motor vehicle regulations relative to having properly lighted motor vehicles. Last night's check-up produced 28 new cases, 13 of these in the town of Brooklyn and 15 in the town of Plainfield. Officers operated just across the bridge over the Quinepaug river from Danielson for the Brooklyn cases, and in Central Village for the Plainfield cases.

The fact that as many as 28 cases should be developed between 7 and 11 p. m., is indicative of the vast number of cars on the highways in violation of the regulations pertaining to head and taillights and, incidentally, windshield cleaners, and of the menace such machines are to other traffic.

Notwithstanding the prosecutions in the Killingly town court Yesterday morning, night had barely fallen before the "one-eyed" cars began to come along again and along with them cars without taillights. However, no arrests were made on the Killingly side of the Quinebaug bridge last night.

The arrest of so many drivers in this immediate territory in the last 48 hours has started a furore among car operators. One hears many pros and cons about the whole matter, particularly about drivers who happen to be so unfortunate as to have a light so bad just before an officer happens to accost them. However, the great bulk of the cases are not of this character, and warnings in the past have failed to bring better conditions, as to lights on cars, nights, on the highways of Connecticut.

Again tonight at 7 o'clock officers from the Danielson barracks went on duty and it was not long before they were handing out summons to drivers whose lights were not as they should be. The supply of improperly lighted cars seems inexhaustable. There will be more cases for the courts Thanksgiving morning.

ROTARY CLUB MINSTRELS PROVE HIGHLY ENTERTAINING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 23—Rotarians turned from the humdrum of their routine occupations to become thespians tonight, and the auditorium at the high school reverberated with the laughter their quips and jibes created.

Under the direction of Coach Sidney P. Marland these staid and decorous professional and business men had become entertainers par excellence. They smeared themselves with burnt cork and arrayed themselves in the traditional garb of minstrels, and far be it from a scribe to fail to note that what they had to offer for amusements sake was well worth being around to enjoy.

Mr. Marland, returning to a role that he has so acceptably filled many times, was the interlocutor. Out on the ends in that minstrel circle were Judge Sabin S. Russell, Irving W. Davis, W. Clarence Bacon, Henry P. Dubuc, Ralph Shoales, Alfred L. Reed, W. H. K. Herklots and Burdette J. Hopkins, all primed with merriment producing sayings and doings.

During the course of the evening's offerings such good things as Farina and her gang were presented. In this group was Miss Lucile Caron, Miss Doris Shipman, Miss Alice Jordan and Miss Marjorie L. Gaffney. A feature of this act was the singing of the Hallelujah number from Hit the Deck.

Other fine things were done by the male quartet composed of Messrs Earl Winslow, Herbert H. Peplar, Gordon J. Gale and Robert Roberts, and by the saxophone trio made up of Thomas Day, Robert Grennon and Elwood Spencer. Messrs Hopkins and Davis, with their rhymes and poems about Rotary, developed a gale of laughter. Music for the production was by the high school orchestra. The receipts from the minstrels are to be given in their entirity to the high school athletic field fund.

A little more money came in since the last report to make the total from the annual Red Cross enrollment here reach to $1,191.40. This was taken today as seemingly assuring that the final figures will be at least $1,200.

For the outstanding success of this year's enrollment work in Danielson Mrs. Marjorie Waller, chairman of the roll call committee, is given pre-eminent credit. Having brought together her organization and perfected it, Mrs. Waller gave time and effort unreservedly to see that all the plans made were diligently carried out. The result is evidence of the effectiveness of her program and of the fine co-operation she received from her co-workers.

On this Thanksgiving day, the postal force here is advising "Shop now and mail early for early delivery." As in other years, the postoffice department is advising that all parcels be wrapped and packed securely, using strong paper and heavy twine. As to mailing regulations, these are set forth in detail in department circulars that may be seen at the post office. One thing the postal officials are stressing, and that is that addresses should be complete and that a return card should be placed in the upper left hand corner of every piece of mail. What may be regarded as the Christmas season starts with this week end.

Today at Foster Center funeral services for Allen A. Cameron were conducted by Rev. Gilbert B. Cutler of North Scituate. Burial was in the Hopkins Mills cemetery. The bearers were George Nichols, John W. Bowen, Jr., Elmer Hopkins and Robert Fenner. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Still another picture has been added to the display of old-time photographs of Danielson that are in display in a window at the Danielson Trust company. This particular picture is a view of that area about the passenger and freight station of the New Haven road, then the Norwich and Worcester, back in the day's of wood-burning locomotives. It's a winter scene, with plenty of snow piled around. There are some buildings in that picture that few now living in Danielson remember.

A happy family party will be at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Hibbard on Reynolds street Thanksgiving day. Lieut. Charles Hibbard, U. S. N., who has been on duty at Pearl Harbor, Honolulu for several years, and Mrs. Hibbard are here for the family reunion. In December Lieut. Hibbard is to go on duty with the North Atlantic fleet.

Tentative plans for the new Brooklyn Savings bank building, to be erected next year, show an attractive and substantial structure of ornate design.

Garages today continued to have numbers of motorists call to have the head and taillights of thei rmachines put in proper order, this being largely due to the state wide drive now underway to eliminate improperly lighted machines.

What looked like the peak of the pre-holiday traffic appeared to be reached early this evening, when hundreds of pleasure cars were rolling through Danielson and motor coaches were carrying capacity loads.

Last evening a successful parish whist in the town hall was attended by a large number of the members of St. James' parish.

Frank Dunn of Worcester and John Dunn of Nashua are spending Thanksgiving with relatives in Danielson.

Of special Brooklyn interest is the fact that Major Louis H. Stanley, who sometime since resigned as major commandant of the First Company, Governor's Foot Guard, has been succeeded by Captain Alvan Waldo Hyde.

As many hunters as could arrange to be afield were out today, the last day of the 1927 open season for hunting protected game birds. The season has not been particularly bountiful in its yield of such birds, partridges being particularly scarce.

City and local carriers out of the Danielson postoffice will have Thanksgiving as a real holiday, as there will be no deliveries. Also, the lobby of the postoffice will afford the only opportunity for box-holders to get their mail, as the window clerks will not be on duty.

William H. Bishop, author and former member of the United States diplomatic corps, is ill at his home in Brooklyn.

Treasurer Sidney W. Bird of the Brooklyn Savings bank will be in Putnam on business Friday.

At the regular weekly session of the card tournament between the Elks' lodge and the Masonic club members, the Masons were again the winner by a score of twelve to eight.

There were twenty tables in play and at least a score of onlookers. The play this week was at the Masonic club rooms on South Main street and both floors of the club house were in use. E. W. Mullan, who arranges the schedule for each night, and it is no small task, sometimes is forced to substitute an Elk for a Mason or a Mason for an Elk in order to fill the tables with players.

ORIGIN OF PRICE BLOCK FIRE IS TRACED TO A STOVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 23—Examination Wednesday morning of the third floor of the Price block on Main street, location of Tuesday night's fire, revealed in the work room of the Ahearn Sign Works, that the fire originated under the stove. In spite of three thicknesses of asbestos sheets, the flames, possibly smouldering for hours when started by a live coal, worked their way under the floor beams, till drowned out by the flood from the hydrant hose streams. If the fire had crept but a short distance further, it would have reached a corner in which oils and paints were stored. The several thousands of dollars damage was mostly done to the various store stocks from water deluging the stores below.

NOANK

Joe Walsh and Huck Taylor are two young men always talking about walking, who wanted to see who was the better man. The race was from Center Groton to the waiting room. The fellow who lost was to buy a turkey for Thanksgiving dinner for the winner. They shook hands and went to their starting place by automobile Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock when Starter Earl Chapman fired the pistol, the men were off on their 8 mile hike to the fishing village. Long-step Walsh was in the lead, but his rival, Smiling Taylor was saving his pep for the finish line. They were hitting 40 to 50 to the beat and the fellows in the auto were watching a pretty good foot race. On the home stretch, with the goal in sight, Taylor was leading by a small margin, but Walsh was thinking about that turkey and wanted to win and have the bird on Thanksgiving day. Putting every ounce of strength into his legs, as the mill working crowd was looking on and many stood on both sides of the streets, Walsh won the race, also the turkey by only 3 feet. It was the closest walking race ever held in Noank. The judges were Billie Fitzgerald and Leland Bishop. Walsh's time was 1 hour 10 minutes; Taylor's time, 1 hour, 10 minutes and 4 seconds. It was a hard grind for both men. They had to rest for several minutes. Then they shook the hand of Long Step Walsh and the winner told the good sport to come up to his house, Thursday noon and help eat up the turkey.

Beebe made a short speech about putting out a fire advising never to get in a hurry, take your time, opening up all windows. He spoke for 1 minutes and three cheers were given Mr. Beebe. After 15 minutes of husking the corn was cleared out by the floor committee for dancing to music by Phelp's Nobbe 4 piece orchestra. Square sets were put on and the voice of Jerry Pickering the promptor could be heard a city block away. It was the first time the new floor was in use by the public. NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Trading in today's stock market crossed 3,000,000 shares for the second time this year, and only the fifth time in the history of the exchange, in a broad buying movement which carried the industrial average to a new high record for all time. Extreme gains in some of the volatile specialties in which powerful speculative pools were at work, ran from 4 to 12 points, but these were cut down in the late wave of profit-taking. The general list was somewhat mixed, and disclosed a scattering of substantial losses.

Except for the continued ease of money rates and a slight increase in the mill operations of the United States Steel corporation, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans and further gold shipments, totaling $5,500,000, were sent to Canada, but call money held steady at 3 1-2 per cent for the fifteenth consecutive session.

There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

Standard industrials continued to take little part in the turbulent movement of prices, although they changed hands in fairly large volume. More than 50,000 shares of U. S. Steel common changed hands, the final of 143 3-4 representing a net gain of 1 3-8 on the day. Total transactions in General Motors approached close to 100,000 shares, but the stock showed a net loss of 3-4 at 128 1-2.

Speculative activity was most pronounced in the motors, public utilities and specialties. Dodge Bros issues were heavily bought, but the net gains were relatively small. Paige-Detroit Motor duplicated the year's high of 14 1-2 on a large turnover, but Hupp, Mack Trucks and Packard, recent favorites, lost ground.

Brooklyn Edison soared 11 1-2 points to 198 1-2 and lost 3 on realizing. Brooklyn Union Gas closed 4 1-2 points net higher at 150 1-4 after having touched 153. Radio corporation in which the Fisher interests are reported to be active, touched another new top at 92 7-8. Otis Steel prior preferred, which sold as low as 73 1-2 yesterday established a new peak at 92 today.

Heavy accumulation of Westinghouse Electric, which touched a new top at 92 1-4, was attributed to interests identified with Arthur Cutten, Chicago operator, and was said to be based on expectations of large electrification contracts within the next few years, particularly from the Pennsylvania. International Combustion, another favorite speculative vehicle of large operators, advanced 3 1-4 points and lost 1 on a total turn-over of more than 100,000 shares.

Rails displayed a firm undertone, despite the publication of relatively poor October earnings statements by the Southern Pacific, Wabash and Western Maryland roads. Lehigh Valley was bid up nearly 6 points to 102, the first time it had crossed the century mark in weeks, and sharp gains also were recorded by the "Soo" issues.

A holiday atmosphere pervaded the commodity markets. Cotton and wheat futures were slightly lower, and coffee and sugar quotations showed little change.

Except for a slight stiffening in sterling exchange, demand bills being quoted around $4.87 3-16. There were practically no changes of importance in the foreign exchange market.

THANKSGIVING

When Thanksgiving rolls around we cannot fail to think of the beginning of this great holiday, how humble and unpretentious it was and what developments have taken place since that time and how widespread the observance in one form or another. The very fact that it is Thanksgiving causes us to give thought to our many blessings, to recall the manner in which that very thing was done over three centuries ago when the Pilgrims were undergoing all kinds of hardships and discouragements in a strange country.

Perhaps Thanksgiving is, as someone has said, a habit. We have come to realize more fully the deep significance of that first gathering for thanksgiving and also those which have been subsequently held. We have come to recognize that we not only have many reasons for giving thanks but that there should be an expression of our sentiments. We should not be dumb in the presence of good things showered upon us by Providence and by friends. Out of the abundance of a grateful heart the mouth should speak. Gratitude is a virtue too often inadequately expressed.

It would be well if thanksgiving were a daily devotion, unmarred by mockery or insincerity. Thus we might be more mindful of our many blessings. Such devotion was more predominant among our New England ancestors than with us today. Comparatively scant as were their blessings and grievous as were their privations, they sincerely professed to find much occasion for daily thanksgiving. Even with these devotions a special day of thanksgiving and praise was deemed best.

As we look back through history and get an idea of conditions under which the early settlers struggled and as we set up in contrast thereto the present day advantages and opportunities, we cannot overlook the countless things for which we have reason to be thankful. They have multiplied with the years, but are we adequately expressing our gratitude to the all wise Providence? Is our Thanksgiving day just another holiday, just a formality, or are we really and truly voicing our appreciation as frequently and as sincerely as we should?

BLOCKING ENDLESS CHAIN

The endless chain idea doesn't make a good impression, no matter in what cause it is employed. The advocates of such a method of drafting President Coolidge might have anticipated as much if they had given careful consideration to their plan of action.

If it was intended as a means of drawing out the president for a further statement concerning the "I do not choose" announcement it succeeded to the extent of causing him to display his opposition to it, but as far as amplifying his South Dakota statement it was no more successful than Senator Fess' interview.

In both instances those who were responsible for the effort were told to stop it, and while Senator Fess indicated that he intended to continue to work for the drafting of the president it may be that there will be those who will insist upon circulating the petitions, but indications point to the fact that the promoters will desist.

These are of course only two of the evidences of the desire that President Coolidge be the candidate of the republican party next year to succeed himself. In a couple of weeks now the choice of the city where the national republican convention is to be held will be decided. Various candidates, or their backers, are waiting to get their campaigns underway. In the meanwhile there persists a strong demand for the president. It will not down and it is certain that it has not been stifled by anything that has been said, or any of the candidacies, however, good, that have been suggested. That the endless chain idea is distasteful is indicated by the expressions of various party leaders, some of whom are known to be strong advocates for a renomination for President Coolidge,

STARTING THE TAX CUT

Preliminary action in regard to federal tax cutting has been taken. It is necessary for any tax measures to originate in the house of representatives and the ways and means committee of that body is engaged in shaping such a measure.

Having received the plan from the treasury department as to what it was believed would be the wise thing to do, and setting forth the limit which should be reached, the committee has been holding hearings and has begun to decided what it will do.

By its vote it has decided not to abide by the advice offered by the treasury to the effect that the cutting be restricted to $325,000,000. It has boosted the amount to $350,000,000 and there are those on the committee who are frank to say that the amount will be much greater before the final stamp of approval is given by congress. This is, however, the expression of a democratic member whose ambition has been to make a whopping tax cut regardless of the effects.

The committee it is believed makes a mistake in refusing to make any provision for those taxpayers in the middle surtax brackets. They received no reduction from the last cut and if the committee plan goes through they will receive none this time. Yet they represent a large class which is entitled to relief along with the rest. The committee also refuses to heed the widespread appeal for the elimination of the estate tax, also recommended by the treasury. Some reduction in the corporation tax is decided upon, a reduction in the admission tax will be made and there promises to be a slicing of the auto tax, possibly to a half of what it is now.

If it were so that the house measure meant adoption as presented it is probable that the raising of the treasury's limit would invlove no actual dangers, even though the wisdom of the various cuts might be questioned. With the committee ignoring the treasury, however, there's no telling what will happen to the measure before it reaches final action in congress, where fights against it for political purposes regardless of effects are to be expected. Whether congress pays any more respect to committee recommendations than the committee did to treasury recommendations remains to be seen.

REFUSES PAY; TOO HIGH!

In the city of Reading the new treasurer has made the statement that he will not accept the compensation which his predecessors have been getting and strange as it may seem he regards the pay as too high. The treasurer in that city like the treasurer in other cities is paid a small salary and in addition there are certain fees which must be paid to the treasurers for taxes collected. As the result of this double system of pay the estimated compensation of the Reading official is $20,000. The new treasurer says he will accept the $500 and enough of the fees to bring the yearly pay up to $6,000. Above that he will turn the amount back into the treasury and from his four year term it is figured that he will save Reading about $56,000.

This city treasurer has apparently called attention in a most emphatic manner to a situation which bids fair to get more attention in the future not only in Reading but in other cities of that state where similar conditions prevail. Ordinarily it might be expected that an elected official would accept what was coming to him and say nothing, lest it be a "thank you," especially since he had nothing to do with the fixing of the compensation. But when he points out that there are those who are struggling to pay their taxes and his office is so greatly overpaid he bears down heavily upon a situation which appears to be unfair to the people of that city. It is a situation which doesn't seem to be restricted solely to Reading but prevalent throughout the state. If it calls for state legislation to end such a condition Reading's treasurer might be said to have started something were it not a fact that very similar situations have been disclosed elsewhere. Others in fact have promised to do just what the Reading treasurer has, but not all of them have stuck to their promises. This will cause this latest declaration to be watched with added interest.

WALLINGFORD'S AIRPORT

Those who maintain that a city will be out of date if within the next ten years it does not establish an airport will have no reason to include Wallingford in that list.

According to the last census Wallingford had a population of a little over 12,000. It is thus not one of the big centers of the state and it is not on any of the air lines, but it has been impressed by the importance of being equipped to take care of those who navigate the air and has provided a flying field.

It is a municipal proposition and it may not be one of the most active flying fields in the state but it has nevertheless placed Wallingford on the flying map, something which cannot be said by many of the larger communities. The belief exists there that it is going to be a fine thing for the town and with that view well established it didn't take long to get action.

What Wallingford has done is what many cities throughout the country are contemplating today. Aviation has made such progress that it has impressed municipalities with the necessity of making provision for such development and thus get the pole position when it comes to getting the benefits of this method of transportation. If Wallingford wants flying service of one kind or another it isn't going to be delayed or handicapped by the fact that it has no flying field. Even though it is not on any flying route it can easily be made a port of call whenever occasion requires. To get the full benefit of air service a place where planes can land and take off is imperative. For a small community Wallingford has set a conspicuous pace, conscious no doubt of the fact that the early bird gets the worm.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Thanksgiving day. Don't overlook the real significance of it.

The man on the corner says: Remember this is the night for the annual barrel burning.

Some people do not think it is cold weather until the radiator of the car has frozen up a couple of times.

When it is declared that American workmen are better off than the Russian it may be a surprise to the latter.

Manchester, N. H., has announced that its airport is ready. How soon will it be that Norwich makes the same announcement?

Ford predicts planes carrying 200 people each. Don't smile, predictions have been much more fantastic than that and come true.

If that English engineer who has found a way to eliminate the flywheel, clutch and differential will only keep on and do away with the gas, tires and engine he will make real motor history.

A DETOUR TO MARRIAGE

First they were engaged and then they were not—and the society columns carried discreet and brief announcements that the wedding of Ethan Phillips and Marjorie Cramer had been called off.

But the surprising result of it all was that in spite of their abandoned matrimonial plans Ethan went right on calling on Marjorie. Now of all persons with whom it is least possible to be friends the girl or man we almost married and didn't stands foremost. Fancy sitting primly opposite each other and saying:

"What did you think of Brumpsky's solo work or the last symphony concert?" to the young man with whom, two weeks ago, one had been sitting quite close, while pouring over a list of necessary furnishings for a four-room apartment! It simply isn't done.

"I fail to see why we can't be friends," Ethan had retorted loftily to Marjorie's exclamation of surprise. He seemed quite at ease and hunted out his favorite cigarettes as he had always done, playing with the match box unconcernedly.

"Perfect nonsense, this dashing around corners to escape one another just because we've decided not to be married! Always have liked you and I suppose I always shall!"

Marjorie was dumbfounded. She sat very straight and regarded her erstwhile lover with indignant curiosity. No, of course she did not want him to claim that he loved her—but that word "like!"

"I never heard of such a situation!" she told him. "Particularly when both of us said distinctly we never wanted to see the other again as long as we lived."

"Words of anger," Ethan answered airily. He smiled so cheerfully that Marjorie felt a surge of righteous wrath. It had been much more satisfactory to think of him as moody, disgruntled, upset.

Well, this certainly proved her contention that they were temperamentally unsuited. Especially since he absolutely declined to explain why he had taken a strange and beautiful girl to luncheon, driven with her all afternoon and broken a date with Marjorie for the evening on the same account.

He had looked thoughtful, said he could not explain and suggested that she trust him and take his word for its not being a cause for jealousy. That word jealousy had been the last straw. Marjorie had frozen into a lovely and aloof stranger and had mentioned casually that he thought well of himself—she was not jealous of him: she was not, in fact, interested any more. And the front door had shut after him. And now here he was!

"When we thought we were in love with one another," Ethan was saying lightly, "we were so blinded that I don't think I ever really saw you! My eyes were filled with a vision of a supernal being who never existed, and I expect you idealized me in the same fashion! Kind of nice to have a chance to get acquainted with you, Marge!"

So—a man was able to end a love affair like that with one chop, as it were, was he? Never in her life had she been angrier; and apparently never calmer nor more detached. She got busy and entertained him as though he had been a stranger.

Ethan was always dodging in between showers, as it were, charming and agreeable. He did, she had to admit, make an evening pass pleasantly. But—who was that girl and how dared he? She bit her lips as she considered that now she had no right to question him.

In all the weeks which followed never once did he drop below the surface of friendly impersonalities. Resentment grew into an aching pain within Marjorie's heart, but she fought it. She had lost Ethan! Other men were empty shadows. She grew wan and thin in the struggle to conceal this. She would die before Ethan should know!

The telegraph pole which wrecked their automobile brought things to a crisis. Marjorie came out of her faint to find herself in Ethan's arms, his face far from casual.

"Damn silly, all this!" he was choking. "Couldn't have stood it any longer, anyhow! Oh, Marjorie!" She put her arms around his neck and their lips met.

"I—I don't care who she was," she murmured. "I just love you anyhow, Ethan!"

"Another man's secret," he told her. "I could have explained later, but I was so broken up and mad because you didn't trust."

"Shut up," Marjorie told him shakily. "Don't you ever dare tell me about it! But didn't you really care for me at all these weeks when you've been so—horrid?"

"Every bit as much as you did me," Ethan told her, with a recurrence of his old airiness. "But it was necessary to enlighten you as to your own emotions!—and from here, in the taxi I see approaching, we're driving straight to the license bureau and the minister!"—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

AIRPLANES TEACH HEALTH LESSON

By Lester A. Royal, M. D., West Liberty, Iowa, Member Gorgas Memorial

As soon as a mail plane lands, skilled mechanics carefully inspect all parts to make sure that everything is all right before the machine continues on its journey.

Why shouldn't we human beings have our bodies given such a going over at least once a year? At the rate we are traveling, our machines need careful watching.

It would be easier for the family doctor and cheaper for the patient if once each year he were to go to the doctor and say, "I want this machine gone over," and insist that it be done carefully. If there were any incipient disease present, it would be discovered in time to be helped, and a great amount of suffering and waste of human life would be stopped.

A small fire can be put out with a bucket of water, while if allowed to go on for a short time it may become such a fire that the most modern apparatus might be of no avail. This is just as true of human diseases.

Often strong looking men go into a doctor's office for life insurance examinations, and are told that they have a serious kidney or heart disease of which they were unaware. Their reply usually is that they never felt better, only they had noticed that they tired a little easier than usual. Perhaps it is not too late to cure the condition by proper diet, exercise, and medicine. The doctor will do his best.

The American people, like the airplanes, are under a great strain. They must have care. The very best of high test gasoline and oil are used in the airplanes so they may be more efficient and longer lived.

As part of its work in preventive medicine, the Gorgas memorial urges the American people to care for the human machine by having it examined at least once a year. By eating proper food and taking the right kind and amount of exercise and rest, our machines will be able to carry on their work, like the mail planes, with the greatest efficiency.

Stories That Recall Others

Confusion of Language.

They were driving through the country and stopped at a garage to get some air for the tires. The driver got out and asked the native standing near the free air tube: "Hand me that air?"

The native looked at the driver questionally and then asked in a polite tone, "That air what?"

Brought Down to Date.

The advanced class in American history was sailing along with Christopher Columbus on his way to America. The teacher in starting the fleet explained, "And now we set sail in one ship and two caravels."

The little boy in the back row couldn't figure this out, so he whispered quietly to his neighbor, "What's one ship and two caravels?"

The better informed pupil replied, "Just like one automobile and two Fords."

CHILD TRAINING

"MOTHER WILL HAVE TO DO THAT FOR YOU"

Mrs. W. B. Bailey

"Clara," said a young husband to his wife, "do you realize that these children of ours are beginning to order us about very freely?"

"Surely we are not permitting that, Jim, after all we have said about other people's children in the past!" exclaimed the young mother. "Why, we have criticized some of our very best friends for permitting their children to give orders too freely. We faithfully vowed we whould see that our children should never do anything of the sort."

The door opened and in rushed two healthy, happy young children, Betty aged four and Joe, six.

"Mother, fix my stocking," commanded Betty.

"Hey, I'm hungry! Mother, give me something to eat," ordered Joe. Then turning to his father he continued, "Father, you'll have to fix my wagon; it won't run."

The parents, newly critical of their children's conduct, looked at each other in dismay as they both realized that their beloved children, with whose training they had taken so much care, were expressing all their desires as commands.

"Children," began the mother quietly and pleasantly as she always addressed them, "ask Mother in a prettier way to do what you wish."

Both children looked at her intently for a second. Then Joe said, "Mother, please may I have something to eat? I sure am hungry, an it's 'most apple time, isn't it?"

"That is better."

And the mother was getting the apples when she heard Betty saying, "Please, dear Mother, will you please help me fix my stocking?"

The mother catching her husband's sly wink could scarcely restrain a smile.

"Now, what do you suppose possessed those children to come in and give us orders in such an off-hand manner?" questioned the mother after the children had gone out to play again.

"We've taught it to them, Clara. You see they knew well enough what to say on your request, but have you noticed that you and I have fallen into the habit of . . . ."

Just then Betty came into the room on her way to the toy box with one stocking sagging in a very noticeable way.

"Well, Betty!" exclaimed the mother, "what is wrong with your stocking again? Mother will have to fix it for you."

"Now that is a fine illustration of what I mean by saying that we have taught the children to command us to do things for them and to tell us we have to do such things," said the father a few moments later when the little daughter was again out of hearing. "We say, just as you did then, that 'we must' fix this thing or do that thing for them until we firmly convince them that we do have to do it, and they really mean no impudence when they say such things. They are merely repeating the words we have taught them to say."

TRAFFIC

DOUBLE LEVEL STREETS

Double level streets and the use of subways or elevated structures for the separation of grades at congested boulevard inter-sections are no longer visionary projects in the minds of engineers who are striving to cut the Gordian knot of city traffic problems, in the opinion of Miller McClintock, director of the Erskine bureau for street traffic research.

"A few years ago double level traffic streets were considered rather visionary," Mr. McClintock states. "But with the increase in traffic volume it is becoming apparent that it will be impossible to accommodate future increases on the present street surfaces. Widening the major traffic arteries in developed business districts is nearly impossible from a financial standpoint because of the necessity for costly remodeling of abutting buildings.

"It is not at all improbable that the near future will see a wide use of double level streets not only for the purpose of increasing the capacity of streets in crowded business districts, but also to increase the speed of vehicular traffic along connecting routes between various districts within a city.

"Outstanding examples of two level streets are found in Wacker drive in Chicago and in plans laid for construction of an elevated way along West street in New York city. It is too early to determine accurately the effects of Wacker drive on the value of adjacent property or on vehicle movement, but it is safe to say that the benefits will more than balance the $15,000,000 expenditure for its construction.

"Woodward avenue in Detroit, the Embarcadero in San Francisco, and the new Lake Shore drive entrance to Lincoln Park in Chicago, have proven the value of grade separation at congested boulevard intersections. The pressure of vehicle traffic at important intersections in or near cities will make separation economical at these places. It is not unusual at the present time to see well designed and large capacity highways near cities functioning at only 50 percent of their capacity because of a few congested grade crossings."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Lawyer, district court judge, corporation counsel, trust buster, United States senator, farm bloc leader, and federal judge—that, in brief, is the story of the career of William S. Kenyon of Iowa, who is mentioned as a possible republican presidential nominee in case prohibition enforcement becomes an important factor in the selection of a candidate. Judge Kenyon has always been committed to prohibition and has to his credit the paternity of the law by which interstate commerce in liquors was prohibited after it had been found that free passage of liquors from state to state was often nullifying the effect of state prohibitory laws. While in active politics Judge Kenyon was known as a "progressive," at attacking monopolies, standing for tariff revision, an income tax, and honesty in national finance.

Cubby's Thanksgiving

Who cause for thanks doth fail to find
To favors proves that he is blind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Cubby, the little bear, spent the night before Thanksgiving curled up in a hollow in the base of a big tree. He was lonely and somewhat upset, but he wasn't particularly frightened. You see, by this time he felt quite equal to look after himself. The chief thing that bothered him was his appetite. He went to bed hungry and he awoke still more hungry. To make matters worse, he couldn't find much to eat. In fact, he found almost nothing at all. And this on Thanksgiving day! Probably Cubby would have felt a whole lot worse if he had known that it was Thanksgiving day.

Now, the way in which Farmer Brown's Boy always celebrates Thanksgiving day is to make sure that all his little furred and feathered neighbors have reason to give thanks because he is their friend. He does his best to make sure that each one has all he can possibly eat on Thanksgiving day. So early in the morning on this particular Thanksgiving Farmer Brown's Boy had gone over to the Green Forest to take some buckwheat to Thunderer the Grouse and Mrs. Grouse.

He had spread the buckwheat at one of their favorite feeding grounds and was just turning away when a rustling of leaves caught his attention. He stopped instantly and "froze," as the saying is. That is, he stood perfectly still, holding his breath. In a moment a small bear came trotting into view. It was Cubby. There was no doubt in the mind of Farmer Brown's Boy. His good-natured, freckled face broke into a broad grin. At that very instant Cubby sniffed a merry little breeze that had blown straight from Farmer Brown's Boy to him. He stopped abruptly and stared very hard. Farmer Brown's Boy spoke to him. At the sound of that voice Cubby looked as friendly as he knew how. Hesitating just a bit, he came toward Farmer Brown's Boy. Then his inquisitive little nose discovered the buckwheat that Farmer Brown's Boy had scattered about. Cubby was hungry. He wasn't above eating buckwheat.

A sudden fear came to Farmer Brown's Boy that Cubby might follow him home and then would begin over again all those troubles about which I have told you. Watching his chance, he slipped away while Cubby was engaged in looking for buckwheat. Then Farmer Brown's Boy hurried.

"Cubby is hungry," said he. "He never would have gobbled up that buckwheat at that rate if he hadn't been very, very hungry. He is going to have a Thanksgiving dinner. That is what he shall have—a Thanksgiving dinner."

He stoped abruptly and stared very hard.

So Farmer Brown's Boy went straight to Mother Brown and told her about Cubby. You will remember that Mother Brown was very fond of Cubby. Half an hour later Farmer Brown's Boy was headed back toward the Green Forest. On his arm was a basket. In that basket was such a dinner as Cubby had never dreamed of eating. It was his Thanksgiving dinner. He smelled it even before Farmer Brown's Boy was in sight and he ran to meet him. He was so eager for that dinner that he pulled that basket right out of Farmer Brown's Boy's hands and upset it. Then how he did eat! He just gobbled that dinner up. And when the last scrap had disappeared his round little stomach couldn't have held another crumb. Cubby's eyes twinkled as he licked his lips.

"If I could have a dinner like this every day I soon would be fat enough to sleep all winter," said he.

But, of course, Farmer Brown's Boy didn't understand a word of this. Then he scattered more buckwheat for Thundrede the Grouse and Mrs. Grouse and started for home and his own Thanksgiving dinner, whistling all the way.

Health is Community Asset

Speaking of the anti-tuberculosis work in the city and state, one of the leading merchants of the city said on Wednesday: "The health of our community is one of its greatest assets. Brings better business, better environment for our families, better conditions along every line.

"A hustling, healthy young man or woman wastes little time or thought upon evil intent. Life for them is full of earnest effort. All this makes better citizens. A hundred per cent. wholesome place to live. Consider this and be ready to help when the opportunity comes, to stamp out the white plague that threatens our young folk."

NORWICH PREPARES TO CELEBRATE THE GREAT NEW ENGLAND HOLIDAY

A returning tide of travelers arriving in the city Wednesday night by train, trolley motor busses was a reminder that Norwich families were preparing to observe the great New England holiday which is now national in scope and is a general holiday for all business.

Vermont turkeys were in the market in spite of the recent floods which devastated a large part of that state and will grace the family board around which will gather the reunion group in many a home.

In at least five different churches in the city special services in observance of the day are to be held, and in the evening there will be the observance of the day that is distinctive to Norwich, the well known barrel burning. Not so much has been heard this year about the collection of barrels by the boys for this special Norwich rite, but the gangs in different neighborhoods have not been idle and when darkness comes upon the city there will be many a stack of burning barrels to light up the sky.

It was announced Wednesday night that one of the largest stacks to be burned will be at the Norwich state hospital, where a pole 52 feet high is to be strung with barrels and set off at 7.30 o'clock. The pole has been planted six feet in the ground so as to give it plenty of holding surface to support the weight of barrels and the sight will be one that will attract many spectators. The big bonfire will be set off on the front of the grounds within plain sight of the road and visitors will be welcome.

Women's Amazing Message to Rheumatics

After Suffering Intense Agony for Many Years—She Wants to Tell Others.

Dr. Brigadelli: I simply had to write and tell you what your wonderful CAMPHOROLE has done for me. For many years I suffered the tortures of Rheumatism as only those who have it know. The sharp pains were so severe, I could not sleep. Had to get up and rub. It almost drove me crazy. I tried doctor after doctor and all kinds of medicine I was told to take, which only left me worse. I could not bend my knees.

The Joint in my right Shoulder was so sore and inflamed, it pained me so that when I touched it tenderly I could almost scream with pain. You can imagine what agony I have suffered for years. I am a Farmer and had to give up my work.

Seeing your advertisement in a paper I thought I would take another chance and told my daughter to get me a $5o jar from our Druggist. You can imagine my surprise after using CAMPHOROLE. I started to get better right away. I am now well and happy and have gone back to work. I shall never forget the day I took a chance on CAMPHOROLE. After all the years I suffered it feels good to be well again.—Mrs. E. Anderson, Pleasantville Terrace, N. J.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Observance of Thanksgiving day in the United States, which this year falls on the earliest possible day.

And just one month from tonight we shall be hanging up the Christmas stockings and listening for the patter of Santa Claus' reindeer on the roof.

Fifty years ago today more than 100 lives were lost in the wreck of the U. S. sleep-of-war Huron off the coast of North Carolina.

Hon. William S. Field, who has had a long and brilliant career in Canadian public life, today will enter upon his eightieth year.

Leonora Corona, a young American soprano from Dallas, Texas, will make her operatic debut this afternoon at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York.

Thanksgiving day will be observed at the White house in simple fashion. The president and Mrs. Coolidge will attend church services in the morning. Their dinner in the evening will be shared by a few intimate friends.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

Breathless thrills and vivid romance await the film fans in "Twelve Miles Out," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's mystery melodrama of the high seas which opens at the Breed theatre today for a run of three days.

It is one of the fastest adventure stories of the season and John Gilbert's latest starring vehicle. Adapted from William Anthony McGuire's famous Broadway hit, it comes to the screen with added dramatic appeal. It tells the tale of rum-runners, hijackers, revenue cutters and the kidnapping of beautiful women. Through it all runs one of the sweetest love stories ever screened. As the swash-buckling hero, Gilbert has an ideal role. He takes daredevil chances, stages desperate battles and follows the course of an amazing intrigue.

Joan Crawford makes a charming heroine, Ernest Torrance a villain who is a strange mixture of sinister traits and whimsical humor. Others of the excellent supporting cast are Tom O'Brien, Bert Roach, Eileen Percy and Edward Earle. Jack Conway directed.

An added atraction will be the official pictures of the Dempsey-Sharkey heavyweight battle which took place at the Yankee Stadium, New York, last July.

Other attractions on this bill inclue the 6th chapter of "The Crimson Flash," a two reel Lupino Lane comedy entitled, "Howdy Duke," and the latest News Events.

SANTA CLAUS TO COME HERE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Good news for the children of Norwich, and in fact for all the children of eastern Connecticut, is contained in the announcement by the Porteous & Mitchell company, of this city, that they have had a radiogram from Santa Claus, sent from his home at the north pole, stating that he is leaving and will soon be on his way to their store and expects to arrive Saturday, November 26th on schedule time.

According to his message it has been a mild season in his cosy home in the north and for that reason he has been able to work every day and to assemble a greater collection of toys and play things than ever before. He states that he will make the first part of his journey in his special airplane, because in some sections there is no snow for his sled. Once he enters eastern Connecticut he will leave his airplane, and travel in his "Santa Claus Special" so that his little boy and girl friends along the route, may see him and talk with him. He expects to meet and occupy his special car just north of Moosup.

This is his route as planned: Arrive in Moosup on his special car at 1 p. m.; pass through Moosup and arrive at Central Village, the next stage in his journey at 1.15; from there to Plainfield, where he is due at 1.45; Baltic will be the next stop, being due there at 2 o'clock, Occum at 2.15, Taftville at 2.30, Greeneville at 2.45, finally arriving at Franklin Square at 2.55. He will then proceed to the store of the Porteous & Mitchell company, where in their large window, his work shop has been erected, amidst scenes which will remind Santa of his home at the north pole, the entire arrangement being one which will charm and enchant the younger generation.

Bring The Children

The Santa Claus window which was designed and arranged by Joseph T. Farrell, the store decorator, has many new and novel features this year and will be a source of delight to the children and of interest to their elders. The management of the Porteous & Mitchell company says "Bring the kiddies to see Santa Claus arrive on Saturday afternoon; or if you live in any one of the towns through which his special car will pass, be sure and be on hand with the children to meet the "Santa Claus Special." This triumphal journey of Santa Claus is an event that has been planned especially for the enjoyment of the children; the memory of which will last long after other happenings of childhood days are forgotten."

MANY IMPORTANT FOOTBALL BATTLES ON THANKSGIVING DAY BILL OF FARE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A golden opportunity to share with Yale the mythical and conjectural football championship of the east or a dismal descent to a place among the great but beaten teams awaited the powerful arrays of Pittsburgh, Washington & Jefferson and New York university tonight.

On the eve of Thanksgiving day battles with worthy and traditional foes the Panthers of Pitt were favored to beat Penn State at Pittsburgh and the Presidents of W. & J. to hurdle West Virginia at Morgantown while the Blushing Violets of N. Y. U. entered their intersectional duel with Nebraska at Lincoln with the odds against them. All three of the favorites were victorious in last year's battles.

Pittsburgh and W. & J. enter these final engagements of their regular season with records marred only by a scoreless tie game played against each other. Except for draws with Colgate and Penn State the N. Y. U. record thus is spotless.

Carrying little bearing upon the championship situation but containing the maximum in traditional rivalry and pomp, the Pennsylvania-Cornell classic at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, the Columbia-Syracuse struggle at the Polo grounds, New York, and the Brown-Colgate battle at Providence round out the program of Thanksgiving day games for major eastern teams.

What odds there are on these games favor Penn, Syracuse and Colgate, the Quakers and Orange both have beaten these rivals with considerable regularity in recent years and Brown has had a dismal time of it this season, losing six games in a row before taking a brace last Saturday.

While Cornell has shown a lack of an effective scoring drive, particularly in its scoreless tie with Columbia, and proved weak defensively against Dartmouth, Penn has its hidden ball attack working well and showed a sturdy if inadequate defense against Chicago and the Navy.

Syracuse makes its bid with the forward pass, flung by the slender Baysinger, and must stand or fall upon its success. Brown's "iron men" have a chance to save something from the season's wreckage by trimming a hardy Colgate team which has lost not a game to eastern foes.

Outstanding individual heroes who will see action in the major battles include Captain Gibby Welch of Pittsburgh and Captain Johnny Roepke of Penn State, Captain Bill Amos of W. & J., Captain Connor and Brante of N. Y. U. and Presnell, of Nebraska, Dopyler of Colgate, Wascolonis and the Scullis of Penn, Captain Hoekelman and Belderston of Cornell. Many of these men will be playing in their last college football game.

Among the smaller teams where renewal of time-honored rivalries also is in order, a number of hardfought "Naturals" are in prospect.

A Rochester team which has lost but a single game plays host to a Hobart eleven beaten only once by an antagonist in the same small college class. George Washington has a chance for a record of unalloyed victories except for a beating by Penn State if it can stop a mediocre Catholic university team at Washington.

One of the strongest of all Bucknell teams rules a decided favorite over Dickinson while Gettysburg appears stronger than Franklin & Marshall, and Maryland is favored over Johns Hopkins.

YALE TEAM MAKES GIFT TO CALDWELL

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Bruce Caldwell, Yale halfback who was ruled out as ineligible to play just before the Princeton game, will carry with him through life a watch which was given him by his teammates and coaches.

The presentation made by Captain Webster during the team banquet last night, was made known today as another unusual incident which attended the wind-up of the season, another being the gift to Caldwell, of his varsity "Y" in football. It is believed that a gift to a player, who did not take part in a Yale major game by the other players was without precedent.

The watch is inscribed: "Presented to Bruce Caldwell with respect and admiration of the 1927 team and coaches."

A wrist watch was also presented to Charles A. Commerford, end coach, by S. F. Scott and D B. Fishwick, who were his proteges and to whom he gave his attention in developing them as ends. The inscription was: "1927. To C. A. C. from Scotty and Fish."

PLAINFIELD PROS LOSE CLOSE GAME TO COLLEGIANS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 23.—The Plainfield Pros lost another tough one this evening, the colorful Purple Collegians taking a 26 to 23 decision at the Community house before another large crowd. Play was nip and tuck throughout with the lead changing hands and the teams being tied many times.

At half time the Worcester boys had a 17 to 11 advantage gained in the latter part of the period. The Collegians went into a four point lead at the start of the first period on baskets by Brusso and Tisdell, respectively. However, the home club tied it up until the ex-Holy Cross boys put on steam toward the end of the session.

At the opening of the third quarter it was not long before the teams had become again knotted at 18 all, but after several spectacular shots by Bernot, Dissinger and Walsh the Collegians finally secured first a two point lead, then "froze" the ball.

The Buddies continued on their undefeated way by downing the Willimantic Y in the preliminary, 40 to 27.

Plainfield plays the Meriden Endees at Plainfield next Wednesday. This is another of the teams of the newly formed State league. Saturday the Pros are at Meriden.

M'LARNIN GETS VERDICT OVER BILLY WALLACE

DETROIT, Nov. 23—(AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, Los Angeles light weight championship contender, tonight won the referee's decision over Billy Wallace of Cleveland, in a furious ten-round bout here, the winner of which has been promised a shot at Sammy Mandell's title.

McLarnin went into the ring with a weight advantage of six to seven pounds. He scaled at 136 1-4 at 3 p. m. and figured to take on an additional pound or two between that time and the hour of crawling through the ropes. Wallace tipped the beam at 131 1-4 pounds, a pound below his usual weight.

Sammy McLarnin, a brother of Los Angeles boxer, scored a technical knockout over Paul Pullman of Windsor in the third round of the opener. The match was one sided, with Pullman hitting the floor in the first round. McLarnin weighed 144 1-2, Pullman 152 3-4.

Sid Barbarian of Detroit and Jimmy Sacco of Boston, a pair of veterans, each weighing 143 pounds, wheezed through the semi-windup, going ten wild swinging rounds to a draw.

Al Foreman, junior lightweight of Washington, D. C., scored a technical knockout over Billy Herold, of Cleveland, in the third round of a scheduled eight round bout.

Gaston Charles, French lightweight, won the referee's decision over Mickey Goldberg of Detroit in eight rounds.

BOSTON COLLEGE COMPLETES PREPARATIONS FOR HOLY CROSS

BOSTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—After a last practice at Braves field today, 25 Boston college football players left by bus for the Sandy Burr Country club where they will remain in seclusion holding light practice until time to return for the season's windup against Holy Cross here Saturday.

The squad drilled on new offensive formations and staged a dummy scrimmage against Holy Cross plays as put on by the freshmen. Mike Durant still held Captain Tom O'Brien's place at left guard, but the big Maroon leader followed the squad up and down the field and it was believed that if his two-weeks old leg injury continues to improve he will see action against the Purple.

CHILL-HICKEY CASE SETTLED OUT OF COURT

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 23—(AP)—The $200,000 libel suit against Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American association, filed by Ollie Chill, former umpire in the league, has been settled out of court, it was disclosed here today.

Chill, who lives here, said it had been agreed at the settlement that no facts concerning its terms would be divulged by either party.

"The terms of the settlement were entirely satisfactory to me, and that is all I have to say," said Chill.

The suit resulted from an interview Hickey gave the Minneapolis Tribune in 1925, in which he charged Chill with disobeying orders by not stopping at a hotel here designated by him, and that an expense account submitted by Chill was excessive.

MANY NOTED MARATHONERS IN BERWICK CLASSIC

BERWICK, Pa., Nov. 23—(AP)—Runners of an international field that will compete tomorrow in the eighteenth annual Berwick marathon were gathering here tonight.

Nine members of the record breaking field of 36 have been Olympic contenders or will be next year.

Tonight a reception was tendered the runners by the Acacia club.

While Jimmy Henigan, of Boston, racing here for the fourth time, and local favorite, Cliff Bricker, of Gault, Ont., is expected by the experts to repeat his victory of last year, although he faces keener competition.

Johnny Miles, of Sydney Mines, Nova Scotia, a youth who has come to the front rapidly, and Bill Cox, twice inter-collegiate champion and at the height of his career, are also expected to figure strongly. Louis Lee, of Penn State college, sixth in the intercollegiates race at New York last Monday, is also an entrant.

MANDELL OUTPOINTS BABE RUTH IN BOUT

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Sammy Mandell, Chicago, lightweight champion of the world outpointed Babe Ruth, of Philadelphia, at the Armory A. C., tonight to gain the unanimous decision of the judges at the end of a slashing 10-round battle. The title was not at stake, both men being above the lightweight limit.

Mandell weighed 136 pounds; Ruth, 137.

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 23. —(AP)—Pinkey Silverberg, of Ansonia, New England flyweight champion, recognized by the National Boxing association, will meet Ruby (Dark Cloud) Bradley, of Holyoke, Mass., in a return match here December 3, it was announced by Bridgeport promoters tonight. The pair fought here a month ago for the title under the supervision of Commissioner Thomas E Donohue and Silverberg won on a foul.

SLATTERY BEATS MCCARTHY IN SIX ROUND BOUT

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, N. B. A. light heavyweight champion, received the decision over Pat McCarthy of Boston, a heavyweight, in a six round bout here tonight.

Slattery weighed 169 1-2 and McCarthy 184.

Slats punished McCarthy badly in the first four rounds, closing an eye and cutting another. McCarthy staggered Jimmy in the fifth with a series of right hand punches, and Jimmy was down for a flash in this round without taking a count. McCarthy hit low in the third and fourth and was warned. Slattery's speed made McCarthy appear outclassed.

Slattery is matched with Tom Loughran for the light heavyweight championship.

COLGATE FAVORED TO WIN FROM BROWN TODAY

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 23—(AP)—Brown university's football team of 1927, a year of disaster for Coach "Tuss" McLaughry's men, tonight was hoped by Brunonian undergraduates and alumni to be in condition to redeem itself by defeating its traditional Thanksgiving rival, Colgate, tomorrow at Brown field.

"It is their last chance," Coach McLaughry said today, "and I am counting on the football ability that I know they possess to carry them through. Colgate is good, not colorfully brilliant, but mechanically a fine team, and it should be a great battle."

The team today was put through dummy scrimmage signals and final workouts on defense against forward passes.

Eight of the veterans of last year's "Iron Men" will probably go into the contest against Colgate.

Dundee and Simonich Sign

SUM OF $150,000 AT NEW LONDON FOR LAWRENCE HOSP. NURSES' HOME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23—Within a comparatively short time the student nurses at Lawrence-Memorial hospital will have a home of their own, all being quartered in one building instead of in three, as is now the case. The directorate of the institution has decided to have a handsome dormitory erected for the housing of the nurses, a structure that will provide every comfort. Ground for the foundation will be broken immediately and work on the construction of the building will be started and continued as weather permits, so that the home will be ready for occupancy in the spring or early summer.

The building, which will be of brick, three stories, will be erected on that section of the hospital grounds now the tennis court, corner of Faire Harbour place. The building will provide ample sleeping and recreation rooms, and auditorium and gymnasium, possibly a swimming pool.

The construction of the home is being made possible through the recent gift of $50,000 by Mrs. Edward S. Harkness, contingent upon the hospital raising an additional $50,000. The added money was obtained, but the $100,000 was not sufficient to permit the erection of such a building for a home for the nurses as was desired by the directorate. Another $50,000 was obtained through the generosity of supporters of the hospital and the added money has made it possible to cause the erection of such a home as is wanted.

Three dormitories, two on the corner of Faire Harbour place and Montauk avenue and the other on Riverview avenue, which now houses nurses, and which are owned by the hospital corporation, will be sold as soon as the new home is ready for occupancy.

STATE POLICE ARREST TOTAL OF 29 MOTORISTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23—The state police were busy again last night, this time in New London, where a half dozen officers maintain a lookout for drivers of automobiles, the equipment of which is faulty. Particular attention was devoted to failing to display proper lights, including tail lights, having proper brakes and windshield wiper. As a result of their vigil, the officers ordered 29 drivers into court and they were there this morning when fines of $8 without costs and others with the costs annexed, were imposed. Some of the drivers were New Londoners, but there were others from Norwich, Uncasville, Montville, Niantic, Groton and Mystic. The state police are making a determined effort throughout the state to reduce the number of accidents to a minimum and to accomplish this result the drivers of cars with defective equipment are being ordered into court as fast as discovered.

OLIVER O'NEILL DIES— RESULT OF HUNTING ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 23—Oliver O'Neill, 21, submarine base sailor, died at Lawrence-Memorial hospital about 5 o'clock this morning as the result of an injury sustained last Sunday while hunting in Groton. The injury resulted in gangrene, necessitating the amputation of his leg. O'Neill and Louis Gardner, 14, went to Baker's Cove, Sunday afternoon in search of game. They carried a gun and as the pair climbed to the wall the shot gun was accidentally exploded, the entire charge entering O'Neill's right thigh. The boy hastened to a nearby house and summoned assistance. A physician was called and recognizing the seriousness of the injury, the ambulance was summoned and O'Neill was rushed to the hospital. Monday symptoms of gangrene appeared and Tuesday when the poisonous condition of the member was positive, it was decided to amputate the shattered leg. This was done last night, the leg being amputated at the hip joint. O'Neill failed to rally from the shock.

At the municipal building at 11 o'clock this morning the voting machine of the second ward, used at the election in September, when former Mayor William C. Fox was defeated for office of member of city council, was opened by city officials and officials who had charge of the voting in that ward. The opening of the machine had been ordered at the request of Mr. Fox, who believed that an error had been made and that he, instead of Lucius E. Whiton, had been elected. The count on the voting machine and the moderator's report were found to be correct. It was intended also to have opened the voting machine used in the fifth ward, in which Mr. Fox alleges a big discrepancy, but because of several of the workers in the ward that day being absent from the city, this was not done. Mr. Fox has retained counsel to look after his interest and the latter is causing a petition to be prepared, which will be submitted in the superior court here Friday, requesting that an order be issued requiring the opening of the fifth ward voting machine. The law provides that such action must be taken within 30 days following the holding of the election. Friday, therefore, will be the final day on which the court can be petitioned for that purpose.

The funeral of William Cleary, of 96 Allen street, Groton, who died while attending mass Sunday, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William J. Fox, pastor of the church. The bearers were Mr. Cleary's three sons, James M., Edward T. and Walter Cleary; his son-in-law, Joseph Geadreau; a grandson, James W. Cleary and a nephew, Berbard J. Cullen. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Mary F., widow of Rev. George A. Barrett, formerly of Plattsburg, N. Y., was held at 7 o'clock tonight at the residence of her granddaughter, Mrs. Howard E. Lee, 394 Vauxhall street, the services being conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The body was forwarded to Plattsburg, for burial Friday in Riverside cemetery.

Charles Patterson, 71, proprietor of the Central House, 6 Starr street, died at 4:30 o'clock this morinng at his home, after an illness of several months. He is survived by his wife and one son, Frank Patterson, of Thompsonville, Mr. Patterson was formerly a restaurant proprietor and had resided in New London many years. He was a native of Indiana.

Albert Riley, of 55 Adelaide street; Marie Bache, 4 West Pleasant street, Melvin Johnson, South Glastonbury; Silvio Beaubordin, Uncasville and Stephen Hesbriber, Montville, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Miss Katherine M. Prindiville, formerly superintendent of Lawrence-Memorial hospital, whose health has been impaired for several weeks, is recovering at a sanitarium in New Jersey. Miss Prindiville has been at the rest resort about three weeks, is improving rapidly and it is believed that she will return to New London and resume her duties early next month.

Lieut. Comd'r Pryor, U. S. S. Camden, submarine base, reported to the police today that a .38 calibre Colt automatic revolver had been stolen from the boat and expressed the belief that the revolver had been pawned in a New London pawnshop. Lieut. Comd'r Pryor said that he believed the revolver was stolen Navy day, Oct. 22.

The annual banquet of Niagara Engine company was held this evening at the quarters of the company, Bank street and was attended by about 150 members and their guests, including city officials. After a fine turkey dinner, there were speeches by Mayor James A. May, City Manager William A. Holt and members of the fire department, besides company members. There is a possibility that at an early date the Niagara company and the F. L. Allen Hook & Ladder company may be housed together instead of separately as now and this phase of the situation was discussed.

A public service car owned by Charles Parmelee and driven by Michael Campago, of Jefferson avenue, collided with a disabled private automobile on the Military highway, Groton, this morning. The public service car was wrecked and Campagno and a passenger, Edward Boyle, employed at the post office were injured, though not seriously. The automobile was en route to New London, and after passing the submarine base and while travelling at a speed of about 25 miles an hour it collided with a private auto owned by a chief petty officer at the base. After being disabled by colliding with a telephone pole, the rear end of the bumped machine extended into the highway and in the path of traffic. The public service auto hit the private car with great force, with the result that Campagno and Boyle sustained lacerations and bruises.

John Fisher, 48 Terrace avenue, reported to the police tonight that while he parked his automobile in front of his house the windshield was shattered. It is presumed that the damage was done by boys.

Frank E. Searls, 89 Montauk avenue was arrested tonight by Patrolman John Clifford charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law. Searle parked his car in such a manner on Golden street that traffic was obstructed.

Ray Trout, a sailor aboard U. S. S. Casein, United States Coast Guard, local section base, 4, state pier, who was arrested drunk last night, was not prosecuted in the police court today. He was turned over to the shore patrol for discipline at the coast guard station.

Frank Sawicki, who evidently entertains the idea that he can evade a summons to present himself in court, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Capt. Andrew McCarthy, Groton police on a charge of breach of the peace. He is at liberty on his own recognizance to appear in the Groton town court next Monday morning. Sawicki was arrested Sept. 28, but he failed to defend the charge. When he did so Sawicki's presence in court was demanded, so yesterday afternoon when Capt. The Hudson-Essex service station was damaged by a premature explosion this morning, the blast evidently resulting from an escapment of gas. The boiler room was slightly damaged, a condition that has before occurred from the same cause. From time to time gas has escaped and has collected in the boiler room. A fire being in the furnace today, after the accumulation of combustible fumes, the gas was ignited and created an explosion. The blast indicated that a fire would be caused, and a still alarm was sent to fire headquarters, Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds responding, but there was no need of the services of the department.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—Despite the approach of the holiday, usually the signal for many traders to limit their commitments temporarily, the bond market today was one of the strongest and most active seen in several weeks. Heavy buying in many divisions was in the face of a sudden spurt of new issues, aggregating more than $150,000,000 in two days.

The prompt absorption of the new offerings by dealers gave renewed evidence of the soundness of the money market and probably this was a factor in the market's strength. Easy credit continued to contribute to higher prices, since bond holders are reluctant to relinquish investments when the yield is higher than can be obtained in interest on current loans.

There was considerable disposition on the part of traders to take up issues convertible into strong stocks. Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1-2s jumped 4 points to 235 1-2, and International Paper 5s, Norfolk and Western 6s also advanced sharply to their best prices of the year or longer.

There were, in all, more than 30 new highs scattered through the various groups, and as many more issues duplicated their previous peaks. Many of the rails were in new maximum territory, including Erie 5s, Chicago and Alton 3s, "Katy" 4s, St. Paul 4s and "Nickel Plate" 4s.

More than half a million in Goodyear 5s changed hands at fractionally improved prices, and there was heavy accumulation of Dodge 6s, which gained a point, crossing 90 for the first time since mid-summer. Otis Steel 6s also were strong.

Peruvian bonds were firm, but failed to reach yesterday's peak figures. German Central bank for agriculture 6s fell to a new low below 92, but some of the German industrial liens received good support. Japanese, French and Italian obligations were easy.

Only a small amount of business was transacted in the federal government list, and prices were irregular.

ALL-CONFERENCE TEAM IS PICKED

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(AP)— Led by Herb Joesting of Minnesota and Bennie Oosterbaan of Michigan as unanimous choices, the all-conference team chosen annually by coaches of the Big Ten for the Associated Press was announced today.

The Minnesota fullback and the Michigan end were selected without a dissenting vote for their same positions on the coaches' honorary eleven, followed closely by Raskowski of Ohio at tackle, Baer of Michigan at guard and Crofoot of Wisconsin at quarterback, who fell just short of unanimous choices.

Rouse of Chicago, was selected at center, beating out Reitsch of Illinois by one vote. The other winners of mythical honors were Hanson, Minnesota, guard; Nowack, Illinois, tackle; Fisher, Northwestern, end; Gilbert, Michigan, halfback; and Almquist, Minnesota, halfback.

The teams:

Oosterbaan, Mich. .... Haycraft, Minn.
Left End

Raskowski, Ohio ..... Nelson, Iowa.
Left Tackle

Hanson, Minn. .... Mathews, Indiana.
Left Guard

Rouse, Chicago ..... Reitsch, Illinois.
Center

Baer, Michigan .... Gibson, Minnesota
Right Guard

Nowack, Illinois .... Gary, Minnesota.
Right Tackle

Fish, Northwestern .. Grange, Illinois.
Right End

Crofoet, Wisconsin ..... Eby, Ohio.
Quarterback

Gilbert, Michigan ..... Timm, Illinois.
Left Halfback

Almquist, Minnesota .. Wilcox, Purdue.
Right Halfback

Joesting, Minn. .. Lewis, Northwestern.
Fullback

Captain Herb Joesting, Minnesota, fullback, and Captain Bennie Oosterbaan, Michigan, end, were all-American players last year. Coach Stagg, of Chicago, who does not favor the picking of "all" teams, cast no vote, but the other nine coaches put these two stars on their first teams, without exception.

Baer, Michigan's powerful guard, lost some votes in the effort of some of the coaches to shuffle Captain Bob Reitsch, Illinois ,and Captain Ken Rouse, Chicago, on to the first team, though both have played all their conference games at center. Only one other center received votes besides these two, Randolph, Indiana. Rouse received more votes for the first team, while Reitsch received more total first and second team votes. Only one coach failed to pick Reitsch for either the first or second team.

Hanson, of Minnesota, was the outstanding choice for the other guard. The other tackle position was a close race between Nowack, Illinois; Gary, Minnesota; and Nelson, Iowa, with Nowack having one more first team vote than the other two who were tied.

There was likewise a big field of ends for the flank job opposite Oosterbaan. Waldo, Fisher, Northwestern, received the most votes, but four others were given places by some of the football directors. Garland Grange, "Red's" brother, led Cameron of Wisconsin by one ballot.

The backfield positions, except for first and second team fullbacks were likewise scrambled in the coaches' efforts to pay tribute to the array of great ball carriers in the conference this year. Crofoot was the outstanding choice for first team quarterback, but half a dozen halfbacks were given scattering votes in order to get them into the backfield for either running or blocking purposes. Eby, Ohio State, received the most votes as runner-up to Crofoot. "Pest" Welch, Purdue's brilliant sophomore was short of either team by the narrowest of margins, his single year of competition probably counting something against him. Louis Gilbert received a stray mention as quarterback to get his passing arm and educated toe into the backfield, but all but two chose him as a half back.

"Tiny" Lewis, Northwestern's fullback, who suffered from a series of injuries this fall was the preference of the coaches for second team fullback, over-shadowed by Joesting. Fritz Humbert, Illinois, and George Rich, Michigan, also received mention.

JURY GIVES VERDICT FOR $1,200 IN FAVOR OF INJURED MYSTIC BOY

After being out 50 minutes Wednesday afternoon, the jury in the superior court here returned a verdict for $1,200 in favor of James W. Johnson, Jr., a thirteen year old Mystic boy, against Charles E. Wheeler, a manufacturer of that village. The boy sued for $10,000 damages for injuries he received when hit by an automobile driven by Mr. Wheeler, Sept. 4, 1923, at Bank square, Mystic.

Both sides rested a little after noon, after testimony had been given during the morning session of court and the arguments were made by Attorney G. C. Morgan for the plaintiff and B. H. Hewitt for the defendant. The jury retired after hearing the charge from Judge John Rufus Booth and at 3 o'clock returned with its verdict which was reported by Ashley T. Boon, foreman, and was accepted by the court.

Begin Trial of $10,000 Suit

When the verdict had been returned in the Mystic suit a jury was empaneled for trial of the suit of John F. McGourty of Waterford against Philip Adel of New London for $10,000 damages for injuries received when McGourty was riding a motorcycle in New London on the night of March 1, 1927, when it was hit by an automobile driven by Adel.

The accident happened at the beacon at Bank street and Ocean avenue as McGourty was driving into the city from Waterford and Adel was driving in the opposite direction on Bank street and was turning into Ocean avenue. The plaintiff claims that Adel was making a left turn and did not pass to the right of the intersection of the streets, but turned to the left of the beacon and struck the motorcycle after it had passed the beacon.

Attorney G. C. Morgan appeared for the plaintiff and Arthur T. Keefe for the defendant. The former first called to the stand Walter L. Spencer, who showed several pictures of the street intersection where the accident occurred. He was followed on the stand by Dr. H. W. Wellington of New London, who attended McGourty when he was brought to the hospital, and until he left on April 29.

The doctor said McGourty had two fractures in his left thigh, fracture of the ankle, concussion of the brain, shock and lacerations. As a result of the breaks in the thigh, the leg has been shortened an inch and a half. The doctor testified that his bill was $478.

John F. McGourty, the plaintiff, an automobile mechanic, testified that he was driving his motorcycle about 20 to 25 miles an hour down Bank street, slowing down as he reached the Ocean avenue corner. Looking to his right up Ocean avenue, the witness said he saw nothing approaching. Then he looked to the left and Mr. Adel's car was right up on him. Mr. Adel's car, the witness said, hit the motorcycle after the cycle had passed the silent policeman and he was pushed into Ocean avenue. No warning was given by the Adel automobile which hit the silent policeman and pushed it up Ocean avenue. The witness said that he was hit in the left side by the automobile.

The witness testified to another break in his left leg which happended two or three days after he had left the hospital. He was walking with a cane then, he said, as the doctor had directed and his right foot slipped on a board, causing him to fall and suffer a second break in his left leg.

Attorney Keefe objected to this evidence as immaterial and irrevalent and Judge Booth excluded the testimony for the time being.

On cross-examination by Attorney Keefe, the witness denied that his motorcycle zig-zagged because he was putting on the brakes to avoid the accident. He said when he saw the Adel car right up on him, he opened up the motorcycle with the idea of getting out of the way of the automobile.

Thomas H. Shipman, of New London, chief of the fire department, testified that he took McGourty to the hospital after the accident. He showed on a plan where he picked McGourty up and where the motorcycle lay in Ocean avenue.

Thomas F. Connors, of New London, testified that he saw the accident from a point across Bank street. He said that the Adel car cut the corner turning from Bank street to Ocean avenue and looked as if it was to go to the left of the beacon. The witness said that the Adel machine was going about 30 to 35 miles an hour and hit the motorcycle when the cycle was about two feet past the beacon. The motorcycle was knocked over into Ocean avenue and McGourty was thrown off.

On cross-examination, the witness stated that he was unable to say which machine reached the intersection of Bank street and Ocean avenue first.

William G. Wiesch, of New London, was the next witness. He said he was walking on Ocean avenue, was nearly opposite the beacon when he heard a crash and saw McGourty flying through the air. He testified that he saw the Adel car hit the beacon and move it into Ocean avenue about four feet. The damage to the Adel car was on the left hand side.

Court adjourned at 5 o'clock to continue trial of the case next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Thanksgiving with the Old Folks

Thanksgivin' with the old folks on the farm!
Oh, that's what gives the day a subtle charm!
Jest to watch old mother sittin'
In the chimney-seat a-knittin'—
Allus knittin' socks to keep the babies warm.

Knittin' socks an' darnin' stockin's all the day,
Jest as if we still were children out at play!
With her kind old eyes a-blinkin',
'N' not ever even thinkin'
That her babies, too, are growin' old and gray.

Then to meetin' at the warnin' of the bell,
From the little old white church down in the dell,
Tho' the settin's far from easy,
An' the organ's weak and wheezy,
Yet there's somethin' seems to tell ye all is well!

Ah, 'tis thoughts of home that keep us safe from harm,
An' gives Thanksgivin' day a subtle charm,
For so long as mother's livin'
There's a reason for Thanksgivin',
An' we'll spend it with the old folks on the farm!

Friends and Longhow

Brave dreams are flying where the purple thickens,
I set my sail at dawn.
Under flushed rainbow colors flames and quickens
Each peak, each rippling lawn.
I see strange folk, walk unfamiliar highways,
Fashion my hours to ways that are not my ways,
And after, spent with deck-watch, and bile early drenched with foam,
To use-endeared tranquilities come home.

Friends' hands to clasp, friends' hearts to test
By quiet firesides; that is best.

Each day I feel the urge and follow, follow
New lures from sun to sun;
And then the restless moments swallow, swallow
My passions one by one.
I think my hands are full, and, lo, illusion
Stares in my face. I see earth's mad confusion,
And after—under twilight's purple dome
To dear-remembered ministries come home.

A little house, a little rest
With friends and laughter; that is best.

That back yard is now an avenue, and a friend of Mrs. Terry happened along when workmen were excavating for a driveway. Close examination revealed Mrs. Terry's name engraved on the inside, proving it to be the long lost thimble.

Gee knocked down the dam, burned the materials used in its construction and erected a dummy stuffed with straw to frighten the beavers away. When he returned a few days later he found that the beavers had torn the "scarecrow" to pieces and had used the clothing and straw to build a new dam.

The American Humane association has begun another effort to do away with cropping of dogs. Richard C. Craven, editor of the National Humane Review, has formally asked the American Kennel club to rule that cropped dogs born after a specified date be barred from shows held under kennel club rules. Such a rule was adopted by the English Kennel club thirty years ago, he said. Barred from prize shows, cropped dogs would have little value except as pets, and the practice would die out, he asserted. "Cropping," said Mr. Cravens, "is faking. It is cruel, unsportsmanlike and a practice that belongs to a bygone age."

DEATH OF PREMIER IONEL BRATIANU OF RUMANIA

Arch Enemy of Prince Carol Succumbed After an Operation For Throat Trouble—Dowager Queen Marie, Carol's Mother, Confronted the Prime Minister in His Last Moments—Bratianu's Younger Brother, Vintila, Will Be Acting Premier Until After the Funeral on Sunday—Death of the Premier Once More Brings Former Prince Carol Into the Limelight.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Premier Ionel Bratianu, arch enemy of the exiled former Crown Prince Carol, died today.

The dying prime minister was comforted in his last hours by a visit from Carol's mother, the Dowager Queen Marie.

Ionel's younger brother Vintila, quickly appointed by the regency, rules in his stead with the army in readiness to deal with any demonstration by sympathizers with Carol. He will be acting premier until after the funeral on Sunday.

The 62-year-old premier died from a complication of ailments after an operation intended to relieve throat trouble. His death is believed to have been hastened by the recent failure to convict Mihail Manoilescu of plotting to restore Carol to the throne as the acquittal was hailed by his opponents as a victory for Carol in his desire to return to Rumania from France.

Bratianu underwent an operation yesterday for an abscess of the throat due to tonsilitis. A silver tube was inserted in his windpipe to aid in breathing. Late in the night however, the premier almost strangled, his temperature went up and he experienced considerable pain.

In a last heroic effort to save the "iron man" of Rumania, surgeons had removed a diseased gland in the left of the lower jaw. When they started to shave his beard he demurred at first and then yielded. He was delirious at times but recognized those around him although too feeble to speak to them. Members of the cabinet were at his bedside and Queen Marie, who visited him in the evening, kept in constant telephonic communication with those at the bedside.

The premier, who recently had influenza, suffered a recurrence of nephritis (inflamation of the kidney) after the operation. Later when his kidneys refused to function and septicemia began to spread toward his heart and lungs, the physicians administered oxygen.

Just as the physicians were abandoning hope, Bratianu, with supreme courage, and unable to speak because of the silver tube, asked for a pad of paper and wrote the following note to his young secretary, Fotino: "do not be impatient. I shall make a good fight."

The dying man then fell asleep after renewed inhalations of oxygen.

When the physicians came to the conclusion that only a miracle could save Bratianu, last rites were administered and his nearest relatives bade him farewell.

As a last resort, surgeons created an artificial ulcer on leg in an unsuccessful effort to deflect poisons from the diseased facial glands and tonsils.

When the queen visited Bratianu a few hours before his death, she said softly in French to the man who more than any other, was responsible for the exile of her son, "Do you feel better?"

The premier raised his arm and feebly grasped the queen's hand. He said haltingly, despite the tube, "Yes, your majesty. How good and gracious it is of you to come here at such an hour."

Queen Marie smiled at him and the premier's eyes became suffused with tears. She, who knew more than anyone else how much confidence the late King Ferdinand reposed in Bratianu, turned to the court physician and said: "It is less than four months since the king died and another great figure is in the shadow of death. Poor Rumania has many crosses to bear." She then took leave of the dying statesman and kissed and consoled Madame Bratianu.

The queen was then followed by Princess Helen, whose six-year-old son Michael was made king virtually by the man whose life was then ebbing. The princess was so overcome that she remained in silence by the deathbed until the doctors led her gently away.

The patriarch of the Rumanian church, Miron Christea, who is a member of the regency, remained outside the sick chamber until he was called in to administer the last rites. Prince Nicholas, Carols' brother, and Judge Budzugan, the other two members of the regency also were called to the bedside.

The premier died at 7 a. m. the cabinet promptly offered its resignation to the regency which refused it. Vintila Bratianu was asked to preside over the cabinet until after the premier's funeral. Guards in the capital were trebled and troops throughout the country were ordered to stand by. Arrangements were made for a meeting tonight of Liberal party leaders to select a new chief.

HOPE FOR RESTORATION OF FORMER CROWN PRINCE

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Former Crown Prince Carol, of Rumania, was moved a step nearer legal return to his country, if not a step nearer to the throne he renounced nearly two years ago, the death of Premier Bratianu in Bucharest, in the opinion of certain Rumanian quarters in Paris close to the exiled prince.

News from Bucharest that Vintila Bratineau was named by the regency to succeed to the premiership dampened the hopes of Carol's friends for an immediate restoration. But left them still declaring that Carol's return to Bucharest was approaching.

That home-going, however, will be one of perfect legality, it was reiterated. The prince will make no move, his friends say, unless he is convinced that he really has been called by his country. During the stress of recent events, Carol maintained that attitude rigorously in the few statements he has been willing to give to the press and in recent conversations with intimate friends, some of them among the most prominent persons in Rumania, who visited him at his country retreat in Brittany.

As far as could be learned today, Carol still was secluded at his country home and has no intention of coming to Paris for the present. On the other hand, some of his closest advisers are urging him to come here immediately in order to keep in the closest touch with every development and be ready at a moment's notice to accept the "call" which they think will not be delayed long.

BURIAL OF THREE MEN EXECUTED IN MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 24—(AP)—A cemetery on a hilltop near the Guadalupe shrine, which is bound by tradition close to the hearts of Mexican Catholics, was chosen as the last resting place for three of the four men executed this week for an attempt against the life of former President Obregon.

The fourth body, that of Juan Tirado, lay in the morgue at the military hospital tonight awaiting a claimant. Officials said Tirado probably would be buried by the state unless relatives claimed his body before morning.

The bodies of Luis Segura Vilchis, the Catholic priest, Augustin Projuarez, and the priest's brother Humberto, were placed in black coffins for the interment this afternoon at the Tepeyac cemetery, about two and a half miles from the capital, near the shrine where Saint Mary is reputed to have appeared to a peon.

The bodies of the priest and his brother were claimed by their 60-year old father, Miguel Projuarez, who learned of their execution from his son-in-law, who had received the news from the headlines of newspaper extras when he left his office at noon for luncheon. His young daughter, Anna Maria, who had vainly sought admittance to police headquarters to bid her brothers farewell before their execution, confirmed the son-in-law's news.

The aged man went with faltering steps to the military hospital to claim the bodies. His set features did not betray his emotion although his voice trembled when he asked "Where are my sons? I want to look at them."

Inside the morgue he lifted the cover of the priest's coffin and kissed him. He wiped a drop of blood from the priest's forehead with his handkerchief, and then payed a similar farewell to Humberto.

Anna Maria who had accompanied him was unable to bear the sight and fell into the arms of her father. He pushed her away saying "Not one tea, daughter."

GOVERNOR TO MEDIATE IN COLORADO COAL STRIKE

DENVER, Col., Nov. 24—(AP)—Governor W. H. Adams, announced today he was preparing to lend a mediating hand in an effort to end the I. W. W. coal strike in Colorado which is now in its fifth week.

Petitions bearing the signatures of 5,340 miners have been presented to the executive asking that he use his "good offices" in arranging a meeting between the miners and the coal operators. Governor Adams said he would call the attention of the operators to the peace move and added he was hopeful that the end of the walkout was not far off.

Coal operators would make no statement as to whether they would listen to the suggestion of the governor and meet with the miners.

The state federation of labor also offered to assist in bringing a settlement of the strike. In a statement signed by Earl Hoage, president and John E. Cross, secretary-treasurer of the organization, the coal companies were criticized for their treatment of miners the state industrial commissioner was accused of "playing politics" and the I. W. W. leadership of the strike was accused of not desiring to effect a settlement for the benefit of the coal miners.

The atmosphere was generally calm in the strike areas today. The national guard was in full control of the northern fields and the Columbine mine, where five strikers were killed by state police Monday, was preparing to reopen next week under protection of troops.

SOLDIER WAS KILLED WHEN AUTOMOBILE OVERTURNED

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Corporal James Donlion, 47 years old, a member of the Army Quartermaster corps, stationed at Fort Slocum, was killed instantly today when an automobile in which he and three other persons were riding struck a pole and overturned.

James Dow, the driver, and the Misses Maude and Helen MacEchron, sisters, all of New Rochelle, were thrown clear of the wreckage and escaped injury.

A photograph in Dolion's pocket bore on the reverse side directions that Miss Elizabeth Donlion, 230 Dean street, Providence, R. I., a daughter, be notified.

LABOR'S VOTE OF CENSURE REJECTED IN COMMONS

LONDON, Nov. 24—(AP)—Labor's vote of censure of the government for being the cause o fthe failure of the tri-partite conference at Geneva, was rejected by the house of commons late tonight by a vote of 316 to 105.

The debate was notable for a curious contrast between two ministers of the crown. Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary for foreign affairs, took some of the blame on himself for lack of preparation, and W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, strongly maintained that the British government had done everything possible for success, and that no blame could be laid on the shoulders of the British delegation.

ADRIFT IN A DISABLED COAST GUARD LIFEBOAT

ASTORIA, Ors., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Driven by mountainous waves, in a disabled caost guard lifeboat, Captain Herman Windbeck and five men of the Willapa Bay coast guard station went adrift about 3 a. m. today, near the mouth of the Columbia river. No word has been received of their fate.

Coast guard owews of the Point Adams and the Cape Disappointment stations set out in the face of a terrific storm to seek the lost craft.

With Captain Windbeck were Albert Genry, Melvin Alvey, Frank Boylejn, Ralph Lee and Aino Joudson, all of North Cove, Wash., members of the Wiallapa Bay station. The Cape Disappointment boat attempted to put back to shore, but grounded on the sand and was forced to go out to sea again.

The Willapa Bay craft went adrift when a line by which she was tied to the lightship parted. Captain Windbeck's boat set out yesterday to aid trolling vessels in distress. Her propellor became damaged by a rope. She managed to reach the lightship last night but the sea wag so rough that the men could not get aboard.

A call was sent to the coas' guard cutter Snowhomish at Neah Bay, Wash., to aid in the search.

THREE PERSONS KILLED WHEN TRAIN STRUCK AUTO

HARTFORD, Nov. 25—(AP)—Three persons were reported killed about 11:45 tonight when train number 66 bound for Hartford, struck an automobile at the grade crossing on the main Hartford-New Haven line at Newington junction. The automobile was traveling north from Newington Center.

One body, that of a man, about 30 years old was found about 20 feet north of the crossing. In the wreckage of the car, which was carried more than 500 feet, searchers found the body of a young woman.

Two children, also occupants of the car, before being removed to Hartford hospital, said there had been two men and a woman in the car. Searchers are hunting the body of the second man in the car.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lockwood, of 210 Hamilton street, Hartford.

Clifford Johnson, of Atwood street, Newington.

The injured are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood, Lester Lockwood and Grace Lockwood. Grace Lockwood wa staken to the Hartford hospital, unconscious and in a critical condition. Lester Lockwood was taken to St. Francis hospital also seriously injured. All the dead and injured were brought to the Union station on board the delayed train.

The driver of the car, according to people who saw the accident, allowed a freight train to pass, bound south, and then started to drive over the crossing. While on the tracks, the passenger train struck the car, the dead man and the two children being thrown out at the impact. The crossing is not protected after 11 o'clock.

FIGHT IN BRICKYARDS ON UNIONVILLE ROAD

FARMINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—Following a fight at the brickyards on the Unionville road this afternoon, Joseph Lasky, of Farmington is in St. Francis hospital, Hartford, with stab wounds on his shoulder, and a possible broken collarbone. Farmington and New Britain police are searching for Walter Bazyliwicz, also of Farmington, on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Little is known of the fight, as Lasky was unable to tell his story to the police when he was taken to the hospital, and his assailant disappeared from the yards before Policeman Nathan W. Fuller of Farmington arrived. From the injuries, however, it is certain that a knife or some other sharp instrument was used.

A third man, Paul Pilitoni, of Farmington, found at the yards, was arrested on a charge of drunkenness, but whether he was connected with the fight is not known. The man was taken to the cell in West Hartford for the night.

FOUR MEN HELD FOR WHOLESALE BANDITRY

HARTFORD, Nov. 24—(AP)—Returning to their home in Perth Amboy, N. J., to enjoy Thanksgiving dinner after evading a police search of two weeks, two of the four young men reputed to have preyed on petting parties in Southington and to have engaged in wholesale banditry in that section of the state, were arrested by New Jersey police and held for the arrival of Hartford county agents to bring them to Connecticut today.

Their arrest at the instance of County Detective Edward J. Hickey leaves at large only the ring leader of the quartet, Edward Glotke, 26, of Southington. The two arrested are Joseph Pinkewitz, 22, of John Cooper, alias John Pinkewitz, who represents himself as the brother of Joseph, of 224 Summit street, Perth Amboy, N. J.

NATIONAL GRANGE FAVORS GREAT MERCHANT MARINE

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 24—(AP)—The National Grange today passed resolutions favoring the building of a great American merchant marine, the outlawing of wars, the ineligible alien clause in the federal immigration law, and the registration of unnaturalized aliens throughout the country.

The grange farm relief platform, which the national farm organization intends to place before congress when it convenes next month, will be woven about the debenture feature approved at the 1926 convention in Portland, Oregon.

Sudden Death of Rear Admiral Wm. Bullard

Heart Trouble Caused Death of Chairman of the Federal Radio Commission.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24—(AP)—Rear Admiral William H. G. Bullard, retired, chairman of the federal radio commission and one of the important figures in the development of radio in the United States, died suddenly today at his home here. Death, which occurred at 5:30 a. m., was caused by heart trouble.

His tireless struggle to solve the complex problems of radio is believed to have so lowered Admiral Bullard's vitality as to produce a condition which resulted [illegible] He had been activ[illegible] radio development [illegible] of a century ago [illegible] him the title of "father [illegible] American Radio."

Admiral Bullard who in 1919 awakened government officials to the necessity of acquiring patent rights to Alexanderson alternator, the most reliable instrument for radio communication over water, if America was to retain its supremacy in the radio field.

The rights were secured over spirited competition from other countries and out of this acquisition was created the Radio Corporation of America. President Wilson released Admiral Bullard from his naval duties in order that he might become a member of the board of directors of the new company.

Bullard is credited with having been largely responsible for the arrangement by which press messages could be sent by navy transmitters, making it possible for news from America to be printed in Hawaii and the Philippines to which other means of rapid communication were lacking. He aided in defending the interests of the United States at the international radio conference which has been in session here since October 4, and at which seventy nations are represented.

THANKSGIVING FAILED TO HALT CRIME IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The national day of Thanksgiving had a theme of violence and hatred in Chicago with the bombing of a cigar store and the kidnapping of a man believed to have been supplying evidence to prohibition enforcement officers.

Neither episode was linked by the authorities with the recent flare up between rival gamblers and bootleggers. The latest development of that warfare, which has resulted in the death of a hoodlum and a police seargeant, was the roundup by police of 50 suspected gangsters. Among these was "Pete" Genna, last of that notorious brotherhood of six, one of the pioneer bootlegging organizations of Chicago. The 50 spent the day in jail.

A few hours after he had gone to a roadhouse near Hammond, Ind., to escort a woman singer to her home, the body of A. G. Hartz, 27, of Calumet City, until recently a soft drink proprietor of Dalton, Ill., was found under a drainage canal near the city. He had been shot through the head and his skull fractured

It was the belief of authorities that he had been "taken for a ride" because he was suspected of tipping off dry officers to beer Hatz.

Three men forced Hartz to leave the roadhouse and enter an automobile, Mrs. Marie Wallace, the singer, told officers. She said that one of the kidnappers was Scotty McGowan, who had purchased Hartz's Dalton business. The others she declared were Jack White, operator of the Dolton inn and Jim Needles, a companion of the latter. They are being sought.

FAILED IN ATTEMPT FOR CONVICTION FOR FLOGGING

LUVERNE, Ala., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Defeated in his first attempt to convict a member of Crenshaw county's alleged band of floggers, Attorney General Charlie C. McCall tonight was ready to proceed with the trial of the second of 23 defendants at the bar.

Shelby Gregory accused of being one of five men who kidnapped a Negro woman and whipped her, was acquitted by a jury today. Testifying in his own behalf, he said the confession introduced in evidence by the state was obtained after he had been maltreated by state officials. State witnesses had identified him as one of the floggers of the woman.

"I do not feel that we have lost ground in our fight against these floggings," Mr. McCall said after Gregory's acquittal. "We are going right ahead Monday morning with the other cases." The next case, he said, involved the flogging of a white woman.

Gregory was the first of 23 men slated to be brought to trial at this term of court on indictments returned by a grand jury after it had investigated Crenshaw's county "reign of terror." The grand jury returned 102 indictments in all.

Acquittal of Gregory was the first in flogging cases in the state, ten men and two women having been convicted elsewhere on charges growing out of night raids on homes and flogging of many persons.

Convicts in Revolt At Folson Prison, Cal.

More Than 1,000 Shots Fired by Armed Prisoners and the Besieging Party.

FOLSOM, Cal., Nov. 24—(AP)—The whiz and whin eof convict snipers' bullets through the prison grounds tonight marked a lull in an armed battle between 1400 rioting convicts and 300 state militiamen and peace officers in the most severe riot at Folsom state prison in years.

The first pitched battle of the revolt was staged this afternoon when more than 1,000 shots were exchanged between the armed prisoners and the besieging party. Many of the convicts, judging from the groans and defiant cursing emanating from the cell house in which they are confined, have been wounded.

Tonight the tolls in the law enforcement forces was two dead and three injured. Ray Singleton, a guard was killed and Charles Gilles, aged gatekeeper dropped dead from the excitement.

Three others, Charles Gorhanson, Barnett Hughes and Walter Neill, have been founded. Five shots, fired on the inside of the cell house when tear bombs were cast into the den, have caused state officials to fear that five guards held prisoners by the revolters, have been slain.

Guardsmen from Yuba City, Woodland, Stockton and Sacramento cooperated with prison officials, state county and municipal peace officers under the direction of chief of police Ted Koenig of Sacramento, in an effort to control the rioters.

Guardsmen were under the command of Colonel Wallace Mason.

Warden Court Smith, owing to the arrangement of prison buildings, was a prisoner in his own castle, but was able to get out at sundown. He was in his office, unable to leave because both entrances were in a position to be fired upon readily by the convicts.

Under the joint command of Colonel Mason and Chief of Police Koening, working from signals given at a distance by the imprisoned warden, a pitched battle between the convicts and the attacking force occurred this afternoon in a futile attempt to use tear bombs to break the revolt.

Guardsmen and peace officers were deployed around the cell house at sheltered points and at a signal from the warden, three policemen advanced to the cell house door and threw four tear bombs into the enclosure.

The convicts immediately opened fire and the shots were returned.

A convict from a second story window dropped a note. As it fluttered to the ground, Guard Ed Bathurst volunteered to advance and retrieve it. It said:

"Ammunition almost gone."

Captain of the Guard Larkin sent a note saying:

"You may come out in the customary order and everything will be all right."

The offer of peace apparently was not made public and Captain Larkin dispatched an order for additional tear bombs.

Snipers' bullets spat across the prison court yard. The ammunition of the convicts was believed to be running short.

TWO GUARDS AND FIVE CONVICTS WERE KILLED

FOLSOM PRISON, Calif., Nov. 24—(AP)—Seven men were dead and 22 wounded after hours of fighting in Folsom state prison where rioting tonight had settled down into a bitter siege between revolting convicts, variously estimated to number between 1200 and 2000 desperate men, and more than 500 militiamen, deputy sheriffs and other officers.

Two guards and five convicts were dead and three guards, seventeen convicts, a police officer and the warden's secretary were wounded.

SHOT AND KILLED WOMAN, THEN WOUNDED HIMSELF

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Edna Lascola, 20 years old, was shot and killed here today by Vincent Loretti, who then turned his pistol on himself. Loretti, with a bullet wound in his chest, was under police guard at a hospital tonight, charged with murder. Physicians said he would recover.

Police said Loretti had admitted that he had sold his automobile, a musical instrument and other personal belongings to obtain money to spend on Mrs. Lascola. Today, he said he was "broke" and made an appointment with the woman to ask her for a loan. The refusal brought on a quarrel which ended in the shooting. Today was the third anniversary of Mrs. Lascola's wedding. She had been separated from her husband and the police were informed, Loretti had been estranged from his wife.

REFERENDUM HAS APPROVED TAX CUT OF $400,000,000

Chamber of Commerce of the United States Sustains Revenue Program of Its Committee on Federal Taxation—91 Per Cent of the Vote Was in the Affirmative—Chamber Announced the Recommendation Was Arrived at After Study of the Government's Fiscal Situation By a Committee of Eminent Business Men.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—Standing pat on its demand for a $400,000,000 tax reduction, despite the treasury view that it should not exceed $225,000,000 and the house ways and means committee decision to recommend reduction aggregating $236,000,000, the chamber of commerce of the United States announced today that its membership in a referendum just completed had approved the revenue program of its committee on federal taxation. In the largest ballot by its member organizations, ever recorded the chamber reported that 91 per cent of the vote was in the affirmative.

The chamber of commerce announcement said that the action on the part of the membership committee the organization to advocate at the coming session of congress the enactment of a tax bill carrying into effect the following program:

Reductions and repeals estimated to amount to $400,000,000 in the first full year after the changes are made.

Reduction of the corporation income tax rate from 13 1-2 per cent to not more than 10 per cent, with the reduction applicable to net income of 1927.

Repeal of the remaining war excise taxes levied on particular businesses.

Repeal of the federal estate tax.

Provision by congress of full opportunity for the joint congressional tax committee to perfect proposals for revision of federal tax laws and their administration.

"With respect to the suggestion that taxes be cut $400,000,000 half of it to apply to the present fiscal year," the chamber's statement said, "this recommendation was arrived at after study of the government's fiscal situation by an eminent committee of business men.

"Large early treasury surpluses show plainly that the government is taking more tax money from the public than is necessary to run the government and retire the public debt as already provided for by law. The surplus for the year 1927 was more than $635,000,000. Surpluses for other years have been: For 1924, $505,365,00; for 1925, $250,505,000; for 1926, $377,767,000.

"Already a surplus for the current fiscal year amounting to $455,000,000 is in prospect and on the basis of a continuation of the policy of economy, of reasonable estimates of business stability as well as probable revenues, a sufficient surplus is to be expected for 1929.

"Thus, while no deficit is anticipated should these reductions be made effective, it is obvious that in view of the credit strength of the government and the low interest rates, it can obtain, there would be no great cause for alarm even though a deficit, through unexpected developments, should arise."

Declaring that "prospective surpluses in the treasury encourage extravagant appropriations," the chamber of commerce held to the view that "congress would hesitate to launch expensive new enterprises if to do so would produce a treasury deficit."

SIX LIVES WERE LOST IN A FIRE AT MALONE, N. Y.

MALONE, N. Y., Nov. 24—(AP)—A happy Thanksgiving reunion was transformed into tragedy today when fire took a toll of six lives at the home of Walter Leary, at North Lawrence, today. Five of Mr. Leary's children and his brother perished in the flames. Two of the victims lost their lives while trying to save others.

The dead:

Arthur Leary, 50, brother of Walter Leary; Mary Clara, 20, a senior at St. Lawrence university; Evelyn, 16; Rita, 11; Esther, 8, and James, 7, children of Walter.

Arthur Leary, Mary Clara Leary and Marie Barry, a niece of Mrs. Leary, gathered at the home last night for the Thanksgiving reunion with the other members of the family. There was a happy party, followed by a late supper, all retired at 1 a. m.

Walter Leary, who slept on the first floor of the house, arose at 5 o'clock. As he opened the kitchen door he found the room filled with smoke. The flames at this time were sweeping through the upper part of the house, and Mr. Leary could not make his way up the stairs to the second store. He tried to awaken the others by shouting from the outside.

His cries aroused Marie Barry, the niece, and Mary Clara, the oldest daughter. Marie Barry attempted to run down the stairs, but the flames blocked her way, and, with her hair afire, she broke a window on the second floor and jumped to the ground. Her back and foot were injured in the leap.

In the meantime, Mary Clara ran into a room where some of the other children were asleep. She was not seen again.

Arthur Leary, the brother of the host, managed to get Barry Leary, 16, the oldest son, out through a window. Barry was badly burned, but will recover. Arthur went back again to save others, but lost his own life in the attempt.

Mrs. Leary and two small children, Helen and Catherine, escaped without injury.

The cause of the fire was not determined. But it was believed to have started in the pantry, adjoining the kitchen.

The house was burned to the ground, and the bodies of the victims could not be recovered until the fire had burned itself out.

The funeral service for all the victims will be held at St. Lawrence Roman Roman Catholic church, North Lawrence.

HOW THANKSGIVING WAS OBSERVED IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—In keeping with the call of President Coolidge, the nation gave thanks again today for another year of divine favor.

Returning from the Thanksgiving day services, Mr. Coolidge was serenaded by the army band on the front lawn of the white house, several thousand having gathered there for the program. DEATH OF FORMER SLAVE, FATHER OF 36 CHILDREN

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 24—(AP)—Unaware that he was approaching the setting sun of life, Plenty Keitt, one hundred and six years old, former slave, died peacefully of old age at Hillside home last night. Keitt had been married five times and was the father of 36 children.

The man was brought here from Reevesville, N. C., to spend the remaining days of his life with his son, James P. Keitt, of 352 Warren avenue. Although he was too feeble to walk, he insisted upon trying to, and so endangered his safety and was such a care to his son's family that it was found necessary to transfer him to the almshouse.

Never sick a day, according to his story, he never realized prior to his death that the end was so near. He was cheerful and joked merrily with the other inmates. Why the name "Plenty" was given him he said he did not know, but said that it signified anything it meant that he had "lived plenty long enough." The aged Negro gradually got weaker every day until an hour before his death he lapsed into unconsciousness. The body was taken to the funeral parlors of Louis E. Richards. Funeral arrangements had not been made tonight.

Funeral services for Capt. Charles Barber were held at his home on High street, where old and young sea captains and fishermen from different towns with relatives and friends assembled. Rev. E. E. Weise, of the Baptist church, spoke about his model life. He was a member of the church for many years. Capt. Barber followed the sea since a boy, had been around the world once and many times the fishermen, standing on the dock waiting the the weather to break, would ask Capt. Barber's opinion. He would generally tell them about right, for that was his hobby, observing the weather. He was a great baseball fan, followed the games in the big leagues and saw many games. The fishermen sent a large floral piece and his grave was covered with beautiful flowers, for he was well liked in the village.

New England Industries

SHOWCASES AND FIXTURES.

Note: In this survey furniture and equipment for public buildings are included among the products of this industry.

New England plays but a small part in the show case and fixture industry of the United States, according to census figures for 1923, which show that only 3 percent of the country's total value of product comes from this section. In a survey of representative establishments in this industry conducted by the United States department of Commerce in co-operation with the New England council, increased sales are reported by 60 percent of the companies and decreased sales by the remainder. New sales methods, new products, extension of territories and lower production costs are reported by New England manufacturers as causes for increased sales, while decreased sales are attributed to over-production and changed demand.

The average age of plants is 30 years, and the average period of present management 22 years. No new companies or branch plants have been established nor have management methods changed during the last ten years. Incentive methods of wage payment are not mentioned in these reports, and the industry appears unaffected by seasonal demand. When orders do run low, one company reporting manufactures for stock, another makes window display fixtures, and a third does local plating.

Methods of balancing productive capacity with demand have been improved by most of the establishments reporting. The trend of combined sales has been steadily upward since 1921. New England sales are reported as increasing by 60 percent of the companies included in this survey, and as decreasing by 20 percent of the group.

One company which experienced decreasing sales reported that they met the situation by eliminating unprofitable items, limiting their territory and by putting the sale of their products in the hands of one New York house, at the same time making a successful effort to take care of the New England trade geographically theirs. This was more profitable, the company found, than carrying a much larger volume of business at heavy expense and no profit.

From 90 to 100 percent of the sales of most of the companies reporting in this survey are made in New England. Brands or trademarks are used on from 90 to 100 percent of the output of the majority of these producers. The largest number of store-fixture companies distribute directly to the consumer, others send their products to the retailer directly, through an exclusive distributor, or through a commission agent.

What has weather to do with oil?

The first thrusts of power within the cylinders of any automobile engine play havoc with cylinder walls and bearings if the oil is slow to flow.

Any engine, at any season, is a better piece of machinery if it has the cooperation of Texaco Motor Oil. It is essential in any engine in cold weather. DANIELSON

CENTRAL VILLAGE BOY VICTIM OF ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 24—Death in tragic guise stalked in Central Village shortly before noon today, adding community depression to the gloom of a grey and drizzling holiday. Leslie Gauthier, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gauthier, was practically instantly killed by the accidental discharge of a double-barreled shotgun that his friend and companion, Alec Darbie, 16, was carrying on a little hunting expedition on which the two had ventured to while away an hour or two.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill, Dr. W. W. Adams, Moosup, medical examiner for the town of Plainfield and officers from the state police barracks here all participated in the investigation of the fatality. The crushed young Darbie's version of the tragic affair is that he was walking ahead of his chum, carrying the gun over his shoulder, when he stumbled, causing the weapon to be accidentally discharged. The charge of shot tore into the Gauthier's boy's abdomen, killing him instantly. Darbie hurried away, terror stricken, to summon aid, but those who came could do nothing in this world to help the fallen boy. Life was extinct when the first of those who responded to the emergency call arrived at where the Gauthier boy's body lay, in a field east of the railroad tracks at a point nearly opposite the Plainfield high school building. Mrs. Gauthier, mother of the dead boy, became hysterical when told of her boy's fate, and Dr. J. L. Gardner was summoned to give her medical care. The body was taken in charge by F. W. Tillinghast and Sons.

STATE OFFICERS GET 40 FOR DEFECTIVE AUTO EQUIPMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 24—This morning's tabulations show forty summonses for court appearances by motorists checked up Thanksgiving eve by state officers from the Danielson barracks, carrying out the enforcement of motor vehicle light and windshield cleaner regulations. In all of these cases appearance in court will be on Friday of this week.

Over in Chaplin, where the state highway leading east out of Willimantic branches, one route leading to Danielson, the other to Putnam, officers found 28 drivers whose car lights or windshield cleaners were not in order. These drivers are representative of a number of different towns. All of them have been told to be in court at Chaplin at 8:30 Friday afternoon. Miss Laura Pike, justice of the peace, of Brooklyn and Danielson, will preside at the hearing of these cases.

At Jewett City, which also is in the territory under the jurisdiction of officers of the Danielson barracks, twelve orders to appear in court were issued by officers last night to drivers with cars with faulty lights or windshield cleaners. These town of Griswold cases will be disposed of at a session of court fixed for Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

All protests notwithstanding, the amazing number of machines that are getting their owners into difficulties in this section of the state, is regarded as strong enough proof that there was nothing left for the state police department to do, but order those driving them into court. All warnings in the past have proved utterly ineffective, as witness the roundup of the past few days.

The holiday spirit penetrated today through the barriers that separate the inmates of the Windham county jail at Brooklyn from freedom and brought to them a bountiful Thanksgiving feast and a liberal measure of good cheer. Likewise, at the Killingly town farm at Dayville the 17 inmates there was a holiday feast that anyone of any station might relish in full degree. Truly, there are those who know not what it is to be a prisoner or a town charge who would have fared better this Thanksgiving day had they been of the institutions mentioned than was their lot as free and active beings.

There is a large family at the county jail just now, 57 inmates, including Tripp and the matron, Miss Nellie four bound-overs, and Jailer Walter S. Owen, were not among those who had what one could call an easy holiday. There's was the duty—well discharged of providing the holiday feast, which included roast pork, a variety of vegetables and numbers of other good things that enter into the making of a holiday dinner.

At the town farm where Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bassett are in charge, the inmates were given a splendid dinner that included chicken, roast pork and a selection of vegetables and desserts.

The growth of Killingly, in taxable properties, is indicated by the compilation recently completed by the assessors as a feature of preparing the next grand list. These figures show 123 more lists than were included in the grand list of the past town year. This year the total is 2381, as against 2258 last year. By districts there were 1267 lists in the first district, including Danielson, last year, as against 1346 this year. In the second district the figures last year were 670 lists, and this year 696 lists. In the third district, the 1926 figures were 321 as against 339 this year. Examinations of these figures will show that all of the districts of the town show an increase, which is a happy circumstance, indicative of growth in all sections.

From Colton, N. Y., Russell E. Hazelton, resident on the West Side for years until a few months ago, writes that he and Mrs. Hazelton are enjoying good health and are happily situated in the community where they lived for a long time before making Danielson their home. However, Mr. Hazelton mentions in a letter to J. Carl Witter that it is much colder in that section of New York at this time of year than the temperatures one expects in late November in this section of southern New England. It ha sbeen down to 14 above zero in that country already—and the worst is yet to come.

Two upright pianos in excellent condition for sale at reasonable prices. Edward Bacon, Danielson.—Adv.

Rain, starting shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, gave Danielson as dreary a Thanksgiving day as it has experienced in many a year, but there were many happy family and friendly gatherings her eand there, and in cosy homes, the weather was of little consequence.

When the members of the Kakitatina Camp Fire Girls met with Laura Chase at Elmville they engaged themselves with the making of clothes for dolls, these to be sent to a children's hospital for Christmast.

A considerable number of Danielson young people are enrolled in the evening courses at the State Trade school in Putnam for the winter season.

Rain notwithstanding, a delegation of football fans were in Providence today for the annual Brown-Colgate game at Aldrich field.

A very considerable sum of money will be added to the high school athletic field fund from the receipts of the Rotary club minstrel show held in the school auditorium last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Blumenthal were Thanksgiving guests of relatives in Webster.

George Robertson, master mechanic of the Quinebaug mills, has been elected a vice-president of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association, under whose auspices wonderfully successful textile shows have been held at the state armory here.

There was a Thanksgiving service—the celebration of holy communion—at Trinity church in Brooklyn this morning.

On the eve of the holiday he brought in a fine red fox as a demonstration of his ability to go out where they are and of the sureness of his aim when they come within range.

Danielson's town basketball team will whip itself into shape by hard and steady practice for the opening game of the season on December 1, with the South Manchester team furnishing the opposition.

EDDIE JOHN IS AGAIN MARRIED IN TOILS OF THE LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 24—Eddie John, who has figured in a number of unsavory escapades in Windham county in the past few years, who has made several court appearances and who was released only a few days ago from the Norwich State hospital was locked up at the Danielson police station tonight after having acted in a threatening manner near a home at Killingly Center, where he figured in a one-sided shooting affair two or three years ago. John seems to be laboring under the impression that he gave away some rings during one of his periods of affluence and would like to have them back now. He has been arrested here for violations of the motor vehicle laws, for having intoxicants in his car and has figured in other courts in the county in the last few years. His home is in Willimantic. It was an utter puzzle to officers here tonight as to why John had been released from the state hospital to which it is planned to return him.

A hit and run driver with a new roadster crashed into a machine driven by Theodore Perreault of 43 Dyer street tonight in the narrow lane that is part of the Providence-Danielson highway on the south side of Davis park and made off without anyone getting his number or other information pertaining to him excepting that the car left Danielson on the Willimantic-Hartford route. The Perreault car was somewhat damaged, but no one was injured in the accident.

It takes more than sixty-five hours of labor to produce an acre of potatoes.

The dinner was served to sixty-five people which included the thirty-nine patients, nurses and other employes of the institution. The turkeys were donated by Mrs. Annie Rafferty, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Arnold, George Miles of Pomfret and money with which to buy supplies for the day from the Misses Helen and Elsa McKeever of Pomfret. There were also many donations of fruits and nuts, among them being a box of oranges from Rev. U. O. Bellerose and a crate of grapes and large basket of apples from Charles Bove.

The one hundred and nine children at the county home were given a roast pork dinner and all that goes to make a bountiful Thanksgiving dinner with plenty of fruit, nuts and candy. Charles Bove of this city sent a quantity of nuts. The children ate all that was possible and are now wondering if it will be possible to eat more on Christmas, which seems doubtful.

The Putnam town farm has now twenty inmates and they were treated to a chicken dinner and all that goes with it for a holiday dinner including two kinds of pie. They were also supplied with plenty of fruits and nuts. Charles Bove kindly remembered the inmates with a crate of grapes.

Union services were held at the Methodist Episcopal church this morning at 9.30 o'clock with Rev. Henry E. Hodge of the First Baptist church as the speaker. Services at St. Phillips' church were at 10 o'clock this morning with the minister, Rev. Mr. Hatch in charge. Peter Lee of this city who was serving a sentence of three months in the Worcester county jail was released recently after serving seven days by the board of parole of Massachusetts. He was the driver of the automobile which left the highway near Webster on the evening of March 6, and which crashed into a tree, causing the death of Sheldon Carpenter, a eighteen year old boy of Putnam and badly injuring Gordon Caffrey.

Lee was also ordered to pay a fine of $100 in addition to the jail sentence. He was found guilty on November 4, by the Worcester county superior court, of driving so as to endanger the lives and safety of the highway. The tragedy aroused much sympathy of the pupils, including Lee himself, as the boys were riding for pleasure. It is said that even the mother of Carpenter held no resentment against Lee as it might have been her own son at the wheel.

In St. Joseph's church, North Grosvenordale, at seven o'clock this morning, Miss Alice Desilets, daughter of Evarisde Desilets of North Grosvenordale was married to Rene Lebeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lebeau of the same place, Rev. A. Mathieu officiating at the wedding and nuptial mass.

The couple were attended by Miss Blanche Martel as bridesmaid and the best man was Eugene Besilets. The bride was gowned in white satin and wore a full length veil caught up with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower effect of white bridal roses. The bridesmaid wore pink georgette, a large picture hat and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

A reception and wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride. Guests were present from a number of places including Webster and Putnam. Mr. and Mrs. Lebeau left on a wedding trip to New York and Providence and upon their return will make their home in North Grosvenordale.

A number of people from Putnam were in Webster this morning to attend the wedding of Miss Gladys Claprood, daughter of Mrs. Denis Dudek of Webster and Leo Brisbois, son of Mr. and Mrs. Telesphore Brisbois of Perryville. The ceremony was attended by Miss Mernadette Brisbois, sister of the groom, and George Morway was best man.

The bride wore pink georgette crepe with a picture hat and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in honeydew georgette crepe with a hat to match and carried pink roses. After the ceremony, there was a reception at the home of the bride's mother which was elaborately decorated with cut flowers and ferns and palms. After a wedding trip to Vermont, Mr. and Mrs. Brisbois will be at home to their friends in the newly furnished home on Granite street.

PLANES MAY MAKE USE OF NIANTIC CAMP GROUNDS

According to tentative plans the planes and units of the 43rd Division Air Service, Connecticut National Guard, Maj. William F. Ladd, of Hartford, commanding, will conduct their field training at the state military reservation at Niantic in co-operation with the 169th Infantry, instead of at Mitchel field, Long Island, as has been the practice in recent years.

Maj. Gen. Morris B. Payne, commanding the 43rd Division, stated Wednesday that the plans would depend upon whether or not the new O-type airships of the 43rd would be able to land at the field and take off. Within a week or so Major Ladd will fly to Niantic in one of the new type planes and attempt to land from various angles, according to Major General Payne, and if it is found that the reservation is ample to take care of the huge machines then it will be up to the war department to allow such a change in plans. But it is anticipated that the war department would have no objections to the plans.

At present the 43rd Division Air units have three large P-T ships, but these have landed at Niantic many times. Recently the old J-N type planes were burned at Brainard field by order of the war department. The new O type ships are even larger than the present P-T planes. A lot of grading has been done at the Niantic camp ground in preparation for the arrival of Major Ladd in an O-type plane.

The reason that the test flights have not been made is due to the flooded condition of Brainard field at Hartford, which has been inundated in part. As soon as flying is again resumed Major Ladd will make his test landings at Niantic if possible.

Field service at Niantic with the 169th Infantry, which has its headquarters in Hartford, would give the aviation units the benefit of training with their own divisional ground troops, Major Ladd pointed out, while Niantic, being nearer to the forts on Fishers Island than Mitchel field, would give at least as much opportunity for the aviators to practice artillery observation. Co-operating in training with the 169th would also make it possible to "carry on" during the year to a greater extent, Major Ladd said, besides giving both air service and infantry units liaison work, which neither has had.

BETTER LIMITATION POSSIBILITIES

While congress was in session prior to the conference at Geneva for the limitation of armaments it was pointed out that the United States has not kept up with other countries in the construction of cruisers, and that it had not built as many other auxiliary warships as it was entitled to in order to keep abreast of the naval armaments of the countries which had participated with it in the Washington conference.

There was at that time a strong demand made for a big addition to the cruiser equipment. It had much support but when it came to appropriations the programme was soft pedaled out of respect for the plea made by President Coolidge that it was desirous of seeing what the nations could do in the way of additional naval restrictions. It was apparent that it would be folly to rush into extensive naval construction on the eve of a conference to prevent that very thing. There was a feeling that the conference would accomplish nothing but there was nevertheless a desire to give it a chance and not direct suspicion toward our sincerity.

The conference reached no agreement, except to adjourn, but the way was left open for a resumption of the deliberations and from the tone of certain statements which have been made in the British house of commons that government not only hopes but desires a renewal of deliberations. The indications are that the sentiment in England has turned strongly in that direction. This is particularly interesting in view of the feeling that Great Britain was chiefly responsible for the failure at Geneva.

Thus when W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, declares the British government is reluctant to lay down any more 10,000 ton cruisers at present in the hope that naval limitation may be agreed upon there will be those who will doubt it, but it is not so different from the attitude that was taken here before the last conference. If the British are desirous of placing further curbs on the navies of the leading nations the others will be happy to do their part. If it has experienced a change of heart by all means encourage it.

COMBATING FOG

One of the great perils of the sea is fog. Deep sea navigators have gotten the guidance of their ships down to such a nicety that they are able to plow through the thick blankets quite as if nothing bothered their vision. All would be well if there was a certainty that no other vessels would be encountered and no icebergs be met, provided of course that they are a sufficient distance from land. For the coastwise vessels, as well as for the liners when they begin to approach land, fog offers serious obstacles. Long study has been given to methods of overcoming the fog, to the construction of lights that will penetrate such curtains and to the perfection of signals that will aid in indicating to the mariners whether they are holding to the proper course.

In his annual report Commissioner Putnam of the lighthouse service declares that fog is being conquered by modern science. This is being accomplished by the radio beacon and the radio compass. The first working automatically and located at strategic points transmit signals which are caught and recorded by the radio compass and the navigator knows just where he is even though fog prevents him from seeing lights or stars.

The establishment of radio beacons will be a big protection to all shipping provided that shipping is equipped with radio compasses. This in all probability is not the case with most vessels and yet they will see the advantage of such equipment and provide it even as vessels are today equipped with wireless. It may be necessary to force the tardy ones but with the efficiency of the idea thoroughly established there should be no great delay.

Radio has done much in many ways. Those who go down to the sea in ships today are given an added and highly valuable protection through it and now with the perils of fog greatly reduced through its use it gains new laurels, the extent of which will increase as rapidly as new beacons are erected and new radio compasses are installed. Every added facility for the fighting of fog is most certainly welcomed.

APPOINTMENT GUESSWORK

A lot of guessing is being done in regard to the person the president will appoint as the successor of General Wood in the Philippines. There is unquestioned interest in these islands and a keen desire to see them get the best possible administration. There is recognition of the fine service that has been rendered by General Wood during the years he was governor general and it is desirous that it be continued.

The fact of the matter is that there is no reason to suppose that the president has any idea of making an appointment that would mean anything different. He has repeatedly expressed his approval of what General Wood did in spite of handicaps that were placed in his way in the islands.

The guesswork that is being indulged in concerning the new appointee is only what occurs every time a new appointment of importance is to be made. It has been characteristic of President Coolidge to keep his intentions to himself until he is ready to act. With the guesses covering about every available person it will not be surprising if one of the many names suggested proves to be the right one. That is a possibility in connection with all guessing games, but it doesn't follow that it is because the prediction was made that the appointment was influenced or that the guessing really represented the president's line of thought.

Probably there has been no appointment over which there has been more guessing done than the naming of a cabinet member. When the president has gotten ready he has named his man. He will do the same thing in regard to the governor generalship of the Philippines and the excellence of his many appointments gives assurance that when General Wood's successor is chosen he will be a man of the right ability and temperament to swing the job and be a credit to his country, the Philippines and himself. It is not a post that everyone would want, not a job which everyone could swing, and it would not surprise if some to whom it might be offered hesitated about assuming the responsibilities.

THE ESTATE TAX

Now that the house committee in charge of the new tax bill has acted upon certain provisions of the measure that will be recommended to the house, interest will center upon the kind of reception that it gets in certain particulars.

By the decision of the committee there should be no change in the estate tax. This in spite of the advocacy of its abolishment by the secretary of the treasury and the demand for that action from every state in the country.

What will be the reaction of the house and the senate when the respective bodies get a chance to express themselves?

There are those in both houses who had stood valiantly by this form of taxation, even though it has always been regarded as an emergency method. Some at least of them can be expected to maintain that same attitude but whether they will do so in the face of the demand for the ending of that tax is a question.

The idea has been gained by some that the effort for the elimination of that tax was too thoroughly organized. This the committee undertook to bring out at the time of the hearing with no marked degree of success. There is a nationwide sentiment that this method of federal taxation ought to be restricted to emergency use, and it must be conceded that the war emergency has long since passed. The time has come for the ending of this taxation method and the abandonment of the field to the states. It will be cause much surprise if the house does not take a different view than the committee on this particular feature of the tax bill, if members of congress give any heed to the sentiment of their constituents.

APPEAL FOR THE LEPERS

Christmas appeals for many objects will soon be in order. Leading the list is that of the American Mission for Lepers, Inc., which is seeking to provide for the 20,000 cared for by that organization who "will have no Christmass unless friends across the seas make it possible." These people are located in 18 countries and in over 100 centers.

The idea isn't to send them a lot of frivolous things but necessities that the Christmastide may mean something more than other seasons of the year. When it is realized that these gifts are sought for the purpose of purchasing "bowls and blankets, sandals and soap, meats and medicines, garments and groceries and many other things suited to the climate and the patients' needs" it may be apparent that the object is a most worthy one.

Perhaps such things might not be regarded by most persons as what might be anticipated in the way of Christmas gifts, yet when it is realized that these things are needed and are not likely to be obtained otherwise it can be early recognized that they will be fully appreciated as most practical Christmas gifts. Those sick in body and mind, incurables in many instances without medicine and receiving no sympathy, cannot fail to arouse a desire in many hearts to relieve the situation as much as possible. In view of the fact that through proper treatment there is hope for the healing of those people in many instances the work which the American Mission for Lepers of New York is doing is a real one. Large numbers there are who only want to know of just such opportunities to aid in extending the helping hand.

A SYMPATHETIC SOUL

"What do you think!" gasped the stout lady from across the hall, entering with great perturbation, tears in her eyes and a nose rapidly turning red. "I've just got to talk to some one!"

"Sit right down here!" ordered the other woman. "Now tell me all about it! I think one's troubles are so much easier to bear if they are shared!"

"Oh, it's my son, Billings!" the stout lady proceeded. "He told me this morning that he's engaged and going to get married! Think of it!"

"Well, well!" murmured the hostess, a great deal disappointed at the confession. "After all you've done for him! I never say a mother more devoted to a boy, and yours is the usual thanks one gets for sacrificing and seeing that the oatmeal is hot and everything! Thank goodness I haven't a son to be ungrateful——"

"Oh," interrupted the stout lady daintily mopping her eyes, "he——"

"I know, I know, dear," the other soothed her. "I know just how your heart is aching! A boy never stops to think how it upsets his mother for him to drop an utterly strange person into the middle of the family; and the difficulty is that he expects all of them to be just as crazy about her as he is himself! Most of the trouble starts just from that!

"There is something about being engaged that extracts all sense from a boy's head and you might as well resign yourself to it! All that he wants to do is to talk about the girl and I'm sure I don't know anything more tiresome than having to listen to a young man in love converse about the girl in the case.

"Isn't she?" he fires at you rapturously and listens for you to say she is. Or waits expectantly for you to tell him what you think of her hair or her nose or her hands. It isn't enough for you to comment briefly, for what he wants is a three-volume epic full of exclamation points. Next to talking about her himself he enjoys listening to anybody else doing it, but he insists on the conversation running true to what he considers perfect form.

"It is distinctly not good form to comment to an engaged young man upon his fiancee's high forehead, raspy voice, large ankles, snappy disposition, nor the tea biscuits she turns out. These points may exist, but like the sounds we can't hear and the colors our eyes can't see the poor boy just doesn't realize them! What he wants is for you to exclaim over her superlativeness and the more noise you make doing it the fonder of you he becomes.

"I don't know what it is in the leads a young man to pick out premasculine composition which always cisely the girl his poor mother least wants! The minute you ask any mother her sentiments regarding her son's girl, she opens her lips and begins, 'If only she——'

"You see how it is. If the girl is pretty she is likewise an idiot; if she is kind to her grandmother and dumb animals she detests middle-agers, and if she does know how to cook she hates doing it. A fly in the amber, a crack in the glass, a blight on the rose!

"I expect Billings wants to marry this girl and bring her right home to live and if I were you I should simply set my foot down and tell him what was what. It is certainly inconsiderate of him to get engaged to somebody quite impossible and then expect you to act as though you liked it, and I want you to know that my sympathies are all yours from the start to the finish and I will back you up——"

"Oh, dear me!" broke in the stout neighbor at last, desperately, waving her hands to command attention. "I am sure I don't know how you got started this way—but I had been crying because Billings has made me so deliriously happy by getting engaged to Susan Ladford, who is the one and only girl absolutely perfect for him, in my opinion, and whom I'm crazy about."

The impromptu hostess and confessor looked as though somebody had stolen her birthday perfume bottle.

"Well, I declare!" she sniffed shortly. "Let us hope she doesn't change after she's married. I never got heard of a girl who didn't."—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

VOMITING IS WARNING SIGNAL

By L. Winfield Kohn, M. D., New York Member Gorgas Memorial

Vomiting must be regarded with seriousness, especially if it takes place frequently. Normally, vomiting does not occur. When it does, it should be viewed as a deefnsive reaction and consequently a warning sign that all is not well.

As a rule, vomiting is preceded by a feeling of sickness, or nausea. It may be followed by a feeling of faintness or profound weakness. It is believed that the act of vomiting is controlled by a nerve located in the brain and that upon the stimulus that reaches this center through the nerves that run to it will also depend the nature and degree of vomiting. Nerves which radiate to this center may come from different portions of the body and impulses may even reach this center from far remote regions, having been passed along from one nerve to the other until it reaches its mark.

One of the commonest sources from which an impulse may arise is the throat, as is easily demonstrated by irritating the throat with the finger. The sensory nerves in the throat, having in this manner been mechanically stimulated, send an impulse to the vomiting center in the brain and from this center an impulse is returned along certain nerves which results in vomiting. Likewise, irritations may arise in the eyes, nose, ears, teeth or gums, kidneys, organs of generation, gullet, gall bladder, stomach, and bowels, which finally reach the brain center and result in vomiting.

Certain poisons enter the blood circulation at times and directly stimulate the vomiting center in the brain as the blood reaches this vital spot during the course of circulation. Vomiting ensues. This may be the case after the injection of drugs into the body tissues, after poisoned food has been taken up by the blood in sufficient quantity to create a stimulus, and also when certain toxic substances enter the blood during the development of a serious disease such as pneumonia, typhoid, or scarlet fever.

One of the most common causes for the development of a stimulus which acts upon the vomiting center lies in some disorder within the digestive organs. Therefore, some derangement in any of the digestive organs may produce vomiting. Those most commonly affected include the gullet, stomach, small and large bowels, appendix, liver, gall bladder, and pancreas.

Some of the many conditions which produce vomiting are the mild disturbances of the stomach such as so-called indigestion and acidity. Also disorders characterized only by involvement of the nerves supplying the tissues of the stomach. More often, however, vomiting occurs in such diseases as stomach ulcer, small intestinal ulcer, gall stones, inflammations of the gall bladder, appendicitis, stomach catarrh, cancer of the stomach, obstruction of the bowel, and strangulated hernia.

From the foregoing, it is readily appreciated how important it is to investigate properly the cause of vomiting, how many factors must be regarded, and how painstakingly the examination should be conducted. An early investigation should result in an easier solution, for at that time, ordinarily, no complications have developed to make the diagnosis difficult.

Dr. James Brown Scott, who has been honored by the University of Paris with the title of doctor honoris causa, is president of the American Institute of International Law and probably as expert and thoroughly informed a student of his subject as the United States has among its citizens. From the days while in Harvard, Berlin and Heidelberg universities, back in the '90s, down to the present time, he has been mastering the data and technique of his calling and doing this even when practicing law and organizing and administering law schools. For five years he was Solicitor of the State Department at Washington. He has served as secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, as a representative of the United States at The Hague peace conferences, and as counselor to President Wilson at the Versailles Conference.

Former Norwich Leaders

John Bliss, Jeweler

(From Norwich Bulletin, Sept. 29, 1903)

Concerning the death of John Bliss, of the firm of John & George H. Bliss, of this city, which occurred at Lakeville, two weeks ago, the Jewelers' Circular says:

Mr. Bliss was born in Canaan, N. Y., nearly 72 years ago, and had devoted more than 57 years of his life to the making of chronometers. He entered the business when a boy of 15, as apprentice to the firm of Bliss & Creighton, of which concern his father, one of the first chronometer makers in the United States, was the head. Thus the skill which the young apprentice eventually developed in the making of chronometers was an inheritance and was manifest even in his early days; for the younger Bliss, while still attending school, was accustomed to spend his spare moments about his father's establishment, learning the use of tools, and the science and art of handling them.

Mr. Bliss remained an employe of the firm of Bliss & Creighton, which was then located at No. 42 Fulton street, until 1853, at which time the firm dissolved and Mr. Creighton retired. Then the elder Bliss took his son into partnership, and the firm name was changed to John Bliss & Son. During this year the younger Bliss married Miss Frances E. Lord.

The firm of John Bliss & Son continued until 1867, when the elder died, and the younger Bliss took into partnership his brother, Samuel W. Bliss, under the style of John Bliss & Co. In 1864, Samuel W. Bliss withdrew from the firm, and George H. Bliss, another brother of the deceased, was taken in as a partner, the firm name remaining the same. On the death of George H. Bliss in 1897, John Bliss admitted his son, John L. Bliss, into the partnership, the firm name still remaining John Bliss & Co.

Through the death of a relative of the Bliss family, an estate, consisting of a retail jewelry establishment in Norwich, Conn., was divided between John and George H. Bliss about the year 1902. This business was continued under the name of J. & G. H. Bliss, 126 Main street, Norwich, under which style it is still run.

During his active business the deceased made chronometers for various naval observatories and marine companies. He was recognized by all those in the calling as an expert, and was most thoroughly grounded, in not only the principles, but the art of chronometer making. Even until the last his hand remained steady and his eye sight keen in the performance of skillful labor on chronometers.

During the past two years of his life he was not very actively connected with the business, as about two years ago he suffered a severe injury in a runaway accident, from which he never entirely recovered. It was this accident which ultimately caused his death, as it occasioned the heart trouble which finally proved fatal.

The deceased remained a resident of Brooklyn all his life, was a faithful church-goer, and was a member of several lodges and organizations, among which were Aurora Grata consistory, Scottish Rite Masons, the Anglo Saxon club, No. 137, Brooklyn, the Congregational club, the Sons of the American Revolution, and the Royal Arcanum. He was also a member of the Central Congregational church, which he faithfully attended, and where he was well known. During his early life he took an active interest in local politics, but never held any political office.

Mr. Bliss was a man of sterling character, and was an exponent of all those qualities that go to make the sturdy American citizen. He is survived by two sons and two daughters, his wife having preceded him to the grave.

Stories That Recall Others

There Was A Difference.

Alice, age five, wanted a puppy and was frequently asking her father to get her one. One day daddy decided to fulfill her wish and spent one afternoon making the rounds of the pet shops, but none of the dogs seemed to suit Alice. Finally they drove out to a farm where there was quite a number of dogs, all shapes and sizes. Alice was interested, but not in any one dog. The owner said to her: "What kind of a dog did you want, little girl?" to which Alice replied, "I want a colic dog."

Of Course She Knew.

A party had returned frrom a duck hunting trip where numerous wild ducks had been killed, and one of the successful hunters was host to several of his neighbors. The ducks were delicious and the talk came to be somewhat professional, there being discussion on decoys, blinds, pump guns, mallards, mud hens and the like. Finally one of the men turned to the woman on his left and suggested that she did not know the definition for "blind."

"Of course I do?" the woman declared, "a blind is an imitation duck."

SUFFERS FRACTURED SKULL IN MOTOR CRASH ON THAMES ST.

Roy Bashaw, 27, of 25 Carpenter street, an employe at the Commercial garage, 79 Shetucket street, received possible fatal injuries about 7 o'clock Thursday morning when an automobile he was driving crashed into a stone wall and telegraph pole across the street from the Richmond Radiator company plant on Thames street.

Bashaw was rushed to the Backus hospital in the ambulance immediately after the accident. He has a fractured skull and his condition was reported as very serious at the hospital early this (Friday) morning.

Bashaw, who has no operator's license, was driving a new Packard straight-eight convertible coupe, which belongs to Warren L. Maynard of Fishers Island, N. Y., a son-in-law of Police Officer Henry B. Fenton of 33 Clairemont avenue. Mr. Maynard with his family had come to the city to spend Thanksgiving day at the home of his wife's parents and left his machine at the Commercial garage about 4 o'clock Thursday morning with instructions to have it washed and afterwards dried.

The car was washed and it is understood that Bashaw took it to go to breakfast at his home. On the way down Thames street, he passed the Chevrolet coach driven by its owner, Michael H. Weady, 32 Tilley street, New London, which was going in the same direction as the Packard car. According to Mr. Weady, the machine driven by Bashaw passed him like a streak and when it cut in in front of him it mounted the curb and sidewalk and crashed head-on into a telegraph pole.

The Fishers Island car swung around sideways and the Weady machine struck it in the rear, having no time to turn out. Bashaw was thrown out through the windshield and the Weady car turned over. Mr. Weady was not injured and was able to get out of his machine at once and send in a call for the Backus hospital ambulance for Bashaw who was unconscious with his head badly crushed.

Officer Patrick Murphy, who had just come on duty at police headquarters, was sent to the scene of the accident and assisted in placing Bashaw in the ambulance, besides making an investigation of the accident.

The New London man's car was considerably damaged and Mr. Maynard's Packard was completely wrecked with possible exception of the engine. It is a machine for which $5,500 had been paid and it had been driven only 2,000 miles. It was reported that the broken speedometer showed 72 miles an hour after the accident.

WILL DESCRIBE WORK OF THE SEASIDE SANATORIUM

Rev. John Nicol Mark addressing the chamber of commerce at their annual dinner Monday night said:

"Men who have achieved real success are those who have helped others to better things and higher living. Success is doing something that will make the world a little better and a little brighter for one's presence in it. It is being one's best and doing one's best in the hope of rendering some service to humanity."

Dr. John F. O'Brien in charge of the Seaside sanatorium at Niantic measures up to John Mark's definition of a successful man. Those who have been fortunate enough to have visited his sanatorium to see the kiddies, happy in spite of their handicaps and steadily improve, many cured, would realize here was the result of personal sacrifice to serve humanity. On Monday, Nov. 28, at 8 p. m., at the assembly hall of the Central Baptist church Dr. O'Brien will tell of some of the work being done at the Seaside sanatorium and will show pictures on the screen of what has been and is being done for them and some of the wonderful results that have followed. It will be a well worth-while evening for old and young, nurses and doctors and lovers of children.

Music by an orchestra will give added pleasure. There is no admission and there will be no collection at the meeting which is in connection with the annual Christmas seal sale for the anti-tuberculosis work.

CONNECTICUT IS LEADER IN STANDARDIZING EGGS

Connecticut's leadership among the New England states in the standardization of grades for eggs received recognition at the New England conference when the department of agriculture was requested by the committee in charge to put on an exhibit showing Connecticut's standardization of egg grades. Each of the six New England states was allotted a space in the Municipal building at Springfield. Massachusetts to display some agricultural product which has gained for them the reputation of being a leader among their neighboring states in the standardization of that particular product.

Connecticut newlaid fancy, Connecticut hennery and Connecticut gathered eggs were the three grades adopted in Connecticut in 1925. Since that time the poultrymen have gradually realized the value of standardization until today a large portion of Connecticut's eggs are marketed through one of the three grades according to department figures.

In the small space allotted to the department several dozen eggs of each grade were so placed that they would command the attention of the New England council members and their friends. For a background picture of typical poultry plants throughout Connecticut together with the grade requirements were artistically arranged about a large sign in red and blue lettering of the words, "Connecticut Newlaid Fancy Eggs, A New England Product, Produced in Connecticut."

Damages aggregating $12,000 are sought in suits brought on behalf of Geneva Genishevsky, of Preston, by her father, Stanislaw Genishevsky, against Israel Chiat, of Preston, and Isadore Fishbone, of this city.

Both actions arise as the result of injuries received by the Genishevsky girl when struck, on March 31, 1927, by an automobile owned by Fishbone and operated by Chiat.

The papers claim that the girl was playing in the yard of her parents at their home in the town of Preston, when struck by the Fishbone automobile.

It is alleged that the defendants negligently and carelessly operated their auto with insufficient brakes, negligently and carelessly drove the auto across the yard at a dangerous rate of speed, and negligently and carelessly failed to give the girl any warning or signal of the approach of the motor vehicle.

As a result of being struck by the automobile, it is claimed, the girl suffered a severe shock both mental and physical and severe pain, received a compound fracture of the left leg resulting in osteomyelitis and will cause the plaintiff to be crippled for life and to suffer permanently and to require medical attention and treatment for life, and the plaintiff has been obliged and will be obliged to for a long period of time to suffer pain and inconvenience and will be permanently partially, physically incapacitated.

The father of the girl claims that he has been and will be for a long time in the future obliged to expend large sums of money for medical care and attention, nursing and hospital care, and medicines, as the condition of osteomyelitis will be permanent.

Property owned by the defendants situated in the town of Lebanon, and in Norwich, were attached, but later released, when counsel for the defendants, Attorney John H. Barnes had his clients furnish a bond.

WALKER-BERLENBACH BOUT TO BE SLUGGING MATCH

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, whose two fists rule the middleweight boxing world, and Paul Berlenbach, who has battered many titular aspirants to the canvas, refuse to call their forthcoming ten-round fight a "boxing match."

Unlike heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, who regards his fistic encounters as "boxing matches," these two fighters, who match talents and fists at the Coliseum tomorrow night, refer to their fight as a "slugging match."

"I expect to nail Berlenbach for a knock-out before the fight is very old," Walker threatens.

"If Mickey doesn't get me early in the fight, he will get knocked-out himself and it won't be very long in the slugging match, either," Berlenbach counters.

The past performances of the two and their present pugnacity is attracting a large crowd for the fight.

Both fighters loiled about today, their first real rest day since they started training for the fight.

Betting odds here are heavily in favor of Walker because of his quick decisive knockout over the veteran Mike McTigue here two weeks ago. Walkers' 160-pound title will not be involved as both fighters will enter the ring weighing around 170 pounds.

SUFFERS FRACTURED SKULL IN MOTOR CRASH ON THAMES ST.

Roy Bashaw, 27, of 28 Carpenter street, an employe at the Commercial garage, 79 Shetucket street, received possible fatal injuries about 7 o'clock Thursday morning when an automobile he was driving crashed into a stone wall and telegraph pole across the street from the Richmond Radiator company plant on Thames street.

Bashaw was rushed to the Backus hospital in the ambulance immediately after the accident. He has a fractured skull and his condition, was reported as very serious at the hospital early this (Friday) morning.

Bashaw, who has no operator's license, was driving a new Packard straight-eight convertible coupe, which belongs to Warren L. Maynard of Fishers Island, N. Y., a son-in-law of Police Officer Henry B. Fenton of 23 Clairemont avenue. Mr. Maynard with his family had come to the city to spend Thanksgiving day at the home of his wife's parents and left his machine at the Commercial garage about 4 o'clock Thursday morning with instructions to have it washed and afterwards dried.

The car was washed and it is understood that Bashaw took it to go to breakfast at his home. On the way down Thames street, he passed the Chevrolet coach driven by its owner, Michael H. Weady, 32 Tilley street, New London, which was going in the same direction as the Packard car. According to Mr. Weady, the machine driven by Bashaw passed him like a streak and when it cut in in front of him it mounted the curb and sidewalk and crashed head-on into a telegraph pole.

The Fishers Island car swung around sideways and the Weady machine struck it in the rear, having no time to turn out. Bashaw was thrown out through the windshield and the Weady car turned over. Mr. Weady was not injured and was able to get out of his machine at once and send in a call for the Backus hospital ambulance for Bashaw who was unconscious with his head badly crushed.

Officer Patrick Murphy, who had just come on duty at police headquarters, was sent to the scene of the accident and assisted in placing Bashaw in the ambulance, besides making an investigation of the accident.

The New London man's car was considerably damaged and Mr. Maynard's Packard was completely wrecked with possible exception of the engine. It is a machine for which $6,500 had been paid and it had been driven only 2,000 miles. It was reported that the broken speedometer showed 72 miles an hour after the accident.

WILL DESCRIBE WORK OF THE SEASIDE SANATORIUM

Rev. John Nicol Mark addressing the chamber of commerce at their annual dinner Monday night said:

"Men who have achieved real success are those who have helped others to better things and higher living. Success is doing something that will make the world a little better and a little brighter for one's presence in it. It is being one's best and doing one's best in the hope of rendering some service to humanity."

Dr. John F. O'Brien in charge of the Seaside sanatorium at Niantic measures up to John Mark's definition of a successful man. Those who have been fortunate enough to have visited his sanatorium to see the kiddies, happy in spite of their handicaps and steadily improve, many cured, would realize here was the result of personal sacrifice to serve humanity. On Monday, Nov. 28, at 8 p. m., at the assembly hall of the Central Baptist church Dr. O'Brien will tell of some of the work being done at the Seaside sanatorium and will show pictures on the screen of what has been and is being done for them and some of the wonderful results that have followed. It will be a well worth-while evening for old and young, nurses and doctors and lovers of children.

Music by an orchestra will give added pleasure. There is no admission and there will be no collection at the meeting which is in connection with the annual Christmas seal sale for the anti-tuberculosis work.

CONNECTICUT IS LEADER IN STANDARDIZING EGGS

Connecticut's leadership among the New England states in the standardization of grades for eggs received recognition at the New England conference when the department of agriculture was requested by the committee in charge to put on an exhibit showing Connecticut's standardization of egg grades. Each of the six New England states was allotted a space in the Municipal building at Springfield. Massachusetts to display some agricultural product which has gained for them the reputation of being a leader among their neighboring states in the standardization of that particular product.

Connecticut newlaid fancy, Connecticut hennery and Connecticut gathered eggs were the three grades adopted in Connecticut in 1925. Since that time the poultrymen have gradually realized the value of standardization until today a large portion of Connecticut's eggs are marketed through one of the three grades according to department figures.

In the small space allotted to the department several dozen eggs of each grade were so placed that they would command the attention of the New England council members and their friends. For a background picture of typical poultry plants throughout Connecticut together with the grade requirements were artistically arranged about a large sign in red and blue lettering of the words, "Connecticut Newlaid Fancy Eggs, A New England Product, Produced in Connecticut."

CORMIER-GAUVIN WEDDING AT THE SACRED HEART CHURCH

In the Sacred Heart church, Norwich Town, Thanksgiving morning at 9 o'clock, Miss Mary Elizabeth Gauvin and Walter Wilfred Cormier were united in marriage by the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, who also celebrated the nuptial high mass, which followed the marriage ceremony. The bridesmaid was Miss Imelda Gauvin, sister of the bride. Fidelle Belliveau was best man.

Mrs. William A. Murphy, organist, was in charge of the music, playing a brief program of pleasing numbers while relatives and friends were assembling.

To the music of the Bridal chorus from Lohengrin, the bridal party entered the church. During the ceremony, O' Promise Me, was played. At the offertory, Miss Mary Buckley sang Ave Maria. Mrs. Murphy played during the mass, To A Wild Rose, and for the recessional, Mendelssohn's Wedding march. The sanctuary decorations were showering palms and ferns, effectively arranged, while adorning the altar were white chrysanthemums.

The bride wore a period gown of turquoise georgette, over pink, with picture hat to match. She carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid's dress was of taupe velvet, with hat to match. She carried bronze chrysanthemums. She had a necklace of pearls, the gift of the bride. To his best man, the groom presented white gold cuff links.

After a breakfast at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Cormier of Norwich Town, the bridal party left by automobile for dinner in Hartford, returning later to the groom's former home for a reception in the evening, which was preceded by a Thanksgiving repast. The bride received many beautiful gifts in cut glass, silver, china, linen, etc., also a substantial check.

The bride, who was born in Upper Dover, New Brunswick, has been employed for the past three years at 71 Town street. The groom was born in Nova Scotia and is a spinner at Glen Woolen mills. Both are members of Sacred Heart parish. Mr. and Mrs. Cormier are to leave today (Friday) for a honeymoon trip of five weeks in Canada, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sarah Gauvin, of Upper Dover, New Brunswick. The bride will travel in a dress of Cardinal velvet with hat to match and will wear a fur coat of muskrat. Upon their return, they are to reside in a newly furnished apartment on Prospect street. Guests present at the wedding came from Somerville and New Bedford, Mass., Fishers Island, New York and Hartford.

PRESTON GIRL SUES FOR DAMAGES OF $12,000

Damages aggregating $12,000 are sought in suits brought on behalf of Geneva Genishevsky, of Preston, by her father, Stanislaw Genishevsky, against Israel Chiat, of Preston, and Isadore Fishbone, of this city.

Both actions arise as the result of injuries received by the Genishevsky girl when struck, on March 31, 1927, by an automobile owned by Fishbone and operated by Chiat.

The papers claim that the girl was playing in the yard of her parents at their home in the town of Preston, when struck by the Fishbone automobile.

It is alleged that the defendants negligently and carelessly operated their auto with insufficient brakes, negligently and carelessly drove the auto across the yard at a dangerous rate of speed, and negligently and carelessly failed to give the girl any warning or signal of the approach of the motor vehicle.

As a result of being struck by the automobile, it is claimed, the girl suffered a severe shock both mental and physical and severe pain, received a compound fracture of the left leg resulting in osteomyelitis and will cause the plaintiff to be crippled for life and to suffer permanently and to require medical attention and treatment for life, and the plaintiff has been obliged and will be obliged to for a long period of time to suffer pain and inconvenience and will be permanently partially, physically incapacitated.

The father of the girl claims that he has been and will be for a long time in the future obliged to expend large sums of money for medical care and attention, nursing and hospital care, and medicines, as the condition of osteomyelitis will be permanent.

Property owned by the defendants situated in the town of Lebanon, and in Norwich, were attached, but later released, when counsel for the defendants, Attorney John H. Barnes had his clients furnish a bond.

WALKER-BERLENBACH BOUT TO BE SLUGGING MATCH

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, whose two fists rule the middleweight boxing world, and Paul Berlenbach, who has battered many titular aspirants to the canvas, refuse to call their forthcoming ten-round fight a "boxing match."

Unlike heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, who regards his fistic encounters as "boxing matches," these two fighters, who match talents and fists at the Coliseum tomorrow night, refer to their fight as a "slugging match."

"I expect to nail Berlenbach for a knock-out before the fight is very old," Walker threatens.

"I Mickey doesn't get me early in the fight, he will get knocked-out himself and it won't be very long in the slugging match, either," Berlenbach counters.

The past performances of the two and their present pugnacity is attracting a large crowd for the fight.

Both fighters loiled about today, their first real rest day since they started training for the fight.

Betting odds here are heavily in favor of Walker because of his quick, decisive knockout over the veteran Mike McTigue here two weeks ago. Walkers' 160-pound title will not be involved as both fighters will enter the ring weighing around 170 pounds.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

COLGATE-BROWN PLAY TO DEADLOCK SCORE FOR THIRD SUCCESSIVE YEAR

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 24—(AP)—Brown and Colgate ended their third successive year of no decision gridiron encounters by battling through sixty minutes of give and take football to a scoreless tie on a rain drenched, and mud smeared, field here today. Fifteen thousand spectators huddled under a cheerless drizzle watching the vain effort to break the 10 to 10 tie of a year ago and the 14-all deadlock of 1925.

If "moral victory" were to be picked today the choice might logically fall on Brown. The erstwhile Iron Men entered the game as distinct underdogs by virtue of six successive defeats in Brown's most disastrous football year, but backed to their very goal line twice and threatened again with the Maroon inside their 15-yard line, they twice held for downs and saw an attempted Colgate field goal go skidding aside off a soggy enemy toe.

The Bruins threatened several times themselves due to unexpected strength of their forward passing game and the bull-like line smashes and tackle thrusts of Jim Edwards and Ed Lawrence, but for the most part they were fighting savagely on a line—driven defense.

Aided by a 15-yard pass, Edwards to Lawrence, and 20 yard heave from Captain Randall to the same halfback, Brown marched 70 yards to the Colgate 15 yard line from the opening kick-off. There Lawrence fumbled, however, and Yablock, scooping up the bobbing oval, sprinted nearly 80 yards along the sideline to the Bruin one foot line where Al Cornsweet knocked him outside after a hair raising stern chase. With four downs to make 12 inches Colgate hurled every one of her backs into the line on successive plays, but the Bruin forward wall gave less than six inches and Brown took the ball on downs.

The second Colgate threat came midway of the third quarter. Taking possession on her 25 yard line, the Maroon ripped off 45 yards by straight running with Dowler, Galloway and Vaughn, the latter subbing for Yablock, ripping off five, seven and ten yards a play on a wide spread off tackle running formation. A sudden shift to the overhead game at the Brown 30 yard marker cost them the ball however.

The closing minutes of the fourth quarter found Colgate inside the Bruin 10 yard mark after a short kick by Randall. With first down on the seven yard line, Brown again stopped three Maroon line thrusts and Mike Strantelle, Colgate end, went back for a try at a placement. Time was called while he wiped the sodden ball and his kicking foot. Cox sent back a perfect pass, but there was no placing the slimy ball and it scittered off, wide and to the left. Brown took possession on the 20 yard line and four plays later the game was over.

Except for their opening goalward march the Brunonians never got inside the Colgate 25 yard line. They reached that mark once in the second quarter after a 50 yard march, but incompleted passes halted the advance. In the opening minutes of the fourth quarter a Colgate fumble gave them the ball at midfield. The start of an aerial drive was spoiled, however, when Cox dropped back to his 30 yard line and hauled down on Edwards' pass.

The wretched playing conditions which prevailed after the second quarter contributed five fumbles all of which either prevented or presented incipient scoring opportunities. The passing, due to the slippery ball, was uncertain at best, while in the rushing game the heavy, rangy Maroon backs pushed their light opponents back almost three yards to one over the slippery footing.

PITTSBURGH RUNS THROUGH PENN STATE AT WILL

By Edward J. Neil.

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The spirit of carnival crept into Pittsburgh's smashing undefeated eleven today and helped subject Penn State to one of the most uncomfortable afternoons the Lions of Nittany have experienced in over 30 years of football conflict with the Panther.

With the goal of real carnival ahead—the Carnival of Roses in Pasadena, Calif., early in the new year—Pittsburgh rode her historic rivals all over the greensward of the huge Pitt Stadium and into a 30 to 0 defeat while 50,000 chilled spectators, including "Pop" Warner, coach of Stanford University, looked on.

Warner had come all the way from Palo Alto, Calif., to watch the Pittsburgh machine that had crushed all but the President of Washington and Jefferson in a triumphant drive to equal claim with Yale for the mythical championship of the east.

The grim old veteran of the coaching lines saw a Pittsburgh eleven crammed with holiday spirit and brilliant alike in play and uniforms. Garbed in flaming golden jerseys with black bars down the front, white stockings and white helmets, Pittsburgh rollicked through Penn State almost at will.

What "Pop" himself, a former coach at Pittsburgh, saw of the famed "Gibby" Welch must have set him immediately to devising a defense against the east's most prominent contender for All-American honors.

For Welch ripped the Penn State line to shreds, beat the Lion ends almost double with his wide sweeping runs and kicked and passed in almost uncanny form.

Thrice in the first period, Pitt stormed toward the Penn State goal only to balk and falter through penalties and the vicious tackling of Delph, Nittany, and other Penn State linemen. After Booth missed a 23 yard placement try, the Panther offensive was on in earnest.

After an exchange of kicks drove Penn State deep into home territory, Jimmy Hagan chased Miller behind his own goal and downed him for a safety. Hagan took the next kick off and raced 22 yards to Penn State's 33 yard line. Welch carried the leather 26 yards on the next play, "Bullet" Booth went over after three line smashes.

From that point on, the game was a Pitt procession, with Hagan and Welch supplying the fireworks in spectacular dashes and teaming in a neat forward passing exhibition while Booth, the big fullback, applied the necessary goal line pressure.

Taking the ball on State's 40 yard line, Welch and Booth ripped at the tackles and in six plays Welch cleared the last line. Booth scored his second touchdown in the final period when Johnny Roepke, Penn State's star halfback, fumbled at midfield after the Lions had chalked up three first downs in their only real offensive of the day. Hagan raced 29 yards and Welch 15 to put Booth in scoring position.

Hagan chalked up the final score after a 53 yard tackle-ripping drive near the close of the game. Booth place-kicked all four tries for the extra point. Roepke, focal point of State's offensive, gained scarcely two dozen yards before the smothering forward wall of Pittsburgh and never did the Lion offensive drive closer than 40 yards of the Pitt goal. Pittsburgh made 22 first downs to five for State while the Panthers completed six of 12 forward passes. Penn could complete only three out of eight tries.

COLUMBIA DOWNS SYRACUSE FIRST TIME IN 38 YEARS

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Columbia's football season ended in a blaze of sunset glory late this afternoon as a fighting blue and white eleven downed the Orange of Syracuse for the first time in a football rivalry extending back to 1889. The score was 14 to 7.

Once in the first period and once in the third, the furiously charging Columbia line broke through to block a punt and twice the bounding ball was carried over for a touchdown. Syracuse scored on a forward pass in a magnificent closing drive which threatened to tie the score in the last few moments.

Favored before the game, Syracuse was placed on the defensive at the start when Kerrigan, tackle, tore through to knock down Baysinger's kick, scooped up the ball and ran 22 yards for a touchdown, Madden adding the extra point from placement.

Even as the Orange was battling bravely in the second half to overcome the lead, a second break came Columbia's way. Captain Barbuti, protecting his quarterback Baysinger, on a punt, was shoved back by the Columbia wall and the ball from the kicker's boot struck his shoulder, and bounded wide. Like a flash, Ken Williams, substitute end, scooped it up and covered 25 yards to the line. Again Madden's toe was good for the point.

With only one period to go, the Orange launched a wild needlong offensive punctuated by arrowy passes while a throng of 35,000 gasped and yelled. For a time it seemed they had a chance to tie the score or win.

A magnificent drive carried to the Columbia 23 yard line where Baysinger launched a pass to Lewis, sophomore end. Two Columbia backs hit him at full speed as he picked the pass out of the air at the goal line.

Barbuti dived and smothered the ball for a touchdown, it being ruled a fumble of an incompleted pass. Brophy booted the point from placement. The last Syracuse chance was lost when Columbia took the ball on its 11 yard line after the Orange attack by land and air had been effectually spiked.

Except for the scoring plays, both lines held off the opposition gallantly in the shadow of their goal. Columbia's defensive work was outstanding after the Syracuse touchdown in the fourth period while the Orange made a brilliant stand earlier in the game by holding Columbia for downs one inch from a touchdown after a high pass from the Syracuse center had given Columbia the ball on the upstater's five yard mark.

Columbia out-did itself checking most of a sturdy stream of passes by Baysinger. Kumpf and Rieger led in a running attack which always moved faster in middield than near its goal. Off-tackle sweeps and end runs by Goldman, Sebo and Barbuti carried the ball with surprising ease to Columbia's three yard line early in the third period but there the ball was lost on downs, the second Columbia touchdown came a few moments later.

Pouring from the stands, rabid Columbia rooters ripped down the goal posts and bore them about the field in triumph. The victory turned a mediocre campaign to a season of success for the Lions.

BRILLIANT WORK BY FRIEDMAN BEATS YANKEES

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—All around playing by Benny Friedman and Bloodgood helped the Cleveland Bulldogs defeat the New York Yankees 30 to 19 before a crowd of 15,000 at the Yankee stadium today in a National Pro Football league clash.

Red Grange was unable to make much progress against the stiff Bulldog defense. Bloodgood made three touchdowns and booted as many extra points, crossing the goal line once in the second period and twice in the final quarter. His last touchdown was made after Friedman ran the ball 30 yards to the Yankees' three yard line.

In the opening period, Simmons scored a touchdown and Friedman kicked the goal. Tryon gave the Bulldogs two more points in the third period by carrying the kickoff behind his own goal for a safety.

Kelly went over for a touchdown and Tryon added the extra point in the first period for the Yankees while Fry registered a touchdown in the same session and another in the final period.

ACADEMY FOOTBALL ELECTION AFTER SATURDAY'S GAME

Along with the football game Thursday the election of the Academy's captain was also deferred and will probably be held after the game Saturday.

All three of the only regular slated to be present for the first call next spring are being named as candidates, namely, Jack Marks, this year's captain and fullback, Freddy Fox and Mish, guards. Others who have seen service and who might be considered in the running include Bergninzo, end, and Brock, quarterback. These two will probably be lettermen after Saturday night.

Marks has made a fine leader this year and indications point strongly to his reelection although the two youthful but capable guards also have supporters, it is understood. Unofficially, it is said that Harry McGlone, versatile halfback, will be available next year, and if this be the case then he can be considered another candidate.

HAS ANYBODY SEEN MARTY GILMAN'S FOOTBALL SUIT?

One perfectly good Conn. Aggie varsity football uniform is wandering around loose looking for its owner, Marty Gilman, substitute tackle on the Aggie team this year. Marty was to play with the Academy Alumni team Thursday afternoon at the Academy. When Marty arrived at the campus he found that somewhere between Bozrahville and the Academy he and the uniform had parted company. As Marty himself put it: "It was mighty lucky for me the game was called off or I would have had to play in my B. V. D's." So if anyone who finds Marty's uniform will call up Marty or the sports editor of The Bulletin they will save Marty much embarrassment for he plays against the Academy on Saturday. Also the weather man promises cold weather for Saturday.

Syracuse Elects Baysinger.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Harold Baysinger of Akron, O., was elected captain of the Syracuse university football team for 1928 following the game between Syracuse and Columbia here today. Baysinger is a junior at Syracuse and is a star kicker and halfback on the squad.

N. Y. U. FALLS BEFORE CRUSHING NEBRASKA ATTACK

LINCOLN, Nebr., Nov. 24.—(AP)—A charging university of Nebraska football machine that used an occasional aerial jab to gain ground today defeated the Violet-clad crew from the University of New York, 27 to 13, before a crowd of 35,000 in Memorial stadium.

It was New York's first defeat of the season and was a repetition of last year's encounter between these two teams when the Huskers spoiled an otherwise perfect Violet record.

Nebraska, with Fresnell and Howell plunging for long gains on almost every stab at the line, outplayed the easterners from the start until late in the second period, when the Violet machine, with Conner and Briante carrying the brunt of the offense, stiffened and pushed across its first counter.

The New York advance was sustained in the third and fourth periods when the Violets shoved across two more scores.

Nebraska, unable to score in the third period, stiffened in the last and put the game on ice with a fourth touchdown and a safety.

Nebraska's first score came toward the latter part of the first period, after the Huskers punched gaping holes in the eastern defense. James partially blocked Strong's punt and Richards recovered behind the goal line for the score. Howell missed the kick.

A moment later Fresnell broke away on a scintillating 54 yard dash to the New York one yard line, before Conner downed him.

Fresnell then crashed the line for another touchdown and again Howell missed the kick for the extra point. A little later, after a series of plunges and a pass, Fresnell scored again and Brown kicked the point.

Apparently hopelessly beaten, the easterns came back, Briante, Conner and Barabee scoring touchdowns in the third and fourth periods behind a battering attack which the cornhuskers could not stem. Each attempt for extra point was missed, however.

With an advantage of but one point, Nebraska stormed the line and used the aerial play with success, working the ball to the five yard line, where New York took it on downs. Dropping back a punt out of danger, Conner fumbled in the end zone and fell on the ball for a safety.

With but a few minutes left to play, the Huskers marched down the field to the one yard line. Howell plunged over but fumbled and James recovered for a touchdown. Brown's kick was wide.

HOLY CROSS SENT THROUGH 2-HOUR DRILL IN RAIN

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 24.—(AP)—A two hour signal drill in rain today brought to an end the Holy Cross football team's preparations for the Boston college game Saturday. Practice in handling a wet ball, kicking and a rehearsal of all the plays in the Purple's squad marked the drill. A skull session tomorrow will end the Holy Cross training session.

Shel Daly and Gus Cervini, the Purple's two injured regulars, will have places in the starting lineup, Coach Cleo O'Donnell announced tonight. Both men have improved greatly in the past few days and each will be ready to face Boston college for the last time Saturday.

PENN. LAUNCHES BEWILDERING AIR ATTACK TO OVERWHELM CORNELL TEAM

By Alan J. Gould.

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

FRANKLIN FIELD, Pennsylvania, Nov. 24—(AP)—Launching a series of bombs that came out of the sky with particularly devastating effect in the second period, Pennsylvania's air raiders mopped up Cornell today by the one-sided score of 35 to 0 before a colorful Thanksgiving day crowd of 75,000.

Few deadlier sky sorties have been conducted on any college gridiron this season than the attack that Pennsylvania's backfield engineered to give the Ithacans the worst beating they have sustained in the eight years that Gloomy Gil Dobie has been bringing Big Red teams to Franklin field.

This astonishing aerial offensive, made more bewildering by being coupled with sleight-of-hand hidden tricks, didn't hold its effectiveness very long but while it was geared to high speed, Pennsylvania scored five touchdowns, four of them in a second period drive that had Cornell's defense completely demoralized.

Halfback Paul Murphy and Quarterback Johnny Shober were the chief figures in the passing combination that upset the Ithacans and put them to rout before the first half was ended. The work of these two aerial artists contributed largely to four of the five touchdowns but just for variation, Murphy utilized Folwell Scull as a receiver on one occasion to put over a touchdown.

The astonishing, if not record-breaking effectiveness of Pennsylvania's passing game is shown by the fact that the Quakers averaged close to 22 yards for each of 15 completed passes. The longest two, tossed by Murphy to Shober, each gained 53 yards. Altogether Penn advanced 329 yards through the air as compared with Cornell's total of 36 yards on six completed passes.

It was a passing battle all the way, with the two teams hurling the unusual total of 61 forwards.

After Murphy and Shober gained 53 yards with two passes in the first period, Paul Scull darted seven yards off tackle on a hidden ball play and Penn's first touchdown. A blocked kick, followed by an 18-yard dash around end by Murphy, produced the second score early in the second quarter. Paul Scull, whose toe added five extra points after touchdowns, sprinted 38 yards on another trick play for the third tally. The fourth was put over in quick order on two passes, one of 53 yards by Murphy to Shober, followed by another of 25 yards, by Murphy to Folwell Scull.

The fifth and final tally was the result of another series of passes, a 10 yard sprint by Wascolonis and a short dive through center by Brill. Whether it was because this scoring burst exhausted the energy in Penn's drive or because Cornell absorbed a new defensive formula between halves, the Quakers were held scoreless through the second half and battled to a standstill. Murphy and Shober occasionally got off long passes, but the touchdown touch was lacking.

While Cornell's defense stiffened, its offense made no substantial headway. The Ithacans, in fact, threatened only once to score. That was the first period but when after Balderston intercepted a pass, they pushed their way to Penn's 8-yard line with aid of a 15 yard aerial, Balderston to Hoekelman. Stopped at the line, Cornell tried a placement kick but Anderson's boot from the 15-yard line was blocked.

Score by periods:

Pennsylvania	7	28	0	0—35
Cornell	0	0	0	0—0

Pennsylvania scoring. Touchdowns—Paul Scull; Murphy, Folwell, Scutt, Brill (sub for Wascolonis).

W. VIRGINIA HELD W. AND J. TO A 6 TO 6 TIE SCORE

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 24—(AP)—Rising from the depths of one of the most disastrous football seasons in their history, the West Virginia university Mountaineers today held the powerful and undefeated Presidents of Washington and Jefferson college to a 6-6 tie and had the ball on the one yard line pressing for the touchdown that would have given them victory when the final whistle blew. It was the second tie scored against W. & J. and practically eliminated the Presidents from consideration selection of a mythical eastern collegiate champion.

After three periods of scoreless play, Bill Amos, W. & J. fullback, crashed over the West Virginia line in the final quarter for the first score. Almost immediately West Virginia tied the score, when three Mountaineers recovered a punt fumbled by Amos. Hardy of West Virginia crashed through the line for the score.

KOZIOL PUTS UP GOOD FIGHT AGAINST N. E. CHAMP

At the Putnam Sporting club amateur show at Putnam on Thanksgiving night Al Koziol lost a hairline decision to Young Devine of Worcester, New England junior lightweight champion. Koziol had the better of the fight for the first two rounds but in the third round Devine came back strong and finished in a whirl of action to take the verdict.

Young Anthony, who is carving a name for himself in amateur circles, outpointed Young Petrone of Worcester in one of the feature bouts of the evening. Anthony with his clever boxing had his opponent helpless all through the fight and the Worcester boy's ability to take punishment was all that kept him on his feet.

Two other boys of the Norwich team, Jack West and Young Martin lost the decision to Tommy Lorraine and Kid Worcester respectively. Frankie Adams was not matched. Vic Darr issued a challenge to Devine and it is probable that the champion will box at the next show in Norwich.

O'BRIEN WILL BE IN B. C. LINEUP SATURDAY

WAYLAND, Mass., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Captain Tom O'Brien, right guard of the Boston college football team, will be in the starting lineup of the Eagles when they face Holy Cross in Boston, Saturday, Coach Leo Daley announced today. O'Brien injured his ankle in the Villanova game and has not played since.

With O'Brien back in the lineup, either George Wilcsewski or Mike Durant, who have been the regular guards for some weeks, will be held in reserve. Both started against Holy Cross a year ago but Durant was then a tackle.

The squad, which will remain at the Sandy Borr Country club here until Saturday, had morning and afternoon practice sessions today.

GEORGIA KEEPS SLATE CLEAN BEATING ALABAMA

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 24—(AP)—The undefeated Georgia university eleven continued its march toward the Southern Conference championship today by crushing Alabama 20 to 6. In the last period, Alabama rallied and after a long pass and then a fake pass formation, Brasfield ran 36 yards for the second score made against Georgia this season. The other scores were Mercer's six points and the ten points that Yale made in losing to the Georgians.

Passes in the earlier period had enabled Georgia to triumph, Estes hurling a couple to Nash and later to McCrary for good gains. The Georgia passing game seemed to have Alabama puzzled for the first three periods.

CARDINALS HAND SETBACK TO CHICAGO BEARS

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Chicago Cardinals today gave the Chicago Bears a jolt in their aspirations for the championship of the National Professional Football league by scoring a 3-0 victory over their local rivals.

Kenneally, acting captain of the Maroons, made the only score of the game going over for a touchdown in the second quarter when he took a pass from Kirkleskie n his own 12 yard line and threw off three Providence tacklers. Providence twice threatened to score but lost the ball on downs well in the Maroons territory.

CLIFF BRICKER WINS BERWICK RUN IN FAST TIME UNDER THE CONDITIONS

BERWICK, Pa., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Showing his heels to a field of 37 starters, including some of the best distance runners in the United States and Canada, Clifford Brickner, Gault, Ontario, mechanic, today won the Berwick marathon for the second successive year.

His time for the 9 1-4 mile mountain course was 48 minutes, 23 seconds, 15 1-2 seconds behind the record established by Willie Ritola in 1922. In view of the rain soaked and muddy course, Bricker's performance was considered remarkable.

John Bell, St. Bonaventure college, finished second in 49.47, and Bill Cox, Pennsylvania State college, intercollegian cross country champion, third in 50.20. Two other Canadians, Harold Webster, Hamilton, Ont., and Charles Snell, Toronto, finished sixth and tenth, respectively.

Cox set the pace for the first two and one-half miles, but he could not stand the pace set by Bricker and Bell going up the first of the two long hills, and both passed him. Bricker gradually pulled out in the lead and retained it to the end of the long period. Ten of the starters failed to finish.

Several thousand persons stood in a downpour of rain to watch the race.

Ove Anderson, Finland, pulled up in fourth place, 4 4-5 seconds behind Cox. The order in which others of the first 20 finished was:

Fifth, James Henigan, Boston; sixth, Harold Webster, Hamilton, Ont.; seventh, Louis Gregory, St. Bonaventure college; eighth, Frank Wendling, Buffalo; ninth, Albert Michaelson, Stamford, Conn.; tenth, Charles Snell, Toronto; 11th, Frederick Ward, New York city; 12th, Francis O'Donnell, Philadelphia; 13th, Francis O'Connor, St. Bonaventure college; 14th, Allen Parr, Franklin and Marshall college; 15th, Lee Wilcox, Barton, N. Y.; 16th, Manuel Robinson, Penns Grove, Pa.; 17th, Frack Suns, New York city; 18th, Carl M. Davis, Espy, Pa.; 19th, Arthur Newberry, Kirkwood, N. Y.; 20th, John B. Robinson, Berwick, Pa.

Watch Yourself Go By

Just stand aside and watch yourself go by!
Think of yourself as "he" instead of "I,"
Note, closely, as another man you note,
The bag-kneed trousers and the seedy coat;
Pick flaws, find fault; forget the man is you,
And strive to make your estimate ring true;
Confront yourself and look you in the eye—
Just stand aside and watch yourself go by.

Interpret all your motives just as though
You looked on one whose aims you did not know.
Let undisguised contempt surge through you when
You see you shirk, O commonest of men!
Despise your cowardice; condemn whate'er
You note of falseness in you anywhere.
Defend not one defect that shames your eye—
Just stand aside and watch yourself go by.

And then, with eyes unveiled to what you loathe—
To sins with that sweet charity you'd clothe—
Back to your self-walled tenement you'll go
With tolerance for all who dwell below.
The faults of others then will dwarf and shrink,
Love's chain grow stronger by one mighty link—
When you with "he" as substitute for "I,"
Have stood aside and watched yourself go by.

— By Strickland Gillian.

N. F. A. STARTS BASKETBALL NEXT WEEK

With football now in its last stages, more and distant rumbles of the approaching basketball season are being heard at the Academy. The grid sport will rule until Saturday, two days more than were expected but from then until the state championship baseball team reports for first practice in the spring the popular court game will hold sway.

Basketball seems in for a successful season in its second year. Last season a fighting bunch of boys made real history for the Red and White and that should be a good foundation upon which to lay plans for this year's five.

The first call for candidates is expected Monday, November 28, when all but four of the entire squad of last year will be available. Only Ray Yerrington, regular forward and captain, and Jim Moore and Jim Fenton and Fred Schwartz, subs, are now in school. The other four regulars, Captain-elect Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix, guards, Les Pingree, center, and Lloyd Jarvis, forward, with Joe Viau, strong performer at both center and forward, Dave Tigar, forward, Swartzburg, guard, make up the rest of those who wore the Red and White last year. Red Fagan from Blackstone, R. I. high, is also expected to be out for a berth.

To date only something like ten games have been booked, two with Windham, Stonington and Chapman Tech, and one each with Crosby, and Wilby of Waterbury, Bulkeley of Hartford, and Deep River. Others are pending with Warren Harding of Bridgeport, Weaver of Hartford, Kingswood Prep and others, while there is also a possibility of another game completing a home and home series with Bulkeley of Hartford being arranged. The C. F. C. may again open the Academy's season, while the All-Heller game will probably appear on the schedule.

ACADEMY-ALUMNI GAME POSTPONED TO SATURDAY

The jinx that had been absent during the last few years again set upon the Turkey Day Academy-Alumni tussle Thursday and the steady drizzle of rain that had kept on from midforenoon forced a postponement to Saturday afternoon at 2.30.

This delay will, no doubt serve to increase interest in this clash that carries probably as much attention and age old rivalry as any game with the exception of Bulkeley on the Academy's schedule.

The graduates will welcome the delay for it will afford a bit more time for the polishing-up process. Practically all the boys were ready for the opening gun yesterday and about the only difficulty now seems to be in keeping them on edge.

Jack Hinrichs has all his men lined up for the fray and Saturday should find a powerful list of graduates ready to do battle.

For the Academy there is a possibility that Freddy Fox will be ready. Today will probably see both teams in light workouts designed to put them in tip top condition.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Springfield college closed an unbeaten football season by swamping Vermont university, 24 to 0, today in a contest played in a downpour Springfield made four touchdowns and missed a fifth when a penalty for holding nullified a run of 28 yards for Bell across the Vermont line. Each weighed 140 pounds.

Lew Lafferty, 129, Philadelphia, knocked out Young Sheppard, Riverside, N. J., in the second round, and Andy Tomasky, 126, Pittsburgh, won the judges' decision over Jack Daly, 131, Philadelphia, in a scheduled eight round bout.

RUMORED H. V. WOOD DOZED—LOST CONTROL OF THAIRE CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 24—Edward Thaire, 27, of 1 Oak street, employed in the American Velvet mill, and Harry V. Wood, 23, of 8 Trumbull Avenue, a clerk in the post office, both of Stonington borough, were taken to the Westerly hospital early Thursday as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile crash on West Broad street, Pawcatuck.

About 5:45 a. m. Wood was driving the Ford sedan of Thaire, coming to Westerly from Stonington. He is reported to have dozed off, losing control of the steering wheel, the automobile dashing up on the south sidewalk against a wall and back, to completely wreck itself on a telephone pole near the residence of Howard M. Barber.

Patrolman C. Wilson Brown of Pawcatuck was called by a West Broad street resident, who thought the young men dying. A passing autoist took the injured men to the Westerly hospital, the ambulance of which arrived after the men were on their way to the hospital. The officer found the Ford sedan L-3017 Conn., had struck an electric light pole knocking the globe and top-piece off the light. The front end of the car was demolished, the axle twisted, fender and radiator smashed and the engine pushed back about six inches. The steering wheel was broken and the back of the car and glass broken.

At the Westerly hospital Dr. Richard O'B. Shea cared for the injured men, who were found to be suffering from multiple abrasions and lacerations, the condition of Thaire appearing to be the more serious.

FIRST SOCONY SHIPMENT BY BULK BARGE FROM N. Y.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 24—A Standard Oil fleet with a cargo of kerosene and gasoline came up the Pawcatuck river Thanksgiving morning, its destination being the newly constructed oil pier, Mechanic street, Pawcatuck.

This was the first shipment by bulk barge from New York to the Pawcatuck storage tanks at the Pawcatuck plant of the Standard Oil company of New York. For some time operations for the removing of ledge from the Pawcatuck river bottom, adjoining the river channel, have been in progress, to make a basin wherein the boats could berth while their cargoes of oil were being pumped ashore. Three crib dolphins have been placed in the river bottom to serve as moorings for the oil boats. A fifty foot wharf extends from opposite the Standard Oil office, the steel barges are made fast. Two 187 Mechanic street, out to the edge of the river basin and at this point a lighter has been moored, along which the steel barges are made fast. Two six-inch pipe lines lead from the basin edge along the pier and pass under the cement road-bed of Mechanic street through the storage tank yard, with sufficient room left for two additional six inch pipe lines.

Early Thursday morning the steel tug boat, "Socony 7," Capt. T. Michaelson, a larger boat than the Pawcatuck river tug Westerly of the Westerly Towboat company, brought the bulk barge, No. 107 up the Pawcatuck river and then returned to bring barge No. 104 to moor alongside the first one at the dock. Capt. Harry Baker of tug Westerly piloted the 90-foot Standard Oil tug up the Pawcatuck river channel. All the boats are painted red and maintained at the high grade which characterizes all Standard Oil properties. The barges are nearly 100 feet long and the tug is steam-steered. That the fleet was able to come up on one tide speaks well for the first handling of this river traffic for in the shipment of coal barges, which perhaps draw more water, two tides are necessary to get the coal craft up to the Westerly docks.

Port Capt. L. A. Platt of New York accompanied the fleet on the trip to Westerly, arriving in Stonington harbor at 1 p. m. Wednesday, about two hours before schedule, the tug, which ordinarily is used only about New York harbor, making the trip up sound in about twenty hours. There is a crew of eleven men with the tug and each of the bulk barges has a crew of three men, that of No. 107 being made up of Capt. T. Smith; mate, Albert Olsen and deckhand, Thorlief Field.

The Westerly agent, Ernest Ossanne and Chief Clerk Frank Thoumine were on hand Thanksgiving afternoon when the pumping of the oil from the barges to the storage tanks was done. On the deck of each of the barges, which are divided into compartments, are the pumps for taking oil out of the hold and these are driven by steam from the tug. A conspicuous sign on the boats read "no smoking and no lights." During Thursday afternoon clouds of steam were rising as the men were watching the laboring pump. The forward compartments were unloaded first to keep the boats in trim. Many passing automobilists stopped to watch the unloading process and expressed the hope that many cargoes in the future would find their way up the Pawcatuck river, whose commerce has been mainly confined to the reception of incoming shipments of coal, lumber and sand. The fleet will leave the Pawcatuck river Friday morning on its return to the New York port.

The Third District court, Judge Oliver H. Williams, will hold a session this (Friday) morning.

Miss Virginia H. Davis, a student in Northampton, Mass., is spending the Thanksgiving recess with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Davis.

The sixteenth annual exhibition of the South Coventry Poultry and Pet Stock association, opened in the Dixon street armory Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock, a rapid transition having been made from the Tall Cedars of Lebanon hall Thanksgiving eve. Exhibition benches were set up by workers during the night and nearly 400 birds as well as other exhibits and fancy stock were placed in pens for the decision of the judges in premium awards. Rainy weather prevented many from attending the first day showing.

Thanksgiving morning witnessed a general exodus of Westerly and Pawcatuck people to Stonington borough to witness the annual clash of the Westerly High and Stonington High gridiron warriors at Oowen field. The contest, resulting in a scoreless tie, 0 to 0, proved an arduous one for both player and spectator, as rain began falling in increasing volume with the added discomfiture of a raw wind. There was a record assemblage of automobiles and when the return to Westerly was made, the procession was almost unbroken for several miles. Several traffic jams at the Pawcatuck river bridge were cared for by Special Officer Rouse Clarke, while Patrolman C. Wilson Brown was also on duty.

Patrolman George L. Madison had a report made to him on his Canal street beat Wednesday night that a Dodge coupe of Stuart Cruickshank, 18 Bowling Lane, Bradford, had been stolen from near a Canal street fruit store where the owner had been absent but five minutes. The officers, having secured number and description, was notifying Police Lieutenant George Champlin from the Canal street police telephone, when the owner saw his car, occupied by a young man, approaching down Railroad avenue and turn into Canal street. He followed it across Canal street as the woman occupant stepped out to the the walk. The operator was recognized as A. T. L. Ladwidge, Jr. In the explanation which followed, it developed that Sylvester Murano, of the Hancock Insurance Co., had requested Ledwidge at the insurance office to step across Canal street and take his Dodge coupe to 76 Oak street and return with his wife; it was on his return trip that he was seen by the officer and owner. The autos are similar and both were parked but two cars apart. The small crowd which gathered at the point the auto had disappeared marvelled at the car's speedy recovery.

With a crash that was heard for some distance, a touring car, owned and driven by Joseph H. Whipple, of 65 Elm street, and a Dodge coupe driven by John Kinnear, came together near the traffic beacon in Dixon square Wednesday evening at 7:30. The Whipple auto was proceeding down High street and clipped fenders with the coupe as both drivers saw the green beacon light. Amicable adjustment for damages was reported investigating officer, Lieutenant Champlin.

Three Stonington hunters who were gunning on posted land on Mason's Island, Wednesday, on complaint of Game Warden Dennison, were held for two hours by Connecticut State Troopers at the Groton station. Wilcox in Stonington town court Saturday morning next to answer to a possible charge of poaching.

The annual union Thanksgiving service Wednesday evening at Calvary Baptist church, Elm street, was attended by a large congregation. WESTERLY

RUMORED H. V. WOOD DOZED—LOST CONTROL OF THAIRE CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 24—Edward Thaire, 37, of 1 Oak street, employed at the American Velvet mill, and Harry V. Wood, 38, of 3 Trumbull avenue, a clerk in the post office, both of Stonington borough, were taken to the Westerly hospital early Thursday as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile crash on West Broad street, Pawcatuck.

About 5:45 a. m., Wood was driving the Ford sedan of Thaire, coming to Westerly from Stonington. He is reported to have dozed off, losing control of the steering wheel, the automobile dashing up on the south sidewalk against a wall and back, to completely wreck itself on a telephone pole near the residence of Howard M. Barber.

Patrolman C. Wilson Brown of Pawcatuck was called by a West Broad street resident, who thought the young men dying. A passing autoist took the injured men to the Westerly hospital, the ambulance of which arrived after the men were on their way to the hospital. The officer found the Ford sedan L-3017 Conn. had struck an electric light pole knocking the globe and top-piece off the light. The front end of the car was demolished, the axle twisted, fender and radiator smashed and the engine pushed back about six inches. The steering wheel was broken and the back of the car and glass broken.

At the Westerly hospital Dr. Richard O'B. Shea cared for the injured men, who were found to be suffering from multiple abrasions and lacerations, the condition of Thaire appearing to be the more serious.

FIRST SOCONY SHIPMENT BY BULK BARGE FROM N. Y.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 24—A Standard Oil fleet with a cargo of kerosene and gasoline came up the Pawcatuck river Thanksgiving morning, its destination being the newly constructed oil pier, Mechanic street, Pawcatuck.

This was the first shipment by bulk barge from New York to the Pawcatuck storage tanks at the Pawcatuck plant of the Standard Oil company of New York. For some time operations for the removing of ledge from the Pawcatuck river bottom, adjoining the river channel, have been in progress, to make a basin wherein the boats could berth while their cargoes of oil were being pumped ashore. Three crib dolphins have been placed in the river bottom to serve as moorings for the oil boats. A fifty foot wharf extends from opposite the Standard Oil office, the steel barges are made fast. Two 197 Mechanic street, out to the edge of the river basin and at this point a lighter has been moored, along which the steel barges are made fast. Two six-inch pipe lines lead from the basin edge along the pier and pass under the cement road-bed of Mechanic street through the storage tank yard, with sufficient room left for two additional six inch pipe lines.

Early Thursday morning the steel tug boat, "Socony 7," Capt. T. Michaelson, a larger boat than the Pawcatuck river tug Westerly of the Westerly Towboat company, brought the bulk barge, No. 107 up the Pawcatuck river and then returned to bring barge No. 104 to moor alongside the first one at the dock. Capt. Harry Baker of tug Westerly piloted the 90-foot Standard Oil tug up the Pawcatuck river channel. All the boats are painted red and maintained at the high grade which characterizes all Standard Oil properties. The barges are nearly 150 feet long and the tug is steam-steered. That the fleet was able to come up on one tide speaks well for the first handling of this river traffic for in the shipment of coal barges, which perhaps draw more water, two tides are necessary to get the coal craft up to the Westerly docks.

Port Capt. L. A. Platt of New York accompanied the fleet on the trip to Westerly, arriving in Stonington harbor at 1 p. m. Wednesday, about two hours before schedule, the tug, which ordinarily is used only about New York harbor, making the trip up sound in about twenty hours. There is a crew of eleven men with the tug and each of the bulk barges has a crew of three men, that of No. 107 being made up of Capt. T. Smith; mate, Albert Olsen and deckhand, Thorlief Fjeld.

The Westerly agent, Ernest Ozanne and Chief Clerk Frank Thoumine were on hand Thanksgiving afternoon when the pumping of the oil from the barges to the storage tanks was done. On the deck of each of the barges, which are divided into compartments, are the pumps for taking oil out of the hold and these are driven by steam from the tug. A conspicuous sign on the boats read "no smoking and no lights." During Thursday afternoon clouds of steam were rising as the men were watching the laboring pump. The forward compartments were unloaded first to keep the boats in trim. Many passing automobilists stopped to watch the unloading process and expressed the hope that many cargoes in the future would find their way up the Pawcatuck river, whose commerce has been mainly confined to the reception of incoming shipments of coal, lumber and sand. The fleet will leave the Pawcatuck river Friday morning on its return to the New York port.

The Third District court, Judge Oliver H. Williams, will hold a session this (Friday) morning.

The sixteenth annual exhibition of the South Coventry Poultry and Pet Stock association, opened in the Dixon street armory Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock, a rapid transition having been made from the Tall Cedars of Lebanon ball Thanksgiving eve. Exhibition benches were set up by workers during the night and nearly 400 birds as well as other exhibits and fancy stock were placed in pens for the decision of the judges in premium awards. Rainy weather prevented many from attending the first day showing.

Thanksgiving morning witnessed a general exodus of Westerly and Pawcatuck people to Stonington borough to witness the annual clash of the Westerly High and Stonington High gridiron warriors at Oowen field. The contest, resulting in a scoreless tie, 0 to 0, proved an arduous one for both player and spectator, as rain began falling in increasing volume with the added discomfiture of a raw wind. There was a record assemblage of automobiles and when the return to Westerly was made, the procession was almost unbroken for several miles. Several traffic jams at the Pawcatuck river bridge were cared for by Special Officer Rouse Clarke, while Patrolman C. Wilson Brown was also on duty.

Patrolman George L. Madison had a report made to him on his Canal street beat Wednesday night that a Dodge coupe of Stuart Cruickshank, 13 Bowling Lane, Bradford, had been stolen from near a Canal street fruit store where the owner had been absent but five minutes. The officers, having secured number and description, was notifying Police Lieutenant George Champlin from the Canal street police telephone, when the owner saw his car, occupied by a young man, approaching down Railroad avenue and turn into Canal street. He followed it across Canal street as the woman occupant stepped out to the the walk. The operator was recognized as A. T. L. Ledwidge, Jr. In the explanation which followed, it developed that Sylvester Murano, of the Hancock Insurance Co., had requested Ledwidge at the insurance office to step across Canal street and take his Dodge coupe to 76 Oak street and return with his wife; it was on his return trip that he was seen by the officer and owner. The autos are similar and both were parked but two cars apart. The small crowd which gathered at the point the auto had disappeared marvelled at the car's speedy recovery.

With a crash that was heard for some distance, a touring car, owned and driven by Joseph H. Whipple, of 65 Elm street, and a Dodge coupe driven by John Kinnear, came together near the traffic beacon in Dixon square Wednesday evening at 7:30. The Whipple auto was proceeding down High street and clipped fenders with the coupe as both drivers saw the green beacon light. Amicable adjustment for damages was reported investigating officer, Lieutenant Champlin.

Three Stonington hunters who were gunning on posted land on Mason's Island, Wednesday, on complaint of Game Warden Dennison, were held for two hours by Connecticut State Troopers at the Groton station. Wilcox in Stonington town court Saturday morning next to answer to a possible charge of poaching.

OPPORTUNITY.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

According to a time-honored if not actually trite saying, "opportunity knocks once at every man's door." The inference is that, if you're not prompt in answering the knock and admitting the lady, she takes a tiff and moves on to some other door, never again to return to yours.

H-e-ll, I wouldn't venture to insinuate a doubt as to the absolute wisdom of our ancestors, or their inspired knowledge of things which, now-a-days, we aren't so cock-sure of. At the same time, I wish those infallible ancestors of ours hadn't been so self-contradictory in their utterances.

Another one of their wise cracks is in the form of a couplet:

"If at first you don't succeed,
Try, try again."

Somehow these two chunks of infallibility won't coalesce in my inquiring mind. What's the use of trying again, if, because of your failure to get to the door quickly enough on her first rat-tat-too, her offended majesty Queen Opportunity, has flounced down the road beyond hailing distance? On the other hand, it would be hard to make those who have tried and failed several times before they've succeeded believe that opportunity comes only once.

These, however, are what the highbrows call "academic" questions. That is, they may be interesting, in some such way as cross-word puzzles are, but they don't amount to anything practically. They don't produce any bacon.

There is however, a really practical question arising from our repitition of the time-worn adage about opportunity knocking once and no more. Assuming that it is so, and that there isn't any come-back, one may be pardoned for asking:

Just what is "opportunity?"

I'd rather like to hear the definitions given by members of the first class in the school of life. Never mind dictionary explanations. What's your idea of an "opportunity?" I haven't directly asked that question of any of my immediate neighbors, but I've got a pretty clear idea from their actions, of what it means to them.

Neighbor Waterhouse, for ans, has raised this season a fine bunch of fat porkers. "Opportunity" to him means the chance to get two cents a pound more for them than the prevailing market rate.

Neighbor Sherman has long craved the field belonging to another farm which sticks into one side of his line. He wants it to "round out" or "square up" his holdings. "Opportunity" to him means the chance of buying it at a low figure, even if the present owner has to be killed by an automobile or eaten by a bear to cause the opportunity.

Neighbor Pollock is rather slack and easy-going in his methods and habits. As a result, he's always a 1-e-tle behind. He isn't classed as "prompt pay." But he has a rich old uncle and his idea of "opportunity" is for that rich uncle to die and leave him the money.

Neighbor Bates is a young man with enlarged ideas and restricted income. His idea of "opportunity" is to marry a rich heiress who may be ugly as a hippopotamus and bad tempered as a wildcat and mean as a copperhead, so long as she's rich.

And just beyond him is Neighboress Gladys Higgins, whose idea of "opportunity" is to catch a man who can afford to house her on Park avenue, give her a Rolls-Royce, buy her pearls by the yard, and send her to Europe or Palm Beach or Lenox whenever she happens to feel restless.

There are others concerning whose ideas of what constitutes an "opportunity" I might make rather shrewd guesses. There is Lawyer Pike who would like the chance to show what he could do with the Tea-Pot Dome case, and Doctor Sanders who wants more than anything else an octogenarian millionaire patient with an attack of the multi-grubs; and Squire Moore who is sure he could reform the whole United States if his constituents would only send him to congress; and Sister Susan Simpkins who is confident she could instanter put an end to the whole outrageous system of male tyranny, if she were only president of the Confederated Associations of Futuristic Feminists.

And so on and so on, ad nauseam.

Suppose you try it yourself; make a sort of game of it and "figger out" what your various neighbors hanker after most in the way of "opportunity."—You might, if so disposed, include your own idea of what sort of plum you'd like to have fall in your own open mouth—I confess candidly that I have a very concrete idea of the sort of "opportunity" which I'd like to have come to my front door, right this minute, and walk in without any "By your leave." But wild horses couldn't drag it out of me. If I should tell you, some would laugh and some would sneer, and all would agree that I was a dumbhead. So I'll keep my secrets and you can keep yours.

But, seriously, what is the popular idea of an "opportunity?" Isn't it, in nine cases out of ten, something which you happen upon or which happens to you from outside? A sort of "deus ex machina," as the theatre phrase goes, let down in a hidden frame from a blue cambric sky when the heroine is past human help and only a miracle can extricate her?

Such things don't happen much more, even on the stage; still less frequently in real life.

In the fairy tales which delighted our childhood the princess was always rescued by some outside intervention. As Thackeray rhymed it:

"And ever when it seemed her need was at the sorest
A knight in armor clad came pricking through the forest."

Now-a-days, if Princess Sallly Ann gets lost in the woods and is attacked by a ferociously long-eared rabbit, she usually has to defend herself or take the consequences.

Likewise you and I, if we find ourselves "up against it," with no state road in sight, usually have to find a way out—or make one.

Francis Bacon, whom Alexander Pope canonized as "the wisest of mankind," once said; "A wise man will make more opportunities than he finds."

Did you ever stop to think that this may be just as true in common-place, everyday farming operations as in high finance or national politics?

While the average western stock-raiser was complaining that he couldn't get a fair price for his critters, Gilbert Barr of Kearney, Mo., the other day unloaded 15 really fat steers at the Kansas City stockyards and sold them almost instanter for $15.50 a hundred, an average of $205 each for the lot. He didn't find any fault with the price or with his profit. He explained somewhat diffidently, that he picked the steers out as shrewdly as he knew how, when he brought them, fattened them as wisely as he knew how, thought they were worth the price he got for them. Evidently the buyers, Swift and Co. agreed with him.

You see, Mr. Barr didn't sit on the fence and whittle or lie in the sun and wish for any opportunity. He just made one, and raked in $3,075 therefrom.

In Illinois, last spring, 2,648 high school boys enrolled in what are called vocational agricultural classes, which required them to raise either a crop or an animal as practical demonstration of the theories taught in school. It isn't important who won, if indeed there was any scheduled winner. The outstanding fact which emerged at the end of the season was that these boys had earned $250,082.70 as a result of their taking advantage of the opportunities they had to make, each one for himself.

Kansas has lately been taking a census of its "intangible property." That means money, stocks, bonds, credits, etc., apart from real estate. In other words, reserve capital or savings. Now we'll all admit that, as a matter of course, the opportunities for amassing such intangible property are greater in cities than on farms. Yet what were found to be the facts?

In the 18 cities of the state of more than 10,000 population the per capita of "intangible property" amounted to $69.02, while the per capita holdings of similar property in the farm communities was $91.89—almost $23 more.

Incidentally, this throws an illuminating side-light on the comparative prosperity of cities and farms.

But it means much more, it means that the city dwellers of the state either hadn't taken as full advantage of ready-made opportunities as their country neighbors, or else hadn't made as many opportunities for themselves.

If Bacon's aphorism is true, this seems to indicate that there are more really wise men on the back roads of Kansas than on its Main Streets.

Aye, brethren and sisteren, "opportunity" may be delightful as a chance calling, coming and going of her own whimsical will. But she's nothing like as dependable as the "opportunity" which you make by the use of your own grit and gumption—and can remake if she tires of you and elopes with some tramp.

For real "opportunity" is not a chance to get something for nothing. It is the chance to get something by earning it and paying for it. It doesn't mean less work and more pay nor the slacker's craving for an "easy snap."

It means the chance to win by deserving to win.

It can be brought back even after it has come and gone. It can be roped and hog-tied even if it is passing with no apparent intention of stopping. It can be developed, not out of ectoplasm, but out of your own brain and brawn, if you've got such things on hand.

It comes not by wishing but by working; not by hoping but by doing.

BOY'S BODY WAS COVERED WITH SEVERE ITCHING RASH

Skin now without a blemish

Ketchum, Me., July 13:—"About seven years ago my nephew developed a severe case of skin trouble which looked like eczema. His face, hands and whole body were covered with the trouble and his skin became raw from scratching. Many soaps and ointments were tried without success before Resinol Soap and Ointment were prescribed and used. The first few applications stopped the itching and soon he was entirely healed. He now has the loveliest skin I ever saw and, thanks to Resinol Soap and Ointment, no unsightly blotches mar the beauty of his complexion."—(Signed) Vivian M. Beale, Yonge Street.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Cubby's First Snow

Nothing else a thrill can bring
Like that when first we see a thing.
Cubby Bear.

Cubby was looking at his first snow. It was the day after Thanksgiving. Cubby had had a wonderful dinner, which Farmer Brown's Boy had brought to him in the Green Forest. He wanted to follow Farmer Brown's Boy back home, but he wanted even more to take a nap. You know, a full stomach makes one sleepy. So, after following Farmer Brown's Boy a few steps, Cubby turned aside and sought a warm, sunny spot where he could curl up and take a nap.

"My goodness!" he exclaimed. "Just look at my footprints."

When he awoke jolly, round, red Mr. Sun was just going to bed behind the Purple Hills, but no one could see this, for a great bank of clouds hid jolly, round, red Mr. Sun. And it hid the tops of the Purple Hills too. At first Cubby couldn't think where he was. Then he remembered. For perhaps five minutes he sniffed around, picking up crumbs left from that feast. Then it was getting dark, the wind blew cold and Cubby began to wish that he could find his mother and sister. But he hadn't the least idea where they were, and so after wandering around for a while he decided to spend the night where he had spent the previous night. It was a snug, comfortable place in a hollow in the base of a tree. He was warm and sheltered there.

Cubby slept all night. He didn't awaken once. It was broad daylight when at last he did awaken. He peeked out from his hollow. And then his eyes flew very wide open indeed. You never did see so much surprise in a pair of eyes as there was in the eyes of Cubby. When he had gone to bed the earth had been covered with brown leaves. As far as he could see there wasn't a brown leaf anywhere. At least there was none to be seen. The ground was white. Do you wonder that Cubby rubbed his eyes three times, then sat and simply stared?

By and by curiosity got the best of him. He reached out and touched this white covering. It was cold and a bit wet. Cubby drew his paw back hurriedly. But after a bit he ventured to reach out and touch it with his tongue. He took a little of it into his mouth and it became merely water. Cubby was more puzzled than ever. He didn't know what to make of it all.

Presently Cubby heard the sharp barking of Chatterer the Red Squirrel. Then he saw Chatterer frisking about under the trees. It was quite clear that Chatterer knew all about this queer, white substance. And it was also quite clear that it was harmless, for there was Chatterer scampering across from the foot of one tree to another. Cubby stretched. Then rather gingerly he walked out. It certainly felt queer, but it was not altogether pleasant. Cubby walked a little way and looked back.

"My goodness!" he exclaimed, "just look at my footprints! I can't step without leaving a print."

And right there a great thought came to Cubby. If he made footprints like that Mother Bear and his sister would be making footprints too, and all he had to do was to find those footprints and follow them.

New French Formula Ends Rheumatic Pains

A remarkable new discovery of French Chemistry for the relief of Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia and Sciatica is securing remarkable results. This marvelous formula seems to drive out rheumatic pain just as quickly as aspirin drives out headaches. And the relief gradually tends to become permanent.

Swollen, painful, creaky joints lose their pain; stiff muscles become flexible again; agonizing twinges cease as the rheumatic poisons are neutralized and driven out of the system.

This formula is known in this country as Dr. Beaupre's Rheumatic Treatment and can be secured at any good druggist.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Gerald—When did you first get to know Tom?

George—The first time I tried to borrow some money.—Boston Post.

"Ha! Ha! Ha! Old Bill Shark is awful sick."

"Yeah—he took a bite off one of those swimmers covered with axle grease!"—Detroit News.

Who is that fellow over there who has been talking all the evening about Hoopler?

"Oh, that's Hoopler," responded old Gaunton Grimm.—Judge.

Absent-minded Professor (at home after exams)—What have we for dinner, dear? Answer briefly: take no more than two minutes for this question. Hint: I would like peaches for dessert.—Life.

"Did you scream when you went to the dentist?"

"No, daddy."

"That's a brave little fellow. He must have hurt you, didn't he?"

"No, daddy, he was out."—Pathfinder.

The thief entered the author's bedroom, switched on the light, and pointed his revolver. "Don't move, guy-nor! I'm a desperate man looking for money," he threatened.

"You are?" cried the author eagerly. "Great Scott, so am I. I'll come and help you find some."—Montreal Family Herald.

"What's the trouble with you, my good man?" asked the kindly housewife of the hobo who appeared at the back door and asked for a little help.

"I dunno," replied the tramp, who had been reading the financial pages, "but I guess my technical position is unsound."—New York Sun.

Eleven pieces from a shattered meteor which crashed into a tree in the Umatilla national forest, Washington, have been recovered. The sizzling meteor severed the tree sixty feet from the ground and set it on fire. Albert Baler, forest ranger, who reached the spot first, says the pieces were too hot to touch.

The erection of a 360,000 kilowatt electricity generating station at Battersea is planned by the London Power company, which controls the generating stations and main transmission lines of ten London electric supply companies. The company is already laying down a 22,000 volt transmission system interconnecting all the generating stations it controls. Some of the older stations will be closed as the newer plants come into use this fall.

Because of the officer being unfamiliar with the house, he was unable to catch the thief. The police had received instructions to maintain a watch of the residence of E. Frank Morgan, Williams street and but a block from the Broad street house as E. Frank Morgan and family are absent from the city. About 8:45, when patrolman Albert Iverson was passing the residence of the attorney, he decided to find out if the doors there were secure. He tried the rear door and found it locked, but when he went to the front entrance he discovered it open. The officer entered and heard some one moving around, but he could not locate him. After trying to find the crook several minutes, he stole out, hurried to a police box a block away and asked for assistance. Then, returning to the house, where he awaited the arrival of Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman Patrick Shahan. Officers were stationed at both entrances, but their search was not needed for the thief had left by the rear entrance while Iverson was summoning aid. So far as is known, nothing was stolen.

NORWICH DRIVERS PAY FOR MOTOR LAW VIOLATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 24.—The state police, Groton barracks, as well as all of the barracks throughout the state, intend to enforce the motor vehicle law pertaining to defective equipment on all types of automobiles, pleasure autos and commercial trucks. From now on a strict watch will be maintained for autos that are not equipped with proper brakes, head and tail lights and windshield wipers. The first batch of violators was presented in the police court Wednesday and in practically every case a fine was imposed. In some cases a minimum fine of $3 and in others a fine of $3 and costs was given. Where the costs were annexed, the drivers paid $9.50. In one case a fine of $10 and costs was imposed. The drivers to be presented numbered 29 and were as follows: Wallace E. Johnson, 191 Bayonet street and David Lew, 35 Mohegan avenue, judgment suspended on payment of costs; Leander Gardner, Montville, $3 and costs; Charles E. Brooks, Uncasville, judgment suspended upon payment of costs; William Crociti, 77 Smith street, $10 and costs; Clarence A. Evarts, 172 Howard street and E. H. Cobb, Yantic, G. A. Bullard, Norwich and Diamantis Angelopolous, Norwich, Judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

Howard A. Dailey, 38, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dailey, 20 Montauk avenue, died last night at the residence of his parents, from pneumonia, although Mr. Dailey had been in ill health about seven years. Besides his parents, Mr. Dailey is survived by two brothers, George M. and Charles H. Dailey, of this city and another brother, James F. Dailey, of Springfield, Mass. A sister, Mrs. Clarence W. Thompson, this city, also survives. Mr. Dailey was formerly employed by a traction company in Springfield, but was compelled to give up work when his health began to decline.

Edward Levinson, of Riverview avenue, reported to the police this morning that his automobile had been stolen. Levinson said that he parked the car, a Nash touring, in the rear of the Aben Hardware Company's store, 78 Bang street last night and when he went there to drive it to his home two hours later, it was missing. Believing that some of his friends had taken the auto and would return it, Levinson failed to make a report of the car being missing until today. The auto carries Connecticut registration. N-2309.

John Fisher, 48 Terrace avenue, made a complaint to the police last night that his automobile had been damaged through an act of maliciousness or mischievousness. He said that he parked the auto in front of his residence and when he started to drive away he discovered that the windshield had been smashed. Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman Clarence Martin were assigned to the case and learned that a boy residing in the neighborhood had broken the windshield and that his parents had assured Fisher that a new windshield would replace the damaged one.

A Yellow cab, driven by Raymond Rathbun, 15 Orchard street, and a pleasure auto driven by Milton A. Wallace, 16 Church street, Mystic, collided on Howard street, corner of Hamilton street early this morning. Both automobiles were damaged and each driver placed the responsibility for the crash on the other. When the accident occurred at 1 o'clock a telephone message was sent to police headquarters and Patrolman Lawrence Fardy was assigned to make an investigation. He went to the location of the accident and there Rathbun claimed that Wallace was at fault, while the latter declared that Rathbun's driving was responsible for the crash. As each driver claimed that the other was at fault, Rathbun and Wallace were arrested charged with reckless driving. In the police court today the case was not tried, but was continued to the 30th.

Patrolman George Labous in making his rounds on Bank street early this morning discovered the entrance to Selleck's Automobile Service station unlocked. The owner was notified and a short time afterwards went to the station and secured the place for the night.

An automobile that had been parked in the street many hours was taken to a garage and put in storage, this morning, by Patrolman Michael Dorsey, as the owner could not be located. The auto carries Connecticut registration, 8496. The owner will be compelled to pay storage and may be ordered into the police court for parking his car in the highway longer than 12 hours, a violataion of a city ordinance.

Raul Bessette, of Los Angeles, who is a guest at the Hotel Mohican, was in the police court today charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He was fined $5 and costs. Bessette was on State street at 1.30 o'clock this morning and was creating such a nuisance that he was arrested by Patrolman Dennis Murphy. Bessette said that he was employed by the De-Mille Motion Picture production company.

Henry Larsen, 38 Mercer street, a laborer, was presented on a charge of reckless driving and was fined $25 and costs. Larsen was driving his automobile on Main street last night in a manner that attracted the attention of Patrolman Michael Dorsey. The officer had Larsen stop the auto and when the latter did so it was discovered that Larsen was intoxicated. He was arrested and charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, but when presented in court the complaint was amended to the less serious charge.

Frank E. Searle, 89 Montauk avenue, charged with violation of the city's parking ordinance, failed to appear in court and his bond of $2 was declared forfeited. Searle parked his auto on Golden street and in a position that blocked a driveway.

The only other cases in court were two men charged with intoxication. One was fined $5 and the other was given a suspension of judgment.

The annual banquet of Niagara Engine Co., No. 1, held Thanksgiving eve in the quarters of the company, Bank street, proved one of the most pleasurable and interesting that the company has sponsored in recent years. The event was attended by about 100 members and city officials. During the early evening the members spent much time in a social manner and about 9 o'clock the banquet was served, the feast being turkey dinner, complete in every detail. Later Frederick C. Burrows, a veteran member of the organization was toastmaster, his choice proving a very happy one and the exercises were brief and the speakers comprised Mayor James A. May, Councilor Cornelius D. Twomey and George E. Fisher. At the conclusion of the speaking an elaborate vaudeville entertainment was provided by New York stars. Niagara members are anticipating that they will not always be in their present quarters, because there is agitation for a combination fire house that will shelter both the Niagara company and the Allen Hook and Ladder company. They also anticipate that a wholly paid fire department may yet develop. In the event that such does come to pass the Niagara membership is not worrying over what the future will bring. They are content to deal with the present and to continue in the enjoyment of their present happy relations, as was evidenced last night with the participation in an event that brought out more strongly than ever the excellent spirit of good-fellowship that exists in the company.

The announcement of the intention of the directorate of Lawrence-Memorial hospital to have a three story brick dormitory erected on the hospital grounds at once, to house all the student nurses of the institution, instead of having the nurses scattered in three dormitories as is the case at the present time, brought universal expressions of delight from the nurses; they realize that with the completion of the dormitory the young ladies will be in one home, which will permit added comfort and pleasure for them, inasmuch as their social activities can be better promoted and enjoyed. The building being provided with recreation room, gymnasium and possibly a swimming pool, will be constructed and equipped at an estimated cost of $150,000 or $160,000. The site where the home will be erected is on the highest location of the hospital grounds, commanding a wide view of the harbor and a part of Long Island sound.

The quality goes in before the name goes on ZENITH LONG DISTANCE RADIO

Why does not Zenith build a radio receiver to sell for less than $100.00?

Zenith has the laboratory, the engineers, the organization and the financial resources to build any kind of radio. Then why not go below the $100.00 price?

Zenith Model 14

The answer is that the Zenith standard of quality cannot be built into a receiver of lower price. Zenith will not put its name to a receiver that is not highly selective, powerful, faithful to the entire tone scale and wrought with surpassing skill and durability.

Performance comes first in Zenith—there is no compromise. The 6-tube set has six working tubes instead of five working tubes and one balancing tube. Instead of three condensers the 6-tube set has four—the 8 and 10-tube sets have five and six condensers respectively.

In every detail the same exacting standards are carried out. Zenith costs more but it does more. Hear Zenith and you will agree that Zenith is unsurpassed.

GREENEVILLE

The 64 children of the New London county home under the direction of Miss Jennie Gibson, the matron, were served the usual roast turkey dinner and all its fixings at 12 o'clock Thanksgiving day, which the children thoroughly enjoyed.

The home received through the kindness of friends oranges, grapes, mixed nuts, pies and cakes, also four victrola records, to be played for their amusement. Under personal direction of the teachers at the home, Miss Preston and Miss Leach, the children enjoyed songs and poems. They were also shown slides of pictures of the Phillipine Islands and each child had a part to learn that explained each picture. The songs that the children sang were "Thanksgiving," "Corn Song," "Thanksgiving Joys," "Father We Thank Thee," "Swing the Silver Scythe," "Thanksgiving Day" and "America," also reading of three compositions by the children of "Thanksgiving Day." Poems were recited concerning the Pilgrims. Miss Gibson was assisted in serving by Miss Duncan, Miss Erickson, Miss Holland, Miss Leach and Mrs. George Upton.

The Thanksgiving services at St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox church on Convent avenue were in charge of Archbishop John of New York city. A large number of parishioners from Norwich, and people from New London, Hartford, Meriden, Montville and from Rhode Island filled the church to capacity. Following the services at 11 o'clock Archbishop John gave a very interesting sermon on Thanksgiving day and explained what it meant to the Russian people. He said the Russian church was celebrating the day throughout the United States, because this beautiful country we are now living in saved us from the radicals and the America people should be thanked for aiding our people in making real homes. We should thank God for the favors and blessings that He has seen fit to bestow upon you and your families; also thank God we live in a country that believes in free religion. After talking on this subject for two hours Archbishop John retired to the Sunday school room in the basement of the church, where he received all the parishioners. After meeting the congregation Archbishop John went to the parish house where he presented to six men the blessed Gramota, a special document that is awarded to members of the Russian Orthodox church for doing special work for the good of the congregation. The men who received such honors were Walter Zuromsky, Afanasee Zezech, Tarasie Kononchick, Alex Zurromsky, Sergie Pabol, Steve Mogeleweck, Michael Rutkowskie. The choir rendered several Russian songs during the services in a very pleasing manner. Among the out of town guests at the services were Archpriest Joseph Klimovrch from Springfield, Mass., Rev. Vasil Hocohrey from Hartford, Rev. Nicholas from New York. The front of the church and the pastor's home were decorated with American flags and American bunting giving the building a very pretty setting for the coming of Archbishop John.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

POWER OF GOD WILL ENABLE MAN TO OVERCOME THE BLIGHTS OF LIFE

Speaking of ancestry, environment, poverty, invalidism and sin as the things which act as a blight upon the life of the individual, Rev. Dr. S. H. Howe in his Thanksgiving service at Park Congregational church Thursday morning declared that there is a redemptive recovering power, through God, at man's command which will enable him to strike out for great life and the possibilities which lie within him.

Dr. Howe spoke from the following text:

"I will restore to you the years that the locust hath eaten, the cankerworm, and the caterpillar, and the palmerworm, my great army which I sand among you. And ye shall eat in plenty, and be satisfied." Joel 2:25-26.

He spoke as follows:

The promise here is national, though the nation must first be represented in the unity of the nation. A nation is a composite of individual lives. There is no nation apart from individual units. A great multitude of units pool their ethical attitudes and become a national attitude.

That nation had had experience of a series of disasters for its apostacies and forsakings of God. It had fallen into idolatries and false trusts and when this happens they are left to themselves to work out their new problems and reap the consequences. The nation of Israel had had a long succession of these experiences of disaster and disillusionment. They forsook God and were left to try out to the bitter end their experiments, so that the life of the nation was a long succession of alternate fidelities and apostacies; the blessings of God, and the judgments.

Israel was the Niobe of nations. Her face was seldom clear of scalding tears. The Pythian arrows of a mightier bow than that of Apollo flew destructively. Sometimes invaded by savage armies, sometimes devoured by climatic drouth, scourges, famine, the cankerworm, the ravishing caterpiller, but brought to her knees she cried to God, and He delivered them and gave them a new clean page which they usually blotted.

One of the outstanding marvels of history at which we stand in wonder is the recuperative powers of nations, their amazing resiliency. We wonder at the capacity of nations to recover from calamitous judgments. They ruin themselves and then get upon their feet and resume the long caravan march. Humanity again and again has done its level best to exterminate itself and yet failed of utter extinction. This world has been so often decimated by war and adversity we wonder at its survival.

But there is a striking similarity between national and individual experience. The blight of the land by scourge bears striking resemblance to the blighting forces always aplay upon individual careers. It is the rare human life that has not known the blight of adversity and the handicap. Sometimes it is hereditary entail. We cannot all be well-born. We in many cases come into the inheritance of blight. Those who have lived before us have left their inky finger-marks. Older ancestors, generations of them, have loaded some of us heavily. We begin in mud and it is hard to end in marble. "It is easier," some one has said, "to get the devil out of my heart than to get my grandfather out of my bones." Many a child comes into life loaded like Atlas with a thousand years of misdemeanors. The child is a walking museum of slacktwisted ethical thinking and conduct. No man can be too careful of the choice of his parents. We can inherit so much that handicaps us. Hereditary laws are in force notwithstanding all that Mr. Weismann has said in discreditment of hereditary entail.

And environment is often a blight. "Environment," Jacob Reis told us, "is nine tenths of life," and he knew all the hells of slumdom. Many of us are caged by environment and cannot open our wings full pinion. Huddled in impasses and blind alleys, prisoners, millions of us are, while the hot pulse of freedom burns at fever heat, and we are in danger of being subdued to our surroundings. And yet we must not overstate the restraint of environment. We can break out of the prison of evil environment. We must not be subdued by our surroundings. Some do break away. They tear them up root and branch like Samson carrying away the gates of Gaza. Perhaps we do not need as lofty a pedestal as we think. Astronomy can be studied in a garret. Flowers may be plucked in a hedgerow. What did twelve men do with the environment in the first century? What did Milton do in a little cottage at Chalfont Saint Giles? What did Galileo do with his little telescope? The angel was not made wretched in the prison where St. Peter lay in chains. No, it is not even environment that is fatal. Our spatial setting has a vast vertical outlook, for it towers into an infinite sky if we look upward.

And there is poverty, a blight and a fatal contraction. It clips our wings and smothers us down in stifling atmospheres, putting us under the hatches and closing us in rabbit hutches. "He died of adversity," said one friend of another. In slums and rookeries you cannot rear an imperial people, said Lord Roseberry. Certainly not a religious people. Poverty cuts us back while Dives rides in his chariot of gold. And yet things are reversed sometimes. Lazurus does not promise much lying at the door of Sir Gold Dust, but some day things may be reversed. Lazurus may be some day in Abraham's bosom convoyed by angels and Dives may be at the universe's nadir, pleading for a drop of water to cool his parched tongue. Yes, poverty may not be a fatal handicap. John Wesley was poor, but he put into the world the greatest evangelical force since Pentecost. St. Francis was poor, but the whole religious world has been lately commemorating his career. Mazzini scarcely knew where to lay his exiled head—yet he freed Italy. Paul boasted of no great land holdings, Homer begged his bread, Jesus had not a Roman denarius to pay His Roman tax. No angel has a penny to his credit at the bank, and no universe-ranging soul of us will hold a grain of golden dust in our hands in a little while. A physical universe cannot sufficiently endow an immortal soul which only God can satisfy. A whole universe is not sufficient for a boot-black, Carlyle told us.

And yet poverty is not favorable to the fullest development of a life. The prophets appeared not out of national depression, but on the tides of national prosperity. The fishermen took their venture in rich prosperous Galilee. The Reformation followed the Renaissance, Puritanism arose among prosperous traders and farmers. Wesleyism sprang out of an age of national expansion. The missionary movement arose out of an immense growth of wealth in the 19th century. Universities and philanthropies have found enlargement in this rich 20th century of unparalleled enlargement. And yet national impoverishment often works evil to the cause of faith. The French Revolution was followed by an age of atheists. Our Revolutionary war was followed by a nation of skeptics, when the educated classes were unbelievers. Our Civil war was followed by unparalleled political corruption, and our late war is reinstalling a veritable paganism of lawlessness and crime.

There is the handicap of invalidism. Some of us could have a great career but our bodies break down at Miletus. How many of these caged eagles we have everywhere! And yet invalidism is not always fatal. Pascal was an invalid, and so was Darwin and Milton was blind, and Mrs. Browning was chained to a couch, and Stevenson was bed-ridden, and Francis Thompson roamed the streets of London in rags, and Keats died in the flush and splendor of a great dawn. And yet out of all these broken lives we are drinking the rich wine of a great inspiration learned from those who learned in sorrow what they taught in song.

And there is that most fatal blight which can ever enter a human life: the blight of sin. On all of us sin has left its blistering scar. Our Edens have withered and we are in exile.

But when we have lengthened our list, which we could greatly extend, we have not said our last word. A redemptive recovering power is at our command. I will restore the lost years. God enters the life and solves the insoluble problem. He will restore the years the cankerworm hath eaten. The blight has not the last word. There is one who can take care of the past and gather the wreckage into new forms of beauty and use. He can turn all the discords of life into song. He can turn the mistakes and the sin into harps of gold. We do not throw away slag any more; we gather it and fashion out of it the, dazzling hues of color and beauty—and the Great Artificer can rebuild His marred creation into shapes of beauty and strength. Whatsoever be our past of our hampering contraction and abridgements of power we may strike out for new becomings of which we can only feebly dream. Eye hath not seen nor ear heard nor hath it entered into the heart of man what God hath prepared for them that love Him.

PROVIDENCE PASTOR HERE FOR THANKSGIVING SERVICE

The Protestant churches of the city and town united Thursday night at the First Baptist church in a Thanksgiving day service. In spite of the inclement weather there was a large congregation at the service which opened at 7:30 o'clock with invocation by Rev. H. P. Brothwell of the Third Baptist church. The responsive service was led by Rev. George F. Green of McKinley Avenue A. M. E. Zion church and the scripture lesson was read by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey of the First Congregational church. The scripture selection was from Isaiah 58. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts of the Greeneville Congregational church, offered the prayer of Thanksgiving. While the offering was being taken there was a solo by Miss Marion Browning, a member of the choir. Rev. A. N. Foster of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, read Governor John H. Trumbull's Thanksgiving proclamation.

The preacher of the evening was Rev. Edward Holyoke, D. D., of Providence, R. I. Rev. Dr. Holyoke spoke of some of the blessings that have come to the world through the breaking of "yokes" such as the yoke of slavery, the yoke of drinking, etc. With regard to th enforcement of prohibition, the preacher said it is not the bootlegger, the illicit seller or the brewery that is troubling us. It is the men at the top, judges, members of congress, lawyers, doctors and even ministers who are against the law.

Speaking of the yoke of industrial slavery Rev. Dr. Holyoke said he believes all are glad that employers are looking after the interests of their employees by applying the golden rule. We are likely to go too far in some of our ideals, he said. I doubt the wisdom of the five day week or of the four day week, as some advocate. I draw the line at the law compelling every boy and girl to go to school until they are 16 or 18 years old.

The yoke of militarism must be broken, he said. The time must come when nation shall not rise against nation in war. However, he expressed himself as not in sympathy with resolutions terming all wars as evil. He would not detract in the least from the honor and glory of the 47,000 American soldiers who lie in France. We must join all nations in limitation of armaments, he said. The outlawing of war must come through international agreement.

With regard to the theological yoke, the preacher said that forcing people to believe as we believe because we are "right and all others "wrong" is simply placing a yoke on those people. Breaking the yokes that bind our lives is going to be the battlefield of the future, he said. We must break the yokes of spiritual blindness, hypocrisy, antagonism, etc.

Commenting on the dance of today, Rev. Dr. Holyoke said that recently the president of a large insurance company told a gathering of Boy Scouts that if they want to live long to avoid indoor dancing. Today the one great evil in the way of the reduction of war is rare prejudice, he said. Until we break our superiority complex we shall never accomplish the ends for which Our Master came to die.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Holyoke.

BARRELS WERE BURNED ALTHOUGH RAIN FELL

Rain that persisted through Thursday interfered but little with the barrel burning in Norwich and at night the hazy atmosphere was lighted up in many quarters by the glow of the flames from the blazing stacks of barrels.

The most spectacular exhibition was given on the lawn at the front of the state hospital grounds on the military highway. Hundreds of automobiles were parked along the highway and on the roads in the state hospital grounds when the stack was touched off at 7.30 after it had been plentifully sprinkled with kerosene. The flames gathered force in the immense pile of wood that had been put around the base of the pole and then licked their way up to the top of the 52 foot pole on which the barrels had been strung. The pile burned for over an hour.

There were stacks of barrels burned on Jail Hill, on the West Side, in a lot at the corner of Broad street and McKinley avenue, in the Division street neighborhood and on the East Side.

The sessions and the dinner are open to the public and there are a limited number of tickets in Norwich. James L. Case is the chairman of the programme committee.

LITTLE GIRL STRUCK ON NORTH MAIN STREET

Justine Osik, 12, was knocked down and her left knee was wrenched on Thursday evening when it is claimed she ran from the sidewalk on North Main street into the path of a Studebaker coupe, driven by Charles Podziewski of No. 114 High street. The accident happened near Union hall. The child was taken to the Greeneville police station where she was attended by Dr. Paul F. Gadle and later taken to her home.

Rev. Mr. Blackford resided at 36 Laurel Hill avenue while he was a pastor here.

An Elliott man, Frank Thornton, recently trapped a 20 pound coon.

LOCATED BREAK IN 10 INCH WATER MAIN

Employes of the water department put in a 24 hour stretch and then some more over Wednesday night and through Thursday until late at night in locating and repairing a bad break in the 10 inch water main at the Broadway and Main street corner. Several sections of the vitrified brick pavement had to be dug up by the use of the compressed air drill and the leak was finally located not far from the traffic beacon and close to a manhole of the telephone company into which the water was leaking.

The break was found to be from a joint that had given away where there is a 45 degree angle in the water main. Another joint near the corner of Shetucket street has also given away and this will be repaired today (Friday).

During the work it was necessary to shut the water off for a considerable period in the immediate vicinity, but by Sunday night all the service had been restored except to the Norwich Savings society.

While the work was underway on Thursday night Officer Peter Driscoll did traffic duty to guide automobiles around the point and Officer Michael Carroll performed similar service on Thursday.

Thursday night a detour sign was placed at the Union square end of Broadway and this section of the street is shut off to traffic until the repairs are completed.

BOUQUETS PRESENTED TO MISS ROSALIE RICHARDS

During the Thursday afternoon and evening performances at the Palace theater, Miss Rosalie Richards, formerly of this city, who appeared with Grant, Rosalie and Their Royal Creations in the feature act of the bill, received a number of beautiful bouquets and her friends were enthusiastic in their praise of her beautiful dancing.

Miss Richards is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Case of 1 Sachem terrace and of Miss Mary E. Richards. After taking a course in a Chicago school of dancing she elected to follow a stage career and assembled the company which she now heads, presenting "A European Fantasy." Her Norwich relatives and a number of friends including Rear Admiral and Mrs. Clarence A. Carr of New London were in the audience Thursday evening.

During her local engagement Miss Richards and Donald Grant, who is the husband of Miss Richards, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Chase.

SEEKING DIVORCE ON TWO GROUNDS OF COMPLAINT

Habitual intemperance for more than a year past as well as intolerable cruelty are grounds upon which Cecelia Bedard Nezuch of this city seeks divorce from Leonard J. LaFontaine. At the offertory Mrs. John C. Cantlin sang Ave Maria. There were two pleasing solos by Roderick F. Sullivan, Benedictus and Agnus Dei.

TAFTVILLE

The members of the dramatic club who are taking part in the club's annual play this year are Miss Elsie Heap, Harold E. Linderson, Miss Gladys Thoma, Miss Flossie M. Meyer, Richard Oat, Robert E. Cooper, George S. Marthers, Miss Louise Sigrist, Earle Mathewson, Edward Thoma and Robert B. Schmidt. The play selected this year is "The Burglary at Brown's" which is a sequel to "June Time," the comedy produced last year by the club.

The large oak tree which stands near North Fifth avenue is being removed as for some time it has been weakening, and it was feared that it was a menace to property. The tree has been decayed for some time inside, and about two weeks ago someone started a fire in the hollow trunk. This further weakened the giant oak, and it was believed best to remove it before it caused serious trouble.

The mail which usually arrives at the local post office at 11 a. m. did not reach here until 2 p. m. on Tuesday. Mail is now delivered by truck, and the truck suffered a burned out bearing and had to be held up for repairs.

The regular meeting of Peter Gallan post, No. 104, American Legion, was held Monday evening at the Naturalization club with Commander Edward Kelly presiding. The dance committee reported the dance held on Armistice eve as being a financial and social success. The committee on the military whist to be held December 8, reported extensive plans in progress. The legion program for 1928 is community welfare work, and the post has taken up as their specialty, boys' work. In order to carry out an extensive program for the coming year, it is planned to conduct the whist as a benefit for this great work. Each post in the fifth district has been asked to contribute a certain amount toward a fund to assist in entertaining the veterans who are patients at the Norwich State hospital. The Norwich lodge of Elks and the Knights of Columbus are doing a major portion of this noble work, and the district has been asked to do the rest. The local post plans to ask its members for voluntary contributions to defray its share of the expenses. A vote of thanks was extended to Comrade Benac for his untiring efforts as treasurer, and the support and aid he has given the post.

COOLIDGE CRITICISES THE U. S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The President Was Displeased With the Chamber's Demand For $400,000,000 Tax Reduction—Chief Executive Advises That It Would Be Better For the Organization to Devote Its Energies to Proposals For Curbing National Expenditures, as By That Method Only Can the Tax Burden Be Lightened.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP)—Reiteration by the chamber of commerce of the United States that the prospective reduction in taxes should reach $400,000,000 drew caustic and emphatic criticism today from the white house. No doubt was left that President Coolidge is decidedly displeased with the chamber's view that there would be no cause for alarm even if a treasury deficit were incurred.

Officials of the chamber of commerce, it was asserted, on Mr. Coolidge's behalf are trotting around to various government departments seeking as large expenditures as possible for the projects it favors and at the same time clamor for tax reduction far in excess of what both the treasury and a majority of the house ways and means has deemed advisable.

It would be better, in the opinion of Mr. Coolidge, for the organization to devote its energies to proposals for curbing national expenditures as by that process only, he believes, can the tax burden be lightened.

The views of the president were disclosed after publication in today's newspapers of a chamber of commerce statement which declares that tax reductions could easily reach $400,000,000 because large treasury surpluses show plainly that the government is taking more tax money from the public than is necessary to run the government and retire the national debt as already provided for by law.

The chamber insisted that another large surplus was in view for next year, sufficient to encompas the reduction it proposed and that even if the surplus should run short of expectations, "it is obvious that in view of the credit standing of the government and low interest rates it can obtain there would be no great cause for alarm even though a deficit, through unexpected developments, should arise."

It was this view of the chamber of commerce that particularly incurred the ire of Mr. Coolidge which was made known in sharply worded phrases that this attitude, in his opinion, shows a total lack of knowledge of the federal budget plan.

The criticism leveled at the business organization today was the second attempt made at the white house to show that the president considers the chamber of commerce's proposal excessive.

A few weeks ago, when its $400,000,000 tax reduction plan was first made public, it was stated politely but emphatically that the president considered it out of the question.

Despite this view of the president and the recommendation of the house ways and means committee, which is drafting a revenue bill, that the total tax reduction be held to $336,000,000, or about $11,000,000 above the $225,000,000 figure recommended by the treasury, the chamber of commerce yesterday announced that it was standing pat on its $400,000,000 demand.

A referendum among its membership, it disclosed, showed that 91 per cent of the vote cast by member business organizations on the chamber's tax program had been in approval of it.

LADY GODIVA WAS MINUS THE MILK-WHITE STEED

CHICAGO, Nov. 25—(AP)—Having determined that an unclad woman riding a white horse constituted an improper pageant display, and so for the sake of the proprieties, deciding to omit the horse, the Arts Ball got under way tonight with 3,000 persons awaiting enthusiastically the appearance of a horseless horse woman from Detroit in the role of Lady Godiva.

Miss Rosalind Hightower who flew from Detroit to Chicago to portray the part of the English gentle woman who rode unclad through Coventry, spent the evening wondering how she was going to look like a group all by herself, with not even a milk-white steed for company. For the committee in charge, being of the opinion that the traffic congestion would not admit of a horseback ride, decided that Lady Godiva should appear in a gilt picture frame.

Lady Godiva, announced the committee, as ticket prices jumped from $3 to $15, will wear nothing except long blonde tresses, Miss Hightower, in private life, Mrs. Melvyn Hesselberg and the mother of a child, is an artist.

Lady Godiva was the climax of a pageant intended to portray things as they were to be in the year 2,000.

Lady Godiva's "group" was preceded by the entire ballet of the Chicago Civic Opera company and 95 other persons trying to look like different events in 2,000 A. D.

CLOSE OF CONVENTION OF NATIONAL GRANGE

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 25—(AP)—The National Grange closed its annual convention here today after passing resolutions directed to congress reaffirming its position that the "export debenture plan" is the only sound and workable way to achieve farm relief, favoring an increase in the tariff on corn, demand a tariff commission investigation on wool imports and asking appropriations for an extensive program of fundamental research by the department of agriculture.

A farm relief report woven about the export debenture designed to give agriculture the same tariff benefits as industry was drawn up by a special committee headed by Jesse Newsom, master of the Indiana Grange.

The grange approved proposals for legislation to reduce the national debt rather than achieve further tax reduction, but went on record as favoring the repeal of the war tax on automobiles in case congress insisted upon further tax reduction.

MRS. RUTH SNYDER HAS RECOVERED FROM DEPRESSION

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 25—(AP)—Reacting from the depression that overcame her when she was informed of the court of apeals ruling that she must die in the week of January 9, Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder today showed a revived interest in plans for a renewed effort to save her life.

"Say, I wonder what the lawyers for Gray are doing," prison attaches quoted the blonde widow of Albert Snyder as inquiring today. It was the first time in weeks she had mentioned her former lover, Henry Judd Gray, with whom she was convicted last summer of the murder of her husband on March 20 last in their Queens Village home.

"My spirit has been poor and I have been in pretty bad shape," keepers said Mrs. Snyder declared, "but I'm ready to fight for my rights now."

Mrs. Snyder, who said she had spent $13,000 on her legal defense, intimated today that she might add another attorney to her staff.

SALEM, MASS., LIQUOR CASES READY FOR JURY

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 25—(AP)—The cases of 13 residents of Salisbury, including several officials of the town, who are on trial in superior court here for bribery and conspiracy to violate the liquor laws, will be given to the jury tomorrow morning. Defense and state concluded their arguments tonight.

Counsel for the various defendants, who include Harold Congdon, former selectman and chief of police of Salisbury, branded as false the picture of conditions at Salisbury painted by Anthony Caramango, a defendant who pleaded guilty and testified for the state. Caramango told of the landing of many boatloads of liquor at Salisbury beach during 1923 and said that on each occasion a "protection fund" was divided among the police chief, selectmen and a coast guard officer.

YALE ALUMNI WEEKLY TAKES FLING AT HARVARD

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 25—(AP)—"A more charming bevy of wastrels is not to be found, or more a hospitable," says the current issue of the Yale Alumni Weekly under the heading "A Toast to John Harvard."

"The traditional intellectuality of Harvard seems to have reached that point in its file cycle which is best characterized by the cant term of decadent," the article adds.

Other choice morsels in the article, prepared by John Knox Jessup, 1928, are as follows:

"In New Haven one is often on the same terms with one's janitor as with one's room mate. But the Harvard man never sees his janitor, save when he comes home in the morning and glimpses him at work on his shoes."

"Only at a Harvard party can one behold girls who are known to one's family shining in an atmosphere at once Rabelaisian and refined, overlooking the form and enjoying the substance of the spirit of revelry rampant."

"Half of them for instance would no more think of studying without a glass and a bottle at hand than the other half would of studying under any circumstances."

WARD LINER MEXICO AGROUND OFF VERA CRUZ

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 25—(AP)—All passengers aboard the Ward liner Mexico, aground three miles off Vera Cruz, have been removed safely, says a telegram from that port to the headquarters of the Mexican railroad.

The vessel was still believed in danger.

After the passengers were removed the crew and longshoremen began taking the cargo ashore in lighters.

Late in the afternoon it was uncertain whether the ship could be refloated from the reef just outside the harbor, according to messages received by the Ward line and the Mexican National Railways.

The messages, which do not explain how the ship was grounded, say that half the vessel's length is on the reef. One message says there is a good chance of refloating the vessel and another says a strong north wind is blowing and if it increases the Mexico may be pounded to pieces.

The Holland-American steamer Maasdam has been assisting in salvaging operations.
